NEED OF TELEPHONIC CONNECTION WITH THE COUNTRY TOWNS

In speaking yesterday of the controversy going on in Ocala over the train schedules, a McIntosh business man, who has resided there all of his life, said to a Star man:

"I will tell you where you Ocala people lose more of our business and the business from the other points thereabouts than you do because of train schedules, had or indifferent, and that is the lack of a direct telephone connection from there to Ocala. Why do not you or the Ocala Telephone Co. put in a direct line? True, on the books we appear to be connected, but it is almost impossible to get a connection with Ocala that is intelligible, whereas to Gainesville it is direct and clear and most of the trading is done over the 'phone in that city, instead of Ocala.

"You might just as well have this business as not, and would, if you had a telephone connection so that we could communicate with Ocala, order goods and transact such other business as is possible over a good working telephone line."

Now the Star offers this as a suggestion, both to the business interests of Ocala and the Ocala Telephone Co. Look into it. See where the trouble lies and it cannot be remedied. One can readily see with the long round-about connection from McIntosh and sister towns to Gainesville, around by other points and Dunnellon and into Ocala is not very satisfactory.

GRANVILLE P. HEALEY

Major Granville P. Healey, one of the most widely known men in Florida, is dead.

The end came at 7 o'clock this morning at the DeSoto Sanitarium, after an illness of about five months. The direct cause of his demise was heart failure, but up to a few months ago he was in excellent health and was one of the most active men in Florida.

Major Healey was a native of Pennsylvania, and served creditably in the federal army during the civil war. Many years ago he removed to Seville, in Volusia county, where he engaged in orange culture and took a prominent part in the politics of the state.

In conventions he was often heard, and his face was familiar at every session of the legislature until the present one.

His extensive acquaintance with prominent men all over the state, and his activity in behalf of certain propositions, rendered him effective in legislative matters. Strenuous as a worker in politics, he claimed the friendship of his opponents because of his cheerful disposition. Several years ago his activity in political debates excited much attention, and he was known all over the state as the "Bald Eagle of Volusia."

A couple of years ago he removed to Jacksonville and claimed this city as his home until his death.

Major Healey was an active and enthusiastic member of the local order of Elks, and the organization will have charge of the funeral, which will be held Thursday morning in the chapel of Undertaker Marcus Conant—Jacksonville Metropolis, 20th.

TABLES WITHOUT MEAT

Discussing politics, taxes, crops, prices and the rising cost of living, and predicting that the day is near when meat will be beyond the reach of the American wage-earner, James J. Hill's concluding thought was that "now is a good time to begin practicing economy." That is excellent advice at any time and all times for wasteful governments as well as extravagant individuals. What is its meaning to the average citizen?

This person is profoundly interested in economy adjusted to certain long-cherished standards. We imagine that he will have no difficulty in relinquishing his private car and his six-horse-power racing machine. He has already renounced things of much more importance. But taxes, direct and indirect, are increasing; rents are rising; prices of food and clothing are mounting higher and higher; demands upon his purse from all sides are multiplying. Illness and death are not new woes by any means, but they now carry expenses unknown to earlier generations. In the presence of these conditions the wage envelope or the salary checks show few signs of inflation or elasticity. To most people in prosperity earnings are a fixed quantity. In adversity they may vanish entirely.

Mr. Hill's economic formula is simple enough, but it needs interpretation. If it be true that meat is soon to be beyond the reach of the wage-earner his meaning is that they must presently subsist upon cereals and vegetables. It is a continuing sentence that he passes upon them. They must move downward in the social scale, not upward. They are living beyond their means. The few fat years of American labor have passed never to return. The lean years are at hand and they will be many.

Furthermore, if Mr. Hill be correct, when meat leaves the workman's table, white bread will accompany it. When white bread disappears we shall look in vain in humble homes for butter, coffee and fruit. Are these the "little economies" which Mr. Hill would have us practice, while plutocracy and privilege, monopolizing most of the things that enter into the cost of living, are framing new tariffs for extortion and oppression?—New York World.

AUGUST AMERICAN MAGAZINE

William J. Locke tells a charming story of a rejuvenated love, entitled "A Moonlight Effect," in the August number of the American Magazine. In addition, Jack London recounts the tragic case of "The Sheriff of Kona." Stewart Edward White writes about a mystery and a murder in "The Hole in the Cap." Harvey J. O'Higgins tells a story of touching pathos and Irish humor in "His Mother," and Lincoln Colcord contributes his best work in "Anet," a tale of the fortunes of a man who finds out his love for a woman one day too late.

The issue also contains a delightful satire by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow entitled "The Fantastic Feminine," illustrated with photographs of gowns, corsets and hair actually worn in America today. Hugh S. Fullerton writes again about baseball and tells of the wonderful system of signals used by the various ball teams. George Fitch is the author of a highly amusing sketch which he calls "A Plea for the Conservation of Another Great National Resource," illustrated with cartoons by John T. McCutcheon. William Allen White contributes another article to his widely discussed series, "The Old Order Changeth." "Margarita's Soul" appears in an interesting installment, and "The Letters of G. G." come to a delightful conclusion. "The Interpreter's House" is devoted to a "Defense of Puffblower," and "The Pilgrim's Scrip" contains a frank letter from "An American Woman" that will be of unusual interest to everyone who is reading Ray Stannard Baker's series, "The Spiritual Unrest," which is appearing in this periodical.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Look over our line of toilet preparations. We are quite proud of the fine stock. Perfumes, powders and soaps of the finer grades. Tydings & Company.

Get DeWitt's Carbolyzed Witch Hazel Salve when you ask for it. There are a great many imitations, but there is just one original. This salve is good for anything where a salve is needed to be used, but is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

MARTIN & CARN

THE NEW BURGLAR PROTECTION

Mr. Allen Jueffs, the expert electrician from the Electrical Protection Co., of Minneapolis, with his assistant has completed the installing of the burglar alarm system in both the big vaults of the Munroe & Chambliss Bank and has been busy all day instructing each and every member of the bank's clerical force in the operation of the system.

It required almost two weeks to line the vaults with the thin layer of sheet steel that carries the current. The vaults were as hard as flint. Before the system was installed the burglar proof was as well nigh burglar proof as any vaults made without the electrical protection, which they now have of the most modern kind that is known.

Mr. Jueffs found the steel of the vaults so hard that it was almost impossible to drill through the plates with plenty of time, the best tools and power. We do not understand the technical part of the system and will not attempt to describe it, but have been enough to convince us that it is impossible to get into the vaults without touching of the powerful gongs that will wake every person within two blocks of the bank and will ring until they are shut off.

A burglar with all science at his command can do nothing with these vaults as they now stand. If he found the wires that lead to the outside gong and cut these, the alarm would instantly start ringing. If he drilled the safe, granting that he could get through, the moment his drill touched the inner lining or jacket, that the touch was as light as the prick of a needle, it would start the inside and outside gongs ringing with a deafening din. If he attempted to use acid or explosives, the explosion would come prematurely and his death would result.

Thus the vaults can neither be drilled, blown or tampered with in any way. Again, if the bank people forget to lock the vaults, at 7 o'clock it will go off and they will be very much reminded of it. The only burglar who ever attempted to get into a vault supplied with this system was instantly blown up and his own acid was his undoing and he was so badly mutilated that he was never identified.

The profession safe cracker is posted on the equipment of every bank in the country and simply is not going to tackle one of these. The burglar insurance companies recognize their advantage in that they give a much lower rate on the insurance where banks are equipped with this protection. The danger of robbery at night for the Munroe & Chambliss Bank is now so small as to not be considered at all in the list of banking dangers. In the near future the bank will give a public demonstration of the working of the system, one of the experts coming here for the purpose. Due notice will be given of the fact when they are ready.

BRAVE ON HIS DEATH BED

Atlanta Man Pulled a Trigger on a Burglar With His Last Strength

Atlanta, Ga., July 21.—When on his death bed C. B. Walker, a business man of Atlanta, was aroused by the presence of a negro burglar in his room.

Walker immediately seized a pistol which was on the table near the bed, fired three shots at the negro, who fled, and then relapsed into a death stupor.

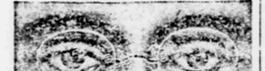

The physicians had announced there was no hope for Walker's recovery. About 2 o'clock in the morning, Mrs. Walker and the nurse, who had dozed off, were aroused by a pistol shot and saw Walker upright in bed firing at a negro who was escaping through a window.

As Walker fired the last shot the negro screamed, and the sick man dropped the pistol, fell back on the bed and died.

Physicians consider the case remarkable because Walker was suffering from apoplexy.

SOCIETY LADY'S DEATH CAUSED BY HER SHAWL

Eric, Pa., July 21.—Mrs. Jacob Clemens, wife of a wealthy retired merchant and a society leader of this city, was killed yesterday afternoon when a shawl she was wearing over her head caught in the machinery of her husband's yacht. Her neck was broken. Mr. and Mrs. Clemens were entertaining a party of friends from Corry. The strange accident has cast a gloom over Eric's society.

ARGENTINE ON ITS EAR

Bolivian Minister Given His Walking Papers and War May Follow

Buenos Ayres, July 21.—The Argentine government has ordered the Bolivian minister to leave in twenty-four hours and recalled their minister from Bolivia. The action of Argentina follows the refusal of Bolivia to accept the decision of Argentina in the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Peru.

Relative Hardness of Precious Stones.

The relative hardness of various stones is easily determined by testing the power of one stone to make scratches on another. If a diamond is rubbed with one of the points of a topaz, the topaz point is blunted and the mark which will be seen on the face of the diamond is only the dust of the topaz, which can be brushed off with the finger. But if the topaz is rubbed against the diamond the latter is unaltered and the surface of the former is marked with a scratch which can be removed only by further polishing down. It is on the basis of this process of comparison that a scale of comparative hardness has been formed represented by ten substances, of which diamond is the highest and graphite the lowest in the scale. It is a curious fact that these two extremes of the scale, the brilliant and hard diamond and soft black graphite, are both chemically the same substance—pure carbon.—Jewelers' Circular.
