PIANOS AND ORGANS

Almost for the Asking

TO OUR PROSPECTIVE CUSTOMERS

As we are in need of floor space, we have reduced the prices of the following pianos, and if you are interested in a good instrument, write our representative, R. J. Horne, at Ocala, Fla., who will call on you and make you the very best terms.

We list the following:

ARION, in medium size, Ebony case, good tone and action, worth $175. Sale price $127

KRAKAUER, medium size Ebony case, good tone and action, excellent piano for those beginning in music. Value $175. Sale price $131

STERLING, Ebony case, medium sized, good for beginners and practice work, fairly good tone $146

All of the above Pianos are in nice condition, and to one who wants good tone and service in preference to appearance, any of them will be sure to give satisfaction.

At $1.50 per week, we offer the following:

KENSINGTON, in nice Mahogany case, splendid tone and action, looks new, used but very little indeed, splendid action, and is worth $300. Sale price $238

MCPHAIL, large Mahogany case, splendid tone and action, in the best of condition throughout, splendid action, and is worth within $25 of its original cost—$450. Sale price $324

KURTSMAN, in large Mahogany case, plain, but neat design, looks new, excellent tone, splendid action, and is worth within $25 of its original cost—$450. Sale price $324

Any of the above we don't hesitate to recommend to anyone wanting a most desirable piano, either for home or teaching purposes. We guarantee them just as if new.

At $2.00 per week, we list the following:

CHICKERING, in medium sized Ebony case, good practice piano, good tone and action. Value $175. Sell for $136

KINGSBURY, in medium size Ebony case, good tone and action, excellent piano for beginners in music. Sale price $163

RUDOLF, in large Mahogany case, splendid tone and action, in the best of condition throughout, and is worth within $25 of its original cost—$325. Sale price $234

ROYAL, in figured Mahogany case, large upright scale, smooth action, clear, brilliant tone, rather high in pitch, absolutely new and is a good value at $350. The front panel of this was damaged in shipment, but has been rearranged in a way to make it very attractive, showing no rough handling at all; this one at $302

MATHUSHEK, style "13," in plain Mahogany case, neat design, large scale, price $400. Has had very little usage, was used 10 months, and finally taken back in stock on account of the purchaser having had some financial reverses. Will sell for unpaid balance $268

OUR NEW SCALE LUDDEN & BATES $400 CLUB PIANO, which cost club members only $287, is unquestionably the greatest value ever offered by any music house or factory, and where there is an opportunity of getting one of these at a reduced cost, you should certainly take advantage of it. We have one of these in figured Mahogany case, used 9 months, paid down to $238; another used five months, paid down to $251. We are willing to sell either of these for the unpaid balances, and give you the same LIFE TIME GUARANTEE and also the LIFE INSURANCE feature that we would on a piano that is absolutely new.

Any of these are fully guaranteed, and if not thoroughly satisfactory, can be returned at our expense and your money refunded. Orders by wire would be given first chance. We pay freight. IT WOULD CERTAINLY PAY YOU TO WIRE US AT ONCE TO HOLD ONE OF THESE PIANOS FOR YOU.

Yours very truly, LUDDEN & BATES, S. M. H., R. J. HORNE, Traveling Salesman, Ocala, Fla. Jacksonville, Fla.

"All right," he said, making a step toward her. "If I am what everybody says I am—what you think I am—you know what to expect, and I don't need to talk."

The peril of her situation roused her to desperation, and with it came the courage that sometimes impels a defenseless animal hunted into a corner from which there is no escape to turn and fight for its life.

"You think I'm afraid of you?" she cried, throwing up her head and clenching the hands at her sides. "I tell you I'm not. We've been too long at cross purposes. What you want me to do I know; what my husband sent me for I know. You can be the beast and the brute that you are; he can be the contemptible cur that he is. He can offer me for sale, and you can stand ready to buy me. But I've got something to say about it, and I desire you to know that if I wanted to place myself on the market, as you say, I couldn't! You disgust me, but I shan't shrink, and I am not afraid of you or of him or of any one here!"

She turned quickly, locked the door, threw the key at his feet and confronted him unflinchingly again.

"There's the key to your room. The door is locked, and I am alone with you. You kill me? You wring their necks? Well, Captain Williams, here's your first chance to kill a woman, for that's just exactly what you'll have to do!"

She saw the glare in the little savage optics under the beetling brows fade out, to be replaced by a gleam of admiration, not the covetous admiration of her shapely, panting form, but honest admiration of the pure soul that shone in her eyes.

"I knew you were that kind of a woman," he said, thankfulness and real tenderness in his voice. "If you hadn't done just what you did I'd 'a' been the most disappointed man in the world."

"What do you mean?" "I mean," he continued, almost reverently, "that I banked on you being good, and you are good. I know women. I've bought mine all over the world, from Hindoos to niggers. But I'm willing to sell. There ain't but two kinds, the good and the bad, and there's no halfway. When they're bad they're bad through and through and can't be good, and when they're good they can't be bad, and they're next to heaven. I figured you good, and if you hadn't been it would have hit me, and hit me hard. You're safer here, young woman, than with your mother, because I'd fight for you, and don't forget I can wring men's necks like chickens."

Emma could not comprehend it. "I don't understand you," she faltered. "Maybe you mean you don't believe me," he said, going to the table and taking the paper he had written upon and then slipped between the pages of one of the magazines. "Here. I've had this waiting for you. Read it."

She made no motion to take it from his hand.

"Well, I'll read it for you," he said. "It's addressed to that husband of yours:—

"Your resignation is accepted. I wish to thank you for your services and to assure you that your accounts with the Latin-American Steamship company have been audited and found to be correct."

"Now, Mrs. Brooks, if you'd acted in any way but what you did you would not have got this, but I knew you were good, and you are good."

He added with deep feeling, holding out the paper to her again: "It's worth that much to me and a lot more to have a good woman for a sort of daughter. Take it!"

This time she accepted it mechanically.

"Thank you, Captain Williams," she said.

The words came in a whisper, almost inaudibly.

She tried to read the writing, but tears in her eyes blurred her sight.

"You know, Mrs. Brooks," said Williams in a light tone and his usual voice, seating himself in his chair and looking away from her, "before we got to discussing this business I was telling you about the Sally Moran, my first ship. Now, that ship—hear me say ship!—she was only a schooner!"

She walked up to him and interrupted him, smiling gratefully through her tears.

"What can I do now, captain?" she asked.

The telephone bell rang as she spoke.

"You might answer the phone," he told her. "I'm getting mighty lazy."

She did so.

"It's Jim—Mr. Smith," she announced.

"I kind o' thought that fellow'd be nosing around instead of going to Boston," he soliloquized. "What's the trouble?"

"He's downstairs and wants to know if he can come up."

"Sure he can!"

"Yes, come up, Jim," she called.

The captain stroked his face thoughtfully.

"When you let him in you sort o' smile and look into his face," he said.

"He's a kind of an old baby, Smith is, and it does him a lot of good."

"I always smile at Jim," she replied. "No one could help that, could they?"

"It's too hot to burn up everything," he laughed. "Besides, there's a lot of folks say I'll get enough fire after my will's read."

"They don't know you, that's the trouble," she said, the thankful tears welling to her eyes again as she looked at him.

"Smith ain't particular quick about getting here, is he?" he remarked, changing the subject. "After all he said you'd expect him to be a regular hero and drop in from the ceiling."

"What did he say?"

"That's telling," he added, puffing stolidly at his pipe. "You're going to have a hard time letting that man in if you don't find the key you threw around so careless like."

She picked up the key and unlocked the door. As she did so Smith knocked, and she let him in. He looked keenly at her as she smiled up into his face, and he took the hand she extended.

"We've been waiting for you, Jim," she said.

A glad light came into his own eyes. "Emma," he observed, "I think that's the prettiest smile I ever saw you smile."

"Hello, Smith, ain't going to Boston tonight, eh?" queried the captain.

"No; I guess them docks will be there tomorrow," he replied.

He drew his revolver, extracted the cartridges with even more than ordinary deliberation and threw them on the table.

"I just thought I'd take the pegs out of the heel of that shoe we were discussing some time since and hand 'em to you as souvenirs," he remarked.

"Thank you," was the dry rejoinder.

"I'd give you the whole darn shoe," added Jim with heartiness, "only a fellow never can tell when he's going to have another sore foot."

"The trouble with you is, Smith, your foot hurts you before you stub your toe," commented Williams.

"I guess that's right," he avowed. "Ready to go home, Emma?"

"You wait for me a moment, Jim. I want to speak to the captain," she said.

"All right," he responded, going outside to ring up the elevator.

"Captain, this paper—shall I give it to him?" she inquired.

"Who—Brooks?"

"Yes."

"I would. It clears you."

"And you? How can I thank you?"

"Don't mind me. Only some time when you get settled down and are living happy again invite me up to tea. Let me put on my slippers and smoke my pipe in the parlor."

"Indeed I will. Good night."

"And, Emma," he added ere she had reached the door, "I suppose I can call you Emma now, can't I?"

"Always."

"Pay a lot of attention to that fellow Smith. He's an awful good friend of yours."

"I've found that out tonight," she answered. "Good night."

"Good night, Emma."

When she had gone the old man sat for some time smoking his pipe meditatively. Finally he kicked off his slippers, rose, stretched himself, sat down again, smiled and uttered his thoughts aloud.

"Well, Captain Bill," he told himself, "I guess you've paid up a part of that deficit you've owed decency for such a long time."

The Swine or the Flower?

Ah me! I saw a huge and leathery sty, Wherewith a drove of wallowing swine were barred;

Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;

Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of ills!"

I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first One glistening mass of roses pure and white;

With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;

And, as I lingered o'er the lovely sight, The summer breeze, that cooled that Southern scene,

Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"

MAKING GOOD

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little extra profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women will. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago.

As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy.

MORRISTON

Miss Flora Morrison and Miss Belle Hendrix spent several days in Ocala the past week.

Mr. E. A. Osborne and Mr. E. F. Mitchell went to Ocala Friday on important business.

DeLand Whitten paid a short visit to Blitchton Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Lillian O'Haver, a charming young lady from Keuka, Fla., after having paid Mrs. Morrison a visit, returned to her home Friday, much to the regret of some of our young men.

Mr. Archie McKay has returned from a visit to relatives and friends in North Carolina and South Carolina.

Mrs. S. H. Blitch, Mr. Landis Blitch and sister, Miss Legie Blitch, dined with Mrs. Morrison Tuesday.

Mr. and Miss Blitch were on their way to Lake City where they will enter Columbia College.

Miss Anna Landis, from Oxford, N. C., has opened her conservatory with quite a large class.

We regret to learn of the sad death of little Lillian, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. George Cox. Her death was very sudden as she was sick only a few hours. The parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. Archie Melver, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. J. W. Fant, accompanied by her mother and little Mamie Fant. Ned.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble realize their danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the irregularities, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of Bright's disease or other serious disorder. Do not disregard the early symptoms. Sold by all druggists.

GRAHAMVILLE

The health of this place is very much improved. The doctors will soon have to go out of business or seek new fields of operation.

Mr. Counts has been taken to Ocala to his brother's home, where he will receive the best medical aid by physicians of that town.

Miss Nettie Liak is expected home next week from a tour of the Western states.

Miss May Holly is visiting Mrs. P. T. Randall for a few days.

Those on the roll of honor of the Grahamville school for this month were: Helen Mills, Catherine Mills, Ruby Long, Cora Weltoner, Ethel Sewell, Annie Lee Long, Irene Mason, Victor Mason, Graham Long, Ivy Long, Jack Weltoner, Laurie Randall, J. W. Randall.

You need not be troubled in any way with the stomach, if you will simply take Kodol at those times when you feel that you need it. Kodol is guaranteed to relieve you. If it fails your money will be refunded to you by the druggist from whom you purchased it. Try it today on this guarantee. Sold by all druggists.

CALVARY

Mrs. A. S. J. Wallace spent Friday with relatives at Martel.

Mr. J. W. Morrison is on the sick list.

Mr. A. S. J. Wallace made a business trip to Ocala Saturday.

Mr. Archie Brass, of Dunnellon, called on Mr. J. W. Morrison Saturday.

Mr. Merritt Morrison was a caller in Ocala and Martel Sunday.

We are sorry to hear that little Dolly Morrison is sick with fever. The writer wishes her a speedy recovery.

The Value of Good Digestion

Is easy to figure if you know what your stomach is worth. Kodol keeps the stomach at par value, by insuring good digestion. Kodol cures Dyspepsia.

Kodol insures good digestion by absolutely duplicating Nature's normal process, in perfectly digesting all food taken into the stomach.

While Kodol is doing this, the stomach is resting—and becoming strong and healthy. A strong and healthy stomach guarantees a sound and active brain.

The man with a sound stomach—a stomach that is doing for the body just what Nature intended it to do—is the man who is always prepared for any emergency. He is "there with the goods."

The man with
