FLORIDA STATE FAIR

Will be Held in Tampa Feb. 3 to 27. Promises to be the Very Best Yet

The Fifth Annual State Fair will be held at Tampa, February 3 to 27. To hold the fair and to make it bigger and better than ever was the decision reached at a meeting of the stockholders of the Florida State Midwinter Fair Association, held at Tampa Monday. Insistent demands that have been made upon the association that the fair be not abandoned, by railroad and other enterprises interested in bringing visitors and settlers to Florida, as well as by private citizens throughout the state, made it clear to the association that it would not do to declare the next fair "off." At the meeting on Monday there was a partial reorganization and the following officers and directors were elected: T. J. L. Brown, president; Frank C. Bowyer, vice president; W. G. Brorein, treasurer; W. F. Stovall, secretary and general manager; and these gentlemen, with J. E. Crane and E. D. Johnson of Tampa, DeSoto Fitzgerald, Jacksonville, W. VanDuzer, Kissimmee, and W. R. Washburn, Fort Myers, compose the board of directors with Messrs. Bowyer, Brorein and Stovall as executive committee.

Sparkman & Carter were re-elected attorneys. The prospects for the fair indicate the largest and most complete fruit, agricultural, poultry, stock and industrial exhibits ever shown in the state. The race meeting will undoubtedly be the greatest ever held in the South, the closing of the big tracks and the fact that Florida is one of the few "open states" for racing, making the prospects for this feature unusually bright. Over three hundred horses have already been entered. The opening day of the fair will be marked by the presence of Governor Gilchrist and staff, and the governor will formally open the gates to the public. The second day of the fair, February 4, will be Bryan day, William Jennings Bryan having already accepted an invitation from President Broxin to spend several days in Tampa and to make an address. There will be other distinguished visitors. It is proposed to inaugurate at this fair a series of field days for the colleges and schools of the state. Only the best and highest class of amusements will be given space on the grounds. The executive committee has turned down an offer of $2,000 cash for the privilege of selling intoxicants on the grounds, and there will be no whisky or beer booths.

Much interest has been manifested throughout the state in the matter of the payment of the premiums won at the last fair. The non-payment has been the fault entirely of the state government, which has claimed that there has not been sufficient money in the general fund of the state treasury to pay the first installment of $1,500,000 of the appropriation of $30,000, made for this purpose by the last legislature. Efforts are now being made to obtain this money from the state, and meantime, the fair association is sending out certificates to all winners of cash prizes for the amounts due them. These certificates, can be converted into cash just as soon as the state makes the amount of the appropriation available. Diplomas are also being mailed to those to whom they were awarded at the last fair.

The new management of the fair believes that it will be enabled to make the best exposition of Florida's resources yet made at a state fair, and that it will succeed in bringing to Florida many more people than have attended either of the preceding fairs.

SMALLEST KING IN THE WORLD

When traveling through the Shan States I had the honor of being presented to the smallest king in the world, the Sawbwa, or Myo'sa, of Chentung. He stood, as nearly as I could judge, about four feet nine inches in his curly Burmese slippers, and was the quintessence of regal courtesy.

His "palace" was a thatched hut on stilts, close to the Salween river; he had several wives, who manifested great curiosity when they saw their lord in conversation with a white man and his retinue consisted of some four-and-twenty men, armed with the quaintest collection of old guns that ever came out of a rusty shop.

The little brown King held out a small, plump hand for me to shake. It was as soft as a woman's. He bade me welcome, with a smile the most genial I ever saw, and begged me to accept a cocoanut. I knew that it was court etiquette to offer a gift in return, and I was embarrassed to think that, traveling "light" as I was, I had nothing worthy of his acceptance. I suddenly bethought me of a cork-screw knife bearing the name of a well known brand of bottled beer, which had been given me as an advertisement in Calcutta a few months earlier.

This I presented to him with due ceremony, and he accepted it with unfeigned delight. All his army pressed around as I opened the blades, the corkscrew and the hoof pick, and the headman beat a gong vigorously at a signal from the King, apparently in token of the royal approval.—London Standard.

A WAR IN THE EAST

May Result Over China's Seizure of Macao, which has Belonged 400 Years to Portugal

Lisbon, Nov. 18.—Dispatches received here from Macao, China, state that the Chinese have occupied the colony, which is Portuguese territory, and that the situation is most serious. Chinese troops have seized the customs. Fighting is momentarily expected. The pretext advanced by China for her action in occupying this territory, is that when the Japanese steamer Tatsu was captured by the Chinese two miles off Macao, in order to avoid the responsibility of intervening, Portugal claimed that the seizure was in Chinese waters. This, according to the Chinese government, amounted to a renunciation of Portugal's sovereign rights in Macao.

At a cabinet meeting yesterday, it was decided to dispatch to the scenes of the trouble the cruisers Rainha, Dora, Amelia, Adamastor and Patria, and the gunboat Riollima.

A HUMAN MACHINE.

He Was Able to Correct a Language He Did Not Understand.

When Max Muller was preparing his edition of the Rigveda he had, so the story goes, an illustration of the instinctive wisdom of the compositor. In providing the manuscript for about 6,000 sheets of print the author naturally tripped from time to time. Whenever he did trip, there on his proof was the error queried in a careful hand. Surely, he thought, some unknown scholar in the university must be overlooking his proofs with kindly interest and making the corrections for him. Inquiry showed that this was not the fact. The corrections were the corrections of the man who set up the type. "Did this man, then, know Sanskrit?" Muller asked. Not a bit of it. Use and wont enabled him to detect the errors as a hungry child scents a cooking dinner. The discovery originated through his arm rather than from any intellectual doubt, and that arm was palsied!

This printer had sustained an accident, leaving him with an arm partly paralyzed, and as this made him slower with his setting his masters turned him on to Sanskrit, with which he had no previous acquaintance. He had to learn upward of 300 types for the work, but he learned them and accustomed himself to the work. Now, many of the letters in Sanskrit cannot follow each other, or, if they do, must be modified. In writing Muller sometimes forgot these modifications, but they were all marked on the proof. Muller was so interested that he sought out the printer to ask him how he was able to correct a language which he did not understand. The explanation was remarkable: "You see, sir, my arm gets into a regular swing from one compartment of types to another, and there are movements that never occur. So if I suddenly have to take up types which entail a new movement I feel it and put a query." What a dog's life the "au spelling," or Artemus Ward's, which is the same thing, would have caused that marvelous human machine!—St. James' Gazette.

THE BIRD CLOWN.

A Queer Kind of Fellow Is the Yellow Breasted Chat.

The oddities of the yellow breasted chat begin even with his classification. To think of a warbler the size of a Baltimore oriole, a warbler with a song like a mocking bird! Indeed, there is little about the chat that is not remarkable. He goes in for the weird and the spectacular. If Nature designed him to show what she could do in the way of the unusual and the eccentric, she had remarkable success.

This bird and not the catbird is the real "clown of the woods." Clown of the thicket would be more apt, for, like the catbird, he prefers the shrub and lower trees. A wild tangle of briars and vines is a favorite haunt. It is only the better to survey such a retreat that he mounts to the top of a tree. From his lofty perch he sings, to the amazement and bewilderment of the person that hears the song for the first time. More likely than not he will become invisible and silent upon the first attempt to approach him, remaining quiet and hidden till you move on again; then he chuckles loudly and scolds and spits and scoffs till you are out of sight and hearing.

No bird is so fearful of being seen or such a master of hide and seek. It is worse than useless to try to steal a march on him. He manages to be always on the wrong side of the next bush. If you should find his nest, which is a pretty little basket of straws and weed stalks lined with fine grasses and strips of soft bark or leaves placed a foot or more above the ground among tall weeds or bushes, the sitting bird steals away and is at once lost to sight. Take a peep at the white, red speckled eggs and then hide among the bushes as far away from the nest as you can while still keeping it in sight. You may have to wait for an hour and even make other trips to the spot, but this is the surest way to get a good look at this shy one.—St. Nicholas.
