TWO YOUNG MEN HAD A TRYING EXPERIENCE

W. F. Thompson and William Maginnis had an exciting experience at the heavy rain of Wednesday night. They were in an open boat near the east yard when the rain was heaviest, and became so confused evidently that they knew not their location correctly. The attention of the life saving crew on the island was attracted and soon the men were hauled to a place of safety, given dry clothes and made comfortable. They came over to the city yesterday and related their experiences. The launch was not damaged.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless this inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of poslam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. The Crystal Pharmacy makes a specialty of it. Fifty cents' worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

Any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, No. 52 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or clear a complexion overnight and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

LOWER COURT IS AFFIRMED IN THE CAMP CASE

SUPREME COURT PASSES UPON CASE WHICH WAS APPEALED FROM THE CRIMINAL COURT SEVERAL MONTHS AGO.

Tallahassee, Oct. 21.—The supreme court today rendered a decision in the case of William Camp of Pensacola, appealed from Escambia county, in which the decision of the lower court is affirmed. Jones & Pasco were attorneys for the plaintiff in error. The decision was one of a number to be handed down by the court at to-day's sitting.

CASE CREATED MUCH INTEREST HERE AT TIME OF TRIAL

The above will be read with interest here, owing to the interest manifested during the trial of Camp, which occurred at the January term of the criminal court, a large number of prominent young men of the city being state witnesses, and it was through their testimony that the defendant was convicted and sentenced to serve 18 months in the penitentiary. The case had its origin in the DeLuna club, which was operated for a number of months in DeLuna street, and which, at the trial, was proven to be devoted almost exclusively to a gambling house. Other parties connected with the DeLuna club have either paid heavy fines or else are now serving time in the county jail, to which they were sentenced.

Other Decisions.

Under the provisions of section 1691 general statutes of 1906, writs of error lie only from final judgments, and where there is no final judgment in a cause brought to the appellate court for review by writ of error, such cause will be dismissed by the court ex proprio motu.

Blount & Blount & Carter, for plaintiff in error; P. O. Knight and C. C. Wicker, for defendant in error. Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff in error, vs. W. J. Under the provisions of section 1691 of the general statutes of 1906, writs of error lie only from final judgments, and when a transcript of record carried by writ of error to the appellate court for review fails to show a final judgment in the cause, such writ will be dismissed by the court ex proprio motu.

A CRAZED CHINAMAN ACTED QUEERLY ON SHIP

Sneaking to the captain's apartment, tapping on the window, crouching and repeating the performance at every opportunity, a crazed Chinaman aboard a vessel at Muscogee wharf kept the ship's watchman busy all Wednesday night, because it was feared the chink intended to harm the captain. The latter was awakened when his window glass rattled, and inquired what was wanted. He ordered the Chinaman confined on shipboard. It was stated that the sailor became affected while on the voyage to Pensacola, and the watchman was advised to keep watch of the Chinaman, as he was very crazy on the ship one time and was placed in irons five days until his reason apparently returned.

WHAT CAUSES DANDRUFF. Greatest European Authority on Skin Diseases, Says It's a Germ. The old idea that dandruff is scales of skin thrown off, through a feverish condition of the scalp is exploded. Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says dandruff is a germ disease. The germ burrows under the scalp, throwing up little scales of cuticle, and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root. The only hair preparation that kills dandruff germs is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Not only cures dandruff, but stops falling hair and permits a luxuriant growth. Delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One dollar bottles guaranteed. W. A. D'Alemberte, druggist and apothecary, 121 S. Palafox St.

CANE GRINDING

By C. K. McQuarrie

When a farmer has been at the expense and trouble of raising a crop of sugar cane, he wants to get the most out of it he possibly can, and to that end he must have the best appliances he can get for the purpose.

The Cane Mill. The first consideration is the mill. It should be of the most approved style, and capable of getting at least 75 per cent of the juice from the cane. There are several excellent makes on the market, from a light one-horse mill up. The size should be decided by the amount of cane to grind, but it never pays to get a small mill. The three-roller vertical type gives the best satisfaction.

The location of the mill should be arranged high enough above the position of the evaporator to enable the juice to run by gravity in a pipe from the straining tub to the evaporator. This saves time, and gives a constant supply of juice ready for the evaporator.

The Foundation of the Mill. The mill must be set on a solid foundation, and this foundation braced in such a way that it will be impossible for the mill to move from position while at work. The best foundation, under ordinary conditions in this state, consists of lightwood posts, not less than fourteen inches in diameter and ten feet long, set in the ground at least five feet deep. The proper setting of these posts is quite important. Holes must be dug for every individual post with a slant towards the center, so that when the mill is set on top of them it will be on a level. Therefore all the holes must be dug to the same depth, with a post-hole digger if possible. We want as small a hole as will take the post, for the smaller the hole the better able we will be to make a solid job of the necessary tamping after the post is in place. In setting these posts so as to get them perfectly solid, sand or soil must be tamped all around each individual post, and plenty of water poured on during the tamping process to help make them solid in their places, so that none of them will move when grinding begins. Then brace them thoroughly from the inside with 2 by 4 scantling material.

Setting the Mill in Position. In setting the mill in position on top of these posts, a good plan is to bolt a couple of pieces of 2 by 4 inch, about 8 feet long, to the base of the mill, and then bolt these pieces to the top of the posts, either by lag screws or set-in bolts. This makes it easier to level up the mill, and helps the solidity of the whole.

If the posts are ten feet long, and are set five feet in the ground, a space of five feet is available for the juice tub and the necessary straining appliances.

Straining the Juice. The first step toward getting a high-grade syrup is the clean and thorough straining of the juice as it leaves the mill spout. A tub made from the half of a syrup barrel answers well for the strainer. A hole should be bored in the side of the tub large enough to admit the end of the juice pipe, and the junction should be made tight so as not to leak. The tub should be placed on a platform to get it up close to the mill spout. A piece of fine wire-cloth should be tacked over the hole at the end of the pipe in the tub, to act as a strainer. This should be fitted on so that it can easily be taken off for cleaning, which will often be necessary. If "black moss" can be had in quantity, an excellent juice filter can be made by filling the tub with it; but it must be renewed several times daily. It can be used over again if it is washed and dried, and then the dust shaken from it. On top of the tub and held in place by a wire hoop, a double thickness of cheese cloth should be used. This will also require to be often renewed. On top of all a piece, about 18 inches square, of ordinary window wire netting should be laid, to catch the rough parts as the juice runs from the mill spout.

This gives us the straining and a filtering, which should make the juice clean enough for evaporating.

Dependable Proprietary Medicines. It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for thirty years, and today hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.
