S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause, and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble. At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

ALDERMAN BROWN RESIGNS.

Lucius S. Brown, alderman-at-large from precinct 14, sent his resignation to the council, that body receiving it with expressed regrets and ordering that the election of a successor be made at the next regular meeting, which will be on Wednesday of next week. Mr. Brown gave notice several months ago of his intention to leave the council, but did not follow up this notice with his resignation on account of sickness, as he explains in the following letter:

THE RESIGNATION.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 27, '09.

Honorable President and Members of City Council:

Gentlemen: In accord with a notice given at a meeting of June 23, I hereby beg to tender my resignation as alderman-at-large in precinct 14, to take effect at once.

It is with extreme regret that I leave the services of the city, particularly just at this time, but as I will become a resident of precinct 15 within a few days I will therefore not be eligible to hold the office.

You no doubt know the cause of my delay in sending this communication is due to a spell of sickness begun the day after my notice and until now I have not been able to attend to business.

With best regards, I am

Respectfully,

L. S. BROWN.

WAS REGRETTED.

Ever since Alderman Brown has been in the council, he has been an active and enthusiastic worker. At the time of his resignation he was chairman of the water and gas committee and a member of other very important committees. During his illness the chairmanship has been assumed by Alderman Kugleman.

Mr. Brown has just returned from a stay of about two months at the springs in Wisconsin, and his friends will be pleased to learn that he has about gained his former good health.

A PROBABLE SUCCESSOR.

Before the resignation was read last night it became known that the paper was in the clerk's hands, some of the aldermen expressed a willingness to go into the election of a successor. This was later allowed to pass over, in order that candidates could have a chance to send in their names. Several names were mentioned during the evening, but none were thought to have enough voting strength in council to insure their election.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Pills, and stop the drain on the vitality. They cure backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and make every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.

THE WELCOME.

The club isn't bad for a place to drop in,
Good fellows to greet you with handshake and grin.
The clink of the glasses out there in the bar—
For any place better you'd have to look far;
But a welcome which greatly in fervor transcends
The bows of acquaintances, shouts of my friends,
Is the thumpety-bumpety-bumpety thump
Which my little dog plays with his queer little stump.

It matters not who I have been with, or where,
His welcome begins when my foot's on the stair.
It matters not whether I'm sober or drunk,
Of gladness he's simply one wiggletty chunk,
And his little teeth gleam, and his little eyes glow,
And he just seems to say, "I've been missing you so,"
And his tail, which is merely a quarter-sawed stump,
Goes bumpety-thumpety - bumpety-bump.

He doesn't know much, this small doggie of mine,
But his lessons of love he has gotten down fine.
In trouble or happiness, woe or in wealth,
In shame or in honor, in sickness or health,
His love is unchanging and faithful and true,
So I kind of love back—it's the fair thing to do—
And I listen intently to hear the glad thump,
That bumpety-thumpety-bump of his stump.

Was the Tariff Bill a Victory For Mr. Taft?

"The very concessions Mr. Taft obtained were yielded from political necessity, not from any conviction that justice required them," says the editorial writer in the department of the "Interpreter's House" in the October American Magazine. He continues: "A victory for Mr. Taft? You remember McClellan? Preparing, preparing—pretty soon, we'll show you! A general should not boast of winning a skirmish after losing a battle. Mr. Taft seems no more to have understood his great chance than did Congress. It was not high-class bargaining in which, by virtue of his office and his power of veto, he is able to wrest a few concessions that we had a right to ask from Mr. Taft. Leadership is his business. It was for him to make clear the great need, to inspire the great action, to create the atmosphere for high endeavor. One big ringing appeal from Mr. Taft, showing that he felt for the masses of this country and meant, if possible, that there should be a fairer division of burdens, that he saw the shame of bartering legislation for political support and meant to break the practice if he could, would have been worth three times the concession obtained. It is the spirit of tariff reform, the zeal for honest schedules, the determination that discrimination shall be done away with, indignation at the wretched and shameless alliances back of the bills, that it was for Mr. Taft to feel and to foster. But it is evident that he did not feel these things, and so could not foster them. He had an opportunity to lead in a great moral awakening on the most serious matter since the days of slavery. He did not understand the issue. He saw merely the chance of doing some tinkering, which he did manfully and effectively."

A Way the Guides Have.

Among guides there are classes as in every other walk of life. But in no walk of life is there so much professional jealousy, so much proneness to mutual boosting or mutual throat-cutting. This is a good thing in a way for the amateur hunter (for when guides fall out tenderfeet come by deer), one man being eager to show the amateur what kind of woodsman he is, compared with that other "front-door" guide. On the other hand, a tenderfoot, until he understands the humors of the guide element, is often mystified as to who is a guide and who is not. The man upon whom he has pinned his faith may not "make good"—bad luck oftener than bad guiding—and his rivals will not fail to draw the tenderfoot aside and say:

"Well, what did ye expeck? Next time," etc., etc.

There are cliques among guides. After a couple of hunting trips the amateur will discover that a certain guide is, among certain other guides, a "real old timer," or the kind of guide who will "show ye deer if any man kin!" Among the woodsmen of the opposite clique the amateur must expect to hear that his guide is a "front-door brave," a "hunter of mighty talks," or a newcomer in these parts who "couldn't tell a skunk from a deer beyont smellin' distance!"—From "A Tenderfoot Goes A-Hunting," by Stephen Chalmer, in the October Outing.

"Danny Deever."

Mr. Kipling, at a private party in New York where I sang his verses, abruptly left the room and the house at the conclusion of my efforts with never a word about the song, which had by that time become famous, and was sung by every man with a D and a diaphragm in his makeup. But, as Kipling says, "that is another story," relates David Bispham in The Bohemian for October. And it came out after he had recovered from the attack of pneumonia he caught on the way home that very night. This was the way of it:

On my return to London the next summer, a gentleman called on me and brought a message from the celebrated author to the effect that he was very sorry if, on such and such an evening, he might have appeared to have been unceremonious in leaving the room without some word as to "Danny Deever," which he had heard then for the first time. But the fact was—and Mr. Kipling wanted me to know it—that he was so powerfully moved by the composition that he could not trust himself to speak, and so made a bolt for the door!

Mr. Kipling, there was no apology needed. I thought as a matter of fact that I had not sung the song well that night; but I am always glad, sir, to do my best to render any of your verses that have been set to music, and to make visible to an audience through my medium, as you do through yours, the scenes you depict: for they are real—would that the world knew how real is the "stuff that dreams are made of!"

Fair Play For Women.

In seventeen states of the union married women have no separate property rights. In these seventeen states a husband controls his wife's estate, without the consent of the courts.

In seven states the gentler sex is denied the privilege of practicing before the bar. These and other surprising facts as to what women are denied and legally prohibited from doing are set forth by Rheta Childe Dorr in Hampton's Magazine for October.

There have been many general and often exaggerated complaints about the proverbial "man's injustice to women." It may surprise many to find an arraignment made, and substantiated by facts—facts embodied in the laws of the nation. This is what Mrs. Dorr has done in her striking article.

Harriman's Will Makes Wfe World's Wealthiest Woman

The ninety-nine words of Edward H. Harriman's will were each worth more than a million dollars to his widow, for the minimum estimate of his estate, which he bequeathed entirely to her, is $100,000,000. Some experts believe the Harriman holdings to be worth twice this sum. At all events, Mrs. Harriman under the terms of the will becomes the wealthiest woman in the world. Harriman's will is the shortest document ever drawn in conveyance of a multi-millionaire's estate, and Mrs. Harriman is left in absolute freedom to dispose of the property as she may see fit.

KNOW HOW

And Will Never Forget the Experience

The coffee drinker who has suffered and then been thoroughly relieved by changing from coffee to Postum knows something valuable.

He or she has no doubt about it. A California lady says:

"I learned the truth about coffee in a peculiar way. My husband who has for years been of a very bilious temperament decided to leave off coffee and give Postum a trial and as I did not want the trouble of making two beverages for meals I concluded to try Postum, too, and the results have been that while my husband has been greatly benefited, I have myself received even greater benefit.

"When I began to drink Postum I was thin in flesh and very nervous. Now I actually weigh 16 pounds more than I did at that time and I am stronger physically and in my nerves, while husband is free from all his ails.

"We have learned our little lesson about coffee and we know something about Postum, too, for we have used Postum now steadily for the last three years and we shall always continue to do so.

"We have no more use for coffee—the drug drink. We prefer Postum and health."

THAT PALLID, ASHEN HUE

The forewarning of diseased kidneys' deadly work is in the gray pallor of your face—don't allow the kidneys to become deranged.

Day by day, there are people—men and women—gradually drifting along—taking little heed of the first signs of diseased kidneys and bladder—until the time for a cure is past. There is then little to hope for. Few persons even faintly comprehend the excessively deadly character of Kidney and Bladder ailments. If they did they would in no case delay seeking a cure.

Such insistent signals of danger as those intermittent pains and "hitches" in the back, groin and limbs (or constant dragging pains in back), headaches, bloating of the extremeties, nervousness, tired-out feeling, sleeplessness at night, etc.—should convince you that your system is charged with that deadliest of all systemic poisons—uric acid.

And uric acid in your system, surely means Kidney and Bladder disease—and, later, chronic rheumatism, inflammatory rheumatism, gravel and gall-stones, dropsy, diabetes, serious nervous disorders, and Bright's Disease. You will readily see why you cannot afford to delay.

DeWITT'S KIDNEY AND BLADDER PILLS are the best remedy in the world for all such conditions. This statement is made with a full knowledge of the great and permanent benefits which have quickly resulted from their use, in multitudes of even the most desperate cases. We know just what they will do.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills

They give almost immediate beneficial results, in any Kidney and Bladder derangement, and are marvelously soothing, healing, antiseptic and reconstructive in their action upon the weakened, diseased and inflamed organs and tissues. You can hardly fail to experience permanent benefit and cure.

E. C. De Witt & Co., the manufacturers of these Pills, want every man or woman who has the slightest suspicion that he or she is a victim of Kidney or Bladder derangement, in any form, to at once know just how beneficial these Pills are.

To accomplish this, as quickly as possible, they will (even though these Pills are for sale at nearly all drug stores) send by return mail—to anyone who will merely take the trouble to write for it—a free trial of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Surely no one can afford to neglect accepting so generous an offer. Send for it to-day.

Thousands of grateful men and women have accepted this offer, secured the free trial of treatment of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and now state that they are free from every trace of the dreaded disease that was sapping their lives away.

DeWITT'S KIDNEY AND BLADDER PILLS
