The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and other derangements was first made, as never since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical authorities in this country and abroad, and who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. E. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or star addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned cases, but also for the cure of all cerebral, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, sore throat, lingering, or ag-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated, are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

ST. JOSEPH'S ACADEMY AT LORETTO

A Superb School for Boys, Situated in the Heart of a Florida Pine Forest

The public schools of the United States probably lead among the elements that make America first among the nations of the earth, and the public school system of Florida, when her population and resources are considered, is certainly equal to that of any other state. Nevertheless, owing to the large number that attend and the comparatively low salaries paid the teachers, it is not possible to give the advantages that many parents crave for their children: consequently all the private schools of merit in the state are well patronized.

Among these schools, it would be impossible to find one better fitted for the care and education of boys from eight to fourteen years of age than St. Joseph's Academy at Loretto. In healthy location, in care bestowed on the scholars, in reasonable rates, St. Joseph's cannot be excelled in Florida or any other state.

It was the privilege of a member of the Star force to inspect this school a few days ago. Loretto is a postoffice, with St. Joseph's church, convent and academy, and a few private residences adjoining. It is in the southern part of Duval county, fifteen miles southeast of Jacksonville and about three miles east of Mandarin on the St. Johns river.

The convent stands on high ground, which slopes away from it in every direction, and is surrounded by a beautiful forest, in which the predominating pine is thickly mingled with lower trees of heavy foliage. The country is furrowed by running streams, and many of the trees are embowered in vines, which at this season of the year are loaded with grapes. The pupils appreciate these beautiful woods, in which they are often taken for strolls by their preceptors.

The convent and its surrounding buildings occupy a campus of thirty acres in extent. There are two large buildings, one recently finished, the church, the residence of the priest in charge, and all necessary out buildings.

Plenty of Room to Grow In

The rooms in which the scholars study by day and sleep by night are large, airy and well lighted. The school rooms are on the ground floor. They are fitted up with simple elegance—the desks and seats are much more convenient and comfortable than those in the average public school and much further apart. The school room that has been given to forty pupils would be considered big enough for twice that number in any public school in Marion county.

The Sleeping Rooms

The dormitories are on the upper floor—long, well ventilated, well lighted rooms, supplied with neat and comfortable beds and all other necessities. At all hours, the breeze from the surrounding pine forests sweeps through these rooms and safeguards the health of the inmates.

Choice Reading Matter

There is a good library in the school room and the teachers encourage their pupils to make use of it. The books are of the sort that boys like to read and can read with interest and instruction.

Splendid Water Supply

One of the most important things to the health of a community is its water supply. No place in the world can excel Loretto in this regard. It is supplied from a well 600 feet deep with water that has just the proper amount of sulphur to make it refreshing and health-giving, without being nauseating, as is the case with much of the sulphur water in Florida. It isn't necessary to cultivate a taste for this water—one takes to it immediately. The good brothers and sisters of St. Joseph, beside supplying themselves and their scholars with this unsurpassed water, have placed a public fountain by the roadside, at which thousands slake their thirst every year.

The Swimming Pool

The sulphur water is also piped into a swimming pool, where the boys disport themselves every day when the weather isn't too cold, and there are few days in the year when it is. The pool is about 70 feet long by 30 broad, and varies in depth to suit the ages of the different boys. Not that it makes much difference after a boy has been there a while, for if he doesn't know how to swim, they soon teach him, and there are not many more interesting sights than the pool with twenty or more boys in it, swimming, diving and enjoying themselves as only boys can in the water.

Helps to Health

Drinking this water all the time, bathing in it nearly every day, and always breathing the uncontaminated air of the pine forest, is enough to keep any normal boy in robust health.

The convent and surrounding buildings are to be lighted with electricity, the proper machinery, including a 30-horse power engine and dynamo, having been installed and will soon be in working order.

The Menu

The Star's representative, whose visit was unexpected by the way, happened along about dinner time, and was invited to a place at the table. The food was plain, but substantial and plentiful, and it was well cooked. The average home or boarding house doesn't supply any better, and it is not easy to see how the school provides so well at its rates.

stantial and plentiful, and it was well cooked. The average home or boarding house doesn't supply any better, and it is not easy to see how the school provides so well at its rates.

Fire Protection

Besides being so constructed that egress is easy, the school has good fire protection, water being piped all over the buildings and given heavy pressure from a tank which is several feet higher than the highest roof and always kept full. The buildings are all big rooms and verandas with no intricate corridors to get tangled in, and in case of fire, by day or night, the school could turn itself inside out in a few seconds.

Thorough Instruction

Comfort, cleanliness and health are essential to the success of a school, and after these are assured, the important consideration is the schooling.

The sisters of St. Joseph are the teachers in the school. They are all women of culture and refinement, daughters of the first families in the land, who have given up the world from a love of religion and a sense of duty. Nearly all highly educated before taking the vows, they enter on a course of training that makes the average public school teacher's examination look like a Sunday school lesson. Teachers themselves, their education never ends until the death angel opens the gates of heaven. Especially are they instructing in methods that bring better goods. As in training the young, it is possible to see them see them at their work of West Fort the highest respect he Montezuma's teachers at Loretto—a more numerous in proportion—the number of scholars than at even the average college, and are therefore able to give closer attention to the training of their pupils. The results of their work can be easily seen, their scholars at fifteen closing the studies that the public school student reaches at eighteen, and they teach several things, music in particular, that is entirely outside the course of a public school.

There is a pretty little church at Loretto kept in exquisite order and presided over by Rev. T. J. Nolan, who also assists in the instruction given in the academy. Mr. Nolan is a highly educated young man and one that it is a pleasure to know. He is not only a teacher to the boys, but a leader and companion in their recreations, for which he is well fitted, being at home in the swimming pool, and on the diamond and gridiron. He is a great favorite with the boys, and also with the people of the surrounding country, who attend his church in large numbers.

Religious Scruples Respected

While St. Joseph's Academy is a Catholic school, there are many boys belonging to parents of other churches among the students, and no attempt is made to cause them to change their faith. They are not required to pay any more attention to religious observance than is necessary for the discipline of the school. The teachers of St. Joseph are very scrupulous in this respect, and their conduct is in marked contrast with some Protestant schools, where revivals are sometimes held with the view of making converts among the scholars.

Taken all in all, it will be very difficult to find a better place to educate a boy and preserve his health and morals at the same time. If you have a boy you desire to have thoroughly educated in a place where he can be kept in health and out of mischief, at a cost very little if any over keeping him at home, you can't do better than write to the Sister Superior, St. Joseph's Academy, Loretto, Fla., and she will gladly send you a prospectus.

Several Marion county boys have been to Loretto, and they always come home for their vacation in robust health and plainly showing the results of intelligent, conscientious training.

PEARY ALSO HAS REACHED THE POLE

Unless the Laconic Dispatch Received Monday is a Fake, Another American Has Attained the Ultimate Triumph of Exploration.

New York, Sept. 7.—Lieut. Robert E. Peary has reached the North Pole and is now returning to civilization. The first report was received yesterday by the Associated Press.

A startling and laconic message flashed from the coast of Labrador to New York by Lieutenant Peary that the stars and stripes had been nailed to the North Pole, and thence to the corners of the globe, at the moment when Dr. Cook is being acclaimed by the world at large as discoverer of the North Pole, adds to the remarkable story of achievement that has held the civilized world up to the highest pitch of interest since September 1, when Dr. Cook's claim that he had reached the "top of the world" was first telegraphed from Shetland Islands.

The first dispatch was received by the Associated Press and was as follows:

"To Associated Press, New York—Stars and Stripes nailed to the North Pole. (Signed) Peary."

The foregoing startling and laconic message, signed, "Peary," is the only available information received up to this time. It was received in New York at 12:30 p. m. yesterday through the Postal Telegraph company. It was handed in at Indian Harbor, Labrador, and sent by there by wireless telegraph to Cape Ray, Newfoundland, and from Cape Ray to Port aux Basques by Newfoundland government lines, thence to Casno, Nova Scotia by cable and to New York from there over the lines of the Commercial company.

A TRAGEDY IN THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS
Captain and Crew of a French Vessel Murdered by Natives

Sydney, N. S. W., Sept. 7.—The captain and crew of a French schooner, engaged in recruiting laborers in the New Hebrides, for construction work, have been murdered by the natives of Mallicollo Island. The schooner was driven ashore during a severe storm. As soon as the storm abated the natives began to flock aboard the vessel. They pretended to be friendly until they reached the decks. Then they set upon the crew.

A stubborn resistance was made. The captain and a few of the men who survived the first onset, barricaded themselves in the cabin. The natives, swarming aboard in ever-increasing numbers, attacked the cabin and after forcing an entrance, murdered every man. The tragedy was reported by some friendly natives to a trader which stopped at a neighboring island. A British warship which was at a nearby port, has been sent on a punitive expedition.
