PILES

"I suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for twenty years. I ran across your CASCARETS in the town of Newell, Ia., and never found anything to equal them. To-day I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man."

MASTER ENGLISH BRANCHES

A vigorous movement is organized to secure greater attention, in public schools and academies, to primary English branches.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean not long since, in showing ineffectual results of "visualization," "physical culture" and fad instruction, gave in full a number of examination papers showing gross ignorance among the brightest pupils of the simplest principles of primary education.

Columbia College is now attacking applicants for advanced studies in this vulnerable point. The freshman and sophomores were recently put through a spelling exercise. The New York Tribune, in commenting on the same, says:

The spelling book is not commonly thought of as one of the instruments of higher education. The college student is himself thoroughly convinced that he is a man, and not infrequently his teachers and others accept his view of the case and assume with him the propriety of putting away childish studies, even if he cannot always be persuaded to put away childish sports and habits within the college precincts. Such treatment, however, is founded on the presumption that before entering college he has really mastered the childish subjects, that he can spell and punctuate correctly and write a reasonably good English sentence. As a matter of fact, however, he is frequently quite unable to do this, but enters college with a woefully defective primary training, goes on with higher studies without making up his preparatory shortcomings, is graduated perhaps with honors, and presents himself at a law office, bank, counting house or editorial room with all the pretensions of an educated man, but without the ability to write a presentable or a readable paragraph.

Critics of American college education have long recognized this. The Columbia students are probably not a whit behind the average of their student contemporaries, even if they are put back for a time to grammar school work. The otners ought to be, and one of the best things colleges could do would be to follow Columbia's example, force their students to a thorough knowledge of primary branches, and then for the future force the preparatory schools to send up candidates for admission whose writing and spelling will in truth warrant their putting aside those studies for more advanced work.

If Columbia University, even at the cost of sending its freshmen and sophomores to a spelling school, can set the fashion of compelling all college graduates to be thorough masters of primary English studies, it will have made one of the most needed advances in American education. College graduates would not be the sole beneficiaries, but the pupils in all our schools would share with them the advantages of better English training enforced as a preliminary to college matriculation.

SEVEN YEARS IN BED

"Will wonders ever cease?" inquire the friends of Mrs. L. Pease, of Lawrence, Kan. They knew she had been unable to leave her bed in seven years on account of kidney and liver trouble, nervous prostration and general debility; but, "Three bottles of Electric Bitters enabled me to walk," she writes, "and in three months I felt like a new person." Women suffering from Headache, Backache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells will find it a priceless blessing. Try it. Satisfaction is guaranteed by the Anti-Monopoly Drugstore. Only 50 cents.

WE BUILD THE LADDER

Heaven is not reached at a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to the summit round by round.

I count this thing to be grandly true,
That a noble deed is a step toward God,
Lifting the soul from the common sod
To a purer air and a broader view.

We rise by the things that are under feet,
By what we have mastered of greed and gain,
By the pride deposed and the passion slain,
And the vanquished hills that we hourly meet.

We hope, we aspire, we resolve, we trust,
When the morning calls us to life and light:
But our hearts grow weary, and ere the night
Our lives are trailing the sordid dust.

We hope, we aspire, we resolve, we pray,
And we think that we mount the air on wings,
Beyond the recall of sensual things,
While our feet still cling to the heavy clay.

Wings for the angels, but feet for the men,
We may borrow the wings to find the way,
We may hope and aspire and resolve and pray,
But our feet must rise or we will fall again.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown
From the weary earth to the sapphire walls;
But the dreams depart and the vision falls,
And the sleeper wakes on his pillow of stone.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to the summit round by round. —J. G. Holland.

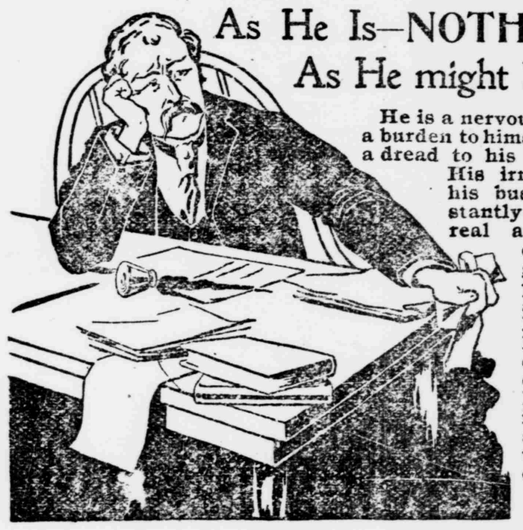
What is this Man Good For?



As He Is—NOTHING!
As He might be—MUCH!

He is a nervous wreck. His life is a burden to himself, and his presence a dread to his family and friends. His irritability is ruining his business, and his constantly increasing miseries, real and imaginary, are driving him into the grave. This unhappy man is only one of a million in America. If there were no relief for their condition they might indeed pray for death. But Nervousness and its morbid horrors are vanishing before the marvelous work of advanced science.

P. P. P.

(Lippman's Great Remedy) overcomes at once the acute symptoms of every form of Nervous Derangement, and soon makes the patient robust and ambitious. P. P. P. is the best combination of green roots and barks that was ever put together for the cure of Weakness, General Debility and Nervousness. It is a good tonic and the best Blood Purifier in the world. P. P. P. is Nature's specific for Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Malaria and all forms of Blood Poison and Scrofula, whether in adults or children.

● P. P. P. is sold by all druggists—$1 a bottle; six bottles, $5.
