

A Man's Comfort

Is the best thing to insure his health. We carry a line of men's underwear that will keep the body warm but permit free circulation and keep the pores in healthy condition. They are the best fleecy-lined garments ever sold for $1.00 a suit. We have them in all sizes and in tan and blue.

SHAPELY AND PLEASING

You can't be too careful of health, and you require garments designed for comfort and style too. These fur coats and fur-trimmed jackets are carefully made of rich materials, and fit at every point, which insures shapeliness.

THE BEST STOCKINGS

For winter wear are those which will keep the feet warm and which don't pull or tear. They'll wear better and be a pleasure every cold day. We have them in solid colors, or in stripes, or other figures. The kind you will most like to wear, and the kind that will give you the most satisfaction.

A BANQUET OF HARMONY

The musical recital at the opera house last evening by William Worth Bailey, the wonderful blind violinist, and his able support, Edwin M. Shonert and Miss Elizabeth Northrop, was all that the most critical audience could desire. Prof. Shonert, the pianist, plays with an exquisite delicacy of touch that brings out every shade of expression in a most artistic and finished style, while his grandioso passages are strong and brilliant. His rendition of the second Rhapsodie by Liszt was especially fine. Miss Northrop's singing was delightful. She has one of the sweetest voices ever heard on the Ocala stage. It is a clear, liquid, true soprano. Her range is not remarkable, but what is far more pleasing, every note is clear and bird-like in its delicacy and sweetness. In her first number, "Aria—Lucia," she showed to fine advantage her perfect control of her voice and finished style, while her light, dainty encore rippled from her pretty lips like the flowing water in a brook. Her personality is charming and her stage manner perfect.

The "star," William Worth Bailey, is a musical prodigy. Blind from his birth, he has, by the gift of a wonderful talent and years of hard study, already reached an enviable position among the best violin players in America. His entire program was of the best music and his execution was brilliant, artistic and soulful. He was at his best in the second movement of the Concerto in E Minor, by Mendelssohn.

Altogether the concert was first class, a musical treat that the people of Ocala could not afford to miss.

There was a fair audience, but the merits of the entertainment demanded a packed house. We are sure that every one who attended and enjoyed it will unite in a vote of thanks to Manager Sylvester for bringing to our town artists of such ability. Mr. S. is certainly making an effort to raise the standard of entertainments for our people and should receive far better support than he does. The next time he brings a company and recommends it, we hope our best citizens will prove their appreciation of his work by turning out en masse to the entertainment.

MADE A BIG HIT

Ion Farris, an Ocala boy, who is practicing law in Jacksonville, won his spurs last week in Starke, where he was defending a man in a murder trial. He raised a point which had never before been raised in a tribunal in Florida. His argument was backed up by thirty-eight authorities and was purely a question of international law. He triumphed and his man was cleared. Friday he was called to Dade City on a $200 retainer fee, to defend a man, and Judge Wall complimented him very highly. Ion is sure of a very successful legal career and his Ocala friends will watch it with pleasure.

E. M. Howard, proprietor of the Ocala Steam Laundry, is enjoying a visit from his father and brother, of Champagne, Ill. They arrived Sunday and will remain in the city for some time.

THE SPIRIT OF PAINTING

Causes Big Demand for Spirits of Turpentine

Ocala has not experienced such a spirit of painting in several years. In some places whole rows of houses are being painted. The good work is spreading and there is a big demand for paint and the painters are just worked down. Let the good work go on.

A REMARKABLE SHOOTING

Dr. Van Hood this morning was passing a negro house on the Hugh Miller lot. A crowd of colored people were in front of the building. A shot was heard in the house and two negro children came running out, one bleeding. The doctor was called in professionally. He found John Henry Belford, son of Amanda and Henry Belford, shot through the shoulder blade, making a flesh and bone wound. The wound was serious, but not dangerous.

The strange freak connected with the shooting is that the boy's mother sent him into the house to get some snuff. He was accompanied by Israel Moseley. A self cocking pistol was lying in a drawer, with which the Moseley boy shot Belford. Both lads are only five years old and as the pistol was a hard one to fire, it seemed almost incredible that he had strength enough to pull the trigger. The pistol had been placed close to the wounded boy's side, as the fire scorched his clothes. The tragic incident created the greatest excitement in the crowd.

WILL LEAVE SATURDAY
