MAY MORISON.

Is it a sprite that roams forlorn? Or angel from the bowers of morn. Come down, a tear of heaven to shed. In pity o'er the valiant dead?

No rose from Eden's bosom meek Could catch that maiden's moistened cheek.

No drift wreath of mountain snow, The whiteness of her lily brow; Nor gem of India's purest dye, The luster of her eagle eye.

When beauty Eden's bowers within First stretched the arm to deeds of sin.

When passion burned, and prudence slept, The pitying angels bent and wept.

But tears more soft were never shed, No, not when angels bowed the head: A sigh more mild did never breathe.

O'er human nature whelmed in death; Nor was a dignity combine In face so lovely, so benign.

As Douglas saw that dismal hour, Bent o'er a corpse on ample-moor; A day o'er her shield, her trust, A brave, and only brother's dust!

What heart of man unmoved can lie, When plays the smile in beauty's eye?

Or when a form of grace and love To music's notes can lightly move? Yes, there are hearts unmoved can see

The smile, the ring, the revelry; But heart of warrior ne'er could bear The beam of beauty's crystal tear.

Well was that morn the maxims proved; The Douglas saw, the Douglas loved. —Name Not Given.

DREADFUL CHANGE

Mrs. Jones Was in a Serious Condition Before She Helped Herself With Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

Dexter, Tex.—"I certainly was in a serious condition when I wrote you for advice," writes Mrs. Calvin Jones, of Dexter, Tex.

"I suffered a great deal with those dizzy, fainting spells, but after taking several bottles of Cardui, relief finally came.

"Cardui prepared my system for the dreadful change and when it came it was not half as bad as those dizzy spells I had before. I now help every day with the housework and am getting along fine.

"Cardui is certainly fine for female complaints. My neighbors praise it and so do others."

Take Cardui when you feel ill in any way, weak, tired, miserable, or under the weather.

No matter what the immediate cause, it will help to brace you up, give you new force and vim, help you to throw off the trouble that troubles you.

Cardui will not interfere with any other medicine you may be taking. It is a gentle, harmless, non-mineral, non-poisonous, non-irritating tonic, that every woman ought to take when she is looking for health, strength, beauty and vitality.

A well known Boston physician who has several rheumatic patients on his feminine list has been prescribing, and successfully, too, a new form of treatment this summer.

All of these patients are confined to the house and his principal prescription is to bathe the affected part daily with hot sea water. It must be the genuine product, not a combination of sea salt and faucet water.

He further advises that the sea water be procured as early in the morning as possible, as it is purer then. In the households where these patients reside some member makes trips to near-by beaches to get a bottle or two of sea water.

Partial paralysis following an attack of grip has been successfully treated as well as rheumatism by this physician. In some cases alternate bathing with hot and cold water has been prescribed, one in the morning and one at night.

Your day will be more comfortable if you begin it with a cold bath and several glasses of water. The former will be a tonic and the latter keep all your organs in good working order.

For a tight, hoarse cough where phlegm is not raised, or with difficulty, take hot water often, as hot as can be sipped. This will be found to give immediate and permanent relief.

A trained nurse recommended frequent bathing of the face in cold water, in which there is sweet spirits of ammonia, when suffering with pain in the head. Half a teaspoonful to an ordinary basin of water is the proportion, and in this the face is soaked, using a cloth for the purpose.

Pumicestone, either powdered or in tablet form, is invaluable on a dressing table for the removal of stains, and when augmented by lemon juice there are few discolorations it will not dissipate.

Nothing of this sort must be applied any more often than necessary, for it undoubtedly makes the skin hard.
