

PLANTATION CO. NOW APPLYING FOR A CHARTER

ERIC VON AXELSON SAYS COMPANY BEARING NAME OF SANTA ROSA PLANTATION CO. HAS LAND NEAR JOLLY BAY.

Laurel Hill, Fla., Nov. 30, 1909.

In last Sunday's issue of your paper I read an article in regard to the Santa Rosa Plantation company which, if not corrected, would perhaps do that company some harm and injustice.

This company is now applying for a charter from this state, their advertisement to this effect is now published in the DeFuniak Springs Breeze. The president is Charles E. Gossman, Arthur E. Gammage, secretary, both of Chicago, Ill. Clayton N. Gammage, resident agent, is at DeFuniak Springs. I understand that they have bought a large tract of land from the J. J. McCaskill company, the land being located near Jolly Bay, south of J. F. port.

I am in no way connected with this company, the personnel being entirely strangers to me, but I believe that all efforts to induce immigration into West Florida should have the support of all good citizens. There is room in our section for a hundred of promotion companies that will go to work and bring the right kind of settlers to till our uncultivated land.

ESPERANTO.

—By Nellie M. Jerauld—

For years there have been missionaries preaching the mission of an international language, not a second language in addition to their own, so that using this means of communication they can come in contact with any other nationality.

There is today an auxiliary international language in use in every corner of the world, by some millions of people who have reason for using such language, and it is a regular organized movement.

The members of this organization enjoy the power of securing direct from any part of the world in which any other member may live, regard less of his nationality, of securing information upon any topic, scientific, historical, geographical, legal, social, commercial, etc.

Diverse sciences and even arts have their special magazines which go to all countries of the world and print articles from a range equally wide. Scientists, scholars, students, are finding these magazines indispensable; for knowledge and research are international, and need such a language even more than commerce.

None but an ignoramus can afford today to be provincial. In 1887, after several years of close study, Dr. L. L. Zamenhoff, of Warsaw, Poland, published his work on Esperanto, the new language which he had built. His purpose was to have it serve as an auxiliary common tongue for all nations. A Live language. This language is a live language, has a literature larger than that of many countries whose language has been long in existence, has thousands of followers in every country and has over 70 periodicals published in and for it.

I will mention a few of the larger countries and tell of the progress of the language in those countries, though it is everywhere. Even the Fijian Islanders have a large and enthusiastic class. France has 220 clubs and in Paris 79 courses in Esperanto are conducted. The Paris society has 100 members and nine Esperanto journals are published in France.

Many eminent Frenchmen are Esperantists, including a number of members of the French academy. Jules Verne, the late novelist, was an Esperantist, and at the time of his death was engaged in writing a novel in which Esperanto played a prominent part.

The great success of the fourth international congress, which was held in Dresden, Germany, has created a great interest in Esperanto throughout the German empire. New clubs are being formed constantly and those already in existence are highly prosperous. Eight Esperanto journals are published in Germany and many newspapers publish regular departments for Esperanto. There are about 115 Esperanto societies in Germany. The language is taught in the public schools of Gotha. After the close of the Dresden congress there was founded an "Esperanto Institute" with the object of enabling German manufacturers to profit by the use of Esperanto, which soon had 1,500 members. This institute has since been made official.

Many Esperanto Clubs. Great Britain has 175 Esperanto clubs. In no country is the Esperanto movement better organized than in Great Britain. The study of Esperanto was introduced into 40 public schools during the past year and it is also taught in the London county council and recognized by the London chamber of commerce as equal to French, German and other leading modern languages.

Japan has a strong national association with many affiliated clubs and the government recognized Esperanto officially, being represented at the Dresden congress by Dr. Shimura, of the Imperial University, and they are making great preparations for the congress of 1912, which they hope to have held in Japan.

The Southern institutions in the United States and there are over 140 clubs and six Esperanto journals published in the states. These numbers do not include the outside possessions of the United States. The language is now taught in a number of important educational institutions in the United States and has been officially recognized by the government by sending Major Straub to the congress at Dresden, who made a very favorable report and recommended that the language be adopted by the Red Cross. (They are now holding classes).

Official Use of Language. Our government is making official use of Esperanto, the data in bottles cast to the sea for the purpose of trying the marine currents being written in Esperanto whenever possible—this, in addition, of course, to the other languages used. The language is extremely simple, the grammar absurdly so, for the student can tell at a glance whether any particular word is a noun, adjective, adverb or what not. The rules of the grammar can all be written on a post card and there are absolutely no exceptions to any rule.

The South is slowly dropping into line. Florida has a few isolated clubs but no state organization, and Pensacola was the first to return a card "for better address." The card in question was addressed to Santiago,

Young Fellows: Look Them Over!

WHILE we have clothes for men from 18 years old to 80 years "young" our talk in this space is especially to the Young Chaps about the "Youthful Spirit" in dress as it is interpreted by SCHLOSS BROS. & CO. OF BALTIMORE.

They are built especially for boys in the late teens and early twenties. No young fellow wants to wear large sizes of boys clothing or small sizes of men's. They are made for the youthful figure--made to assist nature--to give that all-desired athletic built; yet so splendidly is it done that there's no suspicion of padding or freak distortion. COME LOOK THEM OVER.

FROLIC HAD A VERY BAD END

ONE MAN WAS CUT, AND WHEN INFORMATION WAS REFUSED THE POLICE, WHOLE CROWD WAS SENT TO CITY LOOK-UP.

Joe Simmons was badly cut last night at a dance given at the home of Frank Girard, near the railroad shops, and Girard, his two daughters and Charles Ward, one of the guests, were sent to jail at midnight by Mounted Officer Simmons and Capt. Wilde because they had refused to tell who did the cutting. The entire party is charged with disorderly conduct and opposing an officer in the discharge of his duties. One of the girls is not more than 16 years of age, and it was learned by the police later that the cutting was over some remark which Simmons was alleged to have made concerning this girl. A warrant was issued early this morning for one who was suspected of having committed the deed, the charge being assault with a knife. Simmons was also arrested, but was released on his own recognizance. He was cut in three places, but none of the wounds were regarded as of a serious nature. The man who was cut and the arresting officer, although bearing similar names, are not related.

Sunday. They report a very enjoyable camping trip--so very enjoyable that they declare they will try it again very soon.

There are a number of hunters through the woods. We hear the reports of their guns, but seldom see the hunters. They are welcome to the turkeys, owls, foxes and polecats they can shoot, but we beg of them to leave the forest birds alone, for we need them all--all of them to destroy the insects, for without the birds we would have neither fruit nor vegetables.
