EVELYN'S CODE OF ETHICS

Candid Admissions of Harry Thaw's Wife, who has No Desire to Pose as a Model of Virtue

New York, July 21.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in an interview yesterday, told the first comprehensive story that has ever come from her lips of the events connected with the tragedy on the Madison Square Garden roof on that night in June three years ago.

This takes into account her other recital of her relationship with the victim of her husband's hatred on the witness stand.

"I have no desire to pose as an example for young American women to follow," she said. "I want no one to have illusions as to what I am. But I am just as anxious to end for all time the ridiculous nonsense that is being spread about as portraying me. I want two things thoroughly understood.

"The first one is that I have never committed any crime. I am a young woman whose unfortunate upbringing has ended in my being connected with a sordid murder, in which I had no part and which I tried three years to prevent.

"During my married life with Thaw I lived at home as quietly and with as much regard for the conventions as any woman ever had. I may marry again. It is all a question in my mind as to the advisability of giving up a career I have mapped out for myself, or of setting down to rear children in the fashion of the good housewife and mother.

"If you will have the truth, I am distinctly immoral, as the world today views morals. I have my own code of ethics, and I live up to them. But, from present day ideals, I am immoral.
There is no question of it."

Mrs. Thaw made known for the first time that there is a man of whom she thinks more than of any one else in the world. She would not tell his name.

"But I am not a bad woman," she went on, "in the sense that I spoke of bad women in that first trial. If I make up my mind to marry the man I love, I shall do it, and the world will hunt in vain for a chance to accuse me of indiscretions. If, on the other hand, I reach the conclusion that my art means more to me than the raising of children; if I decide it is not right for me to become a mother and stigmatize children with the curse that has been brought upon my name, I shall tell the man I love, as I have already told him I should do, that I cannot marry him; that our marriage would be a thing to hurt us both later.

"It isn't strange, then, that when Stanford White singled me out and bought me a pearl drop worth $1,000 and let every one know he approved of me—it isn't strange I thought he was the most wonderful man in the world.

Mistake Number One
"But mistake No. 1 comes right here, and by mistake I mean the popular impression that was gained from my cross-examination in that first trial.

"You will remember I swore on the stand I was given a drug by Stanford White that left me unconscious at the end of a minute. I also said I recovered from the ill effects of that drug in less than three hours and went home.
At that time I knew as well as any one else that every one doubted the truth of that statement. But it was not untrue.

"It isn't true that I hated Stanford White then or at any time. He was so much finer and bigger-hearted and more considerate of all women than any man one meets in the ordinary course of events that his unhappy attitude toward women and girls is a fault to be minimized in summing up his whole life career.

Stolen from White
"Thaw stole me away from White, just the same as men in the stone age stole women—folk lore says such things happened, and I understand that is the way the old tales go.

"For more than a year before that Christmas night in 1903 I had seen White only occasionally, but he was my protector—my patron, if you will—and I loved him more than I ever had any man or woman in my life, my mother and father not excepted.

"And right here, before we get to the rest of it, let me say it was not easy—what I forced myself to do on that witness stand. Do you think I followed my inclinations when I sat there and looked at that grinning Thaw down below me, that miserable man whose life I was searing my heart to save, and told secrets I would have kept from the world at the cost of my own life?

"It wasn't easy. But it was following out a determination I had made with the flash of his revolver that night on the roof garden. That's all."

A HORRIBLE HOLD-UP

"About ten years ago my brother was 'held-up' in his work, health and happiness by what was believed to be hopeless consumption," writes W. E.
Liscomb, of Washington, N. C. "He took all kinds of remedies and treatment from several doctors, but found no help till he used Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles. He is a well man today." It's quick to relieve and the surest

ARE YOU LAZY?

If You Are, See a Doctor; You Probably Have the Hook-Worm Disease

Washington, D. C., July 21.—When Surgeon General Torrey makes up his annual report it will include much data relative to the prevalence of the "hook worm" or "lazy bug" among the soldiers and enlisted men from the southern states.

These recruits, passing through the army depot at Fort Slocum, were examined to the number of 140. Of this number 107 of them were found to be infected. West Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee all supplied a portion of these recruits.

After being treated by the army surgeons, all of the soldiers placed under treatment and observation gained weight and showed a general improvement in physical condition.

The surgeon general may suggest the possibility of instituting a campaign against the disease in the South.

A HURRY-UP MEDICINE

blows and falls. Burns and cuts are instantly relieved by it and helped to healing. Its mission of mercy began seventy years ago. It is used in all countries and millions of bottles are sold annually. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Have you seen

AN UPRISING ANTICIPATED

Several Mexican Conspirators Captured in Sinaloa—Arms Being Smuggled Across the Border

Mexico City, July 21.—The arrest of a number of alleged conspirators at Puerto, state of Sinaloa, has brought to light a far reaching plot to overthrow the existing administration of Mexico. Papers found in possession of Jose Ferrel, one of the local leaders of the alleged revolutionists, are said to reveal the scope of the movement.

It was planned the story goes, that the uprising should take place on September 16 next, the anniversary of Mexican independence. The names of the men who are directing the movement are in the hands of the authorities. The Junta is reported to be located at San Antonio, Texas.

The fact that large quantities of arms and ammunition were being purchased in Texas and Arizona and smuggled into the state of Mexico came to the knowledge of the government authorities recently. It was by tracing one of these contraband shipments that the identity of the conspirators at Puerto was established.

GHASTLY TASTE

Steal Flowers from Graveyards to Wear at Balls and Parties Puebla, Mexico, July 21.—Stealing flowers from cemetery vaults to deck themselves out for balls and parties is the offense charged to a number of society girls here. Complaints that vaults were entered and rare and costly hothouse flowers stolen in the city cemtery resulted in an investigation and the arrest of a number of young ladies who were carrying plants hidden in their parasols.

The names have been suppressed, as they are among members of prominent families.

FERTILIZERS FOR PECAN TREES

In considering the effect of fertilizers upon pecan trees it is necessary to have a clear understanding of the character of soil, method of caring for the trees and the purpose to be accomplished.

The soil of central and western Florida best suited to pecans may be described as a sandy loam soil with a moist sandy-clay subsoil.

In putting out an orchard we prefer to plant the trees first and later fertilize them. As soon as planted the ground around the trees should be put in good tilth and kept so during the early part of the growing season.
No amount of fertilizer will take the place of careful cultivation.

After the tree is properly planted we find that a forkful of well decomposed stable manure spaded in around it, just beyond the roots, is of great benefit.

It is usually considered that the tree requires the first season to become well established and that little growth need be expected. But with good cultivation and proper fertilizer a fair growth can readily be obtained. We find that a good rule to follow is:

First season one forkful of manure and one pound of complete fertilizer, each year thereafter add one forkful of manure and one pound of complete fertilizer and the tree will have all it needs. After the tree has made its main growth the ground should be planted with cowpeas. This will add humus to the soil, enrich it and keep down the growth of weeds. At the proper time this may be cut for hay or plowed under as best suits one's purpose.

The fertilizer we like best is one composed of about equal parts of nitrogen, phosphate and potash. A 5-5-5 formula is good. Part of the nitrogen should be in an immediately available form as nitrate of soda. This will give the tree a quick start in the spring. It should be applied only a week or ten days before the trees are ready to break bud. All fertilizer when applied, should be covered either by hoeing or discing.

We like the genuine Peruvian guano as a basis for fertilizers, it being a natural rather than an artificial fertilizer.

The commercial fertilizers begin feeding the trees early in the season and the stable manure shows its effects later.

A study of one's orchard will soon detect any error made in fertilizing and a change of ingredients can readily be made.

Cultivation should stop in the fall in time to let the trees harden up the growth and go into winter quarters in a well ripened condition.

As the trees reach age sufficient to bear any fertilizer should be changed so as to shorten the wood growth and produce fruit buds and spurs.
You should lessen nitrogen, but continue stable manure. There is nothing that will take its place as a nut producer.—H. S. Watson of Florida in the Nut-Grower.

If your liver is sluggish and out of tone, and you feel dull, bilious, constipated, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets tonight before retiring and you will feel all right in the morning.
