Central Avenue Shuttle connects Grand Central to St. Petersburg

The Pinellas Suncoast Transit Authority is the public transit provider for Pinellas County carrying more than 12 million riders a year along nearly 40 bus and trolley routes with a fleet of 205 vehicles.

ST. PETERSBURG - "The new Central Avenue Shuttle is a vital link between PSTA's Grand Central Station and downtown St. Petersburg and yet another way in which partnering entities can improve the livability and economic vitality of St. Petersburg and the Grand Central Business district."

"The new Central Avenue Shuttle is much more than a convenient form of transportation for area residents - it's a testament to the impact of hard work, cooperation and community improvement."

That's what local business, community and transit leaders said about St. Petersburg's new Central Avenue Shuttle service this afternoon as they celebrated the unveiling of Pinellas County's newest transit service. The unveiling was held at 3:30 pm in the parking lot of SunTrust Bank at 3100 Central Ave. in St. Petersburg adjacent to the PSTA bus terminal, which was recently renamed from Central Plaza to Grand Central Station.

The Central Avenue Shuttle is being operated by the Looper Group and links St. Petersburg's Looper Trolley with PSTA's Grand Central Station and Williams Park terminals, which serve 18 different bus routes. The new service runs from the St. Petersburg Pier to 32nd Street along Central Avenue. The fare is only 25 cents one way or ten cents for seniors and citizens with disabilities, plus children five and younger ride free.

The shuttle is result of a growing partnership between PSTA, the City of St. Petersburg and local business leaders and their efforts to enhance transit options for residents and visitors alike.

Sheriff's Department collects 425 lbs of perscription drugs

ST. PETERSBURG - Last weekend in an effort to keep prescription drugs off the streets, drop off spots were made for anyone to bring in past due perscription drugs from 10 am to 2 pm.

The day resulted in a 425 pound collection of drugs. The Pinellas County Sheriff's Offices Narcotics Unit calls this program Operation Medicine Cabinet. There were seven drop off locations in unincorporated areas. The drugs will be incinerated.

According to Pinellas Sheriff's Sergeant Dan Zsido, "Any time we can reduce the amount of perscription drugs which could be stolen or illegally used is a win-win situation for law enforcement and the community. We appreciate the assistance received from our partners in this effort."

This program is designed to prevent the misuse and abuse of unwanted over-the-counter and perscription medications, and keep them out of communities' water supplies.

Operation Medicine Cabinet is a nation wide program. Some states amount to 35 million, in street value, during collection periods.

The program can be used by hospitals, environmental groups, pharmaceutical companies, community groups, and government agencies.

AG Comm Bronson Invokes Restrictions on Horses from Texas

TALLAHASSEE -- Florida Agriculture and Consumer Services Commissioner Charles H. Bronson announced yesterday the imposition of import restrictions on horses coming into Florida from Texas following the discovery of hundreds of Texas horses positive for Theileria equi, one of two organisms responsible for causing Equine Piroplasmosis (EP).

Bronson is requiring horses from Texas to have blood tests to check for Theileria equi within 30 days of entry into Florida, have a health certificate, be checked for ticks that carry EP, and be sprayed with a pesticide no more than two weeks before their arrival in Florida.

Back in late October there was a single reported case in Texas. A horse was exhibiting symptoms from the parasite, since then over a hundred other cases have arised. The estimated number of horses that have tested positive as of today are over 300. Texas is working diligently to try and find a way to stop this massive spread.

EP is considered a foreign animal disease, not endemic to the United States. It is a blood-borne parasitic disease primarily transmitted between horses by ticks or contaminated needles and is not directly contagious from one horse to another. Ticks are the natural method of transmission of the EP organisms, and the tick species known to be efficient at transmitting EP is not believed to be in Florida.

Acutely affected horses can have depression, fever, anemia, jaundiced (yellow) mucous membranes, and can die from the disease. In its milder form, EP can also cause horses to have roughened hair coats, constipation, colic, generalized weakness, and lack of appetite. Some horses become chronic carriers of the disease, showing little clinical signs but have the ability to transmit the disease to other horses via ticks. One of the main concerns is the transmission of the disease through birthing, this has not been proven yet.

Treatment of infected horses has not been shown to be effective in eliminating the organism (Theileria equi), and infected horses must remain under quarantine. As of now the disease is recognized as incurable. According to Dr. Michael Short, the main vertinary doctor on staff at Florida Agriculture and Consumer Services, most have been adapting and simply becoming carriers. No deaths have been reported.

The establishment of Equine Piroplasmosis and associated vector ticks would seriously threaten the horses and equine industry of Florida, which produces goods and services of more than $3 billion annually.

"We are being very proactive in testing horses that came in contact with positive horses that were imported from Texas over the past few years since we are not sure how long the problem has existed in Texas," Bronson said. "This is a serious disease, and we must take all precautions necessary to prevent the spread of this disease as well as to prevent the introduction of any ticks that are carriers of the dis-

Crist thanks National Guard soliders during a visit to Camp Blanding

STARKE -- Governor Charlie Crist expressed his gratitude to the 2,450 members of the Florida National Guard's 53rd Infantry Brigade Combat Team during a visit to Camp Blanding Joint Training Center near Jacksonville, Monday.

In preparation for a year-long deployment in Iraq and Kuwait, troops are completing six weeks of pre-mobilization training, referred to as "Operation FALL CLASSIC," at the training center. The Governor also emphasized his support for the Caregiver and Veterans Health Services Act of 2009, federal legislation that aims to assist, improve and support healthcare for veterans.

"These brave service men and women are a great testament to the outstanding caliber of the Florida National Guard and our nation's military," said Governor Crist. "I am proud of what they are accomplishing as they complete their training and am confident they will continue to serve with honor and distinction."

Operation FALL CLASSIC began on Oct. 6th and is the final phase of training in anticipation of actual combat conditions overseas. Among other procedures, Soldiers practiced convoy security, detection of explosive devices, crowd control in a combat zone, and medical extraction simulations. Additionally, an Arabic-speaking role-playing exercise was added as practice for real-life interactions with Iraq and Kuwait residents. The team of role-players, comprised mostly of Iraqi nationals and expatriates, wear distinctive Iraqi garb and speak Arabic in an effort to be as authentic as possible and accurately portray the typical interaction between Iraqi and Kuwaiti nationals and U.S. troops.

Governor Crist visited the "theater specific" training in a simulated Iraqi village with the Iraqi Nationals speaking Arabic.

A practice attack was underway to train Soldiers concerning the correct procedures to enter an Iraqi village looking for a suspect. The Iraqi role-players carried out their daily routine as Soldiers moved into the area. Suddenly the role-players were calling out Arabic slogans attempted to work with the Soldiers moving in force when the area erupted in smoke and the role-players scattered from the area. There was an eruption of gunfire as Soldiers engaged with enemy combatants.

While the village scene was unfolding, Soldiers securing the perimeter yelled for an approaching vehicle to halt. They fired at the vehicle and it exploded with a vehicle-borne explosive device; no Soldiers would have been injured in this scenario. To conclude the exercise, a team of Soldiers quickly extracted a suspect for questioning and others remained to work with the villagers.

Governor Crist also took time to specifically talk with each group of Soldiers upon completion of their training scenarios, to include inquiring about their home towns. Joining Governor Crist was Florida Representative Charles Van Zant, who also expressed his appreciation for the Soldiers.

To one group of Soldiers at the training site, Governor Crist commented: "I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart, on behalf of almost 20 million Floridians - thank you for what you're doing. Thank you for your courage. Thank you for fighting for our freedom. I just want to learn about your training and how you do it. It's incredibly impressive."

Maj. Gen. Douglas Burnett, adjutant general of Florida, escorted Governor Crist as he moved among the Soldiers.

"This was a historic day for our Guardsmen as Governor Crist thanked them for their service and answering the call to again deploy to Iraq and Afghanistan," added Maj. Gen. Burnett. The majority of the Soldiers conducting training as Governor Crist visited are from South Florida, specifically 1st. Battalion, 124th Infantry Regiment.

Currently more than 3,000 Florida Guardsmen and women are preparing to deploy to Iraq and Afghanistan to join the nearly 1,000 presently overseas. Since September 2001, more than 11,000 members of the Florida National Guard have served on federal active duty in support of the ongoing war on terror. Most recently, 432 troops with the 146th Signal Battalion and nearly 70 members of the 256th Medical Company returned home, concluding their year-long tours in Iraq.

City named airport terminal

Mayor Rick Baker and city officials name terminal after social philanthropists

ST. PETERSBURG - On Tuesday, Mayor Rick Baker, elected officials and members of the local aviation community named the Albert Whitted Airport Intermodal General Aviation Center the "Galbraith Terminal." Ceremonies were held today at the downtown airport's 10,600 square foot building, 540 First Street S.E., in St. Petersburg.

John and Rosemary Galbraith, local philanthropists and tireless supporters of Albert Whitted Airport, loaned and gifted funds necessary to complete construction of the airport building.

"St. Petersburg, as the birthplace of the world's first commercial airline, has a long and historic tradition with the world of aviation," said Mayor Baker. "Today, with the renaming of this beautiful new terminal, we can appropriately honor the Galbraiths for their lifelong love of aviation and decades-long contributions to our civic life in St. Petersburg."

The Galbraith Terminal is a two-story building featuring a 64-space landside parking lot and a 12,200 square yard aircraft parking ramp. Construction began in April, 2006, and was completed in October, 2007. The building is leased by St. Petersburg Flying Services, the airport's fixed base operator. Other tenants include Avis Rental Car and a new restaurant, The Hangar, with a projected opening of Spring, 2010.

Construction cost of the building was $4 million. The city received a grant from the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) for 80 percent of the cost ($3.2 million) to be released in portions over a six year period. The Galbraiths provided the city with an interest free loan for FDOT's portion of the project so it could be started in 2007. Mr. Galbraith will be repaid as the FDOT funds are released. In addition, Mr. Galbraith donated 10 percent (or half the city's match of $800,000) with the city contributing the remaining $400,000.

The aircraft ramp portion of the project, totaling $800,000 was paid in part with a 95 percent grant from the Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) with the city providing the remaining five percent.

Middle school vaccination program halted until Dec.

ST. PETERSBURG - Due to the continued lag in H1N1 (swine) flu production, the Pinellas County Health Department is scaling back its school vaccination campaign effective today, Nov. 16.

Vaccine clinics will continue only in elementary schools from Nov. 17-20 as originally scheduled, but they will be suspended in middle schools and high schools. Those school clinics will be rescheduled in December when additional vaccines are expected to arrive.

"We apologize to the parents and school staff affected by this continued national shortage of vaccines," said Claude Dharamraj, M.D., director of the Pinellas County Health Department. "We are concentrating our efforts on the youngest children at this time based on the very limited supply of H1N1 vaccines we've received."

Tampa SPCA gives a home to 24 dogs after hoarding in Tennessee

TAMPA - SPCA Tampa Bay will assist the Cheatham County Animal Control in Nashville, TN, by taking in 24 dogs as part of a hoarding investigation. The purebreds and mixes will arrive by truck at the SPCA Tampa Bay shelter on Monday.

A total of 57 dogs were confiscated by Cheatham County Animal Control Officers from what was considered an alleged hoarding situation. Most of the animals seized were malnourished; flea infested, and had severely matted hair.

The animals were unloaded Monday evening and were quarantined at the facility, where they were examined by veterinarian Cherie Buisson.

Due to lack of space in the Cheatham County Animal Control facility, the SPCA Tampa Bay offered to take in the animals and place them up for adoption when they are physically and mentally ready.

It could take several weeks before these animals to recover from all of the disease, parasites, and infections that could have been caused while being held at the facility.

USF partners with Wal-Mart to find solution to bottled water waste TAMPA - Leave it to enterprising students from the University of South Florida to find a far-reaching and practical solution to bottled water waste. The USF branch of Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) has come up with an award-winning idea that has earned $6,000 in support from Wal-Mart for a project that promises to help keep millions of plastic bottles out of landfills and save students well over a million dollars a year: free refreshing reverse osmosis filtered water available at popular locations around campus and inexpensive refillable bottles. The Wal-Mart Market 111 grant is funding installation of the filtration systems.

"This project aims to help promote awareness about and reduce the consumption of plastic water bottles as well as help the USF community make environmentally sustainable personal and business decisions," said Dameion Lovett, assistant director in the Department of USF Scholarships and Financial Aid Services, who serves as SIFE advisor. "This is all in support of USF's commitment to fight global warming."

The idea began taking shape when members of the SIFE team noticed a trash can filled to the brim with plastic water bottles. Team members then set off on a mission to combat the plastic waste problem and change students' behavior.

After conducting an online survey to gauge interest among USF's students, faculty and staff, results indicated the potential for tremendous impact by installing custom use water systems in high traffic areas. SIFE estimates over 22,000 students would obtain overall savings of $1,746,158 and save over two million plastic bottles from being dumped into landfills each year. A test machine was installed and water bottles were passed out to test the idea further.

"Field testing yielded positive and encouraging results," Lovett said. "Then the team won $250 for the project by placing first in a poster contest at the Going Green Tampa Bay Expo 2009. Now the grant from Wal-Mart will be used to install six systems on campus with the direct goals of decreasing the carbon footprint of packaging and transporting bottled water, reducing plastic waste in landfills and saving students, faculty and staff money in tough economic times."

Lovett and the SIFE team expect the machines to be installed after the first of the year. They are working on gaining further financial support for the project and have received endorsements from the USF Office of Sustainability and the Office of Strategic Initiatives.

"The next step is to get these systems in place and implement a 'Refill-a-bull Our Bottle' program with reusable metal water containers - similar to Student Government's 'Our Shirt' concept, at a cost of only five dollars," Lovett said. "The team is also seeking corporate sponsors to help provide the reusable bottles to USF students."

SIFE is a global organization active in over 1,500 colleges in 40 countries that promotes six key educational criteria: market economics, success skills, entrepreneurship, financial literacy, environmental sustainability, and business ethics. SIFE students implement programs that impact members of their communities. To assist SIFE at USF in its endeavors or for more information, contact Eric Rosenthal at (727) 560-3546. ECONOMY'S DECLINE RAISES IMPORTANCE FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND POLICY

TALLAHASSEE — What do a decline in value of the U.S. dollar and Brazil's economic growth mean for the future of Florida's economy? According to analysis by the Center for Competitive Florida at Florida TaxWatch, these factors, and others, are converging to make international trade - and the industries that supply the goods for export - an increasingly important consideration for policymakers concerned with Florida's economic wellbeing now and in the future.

The report, International Trade: A New Pillar of Florida's Economy?, begins by explaining that "Brazil's economic future is especially important to Florida because Brazil is Florida's largest international trade partner." The analysis considers the positive trajectory of Brazil's domestic economy, the relative strength of the U.S. dollar compared to Brazil's currency (the Real), and Florida's export statistics by country and by item exported to determine that international trade, with Brazil and others. These data emphasize that such trade is a vital part of Florida's economy and must be a consideration of policymakers.

The analysis continues by discussing how further decline in the value of the U.S. dollar relative to foreign currency can boost Florida's international trade; however, the decline in value can also jeopardize investment in Florida's industries. Florida industries such as the civilian aircraft industry, which make the goods that Florida exports, are vulnerable to the decline in value. Therefore, policymakers need to consider the importance of ensuring that Florida maintains a healthy climate for domestic and foreign investment, even if the declining value of the U.S. dollar acts as a discouragement for investment in Florida.

The analysis concludes: "In these regards, it is critically important that Florida and the U.S. provide healthy climates for domestic and foreign investment," because without such investments, vital industries in which Florida is well positioned for continued growth in international trade, such as civilian aircraft, cannot expand. "A lower value for the U.S. dollar may spur U.S. and Florida exports for some time; however, if the expected fall of the dollar ultimately reflects less favorable long-term growth opportunities in the U.S., then investment and export growth will shrink and Florida could then lose another pillar of its economy."

Tampa Transportation Department reaches out to the community

TAMPA - As a way to offer citizens an opportunity to engage in an open conversation on all aspects of regional mobility and to encourage a friendly dialogue regarding all issues related to the Tampa Bay region's transportation future, the Tampa Bay Area Regional Transportation Authority (TBARTA) has created "The Transportation Lounge," a source for news and conversation regarding transportation in the greater Tampa Bay area.

The Transportation Lounge (www.transportationlounge.com) website is just one component of TBARTA's online public outreach and input gathering process. It offers residents a "one-stop shop" for an online dialogue related to anything transportation-related. Additionally, the Community Forum of the Lounge serves as an open community forum for regional transportation discussions and conversations.

"As the regional voice of transportation in the Tampa Bay area, TBARTA has made a concerted effort to ensure that the voice of the public is heard and recognized throughout the entire Master Planning process," said Bob Clifford, Executive Director of TBARTA. "Over 40,000 people contributed their opinions and ideas to the Regional Transportation Master Plan that was approved earlier this year, and this Transportation Lounge allows TBARTA to continue to hear and receive this important feedback from citizens as we continue with the next steps in building regional consensus on transportation in Tampa Bay."

While the Transportation Lounge is a service of TBARTA, the users of the website will have the freedom to discuss whatever transportation-related topics they choose. Users may comment on existing topics in the community forum or create a new thread for others to comment on.

The opinions and statements expressed on the Transportation Lounge website may or may not represent the views or opinions of the Tampa Bay Area Regional Transportation Authority (TBARTA). TBARTA is not responsible for views or opinions that are expressed on the site. In accordance with Florida's Public Records Act, all postings will be retained as public records.

The Tampa Bay Area Regional Transportation Authority was created by the Florida Legislature in 2007 to plan and develop a multimodal transportation system that will connect the seven counties of the Tampa Bay region. The legislature mandated that TBARTA must create a Regional Transportation Master Plan for the Tampa Bay region by July 2009. TBARTA adopted this plan in May 2009. The goal of the Master Plan is to engage the public in developing a vision for regional integration of transportation systems and foster partnerships with government agencies and business entities.

Cat of the Week Clementine

Clementine is a lovely kitty with big green eyes and a white neck. She is so soft and silky and just loves to be petted and talked to. And please scratch under her chin too. She is very friendly and easy to get along with. She is happy and gentle and would be a wonderful lap cat. Her favorite toy is a cat fishing pole. But she would prefer to be with just humans, no other pets, please. She really has a lot of love to give. Stop by and see darlin' Clementine at SPCA Tampa Bay, 9099 130th Ave N in Largo, or call 727-586-3591.

All Children's Hospital Ribbon Cutting Ceremony this Saturday

ST. PETERSBURG - While the doors don't officially open for patient care until December 12, All Children's Hospital will have a ribbon cutting ceremony this Saturday at 11 a.m, featuring Mayor Rick Baker as Master of Ceremonies.

After the ribbon cutting, hospital officials will have self-guided tours and family activities from noon to 5 p.m. The entertainment ranges from Mount Zion Drumline to exhibits from Great Exploration Children's Museum and the YMCA.

This 10-story, $403 million facility will officially open on December 12. This is when patients will be moved.

Internet becomes remedy for tobacco addiction

BY CATHY KEEN
 UF NEWS BUREAU

GAINESVILLE — The Internet may soon join nicotine chewing gum, the patch and behavioral counseling as a remedy for tobacco addiction, says a University of Florida researcher who participated in a study of rural residents using their computers to kick the habit.

Remote residents were chosen as subjects because they live far from clinical services that have helped many of their urban counterparts to quit smoking, said Jesse Dallery, a UF psychologist and one of the study's authors.

"People who live away from cities face special challenges in kicking the habit because they are served by fewer clinics offering smoking cessation programs and they usually lack public transportation," he said. "Capitalizing on the reach of the Internet is one way to help these otherwise inaccessible smokers."

People who tried the virtual program were able to refrain from smoking at more than twice the rate of another group who did not use it over an initial six-week period, although abstinence levels for both groups later dropped, Dallery said. The study, led by researchers in Kentucky, is published in the November issue of the journal Drug and Alcohol Dependence.

"We have developed an innovative, novel and effective abstinence-based behavioral therapy where smokers are routinely monitored using the Internet," he said. "To the best of our knowledge, this is the first randomized controlled study to demonstrate that participating in an abstinence-based program over the Internet can help people to stop smoking."

Cigarette smoking is most prevalent in rural areas, where it increased to 30 percent in 2006 from 23 percent in 2005, Dallery said. In rural Appalachia, where the study was done, smoking rates were as high as 34 percent in 2007, compared with 20 percent for the United States as a whole, he said. Statistics released last week by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for 2008 show that cigarette smoking rose slightly for the first time in nearly 15 years to a little under 21 percent.

"Because people who live in rural areas smoke at disproportionate rates and have difficulty getting access to health care, their rates of disease are much higher," Dallery said. Among the highest incidences of cancer, cardiovascular disease and other smoking-related illnesses are recorded in rural Appalachia, he said.

The study compared two groups of rural Appalachian Kentucky residents who participated in a smoking cessation program. Both received counseling and medical information about the hazards of smoking, but only one group was randomly assigned to an Internet-based monitoring system that targeted reductions in their carbon monoxide levels throughout the testing period.

A carbon monoxide monitor and Web camera was attached to each participant's personal computer, and participants logged on to a Web site to provide carbon monoxide samples and receive immediate feedback, he said.

"The intervention is ideal for rural residents because it minimizes the need for twice daily visits to a clinic to collect breath samples that traditional abstinence programs require, and participants need only have a computer with Internet access," he said.

Although fewer rural residents have access to the Internet than their city counterparts, that gap is narrowing with the increase of global Internet access by more than 300 percent between 2000 and 2008, Dallery said. Kentucky, a largely rural state, leads the nation in broadband expansion, he said.

The 35 smokers who participated in the Internet-based program were much more likely to have abstained at the end of each week of the initial six-week monitoring period than the 33 smokers who received only counseling and medical information, the study found.

At the end of the first week, 30 percent of the Internet group had been smoke free compared with 18 percent of the control group, and by the end of the sixth week the gap had widened to 34 percent and 13 percent, he said.

Over a 12-week period, however, abstinence levels dropped to about 5 percent for Internet users and to zero percent for the control group, following a pattern of decline found in other smoking cessation programs, Dallery said.

"One of the problems with smoking is that it is such a long-term behavior," he said. "People have been doing it many times a day for thousands of days, and any frequently practiced behavior is really hard to give up."

Perhaps the Internet can be harnessed in new ways to help maintain smokers' initial gains smokers, such as tailoring it to those who would thrive with the social support of an on-line community, Dallery said. "One approach we're looking at is setting up a virtual group format that links smokers so they can set and share goals to quit together," he said.

St. Pete wedding company offers wedding for soldier and wife-to-be

ST. PETERSBURG - A St. Petersburg Beach wedding company has stepped in to help a local mother, Carol Howard, organize a dream wedding for her 18-year-old son who is being posted to Iraq next month.

Allen Wedding Company are giving a top-of-the-range romantic beach wedding ceremony next week to Zak Lewis and his fiancée, 23-year-old mother of four, Nicole Gordy from St Petersburg.

Sue Ashton, the English owner of the wedding company said: "My heart went out to Carol when she wrote to me and I heard her story.

"Carol is a student nurse, juggling her finances and was determined that somehow, before he left for Iraq she would give her soldier son the best send off she could. On top of that, her daughter Cassandra has only just returned from 13 months in Iraq and is now in Colorado training for a mission in Afghanistan, so Carol will soon have both her children in the war zones.

"Also, our British troops are serving side-by-side with the US forces in both Iraq and Afghanistan and in my own small way I just wanted to show my support for them and by helping Zak, I hope I'm doing that.

"I've organized a photographer and a videographer so he'll have lots of reminders of his wedding day when he's out in Iraq."

Carol who lives in Seminole said: "I was only just coming to terms with the fact that I would have both my kids in the Middle East when Zak announced that he wanted to get married before he leaves for Iraq. I just didn't know how I was going to contribute towards his wedding and I knew Zak couldn't afford much on his army pay. So, I just prayed and sent off a few letters. Sue responded and now Zak and Nicole are going to get a dream wedding."

The wedding will be held on Sirata Beach Resort at 5pm on Friday November 27. The package normally retails through us at around $2,500 and there was no way the mother of the soldier - or indeed the soldier and his wife-to-be could afford this amount.

12th Century Recipes come to Weedon Island Preserve

PINELLAS - What would you find to eat in prehistoric Pinellas County? If you were among the Native Americans sharing the Manasota culture in the Weedon Island area, you'd feast on fish and shellfish, along with terrestrial plants and animals found in nearby flatwoods and freshwater streams and ponds.

Discover the recipe for 12th century feasting in an intriguing program about food and daily life in a 12th century Manasota culture village on Tampa Bay with Life and Lunch in a 12th Century Florida Indian Village at Weedon Island Preserve Cultural and Natural History Center. Renowned author and Florida history expert "Mac" Perry (McVae) discusses early Florida plant foods and preparation, foods introduced from the Old World and the role of the village gatherer. Guests can share in a sampling of typical 12th century foods. This event is free and open to the public on Saturday, Nov. 28, from 2 to 3 p.m. Preregistration is required. Recommended ages: 6 and older.

Perry is an artist as well as author of eight books and over a thousand magazine and news articles on Florida landscapes and the prehistoric peoples of Florida. He holds three college degrees and is an avocational archaeologist active on the lecture circuit.

Managed by the Pinellas County Department of Environmental Management's Environmental Lands Division, Weedon Island Preserve protects more than 3,700 acres of natural ecosystems and is located at 1800 Weedon Drive N.E. in St. Petersburg. The preserve is open to the public seven days a week and offers many outdoor activities. In the preserve, the Cultural and Natural History Center welcomes visitors Thursdays thru Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The center features a permanent exhibit, Connecting People and Place, which is an art-inspired, hands-on educational approach to the area's history, ecology and people. The center also hosts a wide range of programs and events for people of all ages.

Ten horses that were exposed to EP in Texas and traveled into Florida before the outbreak was discovered have been located, tested and quarantined. Five of those horses have tested positive for the organism. The State Veterinarian's Office is working with the owners to test all horses exposed in Florida and to minimize the risk to other horses in the state. So far no horses that were exposed to horses imported from Texas have tested positive.

However, Dr. Shorts says that "there have been reports that horses exported from Texas as far back as 2007 have tested positive for the disease. This puts the spread of this disease as far back as 2 years."

Most of the cases seem to be coming from horses in only some parts of Texas, close to the Mexican border, where it's possible these ticks migrated from to begin with.

One of the main concerns, besides the horses that were taken out of Texas in the last two years, is the effect that this bug could have on the cattle population. The Cattle Fever Tick does not appear to be the same bug and there is no evidence to suggest that the ticks will transmit between horses and cattle.

Because some states have placed import restrictions on all states with positive horses, the Florida State Veterinarian's Office recommends that anyone traveling out of state with their horse to call the state of destination to ensure there are no additional requirements enacted associated with this outbreak.

The American Veterinary Medical Association published a background article in August 2006 states the following.

Equine piroplasmiasis (EP) is caused by the protozoan parasites Theileria equi.

EP affects horses, donkeys, mules, and zebras. The wild zebra population is an important reservoir for the disease in Africa.

The causative organisms are endemic in 90% of the world, with only Canada, the United States, Australia, Japan, England, and Ireland not considered endemically affected.

An EP epidemic occurred in Florida in the 1960s following importation of infected horses from Cuba. Approximately 20% of horses on the Brighton Indian Reservation died from EP. After an aggressive eradication and tick control campaign, the United States was again considered free of the disease in 1982.

USF GETS FAST

TAMPA - The University of South Florida track and field team will get a little quicker in 2010 thanks to a pair of speedsters added to an already stocked lineup for the Bulls.

The men's team returns all four performers who led the team to a second-place finish at the league championships in the 4x100 relay and the top runners in the 100, 200 and 400 meters, while adding two highly-touted recruits who had some of the fastest times in the nation as seniors.

The women also brought in several recruits to give the Bulls depth in the sprints and relays, including three athletes who have been members of state championship relay teams.

Seniors Greg Fontus, D'Andre Ruff and Josh Wimbley all are back for their last season with the Bulls and all were BIG EAST qualifiers in the various sprints, including Ruff and Fontus in the 4x100 relay that earned second place at the conference championships.

Fontus had the fastest times in the 100 and 200 meters in 10.62 and 21.22, respectively, finishing sixth in the 100 and eighth in the 200 at the league meet. Fontus ranks third all-time at USF in both the 100 and 200.

Ruff, meanwhile, ranks fourth in the 100 and fifth in the 200 in the Bulls' all-time records and competed in both events at the BIG EAST Championships. Ruff and Fontus join senior Armante Marshall and junior Kendale McDaniel in returning to make a run at the BIG EAST title in the 4x100 after grabbing the silver in 41.27 at the 2009 meet.

Wimbley is back after leading USF in the 400 meters as a junior, while also competing in the 200 and the 4x400 relay. Wimbley owns the second-fastest time ever in the 200 and the third-best mark in the 400 in USF annals and took ninth in the 400 last season at the BIG EAST meet.

Sophomore David Aristil will also provide depth at the 400 and will join Mikail Ebanks and Wimbley to get back to the BIG EAST meet in the 4x400 relay after taking seventh last season along with departed senior Carlan Arthur. Aristil owns the sixth-best mark in the 400 and is also an NCAA Regional qualifier in the 400 hurdles.

Sophomore Reshaw Exilien provides even more depth in the 400 and will look to move up the all-time charts from his current spot of ninth.

USF's returning talent will be boosted by the addition of freshmen Lindsey Lamar and Derrick Hopkins. Both were heavily recruited for track coming out of high school and are members of the USF football team.

Former USF basketball player signs with NBA Development League's Springfield Armor

TAMPA - Former University of South Florida men's basketball player Kentrell Gransberry signed with the NBA Development League's Springfield Armor recently, and will begin his second season in the league.

Gransberry spent last season with the Colorado 14ers, averaging 5.2 points and 4.6 rebounds per game during his first professional season in the United States.

The Springfield Armor, who start their season on Nov. 27, are coached by former Celtics guard Dee Brown.

A two-time All-BIG EAST performer, including first-team honors in 2008, Gransberry averaged 15.8 points per game in his two seasons with the Bulls and owns the USF record for rebounding average with 11.1. He also ranks tied for sixth in career scoring.

Gransberry, who played from 2006-08 with USF, also

Seniors Greg Fontus and D'Andre Ruff

Hopkins won the Florida state title in the 200 meters for the second-straight season after posting a time of 20.97, the nation's fastest time among high school athletes in 2009, while also winning the title in the 100. He was also a member of the 4x100 relay that won the state championship three years in a row.

Lamar finished fourth at the state meet in the 200 in 2008 and captured Region 3 titles in the 100, 200 and 400 before pulling out of the state meet due to injury.

The women will rely upon youth in 2010 in the sprints and relays, as the Bulls lost their only BIG EAST qualifier in the sprints in departed senior Vanetta Randle, who participated in the conference championships in the 100 meters.

USF needed depth in the 100, 200 and 400 on the women's side, and depth is what they found with the freshman class.

Twin sisters Rebecca and Rachel James will give an immediate boost to the relays after winning the Florida state title as juniors in 2008 in the 4x400. Rachel James helped Boyd Anderson High capture the title again in 2009.

Tralanda Todd was a member of her high school's 4x100 relay squad that won back-to-back Florida state titles in 2008 and '09. She also competed at the National Junior Olympic Track and Field Championships in the 4x100 in 2009.

After not competing last year following her transfer from junior college, junior Cinnamon Jenkins has come on strong and will be an invaluable contributor for USF as the Bulls get things settled early on the women's side. Freshmen Miriam Skipper and Ena Johnson bring an explosiveness to the sprints and will be counted on to give USF a boost in the relays as well.

Dariel Jackson will compete in both the 100 and 200 for USF, finishing sixth in the 100 at the Florida state meet last season while also competing in the preliminaries in the 200.

owns the second-most rebounds in a season after totaling 325 his senior year.

USF Women's Basketball lose on the road

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. - The University of South Florida women's basketball team hit the road for the first time during the 2009-10 season and looked to get its second consecutive win. Unfortunately for the Bulls, things didn't quite turn out as they had hoped as Wake Forest handed USF a 62-45 loss at the Lawrence Joel Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Wake Forest (2-0) took control early scoring the first 24 points of the game before USF got on the board on a three-pointer by Janae Stokes with eight minutes left in the first half.

The Bulls (1-2) would cut the lead to 16 points on another trey by Stokes with 17 seconds left before the break, however could not overcome 26.3 percent shooting from the field and 17 first half turnovers. USF would come out in the second half looking like it would make a run.

Jessica Lawson would score her second basket of the game just over a minute into the second half and then Stokes would get a lay-up by KaNeisha Saunders 20 seconds later to cut the lead to 12 points, 32-20.

The Demon Deacons, however, regained control going on an 18-6 run to get their lead back to 24 points, 50-26, equaling its biggest edge of the game when Courtney Morris scored back-to-back baskets on a short jumper and a steal and lay-up with 10:36 left in the contest.

The Bulls would not go away looking to make one last push to get back into the game. USF would try to take advantage of a 14-3 run, spearheaded by six points from Jessica Lawson and four points by Jasmine Wynne between the 10:40 mark to the 6:31 mark of the second half, to cut the lead to 13, 53-40, however, it could not get any closer.

Lawson and Stokes would lead the way for the Bulls with 13 points apiece. Lawson added 13 rebounds for her second double-double in the last three games and the 13th of her career.

Lawson was 5-9 from the field and 3-3 from the free throw line, while Stokes was 5-13 from the floor in the loss.

The Bulls will return to Tampa and prepare for their third home game in their first four outings when they face in-state foe North Florida on Nov. 21 at 7 p.m.

RECIPE of the Week

Classic Baked Corn Pudding

Prep Time: 20 min
Total Time: 1 hour 35 min
Makes: 16 servings (1/2 cup each)

INGREDIENTS

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 small onion, chopped (1/4 cup)
- 1/2 cup Gold Medal® all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 4 cups milk (1 quart)
- 6 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (8 oz)
- 2 bags (12 oz) Green Giant® Valley Fresh Steamers™ Niblets® frozen corn, thawed, drained
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley or 2 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 3/4 cup Progresso® plain bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

DIRECTIONS

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Spray 13x9-inch (3-quart) glass baking dish or 3-quart casserole with cooking spray.
2. In 4-quart Dutch oven, melt 1/2 cup butter over medium heat. Add onion; cook 3 to 4 minutes, stirring frequently, until tender. Stir in flour, salt and pepper until well blended. Stir in milk. Cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly, until thickened. Gradually stir in eggs and cheese. Stir in corn and parsley. Pour into baking dish.

3. In small bowl, mix bread crumbs and 3 tablespoons melted butter; sprinkle over corn mixture.
4. Bake uncovered 55 to 65 minutes or until mixture is set and knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before serving.

Substitution:

You can use three 15.25-ounce cans of Green Giant® whole kernel corn, drained, instead of the frozen corn.
