CLAUDE L'ENGLE'S CANVASS

Brilliant Former Editor Claims to be Meeting Much Encouragement in His House to House Canvass

(Pensacola Journal)

Claude L'Engle, candidate for United States senator, who has been in Pensacola for two days, leaves this morning for all points in Escambia county that can be reached in a two days' rail and buggy trip. He has started on his second trip through Florida to carry out his declared intention of seeing as many people as possible before the voting time arrives. To those who ask him about the senatorial campaign, Mr. L'Engle says: "It is impossible for a man to tell how he is getting along in a campaign that has to be made under conditions that exist at present in Florida. Under our primary law amended by the last legislature, the people have the election of their representative absolutely in their hands and each individual qualified to vote can exert his influence in the choice of public officials. I cannot understand how a candidate can estimate his chance of election until he has seen or heard expressions from all the people who will vote in the primaries, and when he has seen them all I know not how he can possibly get information of the intentions of the voters on which to make an estimate that is worth anything.

Met 12,000 Voters

"On my first tour of the state—just completed—on which I visited more than 200 Florida towns, I have personally met twelve thousand voters to whom I have given one of my folders in which I have set forth, in condensed form, the governmental principles which I believe will best safeguard the rights and liberties of the people, yet I cannot say what impression I have made on a majority of these twelve thousand.

"Some people in each town I have visited have declared for me, but aside from a kind and courteous reception most of the people I have met have not expressed their voting intention. "I am encouraged to keep right on with my canvass, as I have begun it for many reasons. Chief among them is that I believe the only proper way for a man to get a public office is to convince a majority of the people that he is the man best fitted to represent them. The only way to convince the people is to see them. I am seeing them. Then nearly all the people I meet say they know me either by having read my paper, or reading about the rights I have made on bad conditions in the state. When a man is known as I am known, he has a good chance to win in his fight against the same influences that have opposed him, when he asks the people for whom he has fought, to let him further serve them in one of the offices that belong to them.

No Special Interests

"There is no special interest behind me; no political crowd or faction running me; no group, gang or bunch pulling for me; no person, institution or company putting up for me. "I am determined to owe my office to all the people, or do without the office.

"If a few people run a candidate when he is running, they will run him after he arrives.

"If a small crowd get together, and by a campaign fund, spent by a campaign committee, put a candidate through—they will keep right on putting him through after he is elected. "Special interests have elected the senators in most of the states, and special legislation in turned out by them for the special benefit of the special interests.

"This special legislation has become the curse of the country.

A New Sensation

"I want to give the United States Senate a new suggestion, by having a man break into it who cannot be tagged, and to whom no man, or group of men, can point and say— "He is our man, for we put him there."

"If I am elected, the people of Florida can say—He is our man. We elected him."

"So I will keep on seeing the people and will keep on hoping that I can convince a little more than half of them than I am the man to cast their vote in the United States Senate."

WOMEN WHO ARE ENVIED

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation of kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, brighten eyes, pure the breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them, 50c. at all druggists.

At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever."
