ICE Unit
Stats
Released
By Sheriff's Office

Madison County Sheriff Ben Stewart has announced the 2013 annual report of the Sheriff's Office Interstate Criminal Enforcement Unit ("ICE"). The Interstate Criminal Enforcement Unit is comprised of two (2) Canine Officers primarily assigned but not limited to the interstate. Beginning in January through December of 2013 the ICE team arrested 30 separate individuals for crimes including but not limited to trafficking in illegal substances, fugitives of justice from other counties and states, credit card fraud/theft, and crimes of illegal firearms.

The Interstate Criminal Enforcement unit further seized and forfeited over $225,000 as well as a 2006 Dodge Charger, all from different cases. The Interstate Criminal Enforcement Unit further confiscated over two pounds of cocaine in crack and powder form, over five pounds of marijuana, more than 47 doses of ecstasy and five (5) weapons.

Sheriff Stewart explained that he recognizes the significance of public information being disseminated in a most timely fashion when it becomes available. However it has become paramount during these types of investigations that are continual and at times spreading over several counties and states involving numerous other agencies that certain Interstate Criminal Enforcement activity remain confidential to allow for greater safety of the officers assigned and more opportunity of continued success of the unit and the apprehension of criminals.

Sheriff Stewart emphasized the significance of the community's awareness and the importance of the success of the Interstate Criminal Enforcement Unit. There should be great consideration of the numerous criminals that are taken out of society as well as the forfeiture of assets that has been utilized to supplement the Sheriff's Office budget. This offers a reduced burden on the Madison County tax payers and further allows for the Sheriff's Office to maintain its current level of force to serve citizens throughout Madison County. Even though there are strict guidelines regarding forfeitures, the Sheriff's Office is allowed to utilize a portion of forfeitures to purchase much needed patrol vehicles and equipment to appropriate.

Building Destroyed By "Suspicious" Fire

Photos Submitted By Pat Lightcap February 1, 2014

Shortly before 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 1, Madison 911 Center received a report of a structure fire on 422 South Range Street in downtown Madison. Units first on scene reported the structure was fully involved and Madison Fire & Rescue requested mutual aid from other departments. Madison Fire was supported by firefighters and equipment from New Home, Cherry Lake, Lee and Greenville. Also assisting was the Madison Police Department, Madison County Emergency Medical Services and the Madison County Sheriff's Office. No injuries were reported and the building was believed to be vacant at the time of the blaze. The State Fire Marshal's Office has been requested to do an investigation to determine the cause of the fire.

County Commission Hears Positive End-Of-Year Forestry Report

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc

The 2013 wrap-up report for Madison County was mostly positive. Forestry officials B. Galbraith and Justin Kania told the commission that the forestry service appreciated their continued support and also that of Madison County residents.

Some of the report highlights included 65 wildfires on about 130 acres during the previous year, low numbers which were very similar to the previous year, 2012.

"It's been wet, and we're thankful for the rain," said Galbraith. Three to five years ago, when the country was in a drought, the numbers were much higher.

The most common cause appeared to be debris burning. "That's always a big one," said Galbraith. See Forestry Report On Page 3A

Scam Alert

Madison County Sheriff Ben Stewart wants all citizens to be aware of different types of "SCAMS" occurring throughout Madison County. This is the time of year where colder climate areas have several types of contractors and laborers coming to Florida searching for work. Many of these individuals are legitimate; however, there are a number of these types of individuals who are simply attempting to defraud the homeowner. They can range from roof repairs, asphalt/milling driveways, painting, scrap metal clean up, etc.

Recently, several homeowners in Madison have paid to have roof repair work done by a so-called contractor from South Carolina. These homeowners, soon after the work was completed, learned that the roofing product used simply washed off in the rain. Upon attempting to contact the contractor by the number provided turns out to be a non-working number.

Sheriff Stewart encourages all citizens when approached by contractors from out of town searching for work to contact the Building Department to ensure they are legitimate and licensed to work in Madison County prior to allowing and paying for the work. Homeowners may also contact the Sheriff's Office for assistance in determining the legitimacy of the contractor.

ICBM

Joe Boyles
Guest Columnist

The acronym ICBM stands for intercontinental ballistic missile. That is one-third of the nuclear triad that represents America's nuclear deterrence. Lately, the Air Force has been racked with a cheating scandal and other problems within our ICBM force that deserves our attention.

The triad consists of land-based ICBMs, submarine launched ballistic missiles (SLBM), and manned bombers. Just like good investors, we don't have "all of our eggs in one basket." All of our 450 ICBMs are Minuteman III missiles, each with three independently targeted warheads. Each missile is housed in an underground silo deployed primarily in the wide open spaces of Wyoming, North Dakota, and Montana. A two-man crew controls ten missiles.

An important nuclear surety concept is two-man control. This is called a "no lone zone," meaning that no one individual has either access or control of a nuclear weapon. In the case of the Minuteman, both members of the two-man crew must mutually agree on all aspects of weapon system operation. Crews are regularly changed to ensure that alert minds are on duty standing nuclear watch.

Missile crews are regularly tested on their understanding of safety rules as well as operational procedures. Apparently, trading test questions and answers is what this latest scandal entails. Before that, there were indications of poor leadership where several senior officers were relieved. All of this points toward a "rot" within the force.

I mentioned that there are three legs to the nuclear triad. The submarines and bombers are active systems, meaning that they fly to train or sail to their launch station. This isn't true with solid fuel ICBMs which sit in an inactive status, awaiting a launch signal we hope never arrives. This inactive status seems to put them at a disadvantage compared to the bombers and subs and no doubt, leads to boredom.

America's ICBM structure was built during the 1960s under the watchful eye of General Bernard Schriever, a German born, American-raised engineer. An Air Force Base in Eastern Colorado that houses major units of United States Strategic Command is named for Schriever.

Some of our ICBMs have been retired as our nuclear force shrinks in the wake of the breakup of the Soviet Union. Treaties, restricted budgets, and outdated technology are reasons the force has shrunk from a 1054 missiles 20 years ago to the current number. Titans, Peacekeepers, and Minuteman II have all been destroyed; their destructive payloads returned to storage for demilitarization.

I was never close to the ICBM force during any part of my military career (1970-97). Instead, my profession revolved around fighter aviation and flight test. I ran into some of the ICBM officer force at school (graduate and staff colleges). I was never enamored with their career path although they did have an excellent graduate school program as I recall.

There is some concern that our strategic nuclear force lacks the relevance it held during the height of the Cold War. Thankfully, nuclear weapons have never been employed since the two bombs were dropped on Japan in 1945, signaling the end of World War II. It is hard to stay sharp for an Armageddon event that has never come and for the sake of mankind, shouldn't come.

Our strategic nuclear force today counters much smaller and more diverse threats than the Soviet Goliath of the 1970s. That's one of the reasons our force is substantially smaller than in its heyday, but there is still a threat that must be addressed. A very real possibility in the next couple of years is a nuclear Iran that must be countered, just as North Korea is today. A key theory behind nuclear deterrence is the threat of massive retaliation directed against any state that first employs nuclear weapons.

The leadership of the Air Force has its hands full to address the failings that are evident in our ICBM force after years of neglect. Our nation depends on this component and it has been overlooked for too long. No more.

Letter To The Editor

Southerland hypocritical on health care, budget

As the polls show, and as many of you are aware, there is a growing disdain for our politicians in Washington. The 2013 Congress was dubbed the "Do Nothing" Congress. Their partisanship and obstructionism is stifling our country and the well-being of our citizens. Our congressman is no exception.

Congressman Steve Southerland voted with his extreme "Tea Party" colleagues to shut down the government last October, which cost the American taxpayers $24 billion. That money would have gone a long way toward feeding the poor. Then he voted with the same colleagues to keep the government shut down and not pay the bills he and the rest of Congress appropriated to begin with, all because he opposed Obamacare. He has not put forth an alternative to Obamacare, and when he signed up for it he took advantage of a federal subsidy provided by the taxpayers in order to lower his premiums, even though he says his $174,000 congressional salary is "not so much."

Southerland voted for the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2013 because the Republican leadership convinced most House Republicans to do so, to avoid another embarrassing shutdown. He is now against what he voted for, and is twisting it around to get votes from Tyndall Air Force Base. Within days after his vote he said, "With two years remaining before these COLA changes are due to take effect, I am hopeful the House will address the concerns of our retirees between now and then." We did not send Southerland to Washington to be "hopeful" of what the House will do between "now and then," we sent him there to be a leader and do what is right for us now. If he is so concerned about the COLA cuts, he should never have voted for the budget to begin with.

In a News Herald article, Southerland stated, "I voted against sequestration in 2011 because I knew it was wrong for North and Northwest Florida's military." Actually, he voted against a compromise bill that would lead to sequestration if Congress could not pass a budget. Sequestration was supposed to be so terrible it would force both parties to come together and pass a budget in the future. The compromise, as bad as it was, temporarily funded the government and prevented a government shutdown. If all congressmen had voted against the compromise bill, like Southerland did, it would have led to another shutdown.

Southerland attached an amendment to the Farm Bill cutting food stamps by $39 billion, which caused the much-needed bill our farmers depend on to fail for the first time ever. Ironically, Southerland stated in his Christmas address, "Dear Friend, as we gather with our loved ones and reflect upon our personal blessings this Christmas holiday season, let us be mindful of those who are less fortunate." Yet he is determined to make harsh slashes to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program. Is taking food away from 47 million poor people being mindful of those who are less fortunate?

Southerland has fought against widely successful commercial fishing programs since taking office in 2010, but a member of his staff told a commercial fisherman last December at a fishing meeting in Tampa that Southerland changed his mind and is now willing to work with commercial fishermen. Is this because he is running against a formidable opponent for his house seat this November? It may be too late for him to garner support from commercial fishermen since, through a grassroots effort, commercial fishermen from Key West to Brownsville Texas, who are not even in Southerland's district, have donated much more to his opponent, Mrs. Gwen Graham, than he has received from his dark-money billionaire contributors.

As one of those fishermen, I am not fooled by Southerland's deceptiveness, and I hope this letter sheds some light on his hypocrisy. Instead of a congressman who does photo ops and makes statements for personal political ambitions, we need a leader in Congress who will truly reach across the aisle and work with both parties and independents, not just for the benefit of our district, but for the sake of our country. That person is Mrs. Gwen Graham.

Taking Ownership Of Recipes

Rose Klein
Columnist

I love how recipes come back around. It's the same way clothes can be retro and songs get a brand new beat, and it gives the upcoming generation a "new" discovery. It's how our history is passed down and our culture stays alive. Maybe not all changes are for the better, but some change is good and especially those that happen because of our growth in knowledge. Using the example of food, our palate has grown because our world of food has expanded. As cultures collide (in a good way) we learn how other people eat and the food we cook and eat will reflect that. When I look back at old recipes, some can now make me smile. What I grew up eating as "Italian" or "Mexican" barely reflects what I now know it to be. I recently came across a recipe from the 1970's for a "Middle Eastern Chicken" dish. The recipe was a traditional American casserole dish with the addition of the "exotic spice, curry." While it is funny to me now, I take heart in the fact that somebody had the nerve to try curry before most even knew what it was.

These thoughts came to me as I was eating my Mom's "new" broccoli salad last night. It's a salad that I absolutely love, but is not totally new to me. One of the very first food jobs I had was in a deli and we made a version of the same salad. Several years later, I tried another version and now my third, my Mom's, which was passed to her by her apartment manager. She has already tweaked the recipe to her (and my) liking and has made it for several functions and is now known as "her" broccoli salad. I think of recipes I've received from people I know or from cookbooks and have liked them so well that I made them for potlucks or other occasions and when asked to bring them a second time, they are referred to as "your" salad or "your" bread.

If you cook, passing down recipes and "making them your own" is fun because not only do you get to try a new food, but you can also be creative and make it your own. If you like to take ownership of recipes, here's my Mom's broccoli salad recipe. If you don't like an ingredient, leave it out or switch it for something you do like. Even if you don't change a thing, take it to work or your next food function and it might become your "new" dish.

Broccoli Salad

- 1 bunch broccoli, cut into small florettes
- 1 to 1 1/2 cups shredded carrots
- 1/4 cup chopped onion; red, white or yellow
- 3/4 to 1 cup raisins
- 3/4 to 1 cup cooked and chopped bacon
- optional: chopped nuts

Combine all ingredients in a medium bowl.

Dressing

- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
  - 6 Tbls. sugar
  - 3 Tbls. apple cider vinegar
- Mix dressing in a small bowl and stir into broccoli mixture.

Spoon salad into a sealed container and place in refrigerator to chill for about one hour.

ately equip the men and women of the Sheriff's Office.

Sheriff Stewart concluded that since inception of this unit back in 2010 it has forfeited over $1.4 million dollars, confiscated over 90 pounds of cocaine, 268 pounds of marijuana, 310 doses of ecstasy, and there have been over 100 arrests. To further respond to inquiries of the Sheriff's Office new style of patrol vehicles (Ford Explorers), it should be noted that the historical Crown Vic is no longer in production with Ford Motor Company. However, they produced the Police Package Explorer for its replacement. The Explorer meets the operational efficiency of today's economy with greater fuel mileage, better suspension for unpaved roadways, more driver and passenger safety features and at a lesser purchase price on state contract. It's been the Sheriff's Office experience that this new style of patrol vehicle is also offering a reduced maintenance cost as well. As usual, patrol vehicles with the Sheriff's Office are purchased with seized drug money.

Forestry Report

Their outlook for the coming year was to expect more fires in Central and South Florida, which has been a little drier.

The Forestry Service also issued a little over 1600 permits for debris and land-clearing burns, affecting about 23,000 acres and assisted landowners in controlled burns to clear away underbrush.

Fire safety education and fire prevention are a big part of the agency's mission, and in 2013, it delivered its fire prevention message to approximately 23,000 people, including educational programs at local schools.

Kania then took the podium with more good news for the timber management side of the division reporting no outbreaks of the Southern pine beetle for 2013, and the enrollment of Madison County landowners in the Pine Beetle Prevention Program. He also spoke briefly of the education sessions the division does through 4H clubs and presentations at civic clubs.

"Madison County is an outstanding example of what a rural forestry program should be about," said Galbraith.

Farm Share Calls Meeting For Non-Profits

By Rose Klein
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Chad McCormick, head of Farm Share for Madison County, is requesting that all non-profit organizations in Madison and surrounding Counties attend a meeting on Saturday, Feb. 22 at 6:30 p.m. McCormick, in an effort to reduce food waste, will be focusing on the quantities of food needed for each organization on his next trip to Quincy in March.

McCormick says he is hoping that Farm Share will be located in Madison by mid-March, which would end the drive to Quincy, but for now needs participation by all involved so that no more food than is needed will be gathered.

If you need to contact McCormick, he can be reached at (850) 464-6190.

Webcam Viewers Pay To Watch Korean Woman Eat

In Seoul, Korea, Park Seo-Yeon, a 33-year-old woman, claims she makes over $9,000 a month on her webcam channel by allowing people to watch her eat. The woman goes by the name, "the Diva," and starts her hours-long meal each night at 8 p.m. in front of thousands of people. Seo-Yeon said about 60 percent of her viewers are female and her fans give various reasons for watching her eat. "A lot of my viewers are on diets and they say they live vicariously through me, or they are hospital patients who only have access to hospital food so they also watch my broadcasts to see me eat. One of the best comments I ever received (was) from a viewer who said that she had gotten over her anorexia by watching me eat," said Seo-Yeon. "That really meant a lot to me."

Woman Beats Boyfriend For Not Snuggling

In Bradenton, prosecutors of a Florida Circuit Court chose not to pursue the case of a 31-year-old woman with a misdemeanor battery charge, given to her for beating her boyfriend. Shavonna Rumph and her live-in boyfriend, Henry Price, were in bed after a night of drinking and Rumph became angry with Price because he refused to cuddle. The Manatee County Sheriff's Office arrest report stated an argument started after the refusal causing Rumph to allegedly rip Price's shirt and threaten him with a knife.

Drunken Man Arrested For Mistaking Police Officer As Stripper

In Old Shotton, England, a man who mistakenly thought a female police officer was a stripper, pleaded guilty to obstructing an officer. Paul Harbord, 27, had been at a pub all day, drinking with friends, who had just told him "to expect entertainment" when the female officer arrived. The officer was there to investigate a report of "rowdy" behavior, but when Harbord saw the officer he said, "Look, here is one of the strippers!" He then began dancing around the officer and flicking her with a bar towel. Even after the officer placed him under arrest, Harbord didn't believe she was a real police officer until she took him to the station for processing.

William "Bill" Clinton Catledge, Sr.

William "Bill" Clinton Catledge Sr., age 89, of Tallahassee passed away on Friday, January 24, 2014 in Tallahassee. The third child out of four, he was born in Madison on October 10, 1924 to Bernice Smith Catledge, and Wesley Wilburn Catledge Sr. Bill graduated from Madison High School, and then attended the University of Florida from 1942-1943 before joining the U.S. Army in March 1943. He served with Company C 10th Infantry Regiment of the 5th Infantry Division (nicknamed Red Diamonds or "Red Devils"), which participated in three campaigns: Normandy, Northern France, and Rhineland. He was captured by the Germans in Metz, France, spent 212 days as a POW, and was honorably discharged on November 16, 1945 as a Corporal. Bill's beloved wife of fifty-eight years, Jimmie Geneva Vickers Catledge of Homerville, Ga., whom he married on December 4, 1943, predeceased him. Following the war, Bill and Geneva lived in Madison where he worked in the grocery business. A move to Ga., first to Sylvester and then later to Cairo, landed him in farm supplies. In 1959, they moved to Tallahassee where he worked as an insurance agent with Life of Ga. and then Gulf Life. They joined St. Paul's United Methodist Church and were members of the Burleigh Law Sunday School Class. Besides being an avid fan of the University of Florida's football team, Bill's many interests included gardening, hunting, classic country music, and Irish singer Daniel O'Donnell. In his younger days, he participated in a bowling league where he earned the moniker "clean-up man" because of his ability to bowl strikes. Making his list of favorite football players are Peyton Manning, Tim Tebow, and Danny Wuerffel. Anticipation of an oyster dinner—whether fried, stewed, or raw—always brought a twinkle to his eye. He lived a rich and joyful life, and cherished his family and all their times together. Bill is survived by his daughter Patricia Catledge Peters and son-in-law Stephen Peters of Lenox, Massachusetts, his son William Clinton Catledge Jr and daughter-in-law Sherie Korelitz Catledge of Bethpage, Tennessee, seven grandchildren, nine great grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews. He also leaves behind two sisters Claire Catledge Leslie of Atlanta, Ga., and Faye Sowell Crockett of Bainbridge, Ga. as well as a brother-in-law David Crockett, also of Bainbridge, Ga. Bill's brother, Wesley Wilburn Catledge Jr. of Bainbridge, Ga. predeceased him. A Celebration of Life service was held at St. Paul's Methodist Church on Monday, February 3 at 2 p.m. In lieu of flowers, the family requests all donations to be made in his memory to St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 1700 North Meridian Road, Tallahassee, Florida 32303.

Francis Milford Henderson

Francis Milford Henderson, age 76, passed away on January 30, 2014 in Mayo.

A Funeral service was held Monday, February 3, 2014 at 2 p.m. at New Macedonia Baptist Church, Greenville. The family received friends at the church one hour prior to the service. Burial was held at Barclay Cemetery, Greenville.

He was born March 14, 1937 in Greenville, the son of the late Caraway Henderson and Martha Barclay Henderson. He was a truck driver. He served in the US Air Force. He lived in Las Vegas for a few years after his discharge from the Air Force. He was a member of the New Macedonia Baptist Church. He loved to fish and spend time with his grandchildren.

He is survived by four daughters: Susie Nielson of Utah, Linda Eliassen (Bart), Patty Webster (Joe) of Las Vegas, Nev., and Christin Henderson of Live Oak; one brother, Jesse Adolph Henderson (Shirley) of Adel, Ga.; two sisters: Ruth Ward (Jack) of Jacksonville, and Nellie Hill (Ed) of Greenville; and 10 grandchildren.

An Answered Prayer: Farm Share Is Coming To Madison

Farm Share volunteer Chad McCormick talks to Kiwanis about what the organization does and why he would like to bring a Farm Share warehouse to Madison County. Before his presentation was over, he had a promise of a building that Farm Share could use.

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Broadly speaking, Farm Share is a large-scale, non-profit food bank and packing-house organization for excess farm produce, guest speaker Chad McCormick told the Kiwanis Club of Madison. Farm Share takes in that excess farm produce, the leftover crops that would normally be thrown away or plowed back under. Now, instead of allowing their excess produce to go to waste, farmers can simply load it up and bring it to a nearby warehouse or depot operated by Farm Share, a non-profit organization working to end hunger and malnutrition in Florida communities. The warehouse takes that excess produce, sorts it and distributes it through a community network of churches, food pantries, soup kitchens and other non-profit agencies in local communities that feed the hungry.

Statewide, Farm Share of Florida operates in more than 500 Florida communities, providing more than 25,000 volunteer hours a year to get nutritious food like fresh fruits and vegetables onto the tables of low-income families – the elderly, families with children, veterans and others on low or fixed incomes. WIC and food stamps aren't always enough for those living in poverty, and Farm Share helps fill in those gaps.

McCormick, a Farm Share volunteer who was recently featured in the Jan. 10 edition of the Madison Enterprise-Recorder, has been working to bring a Farm Share depot/warehouse to Madison.

At his Kiwanis presentation, he recounted some of his experiences working with the Farm Share organization. That morning, he had just completed a 180-mile round trip to the warehouse in Quincy to bring back fresh fruit and vegetables to Madison families and individuals who need them; the warehouse doors opened at 9 a.m., and just half an hour later, all the food in that entire building had been distributed to various charitable agencies there for pick-up, including McCormick's.

Every week, he also drives his van to Perry, where he picks up about 1000 pounds of food to distribute.

What does he get? He never knows what will be available from one trip to the next – it depends what is in season and what has been brought in – but his last trip included miniature watermelons, honeydews, okra, cucumbers, squash, cherry tomatoes, bread and blankets.

Farmers are not the only ones who donate to Farm Share. Sometimes, grocery stores, bakeries, delis and other businesses will donate items that are nearing their "sell-by" date. And it isn't just food; McCormick told Kiwanis that Farm Share has also distributed items such as soap, socks, warm underwear, jackets and cleaning supplies whenever they were available.

Charitable agencies can come to the Farm Share warehouse and get anywhere from 100 to 100,000 pounds of food, depending on how many people they plan to feed. All the agency or organization needs to do first is go to the Farm Share website and fill out an application to let the warehouse know how much of a need the agency is trying to meet; currently, it does take a bit of a commute to the nearest warehouse to bring in food to Madison families, but volunteers are doing it.

In summing up the work that Farm Share does, McCormick got to the heart of the matter, something he has been working toward for quite some time.

"I would like to have a Farm Share (warehouse) here," he told the Kiwanis Club.

His three main reasons were: 1) the community is very poor; 2) there are lots of hungry families; 3) a Farm Share distribution center would provide an abundance of service hours for churches, civic groups and other volunteer organizations.

It would also give local farmers a place nearby to bring their excess produce, meaning more food available for distribution. It would bring a Farm Share truck to Madison, again, making more food available for families here. It would also allow volunteers to take the time they would normally spend on the road and redirect it toward feeding hungry people.

To bring a Farm Share depot here, he would need to find a building large enough to house the food brought in, with a few other features that would meet the criteria for efficient operation. It would need a dock where semis could offload the produce, and would have to be large enough to accommodate a forklift needed to move pallets and large containers of food from dock to warehouse, and from warehouse to delivery vehicles. Anyone who had such a building could get a tax break for allowing Farm Share to use it as a distribution center. When and how often the warehouse would be open for distribution would depend on how much food was brought in and how many organizations were involved in the distribution, which could be anywhere from once a month to once a week, to every day, depending on the need.

Meanwhile, volunteers would be needed to help load and unload the food, sort through it and package it to be sent out. Whatever had to be pulled out as no longer fresh or edible would be set aside, but even this would not be wasted. Rather than throwing it away, Farm Share distributes this to local farmers to feed to pigs, goats and other livestock.

When it came to the really heavy work of offloading the produce, McCormick said he had already had a few discussions with MCI and Epp Richardson of the Madison County Sheriff's Department about allowing inmates who are eligible for community service to help out.

If only they had a building in Madison that would work....

Then, Kiwanis member James Ray, who is also a member of the board for Consolidated Christian Ministries (CCM) raised his hand and said that CCM had such a building and would be willing to provide the space Farm Share would need. CCM operates on the second and fourth Mondays of the month, and Farm Share could operate around that schedule.

"That really tells you, God answers prayer," said McCormick of the fortunate turn of events. "Now that we have a building, we need a community work day to ready the building and then volunteers to maintain it."

For a Farm Share depot to be up and running, they needed at least five civic or charitable organizations to help with distributing the food. If ten organizations join up, they can get more food from Farm Share.

McCormick would also like to be able to distribute blankets, socks, warm clothes and jackets. Even wood from land-clearing projects could be put to use. Low-income families who use wood burning stoves would welcome the firewood.

"We'd like to be a full-service center here," he told Kiwanis.

If, after all the charities had picked up their food, there was any left over, it could be taken to the Senior Citizen Center.

Getting the building organized, getting the churches, civic clubs and other charitable groups to fill out their applications online and figuring out how much food they'll be moving in and out and how often, might take a couple of months, then the Farm Share warehouse would be up and running.

For more information about Farm Share, visit the "Welcome to Farm Share" website at www.farmshare.org, or contact them at info@farmshare.org. To sign up your club or organization, click on the "How to Help" tab and download and fill out the Farm Share application.

To find out what is needed and what you can do at this point to help bring Madison's Farm Share warehouse to fruition, contact McCormick at (850) 464-6190 or (850) 929-7561 or email him at www.openarmsfumc@yahoo.com.

Lions Club Holds First 4th Of July Planning Meeting

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

It takes a lot of planning to pull off an event as big as the annual 4th of July God & Country Celebration, so that's why the Lions Club gets started in January and invites members of the community who would like to participate, to join them and share their ideas. On the 23rd, Lions Club president Jay Lee met with fellow Lions Christy Roebuck and Norman Brightwell in the Madison County Memorial Hospital boardroom for the kick-off planning meeting. Other members of the community present were Mike Kirkland and Wayne Conger, president of the Madison Rotary Club.

Traditionally, that is a good turnout for the first meeting, Lee said later. As time goes on and the meetings go from once a month, to twice a month, to every week as the Big Day approaches, more and more people join in the meetings.

Although the God and Country celebrations of the past have been successful, even when bad weather threatened, as with last year, Lee said he wanted to do even better in 2014.

The location will still be around Lake Frances, and this year, with some of the aesthetic improvements added by the city in the form of a few hardwood benches around the shore, a picnic table and a paved boat ramp, it should be even better.

In planning ahead even further than this year, those at the meeting also discussed a proposed gazebo at the Lake Frances dock area, an idea tossed around by the City of Madison looking for civic clubs and other organizations that might want to help with the venture. The idea met with general approval, and fit with most civic club parameters of being a community-oriented/beneficial project. Something with a solid roof would be a boon for events that have to protect microphones, speakers and other equipment from the weather. Last year, the God & Country Celebration had a tent to protect its entertainment and sound equipment from the 20-minute downpour that burst on the scene right before the event was supposed to start, then dissipated as quickly as it had come, but something with a solid, permanent top would have been much better. Those at the meeting agreed to start talking to city officials and others to get the ball rolling on the gazebo idea and see how it went from there. It might not get built in time for this year's Fourth of July, but if it did come to fruition, it would definitely be ready for the Fourth of July Celebration for 2015. A structure like a gazebo would also enhance the lake's attractiveness and the city could rent it out for weddings and similar occasions.

Getting back to 2014, one of the new additions to the 4th of July event might be a 5K "Liberty Run" and a much shorter "Fun Run." Since this would be in the middle of summer, these would take place in the early morning, and to avoid crossing any major roads, they would be held on the NFCC campus, where other running events have been held and where there is a good variety of flat and hilly surfaces to delight serious runners. All participants would receive T-shirts; entry fees were discussed, but would have to be finalized at a later meeting.

Other ideas surfaced for a raffle and door prizes, with tickets to be handed out by vendors to their customers. The customers would be responsible for filling them out and turning them in to the raffle master at the Lions Club tent. The club would hold drawings every hour or half hour throughout the evening, culminating in a drawing for a big prize right at the end.

For entertainment, this year might have something new in the form of a local talent show or talent contest in addition to the regular stage groups like last year's. If enough people would like to enter the contest for a chance to sing, dance, do gymnastics/acrobatics, perform magic tricks or whatever, that idea looks like it will get a green light as well.

There were discussions about safety and security, and of course, fireworks. It wouldn't be the 4th without fireworks. That would be like Madison without The Mansion, or without Four Freedoms Park. It would somehow still be the 4th and it would somehow still be Madison, but it wouldn't be the same.

The next planning meeting for the God & Country celebration is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 20, at 6:30 p.m., also in the hospital meeting room. Again, any members of the community who would like to help out or who have some ideas to bring to the table are welcome to come and join in.

Knights Of Columbus Covers Madison County's Needs With Fun

By Rose Klein
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The Knights of Columbus is a charitable organization that exists to help the community and has a long history of doing so. The organization began in 1882 when Father Michael McGivney founded the group in order to provide insurance benefits for Catholic men so their families would have support in the event of death or need. The intent of the organization was to provide security for widows and orphans of the Catholic parishioners, but today the Knights of Columbus assist not only their Catholic members, but the outside community as well.

The Madison Knights of Columbus is a fairly small group (or Round Table as they call themselves) of men who attend St. Vincent DePaul Catholic Church. Due to the group's size, they are limited by what they can accomplish, but that doesn't stop their enthusiasm or desire to help those in need. Some of the past contributions they have made to Madison County include Thanksgiving dinners, Christmas gifts to seniors, financial assistance to the elderly, donations to the Pregnancy Center and cleaning up Brady cemetery. When speaking to the group, they said they provide for whatever needs are made known to them and would like to do more, but sometimes they are limited by their funds.

The current fundraiser for the organization is Bingo that will be held at the church's social hall, Villa Maria, every other Thursday evening. All proceeds from the game will go towards creating an income for the Knights and will be a means for them to do more for the community of Madison County.

Bingo will start up Thursday, Feb. 6 and will run every other Thursday after that. Admission is free to enter, so all you will need to purchase are your cards. Refreshments will be available for a reasonable price and will include Chicago-style hot dogs, popcorn, chips, sodas and sweets. There will be a total of 12 games and cash prizes will be awarded. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., with an Early Bird 50/50 game at 7 p.m.

If you are looking for a fun, family oriented social event that could win you a prize and give back to the community, Bingo will be at the Villa Maria located at 258 NW Orange Street in Madison. If you need more information about Bingo or the Knights of Columbus, call Bob Bezick at (850) 929-4387.

JMPHS PRINCIPAL BILL GEMMILL VISITS ROTARY CLUB

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

“I’m proud to have been considered for this position,” said Bill Gemmill of being chosen the principal of James Madison Preparatory High School.

JMPHS, a chartered public high school with a rigorous, STEM-focused curriculum, opened its doors in August 2013 and welcomed its first class of 43 ninth graders. Each year, the school will add another grade, until it has all four high school grades by the school year 2016-2017.

Gemmill, who has worked in education as a teacher, coach and administrator during his career, had mostly retired in Nashville, TN., when a recruiter contacted him about coming to JMPHS.

In recounting his decision to pull up stakes and move to a small, rural community, to a school so small it had a staff of four adults, Gemmill stated, “The only reason I came here was the board of directors (of the school) and the kind of people they are. People from the community, not a ‘charter business’ organization.”

He was impressed by how engaged they were in the school and how dedicated they were to making it a reality; parents and grandparents coming out to work on the building and get it ready to open.

“This school here, what an amazing place,” he said. “They put their hearts into it.”

Before school started, he had a chance to sit down and talk to each of the 43 students in the very first class. As time progressed, one moved to Atlanta, one went to another school, and a third also moved away, leaving a total of 40.

“We’ve got 40 awesome kids that will be sophomores next year,” he said, and with 50 seats available for each grade level, that means looking at 10 open seats for next year’s 10th grade class, in addition to the 50 new seats open for the next group of ninth graders.

He would like to get the word out about those 60 open seats and encourage prospective students to apply for them by the March 1 deadline. To help families decide if JMPHS is the right place for their children, the school is holding an Open House for all interested, prospective students and their families. The Open House is Thursday evening, Feb. 27, from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m., and includes a tour of the school, an informational meeting discussing the application process, curriculum and expectations as well as a question-and-answer session.

He also wants to hire four new teachers and a guidance counselor who would also teach. It’s a small school, and Gemmill himself teaches two classes.

Another positive part of his job is the good relationship he has with School Superintendent Doug Brown, whom he meets with on an almost weekly basis to talk about what is going on at JMPHS. He has found such a relationship usually rare in his career, and feels blessed to have that here, where it makes things better for everybody.

When it comes to relationships, the school has a “fantastic” relationship with the new hospital, Gemmill told the audience. The grounds and the school building are actually owned by the hospital, and JMPHS leases from them at a very reasonable rate. In the future, he envisions a continued great relationship because of the school’s STEM focus and some of the student’s interest in the health sciences.

With such a small school, there aren’t a whole lot of students to form organized teams for the bigger sports, but by law, since they attend a public school that has no athletic program of its own, they are allowed to participate in athletic teams at Madison County High School. As a former coach and athlete, Gemmill places importance on that provision, but its one caveat is that JMPHS cannot have any kind of team of its own, no matter how small.

“Even a tiddlywinks team, if it was sanctioned by the FHSAA (Florida High School Athletic Association) would mean that the kids couldn’t participate in anything at (MCHS),” said Gemmill, adding that he hoped to talk to Florida legislators about that in the near future. Even though the school couldn’t field a football team, it might have enough for a basketball team or a tennis team. To Gemmill, it does not make sense to deny a small school the chance to form small teams of its own without having to forfeit the chance to participate in the larger teams that the bigger school could organize.

When it comes to music, interested students will be able to participate in the MCHS marching band. Band director Geoff Hill has a last period class, starting this summer, that will be available for JMPHS students.

Meanwhile, JMPHS students have been an active part of MCHS athletic teams, including seven students on its baseball teams, five on the junior varsity football team, two on the tennis team, five on the girls volleyball team, and five on the varsity softball team...all while maintaining their grades.

“Anybody who has any interest in the school, please come out and see us,” he said. “I want to let people know about us.”

First UMC Holds Work Days

Amber Houston
Greene Publishing, Inc.

On Saturday, January 25, First United Methodist Church (UMC) held a workday.

Workdays are set up to help meet the real and spiritual needs of local residents. During this past workday, the church helped a local resident by clearing land and tearing down a dilapidated out-building.

Other projects are already lined up from window washing to yard work. And while those who need help are in abundance, those who are willing to pitch in are more scarce. "It's hard in this economy," Youth Pastor, Pock'o Vause said. "There are so many needs and it can be hard to choose what we can and can't accomplish—our resources are limited."

There is also a secondary benefit. Said Vause, "Not only does this help local residents, it helps the mission team. We have a mission trip coming up in June, and this helps them get hands-on experience with tools we'll be using on our trip."

Of course, this workday went over and beyond what the team will be doing during their mission trip to Tennessee, as part of the Mountain T.O.P. (Tennessee Outreach Project) Program. The mission trip to Tennessee involves light home repairs.

Said Vause, "Mountain T.O.P. includes building porches, wheelchair ramps, and steps. There are a lot of roofing projects, too. This last project involved tractors and chainsaws—stuff we wouldn't have the opportunity to use during our Mountain T.O.P. mission."

While the Mountain T.O.P. mission won't be until June, the church will be doing local outreaches as an ongoing ministry. To get involved, please call them at (850) 973-6295 and ask for Vause.

First UMC Fundraiser A Success

Amber Houston
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The First United Methodist Church held a fundraiser Sunday, January 26, for their upcoming mission trip in June.

The fundraiser—a soup and sandwich dinner—brought in many attendees. The price was a donation, whatever one could afford, no questions asked.

Church adults provided all varieties of hearty, homemade soups and desserts.

Youth made the sandwiches. Soups ranged from varieties of chili to broccoli soup, potato soup, and even Brunswick stew. Sandwiches ranged from pimento cheese to chicken salad, to peanut butter jelly and beyond.

This fundraiser was paired with a blood drive in honor of Bob Searcy and Terry Wells. This is the second drive First UMC has done in their honor, the first having been held in October. During the drive, participants gave 22 units of blood. Said Youth Pastor, Pock'o Vause: "We hope to do more of them in the future. It is so amazing to literally be able to give life to the community."

First UMC plans on a fundraiser each month for the Mountain T.O.P. mission trip. Keep an eye out in the Madison County Carrier for updates and local church news.

Logan Smith Live In Concert

Logan Smith will be live in concert at Bible Deliverance Church on Sunday morning, Feb. 9, at 10:45 a.m. Free admission! A love offering will be received during the concert.

Smith is 16 years old and is known for his days touring with Bill Gaither on the homecoming tour.

According to Smith's biography, he started at a very young age watching the Gaither Homecoming videos and that's where his story begins. The person that stood out in his life was the one and only, Vestal Goodman. At the age of three, he would stand in his room with a pencil as a microphone and one of his dad's handkerchiefs singing his heart out to one of the Happy Goodman's songs, such as "I Wouldn't Take Nothing For My Journey Now."

At the age of 7, Smith was asked to sing at a senior's dinner at his grandparent's church.

Smith refused at first, but he finally got the courage to do it. When he took the stage, Smith brought the house down with some Goodman favorites. That's when he finally came out of his shell.

Since that night, Smith has accomplished what it seems like it takes others a lifetime to accomplish. Smith recorded his first CD, "The Journey Begins," at age 10. His second CD, "Just Any Day Now," was released just one year later, and "Satisfied," his third CD featured Jeff and Sheri Easter doing background vocals. His latest release is titled, "Child of the King," which he recorded at age 15.

Thanks to Jeff and Sheri Easter it does not stop there. On October 31, 2008, Smith was invited to sing with the Gaither Homecoming Tour in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for GaitherFest. Once again, he blew the crowd away. Since that night, he has sung at many different venues with the Homecoming Tour. Smith was also invited to appear on the Gaither Homecoming Thanksgiving taping of "Count Your Blessings" that was released in September, 2010 and the Alaskan Cruise video "Majesty" where he also appeared on and released January, 2011.

Smith Attended the National Quartet Convention in September of 2008 which went over very well. Smith then was invited to sing on the main stage at the 2009 Convention and returned for 2010 and once again took the main stage. And his success story goes on and on.

Former FSU Player To Share Testimony February 9th At Honey Lake Church

By Rose Klein
Greene Publishing, Inc.

T.K. Wetherell, former Florida State University (FSU) football player, Speaker of the House and President Emeritus of FSU, will be visiting Honey Lake Church on Sunday, Feb. 9 to share his personal testimony. Wetherell will share how he achieved the monumental accomplishments he made in his life and also his ten-year battle he waged with stage four cancer.

The former wide-receiver maintained his upbeat attitude through all his trials and tribulations and credits his unwavering faith in Jesus Christ as the foundational strength that enabled him to maintain such a positive mindset and that continues to allow him to accomplish his goals.

Honey Lake Church and Worldwide Ministries believe all can benefit from this testimony and invites everyone to come and share in this testimony in faith. Honey Lake Church is located at 1290 NW Honey Lake Road in Greenville, with service starting at 11 a.m. To find out more about Honey Lake or their services, call (850) 948-9911 or visit their website at www.HoneyLakePlantation.com.

Verse Of The Week

“Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before Him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God.”

Pine Tree Quilters Hold Annual Quilt Show Feb. 15

"Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord when saw we thee an hungered and fed thee? Or thirsty and gave thee drink? ...a stranger, and took thee in, or naked and clothed thee? ...or sick or in prison and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." (Matthew 25: 37-40)

The Pine Tree Quilters group is one of several outreach ministries of the United Methodist Ministries Cooperative, seeking to meet needs of those in their community, providing warm quilts for migrant workers, veterans, nursing home residents and those who have lost their homes in fires. Once a year, they hold a Quilt Show, displaying some of their work as they accept donations and offer a few quilts for sale, raising funds to help them buy more quilting supplies and continue their work. The Pine Tree Quilters 18th Annual Brunch and Quilt Show is Saturday, Feb. 15, 9 a.m. until noon, at the UMCM Center, 135 NE Dill St. (For directions, contact the UMCM at (850)-929-4938.) Holding the beautiful Angel Quilt, one of the ones that will be offered for sale, are (left to right) Luanna Forness, Betty Sirmon, Sally Hubbard, Lanora Zipperer, Hilda Dixon and Debbie Brown.

Question Of The Week:

Why Does God Allow Bad Things To Happen To Good People?

Pat Brooks – “Because we have to have the trials and tribulations to test our faith.”

Jack and Charlotte Hollingsworth – “He is in control. He’s always there for us and He keeps us in His care.”

Marty Giacomazzi – “To show how He’s there for us; He says He’ll never forsake us. He reveals Himself through our suffering by strengthening our perseverance and character and the suffering will ultimately lead us to God, which will lead us to joy.”

Cody (last name and picture not submitted because he doesn’t want any recognition for God’s word). – “It all goes back to the book of Job, where Satan tells God the only reason people serve Him is because they are selfish and want God’s blessings, not because they love Him. God allowed Satan to test Job, so Satan took everything from Job, expecting him to lose faith in and curse God, but Job had faith and praised God, and in doing so, Job received more than he had before. In this imperfect world we live in, there is natural disasters, disease, bad government, food shortages and more. God doesn’t control these unforeseen occurrences, and they happen to all equally, but if we’re faithful to God, He promises all will work out for our good.” God says in Revelation 21:4, “He will wipe out every tear from their eyes and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away.”

Tom Pennington – “I believe our time is predestined and when it’s your time to go, it’s your time.”

Lorrie Mendheim – “God has a reason. Bad things happen so good things can come your way.”

“For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope.”
