

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, diarrhoea, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and the frequent treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE MAN FROM BRODNEY'S

A Thrilling Story of Law and Love and a Struggle for Life and Wealth with Semi-Savages.

BY GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON Copyright 1908 by Dodd Mead & Co.

CHAPTER IV. THE INDISCREET MR. CHASE. HERE was not a handsomer, more striking figure in the palace gardens on the night of the reception than Hollingsworth Chase nor one whose poise proved that he knew the world quite as well as it is possible for any one man to know it.

A heavy hand fell upon his collar.

and confidence received a severe shock. She glanced at him with unaffected welcome, but with the air of one who was looking upon his face for the first time.

He could not again approach within speaking distance of the princess, nor did he presume to make the effort. Chase knew his proper place. She was the guest, the most vivacious being in the whole assemblage. She had but to stretch out her hand or project her smile and every man in touch with the spell was ready to drop at her feet.

At last she led her court off toward the pavilion under which the royal orchestra was playing. As if it were a signal, every one turned his eyes in that direction. Chase and the Englishman had been conversing diligently with an ancient countess and her two attractive daughters near the fountain.

Again the dapper director came forward to lead the musicians, and again he was most enthusiastically received. This time Chase was not where he could watch the princess. He found, therefore, that he could devote his attention to the music and the popular conductor. He was amazed to find that the fellow seemed to be inspired. He was also surprised to find himself carried away by the fervor of the moment.

With the final crash of the orchestra he found himself shouting again with the others. Oddly, this time he was as mad as they. A score or more of surprised, disapproving eyes were turned upon him when he yelled "Encore!"

"There will be no encore," admonished the fair girl at his side kindly. "It is not New York," she added, with a sly smile. Ten minutes later Chase and the Englishman were lighting their cigars in an obscure corner of the gardens.

"Extraordinary beautiful," Chase murmured reflectively as he seated himself upon the stone railing along the drive. "Yes, they say he really wrote it himself," drawled Baggs, puffing away. "I'm not talking about the music," corrected Chase sharply.

"Oh!" murmured Baggs apologetically. "The night?" "No; the princess, Baggs. Haven't you noticed her?" with intense sarcasm in his tone. "Of course I have, old chap. By Jove, do you know she is good looking—positively ripping!"

They lazily observed the approach of one couple, attracted no doubt by the disparity in the height of the two shadows. The man was at least half a head shorter than his companion, but his ardent seemed a thousandfold more vast. Chase was amused by the apparent intensity of the small officer's devotion, especially as it was met with a coldness that would have chilled the fervor of a man much larger and therefore more timid. It was impossible to see the faces of the couple until they passed through a moonlit streak in the walk quite close at hand.

Chase started and grasped his companion's arm. One was the Princess Geneva and—was it possible? Yes, the nimble conductor—the sensation of the hour, the musical lion! Moreover, to Chase's cold horror, the "little freak" was actually making violent love to the divinity of Rapp-Thorberg! The princess had not seen the two men, nor had the fervent conductor, whose impassioned French was easily distinguishable by the unwilling listeners. The sharp, indignant "No!" of the princess, oft repeated, did much to relieve the pain in the heart of her American admirer. Finally, with an unmistakable cry of anger, she halted not ten feet from where Chase sat, as though he had become a part of the stone rail.

"I have asked you not to touch me."

girl is not that enough? If you persist I shall be compelled to appeal to my father again. The whole situation is loathsome to me. Are you blind? Can you not see that I despise you? I will not endure it a day longer. You promised to respect my wishes.

"How can I respect a promise which condemns me to purgatory every time I see you?" he cried passionately. "I adore you. You are the queen of my life, the holder of my soul. Geneva, Geneva, I love you! My soul for one tender word, for one soft caress! Ah, do not be so cruel! I will be your slave!"

"Enough! Stop, I say! If you dare to touch me," she cried, drawing away from her tormentor, her voice trembling with anger. The little conductor's manner changed on the instant. He gave a snarl of rage.

"By heaven, I'll make you pay for this some day! You shall learn what a man can do with a woman such as you are! You!"

Just at that moment a tall figure leaped from the shadows and confronted the quivering musician. A heavy hand fell upon his collar, and he was almost jerked from his feet, half choked, half paralyzed with alarm. Not a word was spoken. Chase whirled the presumptuous suitor about until he faced the gates to the garden.

Then, with more force than he realized, he applied his boot to the person of the offender—once, twice, thrice!

The princess stared, wide eyed and unbelieving, upon the brief tragedy. She saw her tormentor hurried viciously toward the gates and then, with new alarm, saw him pick himself up from the ground, writhing with pain and anger. His sword flashed from its scabbard, with a scream of rage, he dashed upon the tall intruder. She saw Chase—even in the shadows she knew him to be the American—she saw Chase lightly leap aside, avoiding the thrust for his heart. Then, as if he were playing with a child, he wrested the weapon from the conductor's hand, snapped the blade in two pieces and threw them off into the bushes.

"Skip!" was his only word. It was a command that no one in Rapp-Thorberg ever had heard before. "You shall pay for this!" screamed the conductor, tugging at his collar. "Scoundrel! Dog! Beast! What do you mean? Murderer! Robber! Assassin!"

W. M. M. S. A. M. E. CHURCH

On Monday, November 15th, the ladies of the 11th Episcopal district met in Mount Zion A. M. E. church, Rev. D. M. Baxter, pastor, and after devotional exercises, a glorious love feast and testimonial meeting, the organization was perfected, and the following officers were chosen, viz: Mrs. P. S. Salter, president; Mrs. R. B. Brooks, 1st vice president, Jacksonville; Mrs. F. K. Powers, 2nd vice president, Ocala; Mrs. W. D. Certain, secretary, Live Oak; Mrs. H. E. Daniels, assistant secretary, West Florida Conference, and Mrs. F. Lavette, treasurer, of the Florida Conference.

After this the visitors were brought forth and introduced. Among them were Mrs. R. S. Mitchell, president of the Baptist Home Mission Society of the state of Florida; Mrs. I. O. Parker, former president of the same society; Mrs. Aquilla Johnson, local president Covenant Baptist church, and Rev. T. W. Williams of the M. E. church. All of these speakers made touching appeals for Christian unity and fellowship, without regard to denomination in the persecution of missionary efforts.

The president, Mrs. Salter, responded, agreeing with all that was said for the unity of the Christian church to save the outcast and fallen.

Among the brethren of our town church the following were present: Reva. G. W. Hawkins, P. E. of the Ocala district; J. A. Quarterman, P. E. of the Leesburg district; S. S. Andrews, A. N. Richie, J. A. Holmes, P. G. Gowens and the pastor, D. M. Baxter. These brethren gave whatever aid and encouragement they could to the success of the cause.

The bishop was not able to be present owing to the pressing demands for his time at Edward Waters College, which is being erected, and he hopes to go into it in January, but he sent a telegram bidding God speed, which was received with many cheers.

Mrs. J. W. Duke's read a paper on mission work in the afternoon. Rev. D. M. Baxter, B. D., preached the missionary sermon at night, after which Mrs. D. M. Baxter read a paper on "The Part Women Must Play in the Missionary Field."

Miss E. L. Harris is the reporter for the Jacksonville papers, Mrs. M. M. Holloway for the church papers, Mrs. F. K. Powers for the Ocala Banner and S. J. Alexander for the Ocala Evening Star.

About Sewing Machines

Why Not Buy The Best?

There is no economy in buying machines that are cheap in mechanism, and high in price, that you will want to trade off in a short time. A "SINGER" is always the pride of its owner. The Singer Sewing Machine is recognized all over the world as the model of sewing machine perfection, and all other makes are judged by the Singer standard. That is why every woman is proud to own a Singer, sold only by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., dealing directly from maker to user. They are now being sold at lower prices.
