DELAND AS SEEN BY STRANGERS.

as not your ear will catch a snatch of "ragtime;" at DeLand classic strains are heard; at Daytona club houses they speculate on who will capture the Dewar trophy; in DeLand they quote excerpts from Paul's letter to the Ephesians. Here a young Romeo might say: "Jeannette, I'm dying to sample the nectar of your lips," or, "Elizabeth, why put this thing off longer; let's go to the parson?" In DeLand it would be, "My dear Miss Judithea, for a fortnight or more a matter of the gravest import has absorbed my meditations and stirred the profoundest depths of my being; it is with emotions unfathomable—" here Judithea interrupts with, "Dr. Waldo, I perceive the purport of your importunation: for this once desist, and reveal yourself to me less abruptly at some future period."

If the reader has followed to this paragraph and hasn't smiled he needs a period to make him smile, and here it is.

Cruel Spring.

The talk in the village hostelry had been on the subject of vegetable freaks, but at length it veered round to goats.

"Did ever you keep a goat, Bill?" inquired a gray whiskered gentleman in a corner seat.

"Did I ever!" answered the little man addressed with rustic familiarity. "I bought one last Christmas what nearly brought me to the work'us. Eat anythi'g, from tins o' blackin' to flatirons, that goat would. Lucky thing for me the spring killed it."

"I didn't know the seasons affected goats," observed the gray whiskered gentleman.

"Who's talkin' about seasons?" came the reply. "It was the spring of our alarm clock what 'e made a meal of one day as done it!"—London Express.

Balm For Fat Men.

Every picture of the devil in human form represents him as very tall, very slender and elegantly dressed. The fat men need all the comfort they can get and may find some in this.—Atchison Globe.

Appreciated the Beautiful.

That it is not always well to put on one's dowdiest garments when one goes to visit the poor is the moral of a story told in an English magazine recently. There were two philanthropists, according to the tale, one a professional and the other an amateur. The professional had arranged to take the amateur to a gathering of slum dwellers in the east end of London. At the appointed hour the amateur, who happens to be a duchess and a great beauty, appeared at the house of her friend, a dazzling apparition in court dress, tiara and jewels. "Oh, my dear," gasped the professional, falling helplessly into the nearest chair, "don't you know that we are going to one of the lowest and most squalid slums? I can't promise that you will bring any of that back with you." But the beauty only laughed. "That's all right," she said. "I quite understand you. But poor people love beautiful things. Their children especially are captivated with fine dresses and feathers. Just wait and you will see!" And the professional did see. Those poor, half starved, half naked slum dwellers had eyes for no one but the dazzling young beauty who had done them the infinite honor of coming to see them in her most beautiful frock and jewels.

Got His Wish.

At the height of their nightly quarrel the other day Mrs. Blank choked back a sob and said reproachfully:

"I was reading one of your old letters today, James, and you said in it that you would rather live in endless torment with me than in bliss by yourself."

"Well, I got my wish," Blank growled.

The great Savannah Automobile races will be one of the pictures at the Crystal Theatre tomorrow, Saturday. Don't fail to see them.

John McGahie, of Brooklyn, came in from the South bridge last night at nine o'clock with a string of fine trout of two to three pounds each. He caught them with phantoms and reported the river alive with trout.

J. F. Williams and Lyle Lyman made an automobile trip to DeLand, Orlando and numerous other points, leaving Daytona Tuesday morning and returning Thursday morning. They spent Wednesday night in DeLand.

D. H. Rogers, of Alfred, N. Y., and Mrs. J. H. Van Duzer, also of New York, brother and sister of D. D. Rogers, are visiting that gentleman and his family on North Beach street. Mr. Rogers has not been in Daytona for twenty-five years.

Martin Dawson, of Ypsilante, Mich., is a guest of The Glenn, on North Beach street. Mr. Dawson, who is ex-mayor of Ypsilante and a prominent politician of that section of country, is south for the benefit of his health, and finds Daytona one of the prettiest places he has ever seen and a delightful climate in which to recuperate.
