

This Old-Tim River Captain Cured Malaria

(Cincinnati Enquirer.) Capt. Wm. Wells was a well known captain on the Mississippi river "before the war." He was the man who first said, "When fever and ague first got me I was so sick I was afraid I wouldn't die."

HARBOR, RIVER AND MARINE NEWS

Shipping Transactions and Notes of Interest Along the Bay Front

Making a hurried round of the ports the steamer Tarpon reached her dock at 4 a. m. yesterday, bringing 50 sacks of cotton and 100 barrels of naval stores. The Tarpon left here Wednesday at 4 a. m., getting back at the same hour yesterday. A lot of merchandise is now in the warehouse awaiting shipment.

Two For Coal. The German steamship Antonia, with cargo in transit from Galveston, and the British steamship Victoria de Larrinaga, in ballast, 25 days from Buenos Ayres, arrived in port yesterday for bunker coal. Captain Harrison, who was here on the steamer Pinar del Larrinaga three years ago in the storm, is in command of the Victoria de Larrinaga, which is a vessel of 4520 tons. The latter was berthed at Comandancia wharf and the Antonia went over to Muscogee wharf under the coal chutes.

Smacks Not Reported. No reports were yesterday received from the several fishing smacks, the absence of which is causing considerable uneasiness and speculation here as to their fate. Every sail in gulf or bay which may be "picked up" by glasses is eagerly watched in the hope that it may prove to be one of the missing vessels.

Oyster Fleet Busy. About a score of small sloops which have been anchored in a slip for the summer were given an examination this week to ascertain their seaworthiness and get away for the week for Escambia bay in search of the festive oyster. The first returned yesterday and half a day after they had tied up had distributed that delicacy, the Escambia oyster, to some of the early traders. Buyers were plentiful and a good price secured. The catch promises to be extra large during the new season.

No Naval Stores. No naval stores arrived at Central wharf yesterday. The cargoes brought here by the schooner Ellen C. and steamer J. P. Williams were unloaded Saturday. The Tarpon's cargo of 900 barrels was discharged at the east side of Tarragona dock.

Merchandise for Packets. Large consignment of merchandise for several river packets now at the docks were loaded to the bay front yesterday. The steamer Vernon was loaded, for points in Washington county; the steamer Eugene was supplied with port cargo Saturday for the Freeport region, while a number of schooners which had arrived the day before were filled out by local wholesalers for numerous points.

Lost Grace of the Clipper. In general appearance sea craft are much changed—it must be admitted in some respects not for the better. Cargo steamers particularly have degenerated in outward form. They are clumsier, more angular, less graceful than formerly. One looks in vain for the clipper bows, rakish masts, and trim sails of the early traders. The changes which culminated in the tramp of today came gradually. First the masts, already reduced in number, size, and importance by the supersession of steam over sail power, were stripped of yards and square sails and later the topsails, in some steamers not even a trysail being carried.

Now, alas for sentiment! Masts are frequently fitted without rake, and gawky a ship so fitted looks alongside those of the older style. But a raked mast is a bad derrick post, and efficiency first, appearance last, is the present rule. Even standing rigging, with its convention rattles, beloved of the youthful mariner, is disappearing in favor of the widely spaced guy ropes, a prosaic iron ladder riveted to the mast giving access to the masthead. In many vessels, too, forests of derrick posts stand up awkwardly from the deck, making the derricks and running gear when seen on the skyline a most extraordinary show, the ships looking for all the world like floating factories.

NEW LICENSES WERE ISSUED

COMPTROLLER HAD SATISFIED EIGHTY-FOUR APPLICANTS FOR NEW DOCUMENT UP TO THE HOUR OF CLOSING LAST EVENING.

Up to the hour of closing his office Saturday afternoon, Comptroller J. G. Ward had issued eighty-four new licenses to as many applicants, and had there have been a system of getting the licenses without leaving the city hall building, possibly a few more would have been issued. As it is now, and under the present system, the fee is paid at the American National Bank, the city depository, a treasurer's receipt is given and upon presentation of such receipt to the comptroller and the payment of a fee of 25 cents, the license is issued. The licenses issued yesterday covered a varied line of businesses, but among them were four liquor licenses, which net the city, under the new law, one thousand dollars each. People show an inclination to get licenses early, and during the week the officials anticipate quite a lively business.

BOAT CLUB TO HOLD MEETING

GOOD ATTENDANCE DESIRED AT IMPORTANT GATHERING AT EARLY HOUR SUNDAY—REGATTA MATTERS WILL BE CONSIDERED.

Important matters concerning the Tri-County Fair regatta will be discussed at the meeting of the Pensacola Yacht and Motor Boat Club, which will be held at the new club rooms on Baylen wharf at 9 o'clock this morning. The meeting has been well advertised, and the attendance is expected to be large. Such should, at any rate, be the case.

The club will hear read this morning several acceptances of invitations to the regatta. Interest has been aroused in the event now a little over one month distant, and a number of out-of-town racers are coming over to participate. Expecting a good attendance today, the arrangement committee has been busy during the week fitting the new place with tables and chairs, and when opportunity is had will make more permanent and lasting improvements.

FLORIDAS "WIFE UP" WITH NORTH HILL BOYS

In an interesting game yesterday afternoon, on the North Hill playgrounds, the Floridas defeated the North Hill boys by the score of 10 to 7. The game was well played throughout. Cook was in the box for the Floridas and pitched a nice game, having eight strike-outs to his credit and passing only two men. Smith was in the box for the North Hills, having six strike-outs to his credit and passing three men.

The Floridas will cross bats with the North Hills Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock on the North Hill playground.

AMUSEMENTS

Orpheum Theatre. Last night marked the closing night of one of the biggest and most successful weeks that the Orpheum has had this season, for never in the history of the theatre have better pleased audiences left the house and Manager Vuocich states that the good work which he considers a wonder on his part for next week that will compare favorably with any that has ever played at his house. Miss Isabella Vaughn, the Gypsy violinist, comes here after being the hit of the bill at the big Orpheum in New Orleans last week. Her bill is considered one of her favored instrument and her work here is bound to make her very popular with the patrons of the Orpheum. Ches. and Madeline Dunbar are singers and comedy sketch artists and they will present some good ro-roaring comedy material during their stay here. Their sketch "Father and the Girl" will be one of their funny creations while playing in this city. The Newsboys' Quartette are also billed to appear, but it is not known at this time whether or not they will be able to reach this city in time to open up on Monday, as they are making a jump direct from Chicago. At any rate, if they can't make it in time to open on Monday, another big act will be on hand to take their place.

"The Man of the Hour." The greatest of all American plays. "The Man of the Hour," will be seen this season at a nearly date at the opera house. This play has been enthusiastically received everywhere. The press is a unit in not only promoting it but in praising it as one of the greatest of our time and concede it to be the crowning triumph of all American plays.

"The Henrietta." Joseph and William W. Jefferson, supported by a company of exceptional merit, will present Bronson Howard's famous comedy, "The Henrietta," in this city in the near future. Both of the Jefferson boys will have parts in "The Henrietta" which will permit the fullest display of their talents. The character of "Old Nick," which will be portrayed by Joseph Jefferson, is a complex collection of the entire gamut from the lightest of comedy to a dramatic situation that can only be handled by such an actor as Mr. Jefferson. William W. Jefferson will portray "Bertie, the lamb." This character is an exclusively comedy creation and in such capable hands as Willie Jefferson's it should be screamingly funny. Mr. Jefferson has been fortunate in being allotted many great comedy parts, yet in spite of this fact it can be said that never before has he had such glorious fun making possibilities as in "The Henrietta."

The supporting company is fully in keeping with the high standard of merit maintained by the Jefferson boys. The company includes several theatrical celebrities of note and every one of the many parts will be the hands of a carefully chosen artist. "The Henrietta" with all its wealth of theatrical accessories will open to the opera house soon.

"A Gentleman From Mississippi." When "A Gentleman From Mississippi" is given in the opera house.

playgoers of this city will be shown what has proved to be the most successful American play of the last twenty years, with the possible exception of "The Man of the Hour."

The two plays are not, however, to be compared as to kind; for the latter was a dramatic work of special significance as to the times, while "A Gentleman From Mississippi" is a comedy pure and simple, telling a wholesome and domestic tale that is entirely likely and possible, and using to tell it the especial atmosphere of Washington, the national capital. The comedy is the work of Harrison Rhodes, the American playwright and novelist, and Thomas A. Wise, the distinguished actor, and is offered the public by William A. Brady and Jos. R. Grismer, whose productions in past seasons have invariably won the approval of the admiring community.

The story of "A Gentleman From Mississippi" is of an old-school Southerner, who, after forty years of useful life in his native state, is persuaded that he can do his country some service by accepting the nomination for United States senator. He is guided, he accepts, and is elected. What he does not know is that a ring of senators and lobbyists has made his election possible in order that his vote may aid them in a scheme for their own enrichment. But he engages as private secretary a spy-bright and hard-headed clean-cut, independent young newspaper man, and this chap, "Bud" Haines, soon shows the new senator the game, the way to play it, and the way to win honestly. An incidental love affair of unusual charm is between the senator's younger daughter and the newspaper man turned secretary.

"The Climax." One of the most important attractions in either the dramatic or musical line that will be seen here this season will be Joseph M. Weber's brilliant New York success, "The Climax," by Edward Locke, incidental music by Joseph Carl Brill, which is announced as one of the season's attractions. "The Climax" is said to be the most artistic, the most interesting, and the most delightful in point of construction, dialogue and development of character. The play proved to be the real dramatic surprise of the season, scoring an unprecedented success at Weber's theatre where it is now attracting large and enthusiastic audiences.

Mr. Arthur Davies, the dramatic critic of the New York Sun, had the following to say of the play: "From the rise to the fall of the curtain 'The Climax' is a complete work of art—quite different in its way from any other play which has gone before it. It is certainly a new thing in the distinction to Mr. Joseph M. Weber's career as a producing manager. Both in the selection of his cast, which has shown remarkable discernment, and in his unwavering faith in the play from the time he first read it. Mr. Weber proved himself an infallible prophet on Broadway—which, after all, means much more than being the same rarely in his own country. He always said from the outset that, properly produced, 'The Climax' could not fail to score, and his wife, an exceptionally fine musician, realizing as he did how essential it was to secure four artists, three of whom at least could play their roles from the stand point of musicians as well as actors, threw herself into the task of selecting the cast with almost as much enthusiasm as he did. The result speaks for itself, and spells the coyest and most elusive of all words in the vocabulary—'Success!'"

Al. H. Wilson. One of the attractions at the opera house soon will be Al. H. Wilson and company in the new musical play, "Metz in Ireland." Mr. Wilson's many admirers will be agreeably surprised with this new production, as it is entirely different from the style of play provided for this genial comedian in the past, although it depends largely for its appeal to the public on the quaint flashes of humor that have given such a pleasant tinge to the parts which Mr. Wilson always effects.

Mr. Wilson's character is that of a young German, born and reared in Germany, but whose father was of Irish birth and residence. On attaining his majority he journeys to the native land of his father where he becomes a great favorite with the Irish lads and lassies who love him for his quaint and droll German mannerisms and his melodious singing voice. "The scenery and electrical effects are elaborate and Manager Ellis has provided a large singing chorus who will render old-time airs of Erin and a medley which includes the most popular of Mr. Wilson's past songs successes.

The comedy element is supplied by Mr. Wilson as the lovable "Metz," the rollicking German character that we have known in other plays—the wit with the droll German dialect, the wily and witty Irishman and bright-eyed colleens of Erin's Isle, who learn that the German "blarney" dispensed by "Metz" is as seductive as the Irish article and his love songs as tuneful and pleading to the ear as those of their native land. Mr. Wilson's voice has lost none of its charm, and as the plot of his new play is to a certain extent woven around the songs, they are naturally introduced to gain double effect from their setting. For "Metz in Ireland" Mr. Wilson has written and composed "Love Thoughts," "Erin's Isle," "The Banquet," "The Nightingale Song," and "Little Jimmie Murphy." The music of these songs is of that catchy kind that sets everybody whistling and humming.

"The Gingerbread Man." It should be a matter of pleasure and anticipation to theatre-goers that "The Gingerbread Man" is announced. It will appear here at the opera house at an early date in all the glory of its original scenic development and magnificence, with a cast as talented as it is possible to imagine, and a chorus selected from the charm and femininity of the world of chorusdom. The piece has a national reputation, principally for its delightful music, which, however, is ably seconded by a book that is delightfully comic and unusually bright in lines. The late Frederick G. Rankin was responsible for it and many claim it as one of his best efforts. A Baldwin Sloane, who wrote the score, considered "The Gingerbread Man" his masterpiece, and he has written many delightful scores, all of which have been successful. The cast this season includes William Cameron, who was leading comedian at the Casino in New York for years; Ross Snow, another top-liner, who has been in the cast continuously since the piece was originally presented; Wally Helstead, who is an acrobatic dancer of ability and a comedian of great reputation; Garlick Major, the best singing baritone and actor on the operatic stage, baritone; Inez Glard and Helen Keers, prima donnas, and Rose Murray, the faintest soubrette who ever stood in two shoes. The cast is a large one in addition to these and the chorus notable for beauty and numbers. The production has been entirely rebuilt this year and the costumes are revelations of the dressmaker's art.

Bloated Stomach And Belching

Of Gas is Prevented by Using Charcoal, Which Absorbs and Removes Stomach Gases. The accumulation of gas in the stomach is caused in the following ways: 1. It may be swallowed in large quantities during certain abnormal conditions of the stomach and food-tract. 2. It may be produced by decomposition of food in the alimentary system. 3. It is often evolved from changes of the mucous secretions themselves. 4. Transuded from the blood. 5. Regurgitated from the bowels. 6. First portion of the small intestines, and in some cases from a fistulous communication with the large intestine. 7. Gas of an extremely offensive kind is produced by the decomposition of a morbid growth in the stomach, such as cancer, ulcers, tumor, etc. 8. Some forms of food are more prone than others to cause stomach gas, including sugar, starch, beans, peas, etc.

To relieve the distressing symptoms of gaseous distension of the stomach no matter what the cause may be, it has been found by numerous experiments that the most reliable and valuable remedy is charcoal, which directly absorbs all gaseous substances in the alimentary system from one end to the other as thoroughly as soap and water cleanses the skin.

The late Dr. Leonard of England strongly advocated the use of willow charcoal in the form of lozenges for the alleviation of such stomach symptoms as indigestion, fermentation, decomposition and bloating. It has also been found extremely serviceable in relieving the secondary fermentation changes in the large intestine, when administered in the form of an enema. In Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges we have the very best form in which this great gas absorbent and purifier can be administered. They are composed of the finest willow wood, treated by a special carbonizing process, and after being combined with pure honey to render them palatable, they are compressed into a lozenge, which is as agreeable to the palate as candy, and no one could possibly object to their taste.

Go to your druggist and purchase a package of these powerful little absorbents, which are capable of absorbing 100 times their own volume in gases, but be sure to ask for Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, as there are many cheap and inferior substitutes and imitations on the market, and it may be that you have given one of these minor brands a trial, and found that it did not give satisfaction; if so, don't fail to try Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, as their superiority and vast difference between them and the others will be so strongly marked and so striking, that you will ever afterward decline all substitutes and insist on having this pre-eminently superior brand.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges at all druggists, 25 cents a box. Send us your name and address, and we will send a free trial package to you by return mail. Address, F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.
