Cut Rate Druggists Win Victory in Cincinnati

W. D. Freeman, manufacturer of face powder, sued Raphael W. Miller, one of the agents, for $21,000 alleged damages. Freeman, it was alleged, entered into a contract with Miller in which the latter was bound not to sell any of the Freeman productions to any druggist who would sell it at lower than the retail price fixed, specified by the manufacturer. Miller sold a quantity of the Freeman powder to Miss M. C. Dow, a Cincinnati "cut rate" druggist. Miller demurred to the suit, alleging the contract with Freeman was in violation of the Valentine anti-trust law. Judge Hoffheimer sustained the demurrer, declaring the contract was in restraint of trade, against a public policy and a clear violation of the law.
