BOOST, BOOM, BUILD—THAT'S ALL.

Cobb ought to insist on the Detroit team spelling it Tygers.

Kissimmee, with a tax rate of only fifteen mills, is the envy of nearly every other city in Florida.

It may be lucky for Fenny that Kaud Rasmussen is away up yonder in Greenland, for the gentleman has a name to indicate that the man who might cast reflection on his veracity would do well to keep at a safe distance.

BOOST, BOOM, BUILD—THAT'S ALL.

Anyone who has tasted persimmon beer will doubtless feel thankful should its manufacture and sale be forever stopped in Alabama.

Uncle Joe Cannon says that if those insurgents are republicans he is not one; so, "What is a republican?" is the question of the hour.

THE TIME DRAWS CLOSE FOR THE TRI-COUNTY FAIR AND EXHIBITORS SHOULD HASTEN TO MAKE THEIR ENTRIES.

About the most unjust, the meanest thing we have heard of lately was that done by a New York judge the other day, who placed one Patrick Scully under bond to keep the peace for six months because the latter raised a rumpus when his wife placed pins feet before him for his thirty-third consecutive meal.

Editor Harris, of The Ocala Banner, spoke true in his interesting editorial, "We don't know much." A moment's thought must convince us that we know next to nothing.

PEERLESS PENSACOLA, THE BEST PORT SOUTH OF PORTSMOUTH.

The "Major" of the Democrat acknowledges with warm appreciation the generous recognition of his return to these headquarters by the DeSoto County News, The Pensacola Journal and other state papers.

PEERLESS PENSACOLA, THE BEST PORT SOUTH OF PORTSMOUTH.

That the proposed system of inland waterways is about the most important matter before the people has been accepted for many years, and it seems a pity that this home improvement was not completed before so much money was expended on the Panama canal.

BOOST, BOOM, BUILD—THAT'S ALL.

Dismay was caused by the bank of England when, on the 21st of this month its interest rate was raised to 5 per cent, having been 3 per cent on the 19th.

Where Are These Advocates of "Regulation?"

If anything were needed to demonstrate the absolute hypocrisy of the plea of the liquor interests for "regulation," it is the proposition now before the city council to knock out the 9-o'clock closing law.

When a prohibition campaign comes on, the liquor interests and their wet allies all become ardent apostles of "regulation." They wake up to it suddenly. They can't talk it strong enough. They don't believe in prohibition because, among other reasons, "prohibition doesn't prohibit," but they do believe in "regulation." That is the solution—particularly before election.

Two years ago when a prohibition election had been called, the liquor people suddenly became converted to the idea that what Pensacola wanted was not prohibition, but regulation. They therefore had drafted a regulation ordinance raising the license, fixing a 9-o'clock closing hour, and restricting the saloon district.

The ordinance worked fine. It enabled the saloon men to carry the county wet by the very skin of their teeth, which was more than they at one time thought they could do.

Immediately after the election, the regulation ordinance having served its purpose, the saloon men proceeded to knock the restricting clause out in court and then went to work to get the 9-o'clock closing provision repealed.

The city council, however, regarding the ordinance as a compact of honor which could not be thus summarily set aside, refused to become a party to the treachery which the saloon people proposed, and what remained of the regulation ordinance has been allowed to stand intact until the present time.

Now the city council has before it an ordinance knocking out the 9-o'clock closing section of the ordinance—a section that constitutes about the only real regulative feature of the law.

Nobody would expect anything better of the whisky business itself, but where is that vast army of wet voters who are not in the saloon business and who we have reason to believe meant what they said when they declared for 9-o'clock closing? If they were sincere about it before election, have they changed their minds since election? If 9-o'clock closing was a good thing then, why is it a bad thing now?

Won't some of these sincere friends of "regulation" please speak up? The Journal will take pleasure in publishing anything they have to say on the subject. Don't all speak at once.

WHAT IT COSTS TO BE ARRESTED

AMOUNT OF FEES THAT ARE COLLECTED BY EACH OF THE COUNTY OFFICIALS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

The wholesale arrests by deputy sheriffs of women during the past week has caused considerable discussion as to the amount of fees that are collected by all county officials in such cases, and in order that the public may know exactly what the costs in each case amount to, the following is published, being copied from a bill of costs as submitted to the Board of County Commissioners, is the minimum, and is where the defendant entered a plea of guilty:

Sheriff's costs: Arresting $1.00, Return of warrant $1.00, Commitment of prisoner $1.00, Recommitment of prisoner $1.00, Release of prisoner $1.00.

Total $2.10. Justice's costs: Affidavit $1.00, Warrant $1.00, Docketing $1.00, Judgment $1.00, Approving bond $1.00, Filing $1.00.

Total $1.54. Clerk's costs: Docketing $1.00, Appraising $1.00, Taxing costs, etc. $1.00, Commitment, etc. $1.25, Filing two papers $1.00.

Total $2.51. Solicitor's fee $5.00.

Grand total $11.15. To this must be added: Approving two bonds by justice, which must be paid for at time $2.00.

The professional bondsman then comes in for signing two bonds $10.00. Making a total of $23.15. This is the minimum cost, and does not include a preliminary hearing, trial at the criminal court or summing or twice swearing of witnesses. In the event of trial the cost would be increased to between $50 and $75.

test would be to create sharp and aggressive antagonism between the supporters of the candidates in West Florida, which would endure until the general primary, and enlist a large number of the friends of the defeated candidate against the successful one, and defeat the effect of the primary anticipated by Judge Reeves, of having the west support the victorious candidate. Upon the contrary, a sharp, divided west would present an easy victory to the other candidates.

The majority of the victorious candidate might be a majority of one vote, or of ten votes, or some very small number, and the effect of this small technical numerical majority would be to outweigh the thousands of votes in the other parts of the state who might desire the defeated person to be a candidate, and such a result would not be satisfactory to the defeated candidate, nor to the voters of the state of Florida, because it might eliminate the candidate more desirable to a majority of the voters in the whole state.

OTHER OBJECTIONS. This has grown longer than I anticipated, and I merely mention other objections which seem to me vital:

The preliminary canvass would require very much time in campaigning, in the selection of the hundreds of clerks, inspectors and canvassers, and in general supervision, and would necessitate the expenditure of much money, all of which would be better used in preparing for the general primary, and in endeavoring to defeat the other candidates; it would entail upon the friends of each candidate the burden of assistance always given by them in campaigns, and a consequent loss of time, which the West Florida candidates should not, merely in order to gratify their own personal ambition, request, especially as the efforts of his friends would be determined in no wise of who would finally be United States senator; there would be no assurance whatever that a full expression of the opinions of even the friends of the candidates would be obtained, for in the absence of the excitement of a general campaign, in which others are interested, the number of voters going to the polls would be necessarily small, and thus the result desired, of obtaining the voice of all of West Florida, would fail of accomplishment.
