How Kingfishers Perish.

Dreadful is the death of the stately kingfisher. A hard winter is his certain doom. Long observation seems to indicate the birds do not migrate, and from having to enter the water for their prey in winter their dripping feet quickly become incased in ice. As in hard weather it is only possible for them to alight either on snow or ice or in water, it is easy to see how the ice around their feet would quickly accumulate and bring about a lingering death.—London Globe.

A Stuttering Story.

A noted humorist tells a stuttering story: "It is about two blacksmiths, both stutterers. The first snatched a redhot lump of iron from the forge, rushed with it to the anvil and then began this conversation: 'N-n-now, th-th-then, st-strike quickly!' 'W-w-where shall I strike?' 'J-j-just at the end. H-h-hurry up!' 'Th-th-this end?' 'Yes, of c-c-course. Mind you hit s-s-straight.' 'All r-r-right. Shall I l-l-let her g-g-go?' 'N-n-no, you f-f-fool; the iron's c-c-cold.'"

Loss Fully Covered.

Adjuster—I've called to fix up that matter of your house burning down. Was the loss total? Heck Penn—Oh, th' house is plumb gone; but, young feller, ef I tuck a cent from yore company I'd feel like a thief. Mebbe you haven't heard that my wife tuck advantage o' th' excitement t' elope.—Puck.

Second thoughts are often best, even in a case of love at first sight.—Philadelphia Record.

None are secure from desperation, few from subtlety.—Byron.

WOODMEN MEETING TOMORROW EVENING

At Yonge's Hall tomorrow evening, the regular monthly meeting of Fort King Camp, W. O. W., will be held. Officers for the year will be installed, candidates initiated, the new pass word given, and other important business attended to. Let all members attend who can possibly do so.

SOME CORRECTIONS

To the list of officers of the Wood Fellows, as published yesterday, need to be made. The reason for the omissions was the incomplete list furnished us, and which we had not time to fill in. The corrected list is as follows:

The officers installed were J. F. Thompson, noble grand; P. V. Leavengood, vice grand; M. M. Little, secretary; J. H. Benjamin, treasurer; warden, W. E. Blanchard; conductor, E. C. Bennett; R. S. N. G., Marcus Frank; L. S. N. G., Geo. J. Blitch; inside guardian, L. F. Ballard; outside guardian, T. M. Proctor; R. S. V. G., R. O. Daniels; L. S. V. G., C. F. Hays; R. S. S., J. M. Fennell; L. S., T. W. Harris; chaplain, R. E. Yonge.

THE PAVING BRICK

Work of laying brick on the streets was discontinued Saturday, but the grading has been pushed. There was not quite enough brick on hand to pave another block. Two cars arrived last night and are being unloaded today and the work will be resumed again. There is a solid train load of twenty-five cars somewhere between here and Chattanooga, where the ney shipment came from, and will arrive shortly.

A SPECIAL MEETING

The city council will hold a special meeting Monday morning at 8 o'clock to canvass the returns of the recent city election.

A Wife in Bondage.

He is that rare and greatly to be admired person, a real live duke, and he holds sway over many workers. To give him his due, he is a good master, and for the most part his kindness is greatly appreciated by his retainers.

But Bob Willet is a laborer with democratic proclivities and marked distaste for work, and recently his ducal master determined that the one thing to do with Bob was to dismiss him, whereupon he did so, and Bob came to the conclusion that the time had now arrived when the pride of the peerage should be humbled. The difficulty was to think of something sufficiently biting, for the duke was a good master, as has been remarked. Then an inspiration flashed on Bob. The duke's duchess had been appointed a lady in waiting to the queen, and this was Bob's opportunity.

"All right, yer grace," he said, "I'll go, but I'll take heart to say this: Though I'm a poor man I've never had to send my missus out to service, and that's more'n some people can say."—London Chronicle.

Voting Terms.

"Ballot," as generally used, has wandered far from its original meaning of "little ball." Even "blackballing" is no longer necessarily literal. Language has several fossil relics of primitive methods of voting. Most famous is "ostracism," which perpetuates the memory of the "ostrakon," the potsherd or shell upon which the Athenian citizen voted for the banishment of a too prominent personage. Another instance is "spondulicks," the slang word for money. A "spondulicos," properly a vertebra of the spine, came to mean any round thing and in particular the voting pebble or its metal equivalent.

Custard.

Concerning custard, or "custad," as it was formerly called, it was a common joke at civic feasts in the olden time to place an enormous custard in the middle of the table, into which at some stage of the proceedings the clown unexpectedly jumped. Ben Jonson uses the term "custard leap jack" of one who "in tail of a sheriff's discharge" took "his almain leap into a custard" to "make my lady mayoress and her sisters laugh all their hoods over their shoulders."—Blackwood's Magazine.

No Answer.

Tommy—Pop, a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?
Tommy's Pop—So we are told, my son.
"Then if a man marries twice there isn't anything left of him, is there?"—London Telegraph.

Avarice says, "I will oppress the weak and devour the fruits of his labors, and I will say that it is fate that has so ordained."—Volney.
