Law Students Sought to be Ambassadors

The Office of Student Affairs is looking for highly energetic upper class students (second semester minimum) to act as ambassadors for "Introduction to Law School and the Profession."

Ambassadors will assist and guide new students through their first semester. They will be assigned a team of six to eight new students. Their duties include (but are not limited to): conducting activities to help participants get to know each other, developing a support group for new students and challenging the students to become active in the law school community.

Applications are available in the Office of Student Affairs. All applicants must be available to attend an interview and a training session this semester. The application deadline is Friday, Feb. 17.

Students selected as ambassadors must be available by Monday, Aug. 13. For more information please contact Rachel E. Inman, associate dean for student affairs, inman@law.ufl.edu.

France Provides Sumptuous Backdrop to UF Law's Study Abroad Program

By Jessica Jinah Song

Most law students would agree there aren't many things better to do in summer than earning academic credits while being able to enjoy escargot, see the Eiffel Tower, taste excellent wines at vineyards and explore France for five weeks.

The University of Florida Levin College of Law will jointly sponsor a summer law program with the University of Montpellier Faculty of Law from June 24 through July 27. Students will spend the first week in Paris and the last four weeks in Montpellier, France.

"It gave me a chance to take another look at the world," said Adam Josephs, a UF Law student who took part in last year's program.

"I would do it again if I could."

Though students will be taking classes, there is plenty of time after class to enjoy the rich culture and other leisure activities off-campus during the program, he said.

"We got to watch the World Cup while we were there," Josephs said. "French are very passionate. It was quite unlike any sporting events here."

Changes in the Center for Career Services

You may have noticed a few major changes in the Center for Career Services.

To better accommodate students' needs, we are expanding. Our resource coordinator, Colene Milligan, and our student worker, Kayce Horgan, are now working in the lobby area just outside room 244. They will be there for quick- and-easy access to answer questions, help make counselor appointments, or refer you to the many resources in the Center for Career Services.

You will also notice that some of these resources have even been moved into the lobby area for easier access.

Additionally, our professional career counselors will be in the lobby area instead of on the concourse for One Quick Question. Throughout the semester, you'll find a counselor in the lobby area on Mondays, 1:45-3:15 p.m., and Thursdays, 9:45-11:15 a.m. One Quick Question is now in the lobby area to refer you to the appropriate resources with ease.

Inside Room 244 you'll also notice some changes and a new set up. Our library of career resources has also been moved to a cozy alcove area. Please stop by to check out our new look, schedule an appointment, drop off a resume, or ask a question.

Please note that because office equipment is now in the lobby area, the glass doors will be locked from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m., and all unaccompanied students will be asked to leave the area once our office hours of 8 a.m.-5 p.m. conclude each day.

Keep an eye out for upcoming changes, including a computer work station for career-related use, and additional resources for the Center for Career Services and Legal Research & Writing that will help make our office a more comfortable place to search for employment and provide more resources to you.

Reminder about Symplicity and OCI Orientation

This week Career Services professional counselors will offer additional Symplicity orientations. Please join us in 180 Holland Hall to learn about the computer software you will use to participate in On Campus Interviews (OCI), search our job bank, and participate in resume collects. This will be a valuable orientation for all students, whether or not they wish to participate in OCI. Programs will be offered in the Chesterfield Smith Ceremonial Classroom (180 HOL) on:

- Wednesday, Jan. 17, 5 p.m.
- Thursday, Jan. 18, at 5 p.m.
- Friday, Jan. 19, at noon

Please note that attendance in one of the Symplicity orientation sessions is mandatory for fall '06 entrants who wish to participate in Spring '07 OCI.

Walk-in Resume Review

Bring your resume to the CCS at 244 Bruton-Geer Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 24, 9 a.m.-noon, for an immediate review. The normal two-day review period is suspended and students will have their resumes reviewed on the spot during a first-come, first-served 15-minute review so that it is ready to upload in Symplicity and/or send out to employers.

Beyond OCI: Job Search Strategies

Join us to learn how to conduct an effective career search in Florida or nationally Thursday, Jan. 18, at noon in the Bailey Courtroom. Emphasis will be placed on formulating your search plan, conducting demographic or practice area searches, locating background information and searching for resources on prospective employers. Bring your specific questions about how to find a job beyond OCI.

CAREER SPOTLIGHT

Gregory C. Harrell (JD 99), Partner, Mateer & Harbert, Ocala

Just over seven years after graduating from the University of Florida's Levin College of Law, Gregory Harrell was made partner at Mateer & Harbert, an Orlando-based law firm that focuses primarily on commercial litigation work for clients in high-end real estate and health care.

Harrell works in the firm's Ocala office as one of two resident partners, along with fellow UF Law grad J. Theodore "Ted" Schatt. As a general civil litigator, Harrell has been doing more work representing health care facilities since joining the firm. "I have been given the opportunity to really spread my wings and start my own practice and be a general practitioner here in Ocala, and it's been great," he said.

With a bachelor's degree in English from the University of Virginia, Harrell served on the executive board of Florida Law Review while in law school as the senior writing competition editor. The experience served him well. "Obviously, that type of exercise is very important for practicing law," he said. "It teaches you good traits."

Immediately following law school, he worked for an insurance defense firm in Tallahassee. "It gave me a lot of good experience right out of the gate doing civil litigation," said Harrell, who also met his wife Stephanie, a Florida State grad, during this time. After two years there, the couple moved to Miami, where Harrell worked with Ferrell Law and Stephanie attended medical school at the University of Miami. While gaining experience directly representing clients, Harrell worked on some major civil cases and developed an interest in probate litigation.

Today, Harrell commutes to work from Gainesville, where Stephanie is a pediatric resident at Shands. They plan to settle in Ocala, where both of them are from originally.

"When you graduate from UF, if you want to practice here, there is such a vast network of UF law grads throughout the country, particularly in Florida, and you are immediately made part of that network and sort of taken into the fold."

Fellowship and Internship Deadlines Looming

ABA Section of Antitrust Law – Janet D. Steiger Fellowship Project

The 2007 Janet D. Steiger Fellowship Project is a full-time, 8-week summer fellowship program open for 1Ls and 2Ls that offers a $5,000 stipend and $2,000 supplemental housing/travel allowance for students who are not living at home for the summer. There are 21 fellowships for students who will work on consumer protection (and perhaps antitrust) matters at one of the offices of state attorney generals in Alaska, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Applications and accompanying information must be received by Friday, Jan. 19. For more information, go to: <http://www.abanet.org/antitrust/at-law-student/at-js-project.shtml>

Pfizer Inc./AALDEF Corporate Legal Internship Program for 1Ls

Summer interns will work in such areas as employment, intellectual property, commercial transactions, regulatory and international law. The internships will not lead to a permanent position; however, Pfizer provides student interns with mentors who will provide professional guidance and career counseling. The internship runs 10-12 weeks with a summer stipend as high as $1,800 per week. Application deadline is Jan. 19. Information and instructions are available in the CCS or at www.aaldef.org.

2007 Summer Law Intern Program - US- DOJ Office of the United States Attorney - Middle District of Florida (Tampa, Orlando, Jacksonville and Fort Myers)

This district is soliciting applicants for the unpaid Summer Law Intern Program for 2007. Due to the critical and sensitive nature of work that is performed, students will be screened prior to being selected for an interview. Students will be subject to a background investigation that will take at least six to eight weeks. Interns must be citizens of the United States. Students must submit the following as part of their application: cover letter stating in which city the student is interested in working (in preference order); if interested in Tampa, indicate which division (appellate, criminal or civil, in preference order); resume must include email address, current mailing address and daytime telephone number; Pre-Interview Questionnaire for National Security Positions; Disclosure and Authorization Pertaining to Consumer Reports (Form DOJ 555); writing sample; and a copy of your transcript that includes current GPA. Copies of Questionnaire and Disclosure and Authorization are available in the CDO. Applications may be mailed to: Judith A. Hoberman, Human Resources Specialist, U. S. Attorney's Office, 400 N. Tampa Street, Suite 3200, Tampa, FL 33602, telephone 813-274-6239, or emailed (preferred method of submission) to judith.hoberman@usdoj.gov by Jan. 31.

Summer Internships with Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund

AALDEF protects and promotes the legal rights of Asian Americans through litigation, legal advocacy and community education. A number of full-time summer internships are available in the New York office. Deadline is Jan. 31. More information is available in the CCS or at www.aaldef.org.

News & Events

Grading Policy Changes

At its November 2006 meeting, the faculty of the Levin College of Law adopted changes in the grading policy of the college, to take effect during Spring Term 2007. As a result of these changes, the following portions of the section of the policy dealing with the Mandatory Course Section Mean now read:

2. Mandatory Course Section Mean

A. The mean grade for all course sections, except as provided in paragraphs B and E, shall be between 3.15 and 3.25, inclusive.

B. For upperclass course sections, the instructor may elect to raise the top of the range or lower the bottom of the range under whichever of the following alternatives applies:

1. If the mean GPA (determined as of the beginning of the semester) for students enrolled in the course section after the last day to drop a class is above 3.2, the lower end of the range shall be 3.15 and the upper end of the range may be .05 higher than the mean GPA of the students enrolled in the course.

2. If the mean GPA (determined as of the beginning of the semester) for students enrolled in the course section after the last day to drop a class is below 3.2, the lower end of the range may be .05 lower than the mean GPA of the students enrolled in the course and the upper end of the range shall be 3.25.

3. The mean GPA of the students enrolled in the course shall be conclusively determined by the registrar. (Paragraph B is unchanged.)

E. (New) The mean grade in section 2 shall be recommended rather than mandatory with respect to

- (1) any seminar of 25 or fewer students; and
- (2) any course section of 25 or fewer students (provided that no more than 25 students are enrolled for the semester in all course sections bearing the same course number, except that in the case of courses bearing the classification 6930, the proviso contained in this parenthetical shall apply only to 6930 course sections with the same or similar course content).

In no event, however, may the mean grade exceed 3.6, except as follows: If the mean GPA (determined as of the beginning of the semester) for students enrolled in a course subject to this paragraph (E) after the last day to drop a class is above 3.55, the mean grade for the course section may exceed 3.6, but may not exceed the mean GPA of the students enrolled in the course section plus .05.

UF Law Admissions Office Seeking New Recruiters

The Office of Admissions is seeking students, regardless of year, to help bring the nation's top undergraduates to the Levin College of Law. Students may apply for the Student Recruitment Team (SRT). Members of the team conduct campus tours, discuss their law school experiences with prospective students and occasionally travel nationwide for recruitment efforts, participate in panel discussions, or speak to UF organizations regarding UF Law admissions.

During office hours, recruiters will answer questions from prospective students; give tours of the law school; or call admitted students. Two hours per week is the minimum time commitment for the program.

If you are interested in becoming part of the SRT, bring your completed application and resume to the Admissions Office before Jan. 16. For more information, contact Noemar Castro, castro@law.ufl.edu.

Child Welfare Openings

Placement opportunities are available in the Child Welfare Clinic for the Spring 2007 semester. The Child Welfare Clinic was founded in 2003 as an affiliate of the Levin College of Law's Center on Children and Families. Its mission is to enhance children's well-being by improving collaboration among professionals serving at-risk children.

College of Law students selected for the clinic receive training to become legal interns certified by the Florida Supreme Court. Subsequently, they work in placements with the Child Protection Team, Child Welfare Legal Services (Gainesville and Ocala) and Juvenile Public Defenders Office, under the supervision of Legal Skills Professor Monique Haughton Worrell. The intern's responsibilities include case analysis, legal research, drafting of motions and/or memoranda, communication with local counsel, and appearance in court. CWC is a one semester 9 credit clinic, with a minimum weekly commitment of twenty hours in addition to class time. For more information visit <http://www.law.ufl.edu/centers/welfare/brochure.shtml> or contact Professor Worrell at haughton@law.ufl.edu.

Center to Host Panel Discussion on Race Feb. 26

The Center for the Study of Race and Race Relations will host a panel and keynote discussion, "A Series of Unfortunate Events? A Look at Race," Feb. 26, from noon until 2 p.m., in Room 355B Holland Hall.

Panelists include University of Florida Professors Milagros Pena (sociology), Faye Harrison (anthropology) and Kenneth Nunn (law). Jabari Asim, a syndicated columnist for The Washington Post and author of The N Word Who Can Say It, Who Shouldn't and Why, will give the keynote. For further information, please contact the Center for the study of Race and Race Relations at csrrrr@law.ufl.edu or 273-0614.

Join the Class Gift Committee

The UF Levin College of Law would not be what it is today without support from its former students. Now it is your chance to make a difference and leave a legacy for future generations of students. Committee members are needed for the Spring 2007 Class Gift campaign. Members also have the opportunity to network with alumni and have a chance to join the Law Alumni Council upon graduation.

If you are interested, please call Andrea Shirey in the Office of Development & Alumni Affairs at 273-0640 or email shirey@law.ufl.edu.

Note: Career Services programs and additional meetings and events are listed on the calendar on pages 4-5.

CGR Symposium to Focus on Privacy Law

“This is a contemporary point of conflict in the United States,” said Mills, who has studied privacy issues and been involved in legal cases in this area during his career.

Some of the proposed scenarios to be discussed at the event include:

- A 1999 Mississippi case, Plaxico v. Michael, in which an expectation of privacy in the seclusion of one’s own bedroom was not considered reasonable when the individual was involved in a lesbian relationship and in a child custody fight with her husband.
- A female president of a college’s student association sued a newspaper for invasion of privacy by public discourse of private facts when a columnist disclosed that she was actually a man. The newspaper argued that the publication was newsworthy and protected by the First Amendment. The jury found for the plaintiff.
- The case of a medical examiner who allowed a cable network film crew to follow him to a hotel room where a woman had been thrown to her death from the balcony by her husband, who then died when he fell or jumped. The film crew recorded the crime scene, including the woman’s dead body, and the next morning shot photos of the nude bodies. The parents and sister of the dead woman sued the network, the parties associated with the program, and the medical examiner’s office.

- In December, President George W. Bush issued a “presidential signing statement” related to a Postal Service bill, which said a subsection of the Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act “provides for opening an item of a class of mail otherwise sealed against inspection.” The statement said the administration had the right to “conduct searches in exigent circumstances” such as to protect human life and safety against hazardous materials, and the need for physical searches specifically authorized by law for foreign intelligence collection.”

A reception will follow the symposium at 1:30 p.m. in the Faculty Dining Room, Bruton-Geer Hall.

France a Sumptuous Backdrop for Study Abroad

Students can expect a variety of events from this program. “It’s a series of opportunities for students to experience legal and international institutions in France,” said Dean George Dawson, the program director.

UF arranges trips to various legal divisions and courts in France for students to experience throughout the program. Last year, students visited the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, whose members share a commitment to democratic government and the market economy. “There are so many things you learn just by being there and you get a chance to get a different perspective on issues by talking with French students,” said Gina Atienza, a participant from UF last year. “You get to learn a completely different way of life.”

Weekends also will be chances for students to travel around Europe. Montpellier is centrally located and this is a huge advantage for students who want to explore different areas such as Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Barcelona. “The professors were great, and the weekly trips were enriching,” said Jay Hollenkamp, another participant from last year’s program. “Having the chance to study abroad during the summer vacation is a tremendous opportunity, but getting to do them with a group of really great people makes it special.”

The France study abroad program can also open many new windows of prospective opportunities. Some students were able to set up internship opportunities upon return. This program allows students to interact with French students in class and make lifelong friendship as well. Some of the French students from last year’s program are now at UF for study abroad.

“One of the biggest benefits of this program is that there’s a contact between French and American students socially and legally,” Dean Dawson said. “It’s a combination of cultural and educational activities.”

Six credit hours will be offered and students can take two, four or six credit hours. Courses offered will be European Business Law, which is required for all students; International Sale of Goods; and White Collar Crime, for two credits each. All courses will be taught in English.

Cost of the program for Florida residents will be $2,500, plus the cost of the week in Paris (approximately $900, including housing in Paris; a Metro/RER pass; access to the U/F Paris Research Center, where classes are held; and other program activities to be announced later). Cost for non-residents will be $3,000 (plus the cost of the Paris week). Students will be responsible for food and other miscellaneous costs. Last year’s participants strongly suggest that students work out a group plan to stay at the same hotels, and book the same flights and weekend trips to save money. The deadline for applications is Friday, March 23. Students interested in the Study Abroad Program in France should attend an informational meeting with a slide show and more details on Wednesday, Jan. 17, at noon in Room 285B Holland Hall.
