MRS. J. W. SYLVESTER

An Estimable and Popular Lady Cut Off in the Prime of Life

The community was inexpressibly shocked this morning when the sad news went forth that Mrs. J. W. Sylvester was dead. She had been ill only ten days, and while she was very sick her friends did not suppose that it was serious, and her family did not realize that her condition was alarming, especially yesterday, when she seemed greatly improved.

Last evening she felt much better and part of the family went to prayer meeting. About 8 o'clock a change for the worse set in. Dr. E. Van Hood was sent for, but she grew rapidly worse and he did not leave her side till the end came. Mrs. Sylvester became unconscious soon after 9 o'clock and did not again become rational. Her fever mounted rapidly to 106½ degrees, and the physician notified the family that there was no hope. Death relieved her sufferings at 4 o'clock this morning.

The funeral services will be held at the Baptist church tomorrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and will be conducted by her pastor, Rev. L. B. Warren, and the remains will be laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Sylvester, nee Carrie B. Yeargin, was born at Oakland, Ill., thirty-seven years ago. She graduated from one of the colleges of that state, and at the age of eighteen, on November 7, 1884, was married to John W. Sylvester at Terre Haute, Ind. The young couple came immediately to Jacksonville, resided there for six months and came to Ocala, where they have lived ever since. A year after her marriage, her daughter, Leafy Norinne, was born, who, with her husband, survives her. Mrs. Sylvester also leaves a brother and her aged father and mother in Illinois, to whom the news of her death will be a sad blow and entirely unexpected, as they had not been notified of her illness. Her father, J. S. Yeargin, is editor of the Harrisburg (Ill.) Herald, and her brother, L. T. ("Nixie") Yeargin is editor of the Oakland (Ill.) Daily Ledger.

Mrs. Sylvester joined the Baptist church when she first came to Ocala, and for fourteen years sang leading soprano in the choir. She possessed a voice of great sweetness and power. During her entire married life she was an earnest and devoted church worker and her voice and many talents were freely given to the cause of church charity and the good of the community at large. She was a tireless worker in her church and choir and many a successful church or charity entertainment owed its success largely to her earnest exertions, and no good cause wanted for assistance where she could help. Mrs. Sylvester was a remarkably bright and talented woman, a brilliant conversationalist, and possessed a mind stored with useful knowledge. She had a wide circle of friends, who will miss her bright presence from among them. Many warm friends will sadly miss her and her place will be very hard to fill. The entire community extends its deepest sympathy to the heartbroken husband and the motherless daughter just entering woman's estate. May the kind Father who doeth all things well, who comforts the fatherless and the disconsolate, console them in their sorrow.

Dr. Tom Thompson, who has been visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Thompson, will leave tomorrow for Louisville, Ky., to renew and finish up his medical studies and come out next June a full fledged M. D. The young doctor has been highly honored by being chosen lecturer in his school of medicine as demonstrator of anatomy. While here he has been constant in his attendance with Dr. Van Hood in visiting Dr. Hood's patients and enlarging his fund of professional lore. A bright future awaits the young man.
