

All UF staff members are encouraged to fill out the staff survey that is being distributed this month. The survey consulting firm has identified pressing issues on campus, which the following sample questions address. Please remember to print your name, UF ID number and bank account number on your survey.

"take it on your next smoke break"

SAMPLE STAFF SURVEY

Do you feel the consistency of toilet paper on campus is too soft, too hard, or just right? _____

Do you think interim provost Joe Glover should wear contacts? _____

Do you think associate provost Sheila Dickison should wear contacts? _____

How many Gator football games have you attended? _____

Would you name your son Urban? _____

Would you support giving a portion of your paycheck to fund the severely underfunded athletic programs on campus as well as faculty salaries? _____

Do you prefer to use blue or black ink pens at work? _____

Do you feel you are able to take enough smoke breaks at work? _____

Do you like the number 5? _____

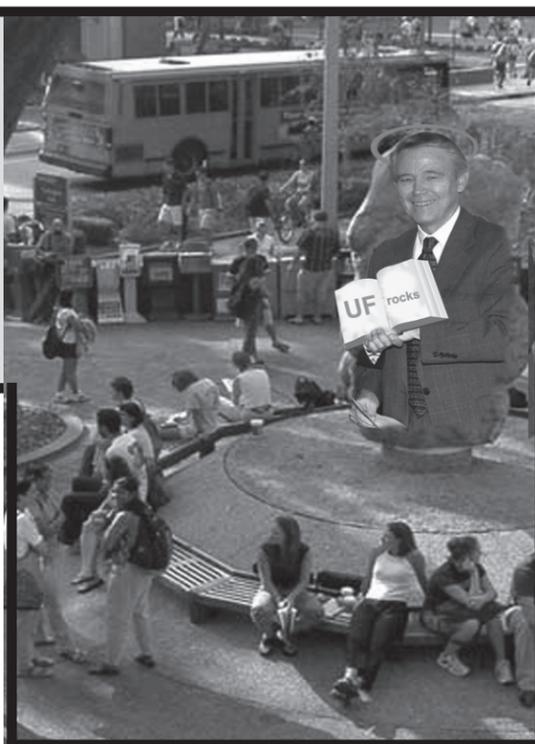

Are there too many parking spaces on campus? _____

If so, would you support a measure to build more buildings and abolish various parking lots? _____

How much do you love PeopleSoft?
 a) A lot!
 b) A whole lot!
 c) More than words can describe!

If you could change one thing about your job, what would it be? (Please do not include responses related to your boss, co-workers, working environment, parking, salary, job description, benefits, or the university.)

A generous gift from an anonymous donor (initials are believed to be N.S.) has allowed for the potato rock in Turlington to be superimposed with an image of David Colburn in honor of his return to CLAS. It is based on his 50 X 50 foot halo portrait that now hangs in Tigert.

Chock full o' happy memories!
 Hipper than you are!
 It's the performance that counts!
 An experience of a lifetime!
 Random new logo!
 The same as yesterday, poised for a new tomorrow!
 50% less state of Florida in every bite!

College of Literal Arts and Sciences
 Rumor & Scandal Control
 News & Publications
 2008 Turlington Hall
 PO Box 117300
 Gainesville FL 32611-7300
 editor@clas.ufl.edu
 http://clasnews.clas.ufl.edu

April 1, 2005

Volume 19
 $1.95

CLASnotes

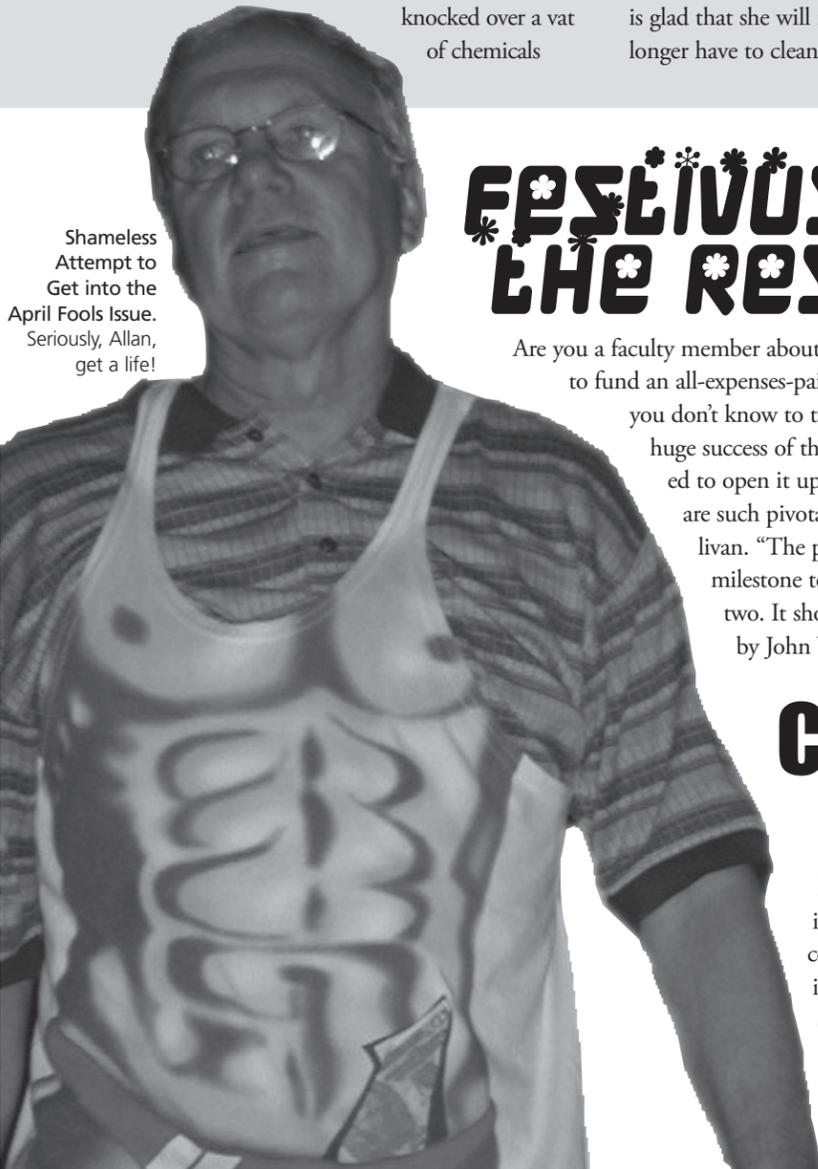

Florida University
 College of Literal Arts and Sciences

In order to raise funds for faculty salaries, the CLAS Players present The Wizard of Oz (50 cent admission): starring David Colburn as Dorothy, Albert Matheny as Toto, Jim Mueller as the Tinman, Lou Guillette as the Cowardly Lion, John Watson as the Scarecrow, Margaret Fields as Glenda the Good Witch, Yumiko Hulvey as the Wicked Witch of the West, Neil Sullivan as the Wizard, Angel Kwollek-Folland and Terry Mills as Munchkins, Allan Burns as Uncle Henry, Cynthia Butler as Auntie Em, and Jack Sabin as the Horse of a Different Color. Special appearances by Bernie Machen, Joe Glover and Sheila Dickison as flying monkeys.

IN THE NEWS

- Geologists discover calling people “dumb as rocks” is often offensive to rocks.
- In a surprise move the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences has voiced support for a new biology degree offered by CLAS. In a conciliatory move, Dean Sullivan is giving the Math department to IFAS.
- Oxford English dictionary removes “Going Postal” and replaces it with “Going PeopleSoft.”
- Chemistry department receives OSHA award for 10 days of accident-free work place. Previous record of 9,6789 days held by the English department. Chemistry professor Will Harrison’s response was “WOOHOO,” as he knocked over a vat of chemicals during his excited state.
- Marketing consultants propose changing the University of Florida’s name to Florida University since the new acronym will have appeal among students.
- “Ye Olde Deanery Kitchen” in 2014 Turlington has been sold to Starbucks to create a franchise for a multi-lingual internet cafe. Evelyn Butler says she is glad that she will no longer have to clean the microwave or make coffee for chauvinist pigs.
- Communication sciences and disorders department invites Harvard President Lawrence Summers to give lecture on “When to Keep your Mouth Shut.”
- Anthropology department forms AA (Anthropologists Anonymous) group for those who can’t stop digging in the dirt.

Shameless Attempt to Get into the April Fools Issue. Seriously, Allan, get a life!

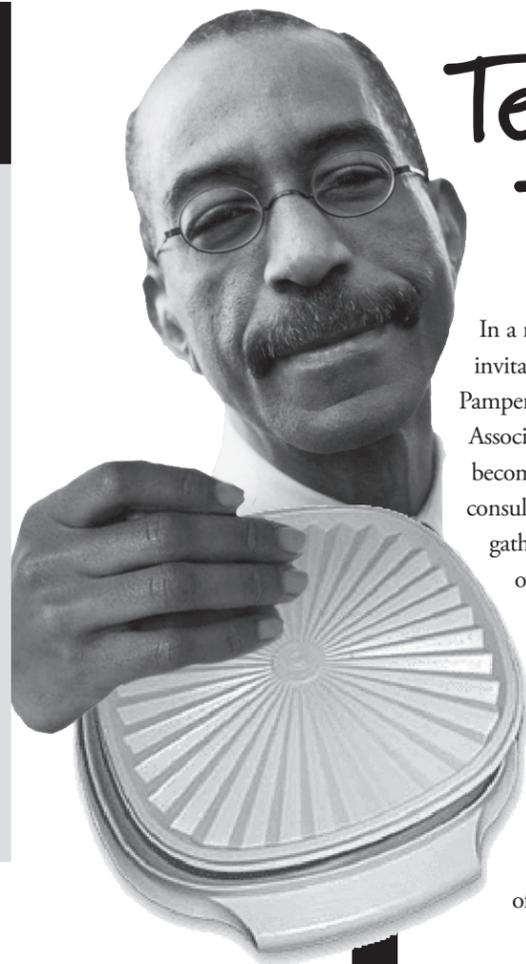

FESTIVUS FOR THE REST OF US!

Are you a faculty member about to celebrate your 60th birthday? If so, the college is ready to fund an all-expenses-paid fest in your honor! You can invite hundreds of people you don’t know to talk about very specific research in your area. Due to the huge success of the program in the physics department, the college has decided to open it up to all CLAS faculty members. “Often, ages 30, 40 and 50 are such pivotal birthdays and garner huge celebrations,” says Dean Neil Sullivan. “The physics department has brought it to our attention that 60 is a milestone too, given that it is a nice increment of time easily divided by two. It should also be recognized.” To make your fest official, just stop by John Watson’s office any day after 4 p.m. to confirm your funding.

CLAS Converts to the Metric System

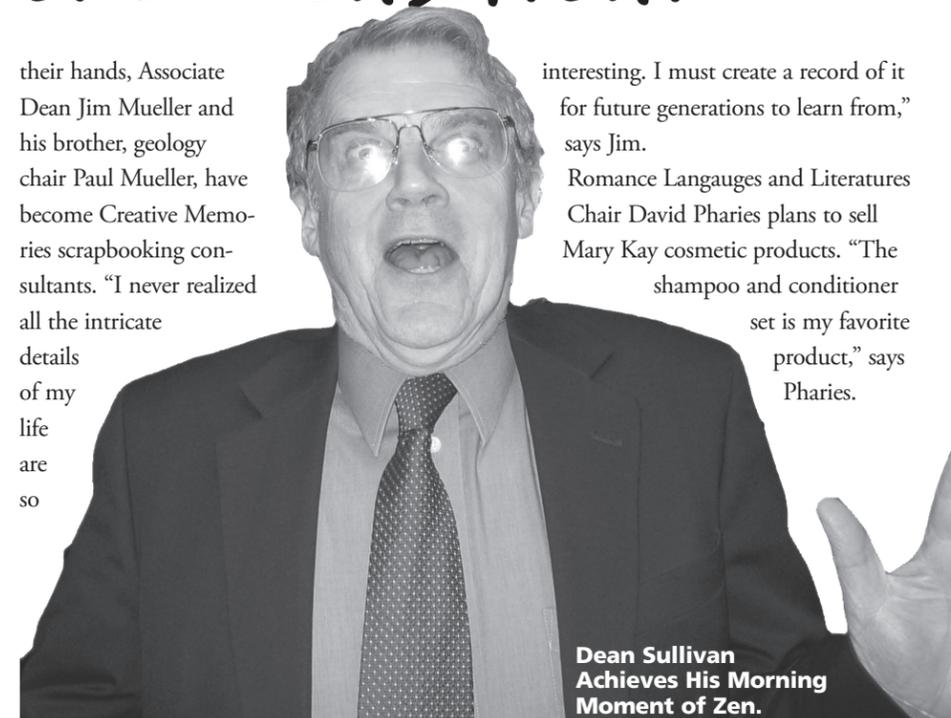

Due to the overwhelming success of other recent campus changeovers, including the PeopleSoft transition, CLAS has decided to convert completely to the metric system. “We are inching, er..., centimetering ourselves toward a more consistent future,” says CLAS Dean Neil Sullivan. Others in the college are not so optimistic. Says Jack Sabin, “You give Neil 2.54 centimeters and he’ll take 1,609.344 meters!” But Sullivan assures he’ll go the extra kilometer to make sure it’s a smooth transition, even though all other UF colleges and the entire US will remain with the English system.

Terry Mills Named College’s Tupperware Consultant

In a move designed to protest the lack of invitations he has received to Tupperware, Pampered Chef, and Partylite candle parties, Associate Dean Terry Mills has decided to become the college’s first-ever Tupperware consultant. “I often feel left out of social gatherings whose sole purpose is to overcharge for petty products,” says Mills. “I decided it was time to do something about it, so I’m hosting a Tupperware party this weekend in the Keene Faculty Center.” Mills says the spring collection is to die for. His move has prompted other faculty members to pursue this line of work. With tons of spare time on their hands, Associate Dean Jim Mueller and his brother, geology chair Paul Mueller, have become Creative Memories scrapbooking consultants. “I never realized all the intricate details of my life are so interesting. I must create a record of it for future generations to learn from,” says Jim. Romance Languages and Literatures Chair David Pharies plans to sell Mary Kay cosmetic products. “The shampoo and conditioner set is my favorite product,” says Pharies.

Dean Sullivan Achieves His Morning Moment of Zen.

EVEN MORE FACULTY BONUSES ON THE WAY

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has teamed up with WCLAS radio to disburse the latest round of faculty bonuses. Any faculty member who is spotted on campus by the roving “Krazy CLAS” van will receive an automatic $5,000 bonus, with an added $10,000 if they can answer a 1980s trivia question. Any staff member who spots the van will get a WCLAS bumper sticker and a 5x7 autographed photo of President Machen, since they don’t need monetary bonuses. To spot the “Krazy CLAS” van, just look for the polka-dotted Chevy Astro driven by the man in the pig suit. This bonus program

Tattoo YOU!

In order to promote unity between the arts and the sciences Dean Neil Sullivan has instituted a new policy of back tattoos for faculty. These tattoos will be a small version of the CLAS logo. “This will be a more real reminder that everyone in CLAS is part of the same family,” Sullivan says. “Students were leading the way with this trend, so it also puts the faculty more in sync with our students. While there is no current plan for a forearm tattoo, Sullivan says that is always a place for the college to grow in the future.

