Brooks scowled at her and, gathering up some more papers from the table, retreated with them to his chair and began to peruse them rather feverishly.
"I never read the papers any more," declared Mrs. Harris. "All they have are scandal, murders and men who steal money from their firms. My—I don't know what the world is coming to!"
"Wasn't it terrible about that man yesterday walking out of the bank with a small fortune?" said Beth.
"I can't understand how a man can deliberately steal," sniffed her mother, "especially when there isn't a chance on earth of getting away."
"Here's the man who gave all the money to some woman, isn't he?" Emma wanted to know.
"Yea. He'll have plenty of time to think it over. The penitentiary isn't a bit too good for men like him."
"I felt so sorry for his wife, poor woman," remarked Beth. "She'll have to stand most of the trouble."
Brooks jumped up impatiently, biting his nails with annoyance.
"Where's the rest of this paper?" he demanded. "I want the part with the racing chart. It's marked 'Past Performances.'"
"O, I know—what Jimmy calls the dope sheet," said Emma. "There it is."
Mrs. Harris looked horrified.
"Joe, you certainly aren't interested in races—horse races?" she interrogated.
"Yea, I am," he snapped. "I don't play 'em, but I like to 'em over. What of it?"
"Those awful," declared Beth. "That's exactly why most men steal money."
"Yea, dearie, Joe isn't stealing money or playing races, so don't get worried," commented Emma, a little testily.
"Captain Williams says that the race track ruins more young men and—"
Her son-in-law had been waxing more and more exasperated.
"For heaven's sake," he broke out angrily, wiping the perspiration from his face, "can't you find something better to talk about than ruined men, thieves and fellows who go wrong?"
"Yea, Joe, what's the matter?" inquired his wife, gazing at him in astonishment.
He turned his face toward her, and there was a look as of entreaty and apology in his eyes, under which the dark circles appeared to have deepened, as he replied:
"I'm tired and nervous. I think I'll walk down the street."
"O, but you've got to take us to the theater," Beth told him. "Mother hasn't seen the play at the Renaissance, and you can't get seats—not a single one—even from speculators. I promised to take her."
"Where do I come in?"
Mrs. Harris answered for her:
"You just take us; call for us after the show and put us in a car."
"Yea, simply can't miss this chance, can we, mamma?" said Beth. "You will take us and come for us, won't you, Joe?"
"O, I suppose so," he acquiesced, a little wearily.
At that moment the telephone bell rang, and Emma answered it.
"Yea, right up," she instructed the operator and, hanging up the receiver, turned with an eager smile.
"I've got a surprise for you," she said. "Guess who's calling? Some one who wasn't expected for a month."
"Jimmy," cried Beth.
"Jimmy Smith, straight back from Guatemala."
Joe's eyes widened, and the little color in it faded from his face. He was very much startled by this unexpected visit, but kept sufficient control over himself not to make the fact too apparent.
"Is Captain Williams with him?" inquired Mrs. Harris.
"I don't know," answered Emma. "I wonder what brings him back? He wasn't expected for a month or six weeks."
"I suppose the captain's with him," surmised Beth.
Her mother expressed the hope that he was.
"So do I," said Emma. "I want to thank him for Joe's raise."
"You'll do nothing of the kind!" exploded Brooks furiously. "I want you all to understand here and now that my business is my business. I don't want it discussed with either Smith or Williams. What I've got, and it is nobody's affair but mine. Now, if any of you have got anything to say about me or what I do, say it to me or shut up."
"Joe, how can you?" reproached his wife, taken completely aback by this savage and uncalled for display of anger.
"Yea, I declare!" ejaculated Mrs. Harris, bridling up. "I've never been talked to so in all my life and!"
The doorbell rang, and she subsided, sinking back in her chair and fanning her red face vigorously.
Mrs. Brooks opened the door, and Jimmy stood revealed with his winsome smile, his face tanned brown by the sun of the tropics.
"Welcome home, little stranger!" exclaimed Emma heartily.
"Hello, Emma! How are you?" he said, taking her outstretched hand. "Ladies, I salute you. The prodigal has returned from the distant land of chili con carne and fat ladies wearing mantillas to receive his overdose of American grub."
"Look at him! He's as brown as an Indian!" laughed Beth, giving him a

Making Good Makes Friends
There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that came into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.
For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.
It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago.
As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

cordial handshake.
"Where's Captain Williams?" asked Mrs. Harris.
"Ah in due time, when I spin my yarn," drawled Jimmy.
He went over to Brooks and shook hands with him.
"Glad to see you, Joe," he said.
"Thank you, Jimmy. Same to you. You look immense."
"Yea, better than that. Now, if you folks will sit down I'll tell you the story of my wonderful adventures, lying only when necessary to protect my unsullied reputation. How is that, Beth, unsullied reputation? Pretty good, eh?"
"Yea, but Captain Williams and the story?" urged Emma.
"Yea, I want to know," observed her mother, "is Did the captain come with you?"
"Yea, so do I," said Brooks, with hardly concealed anxiety.

"Well, you know it took me two months to do all this, and you can't expect me to tell this story as if it was a journey in the subway."
"Jimmy, you're exasperating," remonstrated Emma.
"I was saying— Say, Emma, you look all right in that dress," he broke off, contemplating her with admiration. She stamped her foot imperiously. "Never mind me. Talk!"
"Yea, please say something," added Beth.
"Stung!" he laughed. "Thank you, Beth! Well, you know cap and I were going to make a trip at every port of call the Latin-American company has, but when we got to Guatemala we found out that a couple of those dons down there, being out of jobs, had concluded to pass the time away by pulling off one of their monthly revolutions and, among other things, were getting very gay with our property."
"Yea, mean war?" demanded Beth, deeply interested.

"Not according to Hoyle. This game was just for conversation. Anyway, things looked a little bad, so we stayed there until one of the dons threatened to put us in jail and burn up our warehouses. We were delayed a couple of weeks, and one morning the army of forty-two generals and three privates saw the United States cruiser Brooklyn steam into port all painted up, with a lot of peevish bluejackets on board, looking for trouble. So they postponed their change of government indefinitely. We had been delayed so long by them fellows—"

PICNIC AT PEDRO
Pedro will hold its annual barbecue and picnic on Saturday, October 16th. Its people extend their usual hearty welcome to every person who, with good will and good behavior, will join them in their yearly festival.
It is expected that on the program for the day will be, ice cream, etc.; temperance and educational addresses, a fine dinner, with plenty of barbecued meats a la Perry, baseball, boys and pretty girls.
The location of the grounds will be announced later. If suitable grounds are selected a parade of the school children of this and neighboring schools will be a feature of the afternoon.

HEALTH AND VITALITY
Cosmetics and lotions will not clear your complexion of pimples and blotches like Foley's Orino Laxative, for indigestion, stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. Cleanses the system and is pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

STANTON
The baseball game on Saturday afternoon between Stanton and Lady Lake ended in a victory for Stanton. Score, 4 to 0 in favor of Stanton. After only four innings had been played the Lady Lake boys heard two dogs on the grounds growling and they joined in and began to growl with the umpire, who we think must have had some peach and honey or mint and julep, from the way he made his decisions. He was unfair in two of his decisions; a fair ball being knocked into left field and called a foul, and a mar called out on third, which was unfair, the baseman dropping the ball. The Lady Lake boys quit the game after the fourth inning had been played, the score then being 4 to 0 in favor of Stanton.

John Clore was on hand, who is one of the best catchers in the country and is quite a baseball enthusiast. Squire Kelsey didn't know when to hallow for Stanton, so was told when he heard John Clore hallowing that he could rest assured that Stanton was in the lead.
If Mr. Hater had been present and umpired nothing would have turned up to have caused any unpleasantness. Mr. Hater has given both sides a square deal every time he has umpired a game.
Speaking of time rosters on the grounds and we hope to have a good drive of razor backs and rosters next Saturday to cheer the boys in the game between Leesburg and Stanton.

We didn't see Mr. Jim Davis present at the game. We heard some good news about him that will occur on October 20th. We extend our congratulations in advance.
Mac Jameson, the fox and cat chaser of Stanton, accompanied by the two Lytle boys managed to capture a grey fox one day last week.

IT SAVED HIS LEG
"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swenson, Watertown, Wis., "Ten years of eczema, that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Errol E. Reed, who has been spending the summer with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Soar, at Little River, returned home Thursday of last week to resume his studies here at the Weirsdale grammar school.
Mrs. J. F. Blair and children, after spending a month very pleasantly here at the lake, returned to their home in Martin Saturday.

Mr. C. M. Tyler, of Lakeland, was a business caller in our little town on Thursday.
Grapefruit is now being shipped from the Lake Weir Company's grove.
Mrs. A. M. Reed and son Herbert returned home Saturday afternoon after an extended visit in New England.

Mrs. E. A. Ricker went to Jacksonville Friday and spent Sunday with her son in that city, returning home Monday afternoon.
Mrs. W. C. Black and Mrs. H. H. Rast, of Weirsdale, spent Wednesday with Mrs. C. S. Gates.

A BURGLAR IN TOWN
This name is "bad cough." He doesn't care for any gold or silver but he will steal your health away. If he appears in your house arrest him at once with Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It may mean consumption if you don't. A cure for all coughs, colds and chest troubles. Price 25c. 50c and $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do
For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.
There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.
Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.
Kodol will effectively assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.
When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.
