On Friday, Nov. 12th, at 8 p. m., the Odd Fellows will hold their annual reunion at Rafford Hall. OYSTERS DEAD WHEN TAKEN

GAME WARDEN HARPER SAYS THIS IS THE REASON RESIDENTS ARE MADE SICK.

Owing to the numerous cases reported of persons being made ill by eating oysters, Game Warden Harper has made an investigation as to the cause, and says that he finds that oysters are being brought here from Apalachicola and St. Andrews which are dead when taken from the water. He has had cause to inspect numerous boats coming into port while watching for violations of the oyster law and has found many oysters dead and the shells partially open. He says these oysters, which are spoiled, are opened by some of the oyster stands and the oyster placed in ice and sold.

Game is Numerous. The game warden reports that quail and other game is numerous throughout the county this year, especially quail. Sportsmen also report similar conditions, showing conclusively that the game laws have not been violated.

CARRIERS TO LEAVE EARLY

POSTOFFICE DECIDES UPON A CHANGE IN DELIVERY AND COLLECTIONS IN ORDER TO GIVE BETTER SERVICE.

In order to provide what it is thought will prove a better service mail carriers will hereafter leave the postoffice earlier each morning for their delivery and collection of mails.

Commencing Monday morning carriers will leave the office at 7:15 a. m., instead of 8:30 as heretofore, delivering the mail that arrived the night previous and on the early morning train, providing this train is not more than thirty minutes late.

The second delivery and collection will be at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when mail that has arrived since the first delivery will be distributed.

This change does not affect the business district, where collections will be as usual.

ACTIVITY AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

PROGRESS OF WORK INSURES EVERYTHING WILL BE IN READINESS FOR THE BIG SHOW TO OPEN.

The progress of the work at the fair grounds indicates everything will be ready for the opening of the fair. Exhibits are steadily coming in, and are being arranged.

Much interest in manifest in woman's work, indicating the industrial conditions of the home; art, needle work and the culinary exhibits each will play an important part in the program. Agricultural hall is beginning to assume a prominent feature—the sides of the building will demonstrate the fruits, vegetables and farm products of the three counties at their best, and be object lessons for progressive farming. Nothing so elevates the state's industries as comparison, not only of results, but methods of producing. Annual fairs are being adopted in the south as in the west, and each succeeding year gives the public the benefit of expert industry. Besides the importance to the agriculturist, fairs are good advertising mediums, and are recognized as such by the commercial world, not only teaching people what to buy, but attracting visitors to the city when the market is at its best.

Asked if he had resigned or contemplated doing so, he said it would be discourteous to President Taft to make any statement in the premises in advance of his conference with the president.
