WHAT IS DOING AT UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

ROLLINS COLLEGE DEFEATED IN FOOTBALL GAME BY SCORE OF 14 TO 0—SPECIAL COURSE IN AGRICULTURE BEGINS TOMORROW—PENSACOLA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PRAISED.

Special to The Journal. Gainesville, Nov. 6.—The football game played here in Gainesville last Saturday, Oct. 30, between Rollins College and the University of Florida, was a glorious victory for the University. The score was 14 to 0. The main feature of the game was the star playing of Earl Taylor, one of Florida's half-backs, who by two end runs and a field goal made every point. It is needless to say that he was well backed by the whole team to be able to do this. College spirit was running high, the cheers and the student band could be heard for miles as the "rooters" urged the boys on to victory. We are to play Stetson University today, Saturday, in DeLand.

Special Course Begins. The special three months course of agriculture begins Monday, Nov. 8. The ten scholarship students are expected here from Escambia county by that time. The laboratories for soil physics and dairy experiments have been enlarged and new equipment added. It has been arranged to give the West Florida students special instruction on those subjects of most vital importance to West Florida.

The University is to make an exhibit at the Tri-County Fair. The exhibit will probably consist chiefly of agricultural products, but besides that there may be an exhibit by the manual training department, consisting of tools and lathe work. The Rev. Mr. Cloar, of the Baptist church of Gainesville, gave a very interesting talk Sunday afternoon to the Y. M. C. A. The subject of his talk was "Personal Work." The Transit Club, which is the civil engineering students' organization, held its regular bi-weekly meeting on the third. Five new members were elected and soon the whole town will be laughing over their initiation "stunts." A paper was read by Mr. W. C. Taylor of the junior class on the subject of "Railroad Surveys." After the paper some candy which Mr. H. L. Thompson, of Pensacola, had prepared was enjoyed. It is these clubs which give instruction as well as entertainment which make college life what it is.

In the chapel on Tuesday morning Prof. Rolfs, of the experimental station, gave some very interesting statistics of the agricultural products of the United States in general and Florida in particular.

Among the visitors last week to the University was Mr. Green, of Arcadia, who took a post graduate course in agriculture last year at the University. The hospitality of the Gainesville people is shown by the numerous socials which are given up town. A dance was given by the Florida boys last Saturday in honor of the players of the Rollins football team.

Among the latest additions to the University library is The Pensacola Journal which, needless to say, is eagerly read by the West Florida students.

The following self-explanatory resolutions have been adopted:

Resolutions of Thanks.

Whereas, the Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola, Fla., through the desire to promote the agricultural interests of the state and of their own county in particular, have raised the necessary funds to pay the expenses of a full of ten students in the short course in agriculture, in the University, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the student body, give this expression of our appreciation of confidence in our State University.

Resolved further, That we feel that this generous action of the Pensacola Chamber of Commerce will not only be productive of good in Escambia county, and be the means of arousing a larger interest in the activities of the University of Florida, but that it will also generate a deeper and more widespread interest in one of the largest and most important industries in this state, and thereby be productive of lasting good to the commonwealth.

Resolved further, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of the student body, and that a copy be furnished the Chamber of Commerce. FRANK T. WILSON, R. D. RADER, Committee.

Preparing to Make Attack on Primary System of Florida

politics," and in case it is the general public would be hard to convince that the only method by which it can be taken out is the convention method. If a Florida convention, state, county, or municipal, ever took any individual or institution out of politics, the fact has never been recorded in living letters—that is, not in letters of such brilliancy as to impair one's eyesight.

Legislative Action. The plan, which may be as innocent as it appears to be, but which seemingly gives itself away so plainly that even the blindest observers may see the handwriting on the political wall, was hatched during the last legislative session. Several supreme court judges were asked if they would be willing to submit their names to a convention, and at least one made known his willingness. Seeing in this movement a covert attack on the primary system, which might eventually result in an attempt to nominate all candidates by the old-time convention method and do away with the primary entirely, friends of the primary immediately proceeded to put the house of representatives on record. Representative James Alexander, of Volusia, offered a strong resolution endorsing the primary system, which was strongly fought by adherents of the same element that has always been against the primary and against the rule of the people. Representative Miller, of Lake county, introduced as a substitute, a shorter and equally strong resolution, which was adopted by a vote of 45 to 21. This resolution, which portrays the sentiment of the people of Florida, is as follows:

Miller Resolution. Whereas, It is a self-evident truth that the people themselves are sovereign, and in them is vested irrevocably the inherent right to rule; and that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and

Whereas, The present system of nominating candidates by primary elections secures a fuller and freer expression of the people's will, than by any other method yet devised, and Whereas, It is fitting that the representatives of the people, assembled in the popular branch of the legislative body of this state should lose no chance to give expression to the great principles of the Democratic party, and should improve the opportunity now afforded them, in their representative capacity, to register the will of the people in favor of the primary system of nominating candidates, and

Resolved, By the house of representatives of the state of Florida, a body composed wholly of Democrats, that the State Democratic Executive Committee is respectfully and earnestly requested not to take any action that would in any way weaken or retard the operation of the primary system of nominating candidates in the state, which is sanctioned by the laws of this state and usage of the Democratic party; but, on the contrary, to do everything that will strengthen and extend the primary system; and at the proper time to issue a call for a primary election to nominate candidates to the Democratic party for all national, state and county offices.

Declarations Absurd.

Every member of the present supreme court was elected by the people through the primary system; and it appears evident that the people made wise selections, and that a convention is necessary to "take them out of politics" is absurd. No criticism has been lodged against any one of the judges, or the body as a whole, which was not always the case when the old conventions "kept the court out of politics." If the people can't be relied upon to select judges who are honest and competent as those who would be selected by politicians at conventions, they should be denied the right of franchise entirely and held in a state of penance by their "superior" political members of the tribe of Moses who infest this particular commonwealth in great numbers. If the betterment of the supreme court is desired it might be a good idea to give the judges salaries that are in a mild degree in keeping with the responsibility and importance of their offices.

Senator McMullen Talks.

The writer questioned a number of prominent lawyers of the state with reference to this convention proposal, among these being State Senator Don C. McMullen, of Tampa, who was in Jacksonville on legal business this week. Senator McMullen, who was one of the pronounced leaders at the last legislative session, and who has long been regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the state, said:

"The suggestion that the supreme court should be kept out of politics by convention nominations is a decided novelty, and the only object of such a plan would be to inaugurate a movement against the primary in favor of the convention. In the first place, I do not know a member of the supreme court who is in politics, and who made any strenuous and undignified effort at election during the last campaign. The present primary law has its defects, which will eventually be cured to a great extent, and any effort to weaken the system in behalf of the old convention plan should be met with an immediate and stern rebuke at the hands of the people."

Other prominent Floridians expressed themselves in the same emphatic manner.

Up to Committee.

The calling of primaries and conventions rests solely with the State Democratic Executive Committee, the primary law being optional and not imperative, this being due to a strenuous fight of the opposition in the legislature which made primaries possible. In brief, the committee can do just as it pleases with regard to continuing or discontinuing the primary system, which will always be in danger until the holding of primaries is made imperative by legislative action. This movement affecting the supreme court judges, in the opinion of many, is nothing more than a movement to undermine the system, and many confidently believe that an effort will be made to introduce the connection with the United States senate, congress and other important offices, by the convention plan, instead of holding the primaries next spring. In view of the material composing the State Executive Committee, however, together with the prominent candidates for the people on the subject, opponents of the primary will hardly display such a degree of nerve at present.

HOLD-UP MAN VERY KIND TO AGED VICTIM

SECURED TAILOR'S PURSE, EXTRACTED COUPLE OF DOLLARS, AND RETURNED POCKETBOOK BECAUSE, HE EXPLAINED, IT WOULD TURN HIM UP TO THE POLICE.

E. W. Walther, a widely-known tailor, made report of peculiar actions of an alleged highway robbery. The matter was reported yesterday at 10 a. m., but Mr. Walther informed Marshal Sanders that what is related below occurred late Friday night.

According to Mr. Walther, he was going along East Government street and when he reached a point between Alcaniz and Florida Blanca streets, a strange white man emerged suddenly from the dark and made demand for money. The victim did not see any weapon carried by the robber, but he made use of it had resistance been offered. Mr. Walther therefore said he pulled out his purse and handed it to the man. The latter opened it carefully, extracted a couple of silver dollars, then handed the purse back with the remark that if he kept it, it would probably turn him up to the police. The gentleman received his purse from the bold and nifty man, and went on home. He hunted up the marshal yesterday and gave an intelligible story of the affair, furnishing a description of the man. Marshal Sanders said last night effort had been made to find a party answering the description as given, but nothing had resulted from such a search. Had there have been an immediate report made, the marshal stated, chances for apprehending the nifty man would have been better.

MISSION FULL OF BUSINESS OF BUSINESS

PLANNING FOR BAZAAR—SERVICES AT FORT GROW IN INTEREST—TENTS AT THE FAIR—OTHER NOTES OF THE GOOD WORK.

Plans were made at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Palafox street prayer rooms (old Dalry Kitchen) to hold a bazaar some time in the near future for the benefit of the Mission home. Many ladies were present, including Mrs. Kessler, Mrs. F. J. Taylor, Mrs. H. L. Covington, Mrs. Capt. Barrow, Mrs. M. E. Wilson, Mrs. Gerkin, Mrs. Scheer and Mrs. L. H. Herr, when the project was broached, discussed, and the following officers elected: Mrs. Kessler, president; Mrs. Capt. Barrow, secretary, and Mrs. M. E. Wilson, treasurer.

Those present were enthusiastic over the outlook for making the bazaar a great success, especially as many of the exhibitors at the fair will be approached to donate some of their exhibits. The meeting adjourned until Monday, Nov. 15th, at 3:30 p. m., in the same place.

The outline of the ideas suggested appears as if some novel features will be introduced in connection with it, and, from hints already put forth, will add greatly to the interest as well as the financial part.

Fort Barrancas. Mr. Simpson has taken hold of the services held Sunday morning. Last Sunday was the first time and much interest was displayed. It is expected that quite a few Pensacolians will enjoy a trolley ride in the morning, taking the 9:30 car to attend the services and listen to the excellent musical program prepared, returning at 11:45 in time for dinner. Ladies especially should take advantage of this trip, visit the boys, and help make the occasion one of enjoyment in the material as well as the spiritual things of life.

The Fair. Do not forget, ladies and babies, to visit the Mission tents at the fair. Get thoroughly rested and you can leave the baby while traveling around sight-seeing. A competent nurse is to be in charge of them, and everything will be done to attend to their wants. Look out for the Mission flag, which will be hoisted for the first time. There are no charges made at all at these tents.

Infirmary. The rear end of the ladies' tent will be fitted up for cases of accident or sickness.

FOOTBALL MEN ARE TAGGED BY NUMBERS

By Associated Press. New Orleans, Nov. 6.—A unique feature in connection with today's football game between the University of Cincinnati and Tulane University was the placarding of the players with numbers. On the back of each member of the team was the numeral that stood opposite his name on the program. The idea was received with much favor and it was predicted that it would come into general adoption. Enthusiastic interest in the game was displayed by an unusually large crowd of spectators.

GOOD GAME OF FOOTBALL WITNESSED

ATHLETIC AND P. C. S. PLAY EACH OTHER TO A STANDSTILL, NEITHER BEING ABLE TO SCORE.

Once again the people of Pensacola missed a rare chance of seeing a good football game. The class of ball put up did not warrant such a frost in attendance, there being less than fifty people in the stand at Palmetto Beach to witness the scrimmage between the Athletics and the Classical School squad. Each team played the other to a standstill, the final score standing nothing nothing. From start to finish it was a good, clean exhibition of the king of American sports. To show the calibre of the play put up by the respective opponents a comment made by one of the few spectators, and one who is versed in good football, will suffice. "Well," he said, "this was the best game that I have seen since I saw my last Yale-Princeton contest."

Although the score stands nothing nothing, it does not say that either goal line was not in danger. Every inch of ground was contested by the opposing line, but in spite of this the respective goals were threatened more than once. Twice the Classical bunch had the ball within striking distance and once the Athletics were on the Classical's fifteen yard line. In the first half with the ball on the twenty-yard line Harvey, of the Classicals, was called back for a drop kick. The kick fell short, however, and so there was no scoring. In the second half he was again called back for a kick, but this time one of the Athletics was off side and so the ball had to be put in play again. At this juncture, with a minute and a quarter of play and only three yards to gain, a forward pass was called, but was not completed. This gave the ball to the Athletics as it was the third down. In this half the Athletics also called for a drop kick, but the ball was blocked and fell safely into the arms of an opposing end who advanced several yards before being downed. This stopped the Athletics chance of scoring.

Open Play Resorted To. Early in the beginning of the first half it was seen that very little could be gained through the line of either team, so open play was resorted to by both quarterbacks. The forward pass was tried several times, but was not successful more than twice. Each of these times it netted good gains. The one-side kick was used but once during the whole game. It proved successful and netted the Classicals about fifteen yards.

Almost every member of the two squads played good ball, but the work of Gould at full back, of Wallace at right half and of Harris at right tackle for the Athletics was especially marked. Palmes, who was substituted at the beginning of the second half for E. Watson, also played a nice game. For the Classicals, Goulding at right guard, Brent at right end and Phillips at full back played consistent ball. Brent got away once for a long run of thirty yards around left end. Roberts also made some nice tackles when it looked like a touch-down for the Athletics.

The Athletics line-up was as follows: Gould, fb.; Wallace, rh.; Barrow, qb.; M. Gilmore, c.; R. Gilmore, le.; E. Watson, Palmes, lt.; R. Boyett, re.; Harris, rt.; Broughton, lg.; Warner, lb.; DiLauro, rg.

Classicals—Stillman, c.; H. Vinson, lg.; Harvey (manager), lt.; McLain, le.; Goulding, rg.; Roberts, rt.; Brent, re.; E. Vinson (captain), qb.; Woodrow, lb.; Phillips, fb.; Boyett, re. Referee, Mr. Blount; head linesman, Mr. Shuttleworth; time of halves, 20, 15.

The line-up of the Classical School was practically the same that has been representing this institution during the present season. The only changes were in shifting Capt. Vinson to quarter back and allowing the two instructors who have been coaching the team to go in two of the other back positions. The game, however, shows what this bunch of players can do and what strive to do in the three remaining games of the season. The next contest scheduled will be played here next Friday, the last day of the Fair, with the Brewton Collegiate Institute, whom, it will be remembered, defeated the Classicals three weeks ago by the score of 10 to 5.

ANOTHER SHIP TO LOAD RAILS

SECOND CARGO OF ENBLEY PRODUCT WILL BE SHIPPED TO SOUTH AMERICA ON STEAMSHIP TO BE HERE DURING THE WEEK.

Another steamship is expected here next Thursday or later in the week for the purpose of loading steel rails for South America. According to advices from authoritative sources, more than those now under charter for Pensacola loading will come here, and the Drumlanrig, which has just completed cargo, will likely return here.

The name of the second steamer could not be learned last night. Mr. Mumbrey, who is representing the rolling mills, is in the city yet, giving personal attention to all details. He will await the arrival of the other vessel.

The Drumlanrig has on board more than 6,000 tons of steel rail of Alabama manufacture, and may sail Monday. The shippers photographed the manner in which cargo had been stowed, and expressed pleasure with its compactness. Shippers assert that steel rails must be loaded compactly and evenly to prevent shifting as the ship rolls at sea. This was in mind when the Pensacola cargo had been stowed, and it was said the methods at this port pleased exporters very highly. There are about a dozen shiploads to go from the United States, and this port is working for 50 per cent of them.

After the Suit. "What disposition is made of the children of the couple?" "They will spend six months with the servants of each parent."—Puck.
