

This much we elders have learned about the Shoe question:

We don't like to pinch or burn up our feet.

We like a good looking shoe and a serviceable one.

Good stock wears better and is cheaper in the end than poor material.

Now apply this knowledge to your foot needs and you will profit by it.

NEGRO GIRLS MADE A SCENE

Lottie Knox, charged with stealing, and Carrie Debardebar, both as black as they make them, were in the recorder's court, coming up the stairway as quiet and as meek as two black lambs. When they went down again, they were roaring like two lions, and just as discordant, too, as a lion's roar. They had been ordered taken to the county jail after all efforts to quiet them in the city court had failed. It was a case of who could scratch the most, and officers who handled them said they had the strength of men. The Knox girl is said to have stolen five dollars from a Greek named Cassinos, who works in a place in a downtown district. The other woman with the unpronounceable name, according to the first named, had advised, it was claimed, against returning the money when the foreigner made a fuss about it. When the judge could be heard, they were ordered to the county courts. Then they yelled some more, but were given forcible escort across the bridge of sighs, which is used for Jefferson street. At the county jail a charge of larceny is docketed against the two.

BRYANT TAKEN BACK TO LETOCHATIE, ALA.

Lewis Bryant, the negro who was arrested here for the murder of another negro named Smith five years ago in Letoatchie, and who was very willing to go back to stand trial, was taken in charge by Sheriff Watson, who came down from Letoatchie, Ala., yesterday, and at 11 a. m. the return trip was started. The Alabama sheriff carried papers for Bryant, but the negro had signified every willingness to stand trial and stand trial, as he was very confident that he would be acquitted. He told the story in such a manner that all who believed him thought it a case of self-defense.

The palate is almost tickled with Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The stomach knows nothing about it, it does not trouble you there. You feel it first in the strength it brings; it shows in the color of cheek and smoothing out of wrinkles.

It was a beautiful thing to do, to cover the odious taste of Cod Liver Oil, evade the tax on the stomach, and take health by surprise.

It warms, soothes, strengthens and invigorates.

BUILDING AND BUILDING NEWS

PERMIT ISSUED FOR ONE NEW BUILDING AND ONE FOR ADDITION—NEW HOMES PLENTIFUL IN NEW CITY.

Two permits were issued yesterday from the office of the building inspector. One was for the construction of a dwelling and the other was for the building of an addition to a home on North DeVilliers street. This was the lowest number of permits issued in some days from the office. They were to the following:

To W. W. Corner—At northwest corner of Wright and DeVilliers street, an addition, 29x25, to cost about $180. Seeley & Dougherty, builders.

To Sanders Webb—Corner of Davis and Twentieth streets, dwelling, to cost $638.55. L. M. Davis, builder.

New comfortable homes are going up in large numbers in the New City. At present, contractors are working from two to seven under construction at the same time. Clyde Wilson is having three built, while other real estate men are about as active.

Application to make repairs to the Sacred Heart church has been made to the building inspector, but as yet the permit has not been granted. There are many repairs to be attended to at the church, in the opinion of the priest in charge.

Plans for all buildings which have been started in this city for the past month have been placed on file at the office of the building inspector, or at least for all buildings having a valuation of more than $500. The inspector has a tracing table, a file case, a library and desk, but is in need of a filing cabinet for the plans which are being filed with him in such large numbers, and one will have to be provided in short order. The plumbing inspector and the latter's assistant have offices also in the room occupied by the building inspector and the place is too crowded for convenience at present.

It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it." W. A. D'Alemberte, druggist and apothecary, 121 S. Palafox street.

CEMENT FOR RAILWAY WORK

MORE THAN ONE MILLION POUNDS ARRIVED ABOARD A SCHOONER FROM NEW YORK TO BE USED IN LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

More than one million pounds of cement in sacks arrived in port yesterday aboard the American schooner Marjorie A. Spencer, Capt. Richards, which first stopped at Fort Pickens after getting inside the harbor. Capt. Richards found out yesterday that his cargo was for the L. & N. railroad company and his schooner was towed up to the city, given a berth at one of the railroad docks and the entire lot will be transferred at once to the warehouse of the company. It was at first reported that this lot was intended for a government contract, but it was found that such was incorrect yesterday and the schooner came on up to the city.

This is the second schooner load of the material which has been received from New York for and by the company, the first one coming down on the Future, Capt. McDonald. The entire lot is to be used, it was given out yesterday, on the railroad improvements which are soon to be started in this city, entailing an expenditure by the railroad company of more than $50,000. This, in the main, will consist in putting in the large type of rail and of cementing the track all along the paved portions of the streets. Since provision by ordinance has been made for the paving of Tarragona street northward to the north line of Belmont street, more work than was originally mapped out by the company will have to be done, as it will mean the cementing of the track for a straight distance of nine blocks.

TOURIST TALKS ON PENSACOLA

C. B. LEWIS, OF ILLINOIS, A TOURIST OF 27 YEARS STANDING, ENTHUSIASTIC OVER LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

In the business of boosting Pensacola, an entirely new element is being heard from of late, and one which is going to do the city a great deal of real good in the line of live advertising.

These people are the tourists—persons who have formed the "Pensacola habit," and have had a far better opportunity to judge the real progress of the town during their migratory flights from year to year, than those, perhaps, who remain in town the whole year round, and to whom the changes being wrought are probably not so forcibly manifested.

Speaking along this line yesterday, C. B. Lewis, who began coming here for the winter from Jacksonville, Ill., just 27 years ago, and who is, perhaps, the best known tourist in the city, showed unusual enthusiasm relative to the changes and marks of progress which he had noticed on his present visit.

He has a fine winter home located on West Gregory street, and is particularly pleased with the improvements which are being made in his immediate neighborhood.

Mr. Lewis Talks.
"I really would not have known my street," said Mr. Lewis yesterday. "I think that with the paving getting on so well, and everything else considered, that everyone should catch the improvement fever, too, and clear up the yards, paint the home, and have the best looking street in the city out there. In the line of improvements, however, the entire city appears to be getting in line. I have seen more changes for the better this year than in any past five years, and still there are indications of more work being done by next year."

Upon being asked what had impressed him most upon his recent return to Pensacola, in the line of improvements, Mr. Lewis said that outside of the street improvements, the new ten-story bank building and the new half-million dollar hotel had struck him as most noticeable.

"That hotel means a lot of the right kind of tourist travel for Pensacola," remarked Mr. Lewis, who, besides being a veteran tourist here, has been president of the Tourist Club, and its ruling spirit, in fact, for several years. He is, therefore, fully capable of judging the situation.

He is a firm believer in the future of Pensacola, and has watched its growth with interest for the past quarter century.

Miss Elliott submits this puzzling query: "Who can tell a good play when he reads one?" After which she timidly remarks: "Certainly not as anybody else—they merely tell the public what they themselves like, which very often is what the public doesn't like." But, hold! Miss Elliott is kind enough to admit that managers and a great many actors who can select their own plays pick out the very ones which fit some particular personality. This revelation, however, cannot be regarded as very extraordinary in the light of Miss Elliott's requirements, for it is patent that she requires a play with a star part for a woman of charm, beauty, lovely clothes and all that sort of thing. After divulging these few secrets of her managerial duties, Miss Elliott does not object to letting playwrights know that her permanent address is Maxine Elliott's Theatre, New York.

The Shuberts have begun the engaging of the players for the forthcoming production of the English pantomime, "Dick Whittington." This piece will be one of the largest brought out by the Shuberts during the coming season. It will be ready, it is expected, the latter part of December.
