NO PAPER TOMORROW

The Star had not intended to skip an issue on account of Thanksgiving this year, but as most of our printers want to attend the fair, we have decided to give them and our readers a rest tomorrow. We'll see you again Friday.

MR. MEFFERT'S PETITION FILED

The friends of Mr. J. M. Meffert insist that he become a candidate for mayor and he has yielded to the majority. His petition was filed at the special meeting last night. There will now be two candidates for this office, Mayor John D. Robertson, the present incumbent and Mr. Meffert.

TRUE TO HIS CALLING

The car of Mr. J. M. Meffert in the automobile parade this morning was decorated true to his calling, being banked in sheaves of oats, demonstrating as an all around farmer Mr. Meffert has no superior in the county.

It is reported that there will be no excursion train from Gainesville to Ocala for the benefit of those desiring to come to the fair because the railroads are giving cheap rates to the Jacksonville carnival. This is a matter that should receive the attention of the fair authorities later.

Hon. E. L. Wartman of Citra came down yesterday afternoon with ten boxes of fine fruit to exhibit at the fair. They are from the Citra groves of Messrs. Crosby and Wartman and consist of grapefruit, navel and pineapple oranges and tangerines. The fruit looked as if it had been moulded in fine paraffin. So beautiful were they that they fairly glowed. This same firm captured the blue ribbon last year and the gilt in Ed Wartman's eye indicated he saw another blue ribbon in the air for this year's exhibit, though he will have some grapefruit pitted against him from Lake Bryant grown by G. W. Brant, that are near kin to the finest and best that ever ripened.

Mr. R. A. Boyd of Reddick was in town yesterday. He said he had been in Florida for 30 years, 25 of which he had spent at Reddick, being one of its pioneers. He will return to take in the fair.

This morning at the fair grounds we counted 53 stalls filled with trotters for the races and equines from Marion county for exhibition. Among them were J. E. Howell's beautiful dark bay stallion, S. H. Gaitskill's Kentucky jack; W. M. Gist's fine bay stallion; colts belonging to Mr. Good-year and Claude Campbell; a horse of June Counts; mother and colt of F. W. Ellison Anthony. The pens were full of cattle and horses belonging to the Marions Farms, H. E. Whitworth, Alfred Ayer, Chambliss & Co., Chambliss & Howell, J. M. Meffert, S. T. Sistrunk, J. E. Mabry. A very handsome Jersey bull and a beauty of a Jersey cow belonging to June Counts, W. M. Gist, S. R. Pyles, Swine belonging to S. T. Sistrunk, J. E. Whitworth, H. H. Whitworth, E. D. Boyer, Boardman, Guinea pigs by the Clayton boys, Willie and Tom and others. Of sheep and goats there was a fair exhibit, made by Chambliss, Gist, Dr. Booser, the latter are the famous milk goats that give from three quart to a gallon of milk, of which the cheese for epicureans is made, etc. Particulars later.

The corn contest has scarcely begun, although there are nearly 90 boys in for Dr. Booser's prizes and about 40 farmers. The display of corn is simply wonderful, showing what can be done when the proper spirit is thrown into it. But this year's trial is scarcely a beginning as it will be on with renewed zeal for next year for the prizes will be doubled and then you'll see corn that will take the breath of the native. Nothing like the present display was ever known before in the state.

Robert McDonald from the Conner section was in town this morning with the jaw of a razor back hog. That hog in his day could fight his own battles.

Col. J. H. Livingston received an order this morning from Mrs. J. E. Grant, from Gorgona, Isthmus of Panama, for soap berry seed from Col. Livingston's famous soap berry tree. The colonel is receiving a great many orders for soap berry seed for all over the country.

M. and Mrs. C. P. Harman of Tazewell, Va., arrived last night to spend the winter. They are temporarily located at the Montezuma.

The old landmark, the blacksmith show one block west of H. B. Masters corner on Exposition street, has been torn down. It was occupied for years by Mr. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foy of Bellevue are the guests during fair week of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Mrs. Foy's parents.

Wilbur Cleveland, a student in the scientific department at Rollins College, came home yesterday to attend the fair.

Another lady in the Tampa Times' endurance auto run was Mrs. Woods, wife of the St. Petersburg banker, in car No. 6.

Postmaster Crom was in Jacksonville Monday but returned in time Tuesday to do the checking in and out of the Tampa Times' endurance auto racers in the afternoon.

Prof. R. L. Turner of Inverness and superintendent of schools of Citrus county, was in town today attending the fair.

The entries for the fair closed at 9 o'clock this morning. There was a rush of exhibitors.

Mrs. E. H. Mote returned from Leesburg today, where her husband is busily engaged packing and shipping his citrus fruit.

Mr. Sam Petteway and little son of Dunnell spent today and last night in the city guests of the Montezuma.

THE MARION COUNTY FAIR

Second Annual Display of Products of the Banner County of the State Larger and Better Than Ever—A Visit of Inspection.

We took a look at some of the exhibits at the Marion County Fair last evening. Our observations were hurried, but we saw enough to convince us that the second annual fair of Marion county's products would be, when all were placed in position, the best ever gathered for display in this section.

Industrial Exhibits

We started in under the first grandstand, going north. There were several booths on each side. Those on the right consist of displays by R. E. Yonge & Son, including everything that a plumber can put in a bath room and the model room was a thing of comfort and luxury. Next following are the booths filled with painting implements from the H. B. Masters company; next two booths not yet occupied, but following them is a very excellent display of crate material and oranges boxes by the Ocala Manufacturing company, Meffert & Taylor. The finish on this product is indeed fine.

Beginning at the entrance on the left is the display of the Marion Hardware company in charge of Messrs. Frank Wetherbee and Charles Flippen, consisting of gas engines, pumps and all kinds of farming implements. Those in charge had their wares rolled up and were working like beavers getting everything in apple pie order. Next was the display of the Ocala Plumbing & Electric Co. and the Woodmar Sand & Stone Co., with Mr. J. W. Aiken as the master spirit. The front of the booth is inclosed by a model stone fence, the floor is of cement hexagon blocks and a beautiful stone mantel is in the rear. In this booth is every kind of device of the plumber's art and the lights are furnished by an acetylene plant, and the hearth in the fire place is supplied with fuel from the same plant. The display was most complete and attractive and showed the great improvement made within a quarter of a century in ad- vanced conveniences and comforts of living in Ocala. Knight & Lang's booth came next, where many modern vehicles can be seen. Following was a very creditable display of the Ocala Gas Engine Works, with machinery appliances and stock for the garage. The next booth is that of the Teapot Grocery, which was very tastefully fitted up by Willie Blitlich, the manager, and included everything in the way of delectable edibles and the cream in fancy groceries. Next came the exhibit of the H. B. Masters Co. of all manner of canned goods, jellies, jams, etc., and we will leave it to the public as to which of the two rival firms made the most attractive display. At this booth Mrs. Kurr, of Chicago, will display and exploit the products canned and preserved by the importing and manufacturing house of Messrs. Sprague, Warner & Co., one of the leading grocery firms of the Windy City. Opposite the H. B. Masters Co. is a booth to be occupied by the Ocala Furniture company, and the O. K. Grocery has a very creditable exhibit in the way of canned goods, crackers and fancy groceries next to the H. B. Masters hardware exhibit, tastily arranged by the artistic hand and eye of Harvey Clark, that store's popular owner and manager.

Poultry and Fowls

Seventy-five feet north of the old grandstand we entered the new stand for colored people, where is located the poultry exhibit. Beneath this grandstand there are three rows of coops that will accommodate easily 600 fowls. Exhibits were coming in rapidly. Mr. W. M. Shockley of Oak was recording the entries, all known by numbers, the names being recorded on the entry books only, but we learned among the enthusiastic exhibitors were Messrs. Jewell, Bittling, Shockley, Helvenston, Gary, Carney and dozens of others the exhibits embracing the leading strains of chickens, such as White Leghorn, Rhode Island Red, Buff Orpington, Plymouth Rocks, with game chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, etc. Among these were indeed beauties and in size if roasted would feed a small banquet table. William Simmons of Silver Springs brought in a coop of wonderful Japanese game chickens. The rooster in the flock had a tail three feet and ten inches long and some chickens of this strain have been known to grow a tail twenty feet long. The chickens are gray brown and the rooster brown and silver black. They sure will attract attention.

The Midway Attractions

Just to the left of this building is the great white way, where the festive shows hold forth and the hungry and thirsty can quench their thirst and satisfy their cravings for food. Horticultural Building We retrace our steps and enter the horticultural hall from the rear and turning to our right we behold a superb display of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, shaddock, with a number of magnificent grapefruit, as many as a dozen in a cluster. Among the exhibitors here we noted E. O. Cordery of Lynne, Mr. G. W. Brant of Lak-

THE AUTOMOBILE PARADE

The automobile parade this morning drew several hundred people to the square to witness the same and the procession went up Oklawaha avenue and back Fort King, up Main street to the corner of the Court Pharmacy and out to the fair grounds. There were 29 decorated automobiles in the procession preceded and followed by many more. The decorations were something surprising, wonderful and beautiful. The two cars that attracted much attention and amusement were the Cadillacs from the Ocala Gas Engine Works driven by Messrs. Pratt Morris and Joe Octgen, dressed as clowns. The decorations were designed by Mrs. J. R. Moorhead and were very striking, reflecting great credit on her artistic taste in blending colors. The antics of the clowns were amusing. It was simply impossible to get the names of those who drove the cars and the specific decorations. One of the particularly attractive and beautifully decorated cars was that of Mrs. Edward Holder, decorated with yellow butterflies. Another and one which rivaled Mrs. Holder's in popular favor, was that of Mr. J. H. Taylor, it being brilliant in sunflowers and the ladies occupying the car were wearing flower parasols. The affair was so brilliant and pleasing to the eye it won the admiration of every one and many were the exclamations of surprise, delight and pleasure showered on the participants that had they heard these words before commencing the checks of the fair occupants would have tingled with suppressed pleasure. In this case Ocala, as is her custom when the emergency arises, rose to the full measure of her progressive and public spirited statue.

LOCAL LEGISLATION

The council meeting last night was short and sweet. The absent members were Aldermen Duval and Jones. Mr. J. M. Meffert's name was presented as a candidate for mayor on a numerous signed petition and his name was ordered placed on the official ticket. Messrs. Copeland & Ingis were paid $1,000 on their paving contract on North Magnolia street. The clerk was ordered to issue certificates on the first two blocks of paving, on property abutting on North Magnolia street. Dr. Jones was an applicant for the office of milk and meat inspector.
