FARMERS' UNION MEETING

The Farmers' Union will meet in Ocala on the 1st day of October, and the place of meeting will be the court house. This meeting will not only include the members of farmers' unions of Marion, but half a dozen other counties contingent to Marion will participate.

OLESON-GUSTAFSON

This office is in receipt of a wedding invitation which announces the marriage September 19th at Martins-town, N. Y., of Mr. Peter James Oleson and Miss Amanda Christine Gustafson. The groom is a well known and highly respected citizen of South Lake Weir. The bride is evidently a stranger to our state, at least we have not the pleasure of her acquaintance, but pin our faith on the good taste of the groom. The couple will be at home October 1st at the Pleasant Hills House, South Lake Weir. The Star extends its best wishes to the happy bride and groom-to-be.

Mr. L. S. Light, nominee for the legislature from Marion and residing at Reddick, was in town Tuesday, his first visit since the strenuous second primary. He said he had been very busy looking after his farm work and making hay, of which a very large quantity has been harvested. He said within a radius of five miles of Reddick he was confident 500 tons of hay had been cured. That he also had been busy setting out cabbage plants, that the spring crop had been a failure in price and he hoped to recoup in the fall planting. Mr. Light had a confidential talk with Mr. Carn, who is the other legislative nominee, on matters of state and by working together expect to accomplish legislation of benefit to Marion county and the state of Florida.

Mr. J. E. Spencer, with the Meffert lime works at Zuber, was in town yesterday afternoon and paid his respects to the Star. He said business had been unusually good until the last few weeks, when trade slackened up. He said the Sumner Lumber Co. had about completed their tram road to the west and would shortly be in trim to get all the logs needed by the mill, which would again make the wheels hum.

Mr. Jake Brown and family returned this morning from their outing in Boston and New York. As all our readers know Jake is an enthusiast on baseball and so with his kids had to take in the game between the two contending teams for the National League pennant last Friday. 40,000 people got into the enclosure, ten thousand had to remain outside when the gate was closed. Jake paid seventy-five cents and sat on the ground. Seats bought up by speculators sold at high as $2. He said he never saw such a mob, but that it was certainly a great game.

Mr. W. D. Carn's office presented an animated appearance Monday morning as half a dozen bright misses who were on the collecting committee for the churches' deserving poor, made their report, turned in their money and received further instructions in the work. The young folks are doing a good work and so Mr. Carn, who is always interested in a worthy cause.

J. C. Howell, of Oak, was in town Tuesday and reported the sale of six of Mason Tison's broncos. Jim rode one to town and said it backed half of the way.

That the boys of the Orlando band would not feel discouraged, the city council came in its rescue and made up the deficiency in the amount contributed by the citizens of the town toward paying for the new instruments. The band is to play free on all occasions as a return for this financial help.

Mr. Norman E. Fort, who lives across the river, and has been suffering from an attack of dengue fever, is up again.

Dr. H. C. Mills, who sells medical preparations, visited Holder last week, where he keeps his horse and buggy. He got a colored driver and started off, when the horse took fright, made a sudden lurch and threw Dr. Mills out, the doctor landing on the shaft and his left leg became entangled in the single-tree. Knowing that if he did not get out of that fix the horse would kick him to death, he threw himself over the shaft and fell to the ground, the wheels passing over his back and side and breaking two ribs, spraining his back and badly bruising his left leg. He deemed himself lucky to get off as light as he did. The horse ran half a mile ere the driver regained control of him, but no damage was done the vehicle. The doctor returned home last night to lay up for repairs. He was out this morning, limping around with the aid of a crutch.

A good one comes from Cedar Hammock across the Oklawaha, to the effect that Peter Durison and Will Hogan went hunting and after getting a good mess of birds, proceeded to light their campfire and put the pot on to boil. While this process was going on the hunters, inspired to increase their menu, thought it a good scheme that while the birds were being cooked they would go out and add a squirrel or a rabbit to their bill of fare. They went; and when the hungry hunters returned to enjoy their evening repast, they found the pot empty. They are still wondering what became of those birds.

Mr. M. J. Lord, from Lord's station, near Sanford, came in last evening from Fort White and was the guest of Dr. H. C. Mills over night. Today Mr. Lord left for Anthony to visit his son, Rev. M. M. Lord, the Methodist minister, when he will return home. Mr. Lord is a Georgian, an old Confederate veteran, a good Methodist and a Mason. Mr. Lord said all we hear about Sandford's progress and prosperity is true. He said it was "the outgrowth town in the state. Mr. L. is a pleasant, genial gentleman, whose kindly smile and warm handshake have a tonic effect to a tired nature.

CONTRIBUTE YOUR CASH

If you should happen to read one or two of the sneers of the republican press at what it calls the poverty and greed of democrats you would make your contributions to the campaign fund instant. If you were to note the wonder expressed by northern members of the party why the southern subscriptions do not come in faster you would double it.—Tampa Times.

In the meanwhile Johnson discovered his loss, heard of the sale of his wife's clothes and recognized his own on the man and went with him to the woman to make the collection and when he was offered the money, Johnson nabbed him.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold A. J. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by all dealers.

COLORED ODD FELLOWS' DELEGATION RETURNS

The Florida delegation of nearly 100 members of colored Odd Fellows has returned from Atlantic City, N. J. Among this committee the following were elected to positions in the Grand Lodge of America: J. S. LaRoche, assistant secretary of the P. M. C., the most important committee of the national grand lodge; F. P. Gadson, Ocala, a member of the committee on the grand master's address; Robert Thomas and E. H. Mitchell, of Ocala, on the committee to inspect the grand lodge's home, which has just been completed in Philadelphia and is a magnificent five-story, $125,000 building; Geo. A. Sheehy, of Tampa, chairman of the committee on credentials; S. M. Dennis and A. M. Huskin, of Jacksonville, on committee to inspect grand lodge building, and George H. Mays, of Jacksonville, national representative for Florida. Frank Gadson says Florida got more representation than any of the other states, by far, despite the big delegations that went from other states.

The following editorials from two different Atlantic City daily papers will give an idea of how orderly the gathering was, and the impression made on that city by the colored people. A Great Colored Odd Fellows' Demonstration "Several thousand colored Odd Fellows attending the biennial convention of the order here, paraded in the afternoon and the demonstration, in numbers, in brilliancy and order was a credit to the race. Four or five thousand men were in line, together with a number of bands. There was evident desire on the part of the paraders and also the colored on-lookers who ran into ten thousand or more, to have the demonstration end without the slightest disorder. Every one of the race was on his or her good behavior, and the event passed off entertainingly and successfully. It was as well managed as any parade ever held in the resort."

Big Parade Marks Close of Meeting "One of the most orderly conventions that has ever been held in Atlantic City."

"This was the comment made yesterday on the big meeting of the fourteenth B. M. C. of the G. U. Order of Odd Fellows by Chief of Police Woodruff, who is enthused over the excellent order attending the monstrous convocation of colored folk from every state in the union. "The Odd Fellows practically owned the Million Dollar Pier last night. It was the scene of a spectacular dance such as has never been equalled before in this city. "The ball last night was only second in importance to the big street parade yesterday afternoon, which surprised residents with its size and perfect formation. The costumes were gorgeous and the drilling of the different lodges an interesting exhibition to thousands of spectators."

Robbers at Work Monday night thieves entered the home of Mrs. J. J. Pyles, corner of Watula and South Fourth streets, and took therefrom a gold watch and a handbag, the property of Miss Mattie Pyles. It was early in the evening when the robbery was committed, and the family was sitting on the front porch and it is presumed the thief entered from the rear. Tuesday morning a boy returned the watch case to Miss Mattie Pyles, who is cashier for McIver & McKay. The works were missing. The boy said he found the case near Caldwell's pond. At noon, Tuesday, Mr. James Pyles was returning home to dinner and as he passed Mr. Frank Harris' yard he discovered the handbag. It was fortunate for Miss Pyles, who, on returning home Monday night, removed the money from her purse and threw it into her trunk. When the theft was discovered shortly after it was perpetrated it created the wildest kind of excitement in the neighborhood as the disturbing news spread. Several ladies constituted themselves information bureau and as neighbors returned from the picture shows down town, they were appraised of the theft and immediately every one organized themselves into a Sherlock Holmes detective and if all the plans and devices suggested by the excited gray matter of said females could be detailed to Conan Doyle, he would write a detective story that would make his famous picturesque tales pale. That night there was not a nook or corner or section that was not examined ere retiring and there was not a lock or spring that secured doors and windows that was not turned on with a time limit attachment and for several hours up to midnight there was not a bark of a dog, the velvet treat of a cat, the scamper of a mouse, the flutter of a bird's wing or the tripping of a roach on the floor that was not instantly magnified into the presence in a house or room of a dardard robber, bent on spoil. It was a night to be remembered in that section, but it passed without any startling developments in the thief line.

Do not forget that DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills made. They are pleasant little pills that are easy to take and are prompt and gentle. We sell and recommend them. Sold by Anti-Monopoly Drugstore.

WEARING THE WRONG GLASS "May prove more injurious to your eyes than wearing none at all. Not every man who calls himself OCULIST OR OPTICIAN is competent to fit spectacles. I show you and explain to you why I am right, and guarantee results. DR. D. M. BONEY, Eyesight Specialist, Ocala, Fla. Office Hours: 8 to 12 a. m., and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. METROPOLITAN FASHIONS

BY MONS. GENE DE PONTAC. The very latest bulletins from Paris declare that the Directorate mode is dying—dying of ill-regulated advertisement and exaggeration—and though the Directorate revers and collar appear on almost all costumes of any degree of elaborateness, many of the new coats from the smartest designers show the short-waisted tendency only slightly and are built along straight, long, limp lines, of no particular period but our own. Quite frequently these coats are collarless and flatly trimmed; some are quite plain, others elaborately braided with soutache, or finished with buttons and buttonholes, real or simulated. Not only buttons, but cabochons, passementerie drops and cord ornaments are very smart.

In spite of the "advance information" that the new hats were to be small and close-fitting, those worn at the French watering-places this month—which is there the height of the season—are simply enormous—the drooping brims sometimes so wide that they touch the wearer's back. Satin, cloth, silk or velvet cover the brims, and the under side is usually of contrasting color. When the outside of the hat is of some rather vivid color, as the orange or peacock tones that are so numerous and beautiful this fall, the under side is faced with black. Huge velvet and silk roses form the trimming. Black and white is a favorite combination, and many of the black hats are trimmed with scarfs of white mousseline de soie and white feathers. While white silk hats are faced with black velvet and loaded with black feathers.

The adjustment of the veil has become a work of art—thanks to the tremendous size of the fashionable headgear. Some Parisiennes are wearing as many as three veils at a time—the dotted face veil, snugly fastened, and over the hat two long chiffon veils of different colors, one crossing behind, fastening under the chin and taking the place of the jabot, the other tying behind with long, floating ends.

Ottoman silk is a material once much used and unheard of for many years that makes its reappearance this fall, but, as in all these revivals, in a form hardly recognizable. It is far softer in finish and lighter in weight than formerly, and figures in some very handsome imported coats and skirt costumes. It also covers many modish hats.

The new soft-finished velvets are sure to play a large part in costumes for the coming season—in pastel shades for afternoon and evening costumes and in the grays and cedar and copper tints for street wear. There is no fabric that has so rich an appearance for the separate winter coat for the cloth or silk gown as velvet, and whole gowns of velvet, covered with braid, will be popular. The new velveteens, too, are stunning—generally figured in broken stripes, medium-sized checks, circles or lines.

Lace will play a very small part on the winter gown; braiding, embroidery and passementerie will be used in profusion. Many of the newest garnitures that may be bought separately in the shops—and that do wonders toward rejuvenating a somewhat passe frock—are of the plastron shape usually cut low and square in the neck, sleeveless or with tiny sleeve caps, and sometimes with girlish or twice around the body and fall in long, tasseled ends in front. These garnitures are of net, embroidered in soutache, silk, tinsel or beads—in beautiful variations of color and design. The trimmings designed for evening frocks are exquisitely embroidered in crystal, pearl or gold. Exceedingly effective stoles and little bolero jackets are also formed of embroidered flit.

The elbow sleeve fashion is absolutely defunct. On the street or afternoon gown, the sleeve reaches to the knuckles; in the evening gown it is a mere apology or absent altogether.

PRIVATE SCHOOL Miss Annie Bennett Savage of 231 North Third street, will open a private school in this city about the first of October. Parents who desire their children to attend will please notify her as soon as possible at the above address.
