IOWA STATE FAIR

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 21.—Iowa's annual state fair, the first big exhibition of its kind in the Middle West this year, opened yesterday. The exhibits are very complete and the prospects are good for a large attendance. Among the features of the fair are the following: Forty thousand dollars' cash premiums, $14,000 speed program, 100 carloads of exhibits, 1,250 exhibitors, 750 cattle, 600 horses, 3,000 hogs, 400 sheep, 200 racing horses, 3,000 chickens, 60 acres of machinery exhibits, 25,000 square feet of agricultural, horticultural and dairy exhibits, daily band concerts and a nightly $1,000 display of fireworks.

In connection with the fair the state department of agriculture has prepared an interesting summary of figures showing the values of Iowa farm lands and crops. The total acreage of the farm lands of the state is put at 32,228,109, with a valuation of $1,855,857,323. The crops of 1937 are valued at $389,500,705, with a live stock output of $240,826,266.

Such an exhibition in Florida would make us all sit up and take notice. President T. T. Munroe, of the Ocala Board of Trade, made application several weeks ago for reduced rates over the S. A. L. railway to attend the people's party convention in Ocala Aug. 27th, but S. C. Boylston, Jr., assistant general passenger agent of that road, said he was sorry but owing to previous arrangements he could not comply with the request.

Editor Frank Walpole, in the whole push of the Manatee Record, in estimating the orange and grapefruit crop this season, especially in his own section says the orange yield will not exceed five per cent of last season, but may fall under that amount, owing to atmospheric conditions. The grapefruit crop, which is about one-fifth of the whole, will exceed the crop of last season by thirty per cent. He predicts a price of $2 a box for the crop if judiciously handled.

Editor Harris, of the Ocala Banner, has announced in glowing headlines that he was appointed receiver of democratic campaign contributions for Marion county for the promotion of W. J. Bryan's election to the presidency, but we fail to see that enthusiasm of stepping up to the captain's desk that should prevail. We trust the awakening and response will come later.

Frank Brown, the hotel man at Silver Springs, was a victim in Judge Bell's court yesterday afternoon. It seems he had a deed to some land at the Springs and W. W. Spauld was occupying the land and he attempted to take possession of same, which caused Spauld to get out a warrant against Brown, which charged him with forcible entry, trespass and assault. He was convicted on the charge of trespass and fined $100 and costs, but sentence was suspended during good behavior. R. B. Bullock appeared for Spauld. Mrs. Brown accompanied her husband to town.

Among the Ocala people who attended the Shady barbecue and picnic yesterday were Misses Ernestine Brooks, Gertrude Batchelder, Mary Seymour, Genevieve Smith, Sue Anderson and Messrs. Roland Blitch, Tom Barnes and George Woods, R. O. Conner and family. The attendance was large and all attending enjoyed the day very much.

The Star is pleased to see that Dr. Porter C. Pillans, a recent graduate of the Chattanooga Medical College and a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pillans, of Electra, has located at Floral City for the practice of his profession and associated with Dr. Maynard, together will operate the Central Pharmacy at that point. The young doctor is a pleasant gentleman, well up in his profession and a bright and prosperous career is in store for him.

General Albert W. Gilchrist has left Florida for a summer visit with his mother, Mrs. James G. Gibbs, at her spacious home at Columbia, S. C. It is the desire of a number of Mrs. Gibbs' Florida friends to see her preside over the governor's mansion at Tallahassee. Mrs. Gibbs is a woman of much culture and many social graces, and would be a most welcome visitor.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

Mr. Valentine Boek of Heidtville try, finding work with Mr. Geo. Mackay.

Mr. William Deering, representing the Newark, (N. J.) Spring Mattress Co., with Carrie Minlano, who speaks for the Brunswick, (N. J.) Wall Paper Co., were among the festive knights of the grip who invaded the Brick City today and interviewed the merchants. The houses these gentlemen represent are the most extensive in the land. The wall paper company's output is over sixteen million rolls a year.

Mr. O. B. Newton of Winter Garden was a pleasant caller at the Star office yesterday. Mr. Newton is one of the legislative nominees of the democratic party in Orange county, and will make an intelligent and sensible legislator.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Timmons, of the Roller place southwest of town, are rejoicing over the visit of the stork which brought to their home a pretty 7-pound baby girl yesterday morning and brought additional sunshine to their hearts and domestic health.

There were twenty-four arrivals at the Ocala House yesterday.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT THE BLACK VULTURE

The black vulture being ubiquitous in Florida needs no long description. Everybody knows him and his kinsman the turkey vulture both masquerading under the false title of buzzard. It is in no spirit of eulogy that I write but rather in the spirit of Marc Antony I would come to bury if possible rather than praise. It is not my intention to make a personal attack on either the character or the personal appearance of the black vulture beyond saying that his looks would convict him in a court of skunks, before a jury of ghouls presided over by a polecat; that his odor would disqualify him from a seat in a convention of sewer gases and his habits would condemn him to the disgust of a committee of corpse-eating hyenas. The highest encomium that can be pronounced upon him would leave him a thousand degrees below a scavenger and the supreme exaltation to which he can be elevated would find him reeking with the odors of a decomposed cur. So it is not upon the vulture per se these remarks are made but against him as a carrier of germs producing diverse diseases. As a consumer of decomposed animals the vulture has found a protection of the law and under the title of public scavenger has sought unrebuked his filthy banquets. But in this age of microbe discoveries, when a glass of milk is looked upon with suspicion, a draught of water with distrust, a house fly with opprobrium and a mosquito with condemnation demanding a death penalty, it seems to me there is possibly some danger in the constant presence of the vulture. The vulture come sagging in from the putrid remains of a carcass and lighting on a chimney top, his nostrils dripping with the putrefaction exuding from his gorged maw and preening his wings that have flapped and fought with his kind over the recent mail, scatters the microbes in every direction and sometimes voiding in horrible vomitings his part of the feast down the chimney. Or with many others he comes to put his scaly claws so recently clutched the decayed remains of a cur or the hog caw down upon the roof of the house to while away the hours of digestion in malodorous contemplation and postprandial enjoyment. Of course, where people use rain water caught from the roof, a little thing like vultures roosting on the roof won't hurt. Again when the children are called in from recess the ground of the school yard is almost immediately covered with these vile birds fighting and flapping and spewing over the places where the children eat their lunch. Of course a napkin spread out on the ground wouldn't be in any danger of collecting a few choice microbes to be carefully folded up and carried home or possibly consumed by the child as the lunch left over from dinner is eaten in the afternoon or on the way home or perhaps eaten by the smaller children at home who go to the basket to find what Johnnie left from dinner. Slops cans and all manner of refuse becomes the natural food of the vultures and they can be found gathered around the garbage waiting to be carried off. There are a few vulture roosts in the city through a most commendable effort is being made to break them up. A wet day and huddled vultures sitting around on the trees and houses and the rain washing down germs and microbes from them to lie in damp places and breed after their kind is not a cheerful picture but one nevertheless constantly presenting itself to the good people of Ocala.

THE CUBAN ELECTION

In an interview in Havana Wednesday evening, Governor Magoon said: "There were 254,000 votes cast. Of this number 105,900 were polled by the conservatives, 95,530 by the Gomez liberals and the remainder by the Zayas liberals and a new independence party, which made its debut with a few thousand following. The conservatives elected twenty-nine mayors, while the Gomez liberals secured thirty-four mayors. The conservatives secured three governors, and the Gomez liberals two governors and the Zayas liberals one."

Commenting upon conditions in general on the island the governor declared them most satisfactory. "The people are prosperous," he averred. "The tobacco crop is the finest in eight years. There is an abundance of the leaf and its quality is far superior to that of previous years."

Relative to road building the provisional governor declared work progressing nicely and all Cuba heartily in favor of its continuance.

GEIGER'S LITTLE GRAFT

Worked at First but Eventually Landed Him Behind the Bars

Tampa, August 21.—Walter H. Geiger, a well known young man about town, has been arrested in Montreal, Canada, at the instance of Chief of Police Woodward, and an officer left last night for him. Geiger is wanted for securing illegally, it is alleged, $280 from the American National Bank.

Geiger had some money on deposit in the American National, and has been well known about Tampa for two years. He dropped in and out of town and had money always, and was looked upon as a pleasant young fellow, who, if he had no particular ambition, was at least harmless. He drew a certified check for his money, and in a day or two came back and declared to the bank officials that he had lost it, and secured a duplicate. He is alleged to have discounted both pieces of paper in Jacksonville, and made away with the amounts. In issuing him the duplicate piece of paper the bank officials simply acted on the usual business rule in the matter, as he was by no means a stranger to them.

JILTED AT THE ALTAR

Sedalia, Mo., August 21.—Miss Mollie Metersbaugh, nineteen years of age, balked at the altar last evening. She came here from her home at Florence, Morgan county, to be married to John Gilmore, twenty-four years of age, a merchant of Beaman, near here.

The guests had assembled at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Kehl, and all was in readiness for the ceremony, which was to be performed by A. H. Allen, a justice of the peace, when the bride broke from the side of her prospective husband and ran from the house, exclaiming: "I won't be married by that man and only halfway married." The guests started in pursuit of the young woman. She was not found until four hours later. She was in the Delmar Hotel, sleeping soundly. All efforts to induce Miss Metersbaugh to reconsider were vain and she returned to her home at Florence.

William Klein of Pittsburg Will Run a Race for the Hand of Sweet Marie

Pittsburg, August 21.—William N. Klein, who is forty, loves Marie Lictus, eighteen, and Mary coyly confessed to him yesterday that she loved him. Yesterday Klein waited on her father, W. T. Lictus, who is his own age and asked for Marie's hand in marriage.

"You!" exclaimed Lictus contemptuously: "you're too old."

"Old! Why, I feel young enough to be your grandson, you antediluvian," retorted Klein. "I can beat you, you fossil, at anything you name." Both are members of the American Mechanics; they agreed to run a race of 200 yards at the Mechanics' picnic at Kenwood Park next week. If Klein wins he wins Marie for his wife; if he loses the race he must not visit her again. Marie, who rides a bicycle, is going to train Klein and set a pace for him, beginning today.

CARUSO EASILY CONSOLED

Eminent Singer Wastes No Regrets Over Losing His Wife

London, Aug. 21.—Enrico Caruso, the tenor, is nothing if not a philosopher. When asked about the elopement of his wife, he shrugged his shoulders and suggested that it was the thing he desired.

"But it was not an elopement really," he said. "Life with her was impossible. I told her so several weeks ago. I expected my wife to be a woman who can sympathize with me, a woman of ability, understanding and appreciation."

The tenor intimated that his wife did not possess such qualities.

"A month ago in Italy," went on Caruso, "I told her she had fallen below my expectations and bade her begone."

Signora Caruso took her husband at his word and went away. She met in France an Italian whom Caruso called "a low down fellow" and "no artist," and a man "whose name the world did not know."

"What matters all this to me," asked the singer, "I am not to blame. My friends may be sure there is no stain upon my character. Nothing immoral can be laid at my door. The woman did not come up to my standard, and I have no regrets that she has gone away with somebody on her own level."

Caruso seemed much more exercised in mind and upset by the experiences he had while motoring than by his martial troubles. In coming to London from Eastbourne the car broke down and a long time was spent in making repairs. After these were completed and a fresh start made, the motor came to grief the second time and Caruso had to walk six miles.

ROBINSON DIED ALONE

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 21.—The decomposed body of William E. Robinson, commercial agent at this place for the Atlantic Coast Line, and well known among railroad men of the South, was found yesterday partly undressed on the bed at his home, 159 East Terrace. By his side was a Bible, as though he had dropped it when death overtook him.

Mr. Robinson came here from Atlanta, where he was connected with the Coast Line. Inquiry at his office in the James building elicited the fact that he had not been seen by any of his acquaintances or assistants since last Friday and they were under the impression that he was out of the city. He was complaining of feeling ill the last time he was seen by his friends and it is supposed his death was a natural one. Mr. Robinson's family is in Orlando, Fla. His widow will arrive here today.
