Big Doings at the Orpheum.
Tonight at the Orpheum is turkey night and two big fat Christmas turkeys will be given away, one at the first show and the other at the second show. Wednesday afternoon is Santa Claus matinee, at which a beautiful Christmas tree will be seen in addition to old Santa Claus. Four handsome prizes will be given away and each child as they pass out of the theatre will be presented with a handsome toy.

Every mother who loves her children should have them at this matinee. Thursday night will be another turkey night at which two big turkeys will be given away. Friday is amateur night and from the way the amateurs are asking to appear it will be one of the biggest nights of the season. Saturday matinee special for ladies and children.

The show at the Orpheum this week is one of the best ever to play at this Lu Ceel opens the bill with illustrated songs which always please her audience.

Next are Bolus and Bolus, who do a clever singing and talking act that wins rounds and rounds of applause.

Miss Crane follows them and is introducing some clever singing and character changes. Her wardrobe is A-1 and from the way she was applauded last night at each performance demonstrates the fact that she is using the kind of stuff that Pensacola audiences want.

The Wren trio closes the show and may be termed the feature. Their act is full of good singing, dancing and sharp shooting and it closes with two bulldogs introducing bag punching.

"The Red Mill."

The scenes of Martin & Emery company's production of the musical play, "The Red Mill," in which those two clever comedians, Swor and Woods, take the leading roles are laid in Holland. It is believed that this is the first play ever presented in America devoted exclusively to the portrayal of Early this morning exposed thermometers on Palafox street showed a temperature of 31 degrees, which showed that the freezing point had been passed. The forecast was a freezing temperature today. It is expected that the weather bureau instrument will show even a lower reading, as the thermometer read at an early hour this morning was not in an exposed place.
