COX-WARTMANN

On a gentle knoll in the town of Citra surrounded by beautiful oaks of their own planting and adorned with shrubs and flowers and rare plants, rests the ideal home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Wartmann, in which occurred last night the greatest social event that has spread itself on the local pages of the "Citra City" of Marion county.

The ceremony was most impressive. The touching prayer not only made all heads bow, but every heart felt the injunction "what God has joined together let no man put asunder." The bride party was formed up-stairs and to the stirring notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march, splendidly played by Miss Byrd Wartmann, the bridal procession descended the sweeping stairway, led by Mr. and Mrs. Wartmann, parents of the bride, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Pike, parents of the groom, with Mr. Kyle Wartmann, uncle of the bride and Julien Tyson, whom Miss Byrd has just married.

Then followed the hearty congratulations from the guests, the bride and groom and their parents for a union that should be as lasting as time and crowned with the sweet essence of conjugal happiness and usefulness. Congratulations proffered, the well-wishers were conducted into the library, where they were received by Miss Byrd Wartmann, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar and Dr. and Mrs. Blackshear.

A dazzling display of wedding presents, both useful and ornamental, occupied for a time the attention of the guests, especially the ladies, who with their insight and appreciation of such lovely and royal favors, fairly bubbled over with bright and sparkling comments.

From the library the guests stepped out into the east piazza, where a punch bowl filled with delicious liquid was presided over with delicate grace and bewitching manners by Miss Mundy. Then came invitations into the tastefully decorated dining room where toothsome refreshments were served, consisting of salad, olives, crackers, salted almonds, mints, ice cream and cake. Miss Powell and Miss Tyson presided happily over the feast. The color scheme was white and yellow. After enjoying the feast social converse reigned up to midnight, during which time every possible subject from the event of the evening to which William would be the conqueror for president was discussed. It was an occasion of supreme delight, when everyone vied with everyone else to make the evening one of pleasure and everybody succeeded.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wartmann proved themselves splendid entertainers and moved easily and gracefully to every part of the rooms and engaged all in conversation, expressing the pleasure the presence of each guest gave them.

Mrs. Wartmann was beautiful attired in white silk, with appropriate trimmings and jewels and presented a strikingly lovely picture, with her head of superb white hair. The bride's gown empire cut, was mesalline satin embroidered in seed pearls and as she moved gracefully to the altar, with flowing dress and bridal veil, sparkling with orange blossoms, she was a vision of loveliness.

The maid of honor wore pale yellow satin mesalline, made empire with hand-embroidered trimmings. The matron of honor was gowned in white lace over crepe de chene, which was exceedingly becoming. The gentlemen of the bridal party wore conventional black.

Many of the lady guests were handsomely dressed and taking the tasteful costumes with their varied lights and shades and styles and the bright and smiling faces on every hand, the scene was indeed a lovely one, full of happy inspiration and one long to dwell in memory's hall.

The young folks in cutting the cake enjoyed themselves as only young folks can and happy smiles fairly bubbled over their bright faces as the results were made known. Mr. Kyle Wartmann drew the dime, Miss Griffin the ring, Miss Mundy the thimble and Dr. Blackshear the pin.

Each guest as they took their departure were presented with a piece of wedding cake encased in a lovely little box, tied with ribbon. As the midnight hour approached the guests took their departure with best wishes for all.

The marriage register in which every guest autographed, was a unique work of art, drawn by Miss Agnes Ocran of New York. On the page were words to the wedding gown and on the second page were the wings of cupid, hearts and bells. On the registration page were the appropriate words, "blessings on you."

Pike, Ocala; Miss Agnes S. Pike, West Palm Beach; Miss Kathleen E. Wycoff, Citra; A. C. White, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Griner, Citra; Mr. A. J. Douglass and wife, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. S. Ramey, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crosby, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bittinger, Ocala; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Malphurs, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Melton, Citra; Dr. S. J. Carswell and wife, Citra; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hagins, Citra; Mrs. Maud J. Harter, Sparr; Miss Ella Ervin, Ocala; Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Williams and granddaughter, Citra; Mr. Leonard M. Browning, Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. J. P. Moore, Citra; John S. Wycoff, Citra; Miss Jennie Mundy, Jacksonville; Miss Irma Blake, Ocala; J. N. Crutchfield, Virginia; George Reddick and Talmage DuPree, Reddick.

It was the desire of Miss Wartmann to be married in the Methodist church as her mother was married there, but unfortunately Miss Wartmann was taken suddenly ill Sunday morning and fainted and it looked for a time as if the wedding would have to be postponed. Both village physicians, Drs. Carswell and Conner, were absent, and Mr. E. H. Cox, the expectant groom, being a very competent pharmacist, was summoned and he prescribed for his fair patient, with the desired results, and last night if one had not known these facts, it would never have been suspected that the bride had recently passed through a critical experience.

Of the bride it need only be said she is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wartmann, a honor graduate of Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga., a fine musician and sweet singer who enhanced her musical talents by study and practice in Germany and known to every one of her friends in Citra as dear, good and sweet woman.

Of the groom we may say Ocala is especially proud, for he is a Citra City boy, a son of the late William Cox, one of Ocala's honored pioneer settlers. He is a young man who had an ambition to do and with a persistent determination to excel, prepared himself by hard study for the profession he follows—a pharmacist—having graduated with high honors from the department of pharmacy of the University of Pennsylvania and since has now diligently applied himself that he is now the proprietor of two well equipped and successfully conducted drug stores in the suburbs of Atlanta and by his strict integrity, high sense of manhood and proficiency in his calling has won a high place in the regard and esteem of the people with whom he has cast his lot.

THE OFFICIAL TICKET

The official ballot for the election on November 3rd will be a stunner and is so long that no press could print it in the usual single column form, so the ticket will have to be printed in two, instead of one column, as is customary. In addition to the usual ticket of all the different parties, there is a number of constitutional amendments to be voted on.

DAVID S. WOODROW REAL STATE AND INVESTMENTS

Rooms 27 and 28, Holder Block Ocala, Florida

The man who waits for a proven, producing proposition before investing will always pay every cent the stock is worth. It's the man who takes a chance on the ground floor that really gets the cream. Always investigate and act with due caution but you will lose out entirely and every time if you wait for a "cinch." Equal parts of nerve and common sense will be found a very palatable dose and a combination hard to beat.

If you want to buy a home in Ocala, I can offer you one of the very few places on the market on Oklawaha avenue.

Frontage is 96 feet and the lot runs back 480 feet. House is one story containing five rooms, kitchen and bathroom; city water, gas, electric light and modern plumbing; stable and servant's house in yard. Price, $2,300, half cash and balance spread over three years.

If you want to build a store building to rent I have a lot on Fort King avenue between the Pittman building and the new building just erected by Guerrant & Carmichael. Frontage is 43 feet by 110 feet deep. The building now on it is old but rents for enough to pay interest on the investment. Price is $850.

OAKRIDGE lots on the Shady Grove hard road and within the city limits can be bought for $75 to $90; 100 feet front by 125 feet deep; 10% cash and $1 per week. Free deed in case of death. No taxes to pay until 1909. Map and prices on application.

WOODMAR. This property is on the most beautiful lake in Florida, on a bluff which rises from 25 feet to 75 feet above the level of the lake. The A. C. L. railroad runs between the edge of the lake and the bluff. Four years ago when I platted this property and offered to sell lots I was laughed at by many and the word "fool" more than once dropped in connection with this property. Try and buy back for me the lots I have already sold and come and see me. I have raised the prices once and will raise again until another Mr. Flagler sees the beauties of the place and then he can have it if he will pay the price. The streets are all planned to shade trees and water works installed—good water too. Buy a lot now. You can buy on terms but you can't buy them at a discount. Map and prices on application.

ELLIS IS OBSTINATE Attorney General is Holding Up the Everglades Deal

That there is "many a slip 'twixt cup and lip" is no old adage for reiteration, and it is as truthful as old. Recently several interesting rumors have been afloat regarding immense sales of Everglades lands, but no sales of unusual magnitude has been concluded; that is, no definite official announcements of conclusion has been given out for publication, although there have been some decidedly big deals in the air, including that of 1,500,000 acres for as many dollars, mention of which was recently made in Metropolis.

At least one deal, however, seems to have "hung fire" on account of the attitude of Attorney General W. H. Ellis, who was in the city several days last week. The transfer of state property requires the signatures of all members of the Internal Improvement board, and it is understood that the attorney general refused to affix his signature to one deed for two reasons, the first being that he did not think the land claimed to be worth $20 per acre should be sold for one dollar per acre, and secondly, if the land was sold he insisted that a good share be given to the school fund, which is nearly a million dollars in arrears, because the last legislature, although liberal in the matter of making some appropriation for the school fund, the immense deal above referred to, the purchasers complete the drainage of the vast area of land, was received with pleasure by the Metropolis readers throughout the state, and it is hoped that it will be consummated. The sale of the lands would give the state a large amount of much-needed money, would guarantee the drainage of the Everglades by private capital, and would take the question out of politics and the courts, which in itself would cause the people to sigh with relief.—Metropolis.

A CHAMPION WITH THE AX Edward Moot of Vermont Cut and Stacked Five Cords of Wood In One Day

The Shah of Persia, during a recent visit to England, refused to become enthusiastic over a horse race or even to attend it. He said he knew very well that one horse could run faster than another, and it didn't make the least difference to him which horse it was. The recent Olympic games in London, which aroused great interest and some enthusiasm in various parts of the world, did hardly more than demonstrate that one man could run thirty-two miles in a shorter space of time than another man; that one man could throw a hammer further than another; that one man could jump higher than another, and so on through the list of exercises of brawn and endurance that are called "sports." But in the list there was not one gainful "every-day" occupation represented among the "sports." It seems that when an athlete exercises that any work with occupation and not play or amusement is not to be classed as a sport, wherefore the public is not interested in records for the diting rail-splitting, nailing on shingles, wheeling raw bricks to the kiln, and the like. That is why a recent wood-cutting contest against time in Vermont the other day attracted the attention of only those men who had a dispute among themselves as to how much wood could be cut and corded by an expert axman in a day. And yet it will be admitted that a contest of this kind is valuable, in that it sets a mark of earning capacity for the man who cuts cordwood for the support of his family.

Some weeks ago several gentlemen in Washington were discussing wood-chopping, when a Mr. Everts said he knew of a woodsman in Vermont who could fell, chop, split and stack five cords between suns. Another man, from Alabama (or maybe it was Georgia), doubted that any such record could be made. He said he knew something about cutting cordwood; that two cords was an average day's work, that three cords was exceptional, that four cords might possibly be accomplished by an expert, but he didn't believe the limit could be carried to five. He was willing to back his judgment and knowledge of wood-cutting with a wager. Mr. Everts accepted the wager, the other gentleman fell on one of the other and quite a neat purse was made up. The contest was held one day recently. It was witnessed by a railroad president, an assistant secretary of the United States treasury, one or two United States senators, several newspaper people and a few others. Edward Moot of Vermont was the chopper selected by Everts. He went into virgin bass woods near Windsor, Vt., at an early hour, accompanied by his witness, and with the first peep of the sun struck his first tree. When he had finished his five cords, from the stump of the woodpile, he had one hour and twenty-eight minutes to spare, with still half a cord on the ground ready to be stacked. He received $50 for finishing the wager for Mr. Everts. Moot is about forty-five years of age. He stopped chopping twenty minutes during the day to eat, and momentarily two or three times to take a swallow of brandy and milk. When he had finished he declared himself strong enough to go for another cord, which he said he would put up in the time left before sunset. Was not this performance quite as creditable to Edward Moot as if he had run a mile in two-fifths of a second less time than another man? We wonder if there are woodmen in Georgia who can do five cords or better in a day.—Savannah News.
