CONSERVATION COMMISSION and COMMERCIAL CONGRESS

Important Meetings of Representative Men in Washington in December

Washington, Oct. 2.—The National Conservation Commission has received word that at least a thousand of the leading business men of the South will be present in Washington when the Commission holds its first full meeting here early in December. This information comes in a letter from G. Grosvenor Dawes, Secretary of the Montgomery, Ala., Commercial Club, who tells of a meeting of the representatives of numerous business associations in the Southern States, held in Atlanta. These men formed a working organization, and, after receiving assurances of support from commercial bodies all through the South issued a call for a Southern Commercial Congress. The time and place were set so that the members can be in Washington during the first meeting of the Conservation Commission on December 1, the Conference between the Commission and the Governors of the States or their representatives which follows, on December 8, and the meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress which will be held here during that time, in the proceedings of all of which the men who compose the Southern Commercial Congress are intensely interested from a business standpoint. The chief purpose of the Southerners in holding their big meeting is, in the words of one of the originators, "the providing of a fuller understanding by the people of the South of the gifts that nature has placed under their control." But, without discounting the vital importance of promoting the business interests of their section of the country, the promoters of this Congress in Washington say they hope that it will have an even deeper significance and bring about a closer union between the North and the South. "Of course the Congress has practical and commercial aspects," says one of these men, "but there lies in the minds of the originators an ethical purpose looking towards a fuller understanding and union between those who have for a generation suffered from misunderstandings and a seeming separation of interests."

Mr. Dawes in his letter suggests that the attainment of a fuller understanding between the South and other parts of the country would have its effect in bettering business conditions in the South also. He writes:

"The Southern Commercial Congress is also intended as a means of combating hindering prejudices that exist against the South in both Northern and Eastern States. We have felt that such prejudices are most easily removed by personal contact, and we shall therefore work to have present on December 7 and 8 a thousand or 1,500 leading business men of the South who will stay to participate in the deliberations of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and also be present to receive inspiration from the reports made to the National Conservation Commission."

Beyond all this we feel that the presence of our solid business men in meetings made up largely of solid business men of the North and East will act as a guarantee and pledge of business men's participation in further political affairs of the South and thus guarantee safety to investors."

Many of the men who are most active in organizing this Southern Commercial Congress have for a long time been preaching that the South should not only develop its agriculture to a higher degree of efficiency, but that it is time for the men of that part of the country to take more energetic measures to expand their manufacturing and business interests. They believe that the attendance of a large number of the most enterprising men of the Southern States at the Conference between the National Conservation Commission and the State Governors or their representatives will lead to a fuller realization of the immense natural resources of the South.

In this connection they cite a recent report by the Geological Survey which stated that there is a minimum of about 2,800,000 indicated horsepower developed by the rivers rising in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, half of which, at the very least, could be utilized for power. So far hardly enough has been developed to make an appreciable showing compared with the enormous possibilities. Full development of storage facilities in these river basins would increase the horsepower from 3 to 30 times, according to the experts. But taking the minimum of 1,400,000 horsepower, its rental at $20 per horsepower per year would amount to an annual return of $28,000,000. Water power is much cheaper than fuel power and will become more and more so as the available supply of fuel is depleted. This means that the demand for water power will increase. These Southern business men foresee a great manufacturing future for their section and are determined to instill their ideas into the minds of others. They point out also that the usefulness of these rivers can be increased not only for manufacturing, but for transportation. The improvement of the lumber business and of the allied industry of turpentine has also received much attention from them. In some States, they say there are very rich mineral deposits which might be worked with great profit.

CUBA'S ORANGE CROP

One-half million crates is the most recent estimate of this year's orange crop in Cuba—the largest in the history of the island. Until a few years ago thousands of crates of oranges were brought to Cuba from Florida and California every year, but for the last three seasons these shipments have become less, and will probably cease entirely within another year. Orange cultivation of a scientific scale did not begin in Cuba until about eight or nine years ago, and may be considered in its infancy, but is progressing rapidly, and even at this early stage is now in position to supply the local markets. The orange business on the island is controlled almost entirely by Americans. —New York Times.

REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS RAIDED

Letters Stolen from the Private Office of Chairman Hitchcock
New York, Oct. 2.—Deep mystery surrounds a robbery which was committed recently in the private office of Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman, in the republican national headquarters in the Metropolitan tower.

Letters of importance which had been placed in a private file for the national chairman were carried away, and with them some notes and memoranda which Mr. Hitchcock had made for his own use.

Following so closely after the charge that letters had been filched from the Standard Oil files to be used for campaign purposes, the raid on Mr. Hitchcock's mail raised the suggestion that some one had invaded republican headquarters to get campaign ammunition.

TORN UP TESTIMONY

Hysterical Action of a Young Woman on the Witness Stand in South Carolina

Laurens, S. C., Oct. 2.—In an effort to save her father, on trial here on the charge of the murder of her sweetheart, Miss Mary Garrison, while on the witness stand yesterday, tore up a letter of sympathy she is alleged to have written to the victim's mother and offered in evidence by the prosecution.

J. Henry Garrison killed J. Louis Williamson last July, and the former's defense is the "unwritten law."

Miss Garrison, who was the only witness, testified that on the night of the tragedy she and Williamson, to whom she was engaged, were in the parlor of her home, when her father appeared at a window and shot her fiancée. Williamson died three hours later.

The prosecuting attorney asked Miss Garrison to identify the letter she is said to have written after the shooting, and she promptly tore it into bits. Owing to her state of hysteria, she was not rebuked by the court.

On account of the prominence of the parties involved the case is attracting attention throughout the country.
