EDITORIAL

he can with perfect legality be told, by the Secretary of State that he does not recognize the authority of the Senate of the State of Florida to order him to turn out two State departments for the accommodation of the Senate, but the Secretary of State being a polite man, will inform the Sergeant-at-Arms that he will provide committee rooms elsewhere for the Senate.

The Senate, thus being confronted with this state of affairs, may with the consent of the House pass a bill repealing the law placing the Capitol building in charge of the Secretary of State, and if it should take effect immediately, then the Railroad Commission and the Adjutant General would have to move, but this would necessitate the Senate holding a continual session, because if the Senate should assume charge of the Capitol building it would be obliged to be constantly at the State Capitol in order to look after the charge it had assumed.

No one can tell what the Senate may do, but until it does get the consent of the House and of the Governor, and repeal the present law, it cannot order the Secretary of State to assign rooms in the Capitol building at its pleasure.

years and to put it off twenty-four hours"——

"Will you pardon an interruption?" said the President.

The silence was followed by the remark by President Harris:

"I have a message from the Governor on this very subject."

Reference was thereby made by the special message which had been received some time previous but had not been given attention. The President, making apropos amends, asked pardon for the oversight.

(See this special message of Governor Broward in another column. This message, read by Secretary Finley, was spread on the minutes and 500 copies of the message were ordered printed.)

Three messages were received by the Senate from Governor N. B. Broward—the biennial message and two special messages.

Senator Humphreys came to the front by calling attention to the resolution passed at the last session that the rooms now occupied by the Railroad Commission and by the Department of the Adjutant General were still occupied by these state officials; that at last session, for lack of rooms, the various committees could not be found at times; that there were no logs conveniently near Tallahassee where the committees could sit and deliberate; and further that the attention of the Secretary of State had been called to this resolution, notice sent him and still no relief.

Senator E. M. Hudson, from Miami, arose to know:

"Where are these officials and their departments to go?" And then said that the Senate has turned down the bills which called for the very appropriation for the enlargement of the State House, which, if not turned down, would have been the solution of the whole matter.

Senator Hudson was of the expressed opinion that the committees of the Senate could sit easier, by far, on logs than cause the inconvenience of such important body, for instance, as the Railroad Combmission, whose great work should be assisted in every way instead of retarding it.

"There is no place to put them," he said, in conclusion, "and as long as we make no appropriation, I believe that we can neither deprive them of their offices, nor can we put them out.

Mr. Humphreys said Tallahassee is a good-sized city with a number of unoccupied buildings where offices could be rented for these two departments and bills rendered for the rent and as there had never been a failure to pay bills, there would be no question as to the payments if such a plan were adopted or such a move made. Mr. Humphrey's resolution was carried by a vote of 16 yeas and 10 nays.

The motion to pass suitable resolutions on the death of Senator N. R. Carter and Senator G. M. Lee was laid on the table, after Senator Cone had made the amendment that the name of the late Senator A. J. Winburn be included.

Adjournment was then taken until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

MESSAGE CONCERNING I. J FUND AND DRAINAGE.

A special message from Governor Broward was received by the Senate yesterday, and will be given to the House this morning, submitting the report of the Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund, which contains the minutes of the Trustees for 1905-06, together with the land sales and all cash transactions in building and operating dredges in the Everglades work.

The report of the State Auditor was also submitted, showing the audit of the accounts of the Trustees from the creation of the Board until January 1, 1907.

The message tells of the progress of the work and the plans thereto, the litigation that has occurred, and gives general information of the scope of the drainage project.
