

Constipation And Appendicitis

The Latter Usually Caused By The Former, Which, In Turn, Has Its Origin In Intestinal Indigestion.

Chronic constipation is a disease which is about as prevalent as dyspepsia and indigestion. Nearly every one suffers from it occasionally, but there are millions of people who endure it habitually, and who are accustomed to resort to the use of laxatives and cathartics daily.

Many people seemed to have developed a perfect mania for taking pills, and instead of trying to ascertain the latent cause of the disease, and removing it by appropriate treatment, they are content to continue the reckless use of laxatives, aperients, drastic cathartics and violent purgatives, until finally inflammation of the bowels occurs, which is appendicitis, the result is appendicitis.

In investigating and tracing the causative factors of constipation and its frequent sequel, appendicitis, it has been noted by physicians that the majority of cases were preceded and accompanied by a long-standing gastro-intestinal indigestion.

The idea that appendicitis is brought on by foreign bodies, such as seeds, etc., becoming lodged in the appendix, is an exploded theory. It is now definitely known that constipation is the most prolific cause of the dread disease, while the constipation itself is previously induced by intestinal indigestion, or amyloseous dyspepsia—the inability to digest starches—so the relation between cause and effect is readily seen and appreciated.

The absurdity of attempting to cure constipation by the use of physic should be apparent to every one. Laxative drugs and powerful purgatives will never cure a disease of this sort, and those who make frequent or regular use of them will, sooner or later, set up an inflammatory condition of the intestinal system.

A person with first-class digestion will never be annoyed with chronic constipation, and when this trouble does exist, instead of slugging the system with pills, liquid laxatives, and cathartics, etc., use a remedy which will cure the gastro-intestinal indigestion, and you will find that the constipation no longer bothers you, and with its removal, the risk of developing appendicitis will be reduced to the minimum.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have been the means of curing numerous cases of constipation, by first curing the intestinal indigestion. They digest every kind of food, a single grain being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of alimentum, and in addition to peptin and other powerful digestives, they also contain diastase, which converts starch into sugar, and readily cures amyloseous dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, constipation, and, in fact, indigestion of any kind, don't run the risk of getting appendicitis, but strike at the root of the trouble—the original cause—by using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which will quickly rid you of all functional disorders of the alimentary tract.

Secure a box of this disease-ridding remedy from your druggist for 50c, and send your name and address to the P. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for a free sample package.

Nine-piece crucible steel kitchen set, free. TRIBUTE TO WORK OF FLORIDA MAN

A high tribute to the work of the late John O. LaPointe of Jacksonville, who, with Ass. L. Brower, conducted the government's thoroughgoing study of the naval stores industry last year, was paid by R. S. Kellogg, assistant forester in charge of forest statistics of the United States forest service, in his speech at the annual convention of turpentine operators' association in Jacksonville recently. Assistant Forester Kellogg said:

"Another step toward increasing our knowledge of the naval stores industry was taken when, at the instance of Senator Tallafiero, the agricultural appropriation bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1908, provided $10,000 for an inquiry into the destruction of forests by the production of turpentine and rosin and the sources and methods of the industry.

"To carry out the provisions of Senator Tallafiero's amendment, the forest service detailed to the work Mr. John O. LaPointe of Jacksonville and Mr. Ass. L. Brower, a graduate of the School of Forestry of the University of Michigan. With Mr. LaPointe's energy and sterling qualities you were acquainted even better than we were in the forest service. We who worked with him sincerely regret with you his untimely death, and we both realize full well the real loss which it brought to the naval stores industry.

"Mr. LaPointe and Mr. Brower traveled through every part of the south gathering statistics of production and making a careful study of the long leaf pine forests. The facts which they secured and the conclusions which they reached give most valuable information upon the present status of the industry."

SUCCESS OF TRI-CO. FAIR IS ASSURED

FIRST ATTEMPT IN FAIR LINE TO BE SO THOROUGHLY SUCCESSFUL THAT FUTURE ONES WILL BE EASY CROWD WINNERS.

All question as to the success of the Tri-County Fair of Nov. 9-12 is past. It is going to be a success with as large an "S" as you may care to use, it being the first attempt in that line and so much of what might be termed educational work having had to be done, both with the people in the town as well as those who will make exhibits from the country, it has been rather hard and seemingly slow getting things started off, but everything is working smoothly now. Entries already in sight and made insure a splendid exposition of agricultural products. The engagement of Madame Manette's trained horses, one of the highest class attractions ever offered to fair patrons, and the other free attractions insure plenty of entertainment to those who do not care to see the pay shows, while the amusements of that class will all be of the best and there will be nothing tolerated on the grounds that will offend any one, and all gambling devices will be conspicuous by their absence.

In the department of Woman's Work there will be a magnificent showing of the handwork of the ladies including fancy work of all kinds, paintings, pen and ink drawings, canned goods, preserves, and all those things that tell of the skill and taste of femininity.

Arrangements have been made for a splendid band which will give three concerts daily, the fiddler's contest will furnish lots of amusement to those who enjoy old fashioned fiddling, the arrangements are being made for the singing contest for the Sunday schools, and there will be those things which amuse and instruct all over the fair grounds on all four days.

There will be ample transportation facilities by the street cars, the railroad, motor boats, and automobiles so that every one can readily reach the grounds and return. In fact, everything has been done and is being done to provide for the comfort, convenience and pleasure of the crowds who will come this year so that hereafter the mere announcement that another fair is being held will awaken an enthusiastic determination on the part of every one who comes this year to come again.

You are going to be there, are you not? Everyone else is, and you will be lonesome if you do not.

MURDERER OF SEVEN WOMEN. FREDERICK GEBHARDT, WHO KILLED ANNIE LUTHER, IS MANY TIMES A MURDERER AS WELL AS BIGAMIST.

New York, Oct. 28.—Frederick Gebhardt, who married Annie Luther and killed her when he tired of her, has killed seven women, according to a statement to the police by his Astoria wife today. She said he frequently told her he had killed seven women and threatened to kill her.

SOUTHERN EDUCATORS ARE TOURING WEST. Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—One of the most interesting events of the visit of the southern superintendent of education to the northwest was a dinner given on Monday evening by Mr. Robert C. Ogden, of New York, to the members of his party, complimentary to President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin. A distinguished guest was former Governor D. W. Howard, one of the most successful dairymen in the Northwest—but Ogden also had as his guests at this time the professors of the university, Dr. Van Hise and Governor Howard were the leading speakers. However, other talks of interest were made by guests.

Dr. Van Hise outlined the purposes of the university in the new work of getting at the farmers, as well as in its well recognized services as a college of high standing. He discussed the future of the institution when a magnificent association of buildings will make it architecturally one of the most beautiful in the whole country. He reported the most sympathetic accord of the people and the legislature, and saw no reason to believe that in the future all would not go as well as it has in the past. Several millions of dollars are to be spent in the structures contemplated.

WILL MOVE AWAY FROM NIGHT RIDERS. Lexington, Ky., Oct. 28.—G. A. Simpson, a Grant county, Kentucky, tobacco grower, whom soldiers aided in shipping his 75,000 pounds of 1909 crop a few days ago, declared today that he will remove to New Mexico, because he fears violence at the hands of night riders near his present home. He detailed warning notices he received when he refused to join the 1909 pool of the Burley Society and an attempt to burn a barn on his farm containing the entire yield of his plants.

Militiamen from the Cynthiana company loaded Simpson's tobacco for him and a railroad detective guarded it until it was safely stored.

Narrow Minded. Ethel, the youngest of a large number of girls in a certain Philadelphia family, recently entered upon the duties of amanuensis to a Walnut street lawyer.

"How do you like your employer, Ethel?" the young woman was asked upon her return home that night.

"Oh, he's very nice," said Ethel, with faint praise, "but awfully narrow minded."

"In what way?" "He seems to have the idea that words can only be spelled his way."

W. B. SHEPPARD IN ANXIOUS SEAT

A BARBER WAS OVERLOADED WITH FIREWATER—A ROUGH SCRAPING FOLLOWED—EMILINER JURIST VAINLY SOUGHT AN EXCUSE FOR RELIEF.

The following story regarding Judge W. B. Sheppard, of this city, which is going the rounds of the press, will be read with interest here: Just before the close of the summer season at Indian Springs, Georgia, Judge W. B. Sheppard, of the federal court, went from his home in Florida to that resort to spend a week. He stopped at the Wigwam and while the house was closed for the winter, the judge was comfortably cared for.

During the morning he inquired for the barber shop and was shown to the basement where he found a place fairly well equipped for the removal of surplus hair from the face and head of male guests and seeing the artist of the blade and razor in his post of duty, his honor settled himself in the reclining chair and beckoned to him to begin operations.

The barber approached the judicial phiz with confidence and in a very short time was very busily engaged in lathering the face of his distinguished customer. The more he lathered the more the judge wondered. He thought he would never get through and when he began to wander off the facial reservation and put suds in the judge's mouth, eyes and ears there came a protest from underneath the snow white bank of soap cream. The judge has not lived in the states of Georgia and Florida for several years without knowing a drunken man when he sees one and he very quickly decided that a lull in trade incident to the end of the season had given the barber too much time to himself. He had begun to celebrate his emancipation from the thralls of scap scrape, scrape over the physiognomy of health and pleasure seekers at the Harts county resort. The judge began to think of some way to get out of the chair with his head on his shoulders. Finally he thought of the time honored excuse, the tender face. He put the matter squarely up to the barber.

Judge's Request Refused. "My friend," he said, "you know my face is very tender and I have often been cut by reckless barbers. You give me the razor and let me shave myself. I will pay you the price of the shave when I finish."

The barber went on to this little game and he was not to be denied the privilege of shaving one as distinguished as the judge of a United States district court.

"Oh, I'm not as drunk as you think I am," he replied to the suggestion of his honor, "and I'm perfectly competent to perform this operation myself."

The court had exhausted its argument and had no further suggestions to make. The judge submitted to the inevitable and the shaving went forward without mishap. The operation was concluded without bloodshed—but the Floridian was in a cold sweat when it was over. Not so the barber. He was cool and calm. He thought the judge needed reassurance that his head was still on his shoulders and that he was unscathed even to the extent of a scratch. He leaned heavily upon the reclining shoulder of the judge and brandished his razor at a point far too close to the customer's face for comfort.

"You see that razor," he said to the recumbent court. "Well, if I'd cut you even that much"—indicating about a sixteenth of an inch with his finger—"I'd have swallowed that razor, handle and all."

The judge was finally permitted to escape. He now believes in tonsorial prohibition, at least.

MOTHER, Why Are You So Happy Today?

Remarkable Question of a Little Boy to His Mother.

In the extreme north part of the city lives the family of Mr. Peter G. Duhr. This family consists of father, mother and three children, the youngest of whom is about 5 years old. The mother suffered for a long time with an aggravated case of nervous troubles. Every morning she would wake up with a nervous headache, her eyes would twitch, her hands shake and the slightest noise would annoy her. She would have despondent and crying spells, and unintentionally grew so cross to even her own children that they actually feared her. There was certainly no life nor enjoyment in this home.

Mr. Duhr was one of the thousands who called on Gray at Hannah Bros. He bought a treatment of Quaker Herb Extract for his wife. She began taking it about six weeks ago. At first her improvement was scarcely noticeable, but when she felt so well yesterday that she happened to hum some old familiar hymn, her little son, Arthur, was so surprised that in perfect astonishment he asked: "Mother, why are you so happy today?"

She had to acknowledge the truth by saying, "I am happy because Quaker Herb Extract has made mamma well."

This is only another evidence of the powers and merits of the wonderful Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm, which Gray, the Quaker Health Teacher, is introducing here. If you suffer with rheumatism, catarrh, indigestion, constipation, kidney, liver, stomach troubles, call on Gray at Hannah Bros. drug store. He will prove to you that Quaker Herb remedies cure where others have failed. It costs you nothing to talk to him, nor do you have to buy any remedies unless you wish to. Call on him today. You are welcome. He will tell you what the remedies will do for you. They also expel all worms from man, woman or child.

Gray proves what he says at Hannah Bros. drug store, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily. If you cannot call, order by mail; the remedies will be sent you by express on receipt of price. Quaker Herb Extract, $1.00 per bottle, 3 for $2.50. Oil of Balm, 25c. Gray prepays all charges on orders of $3.00 or over. Order today. Gray gives a free show every night, next McHugh Grocery, West Garden street, 7 p. m. and a short talk on good health. Free to all.

Certain Congressmen are rapidly getting rich because the people of the District of Columbia cannot vote.

Washington was built to be a city beautiful, the magnificent seat for the administration of affairs for the greatest nation in the world. Part of it is just that, the other—well, no newspaper would print a proper description of the other part. Certain Congressmen on governing committees rule the District, and they are not interested in that other part. But here's the whole story in Pearson's Magazine for November—the names and methods of the men who use Washington's resources for their own ends. It is an astonishing story of man's cupidity.

In the same issue Sloane Gordon gives the life story of Thomas F. Walsh. Herman A. Metz explains the insincerity of political reformers. James Creelman tells a story of the Christians in Jerusalem which probably answers the question "What's the matter with the Church in America?" Judge Foster, senior Judge of the New York Court of General Sessions, outlines a certain cure for criminality, and there are seven short stories of fiction by the writers who have helped make Pearson's fiction famous on two hemispheres.
