

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was a smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost."

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

THE FINAL TEST.

Where the Candidate For the Army Put His Foot In It.

Bill was one of those fellows who always try to do things right. He lost his position recently and, being unable to secure another, decided to join the regular army. He applied at Uncle Sam's recruiting station. Now, Bill was a good looking specimen of manhood, and the army officer began his examination with pleasure.

Heart, lungs, hearing, sight and nerves were found in the best of condition. But one test remained before he could become a regular.

"Take off your shoes," commanded the officer.

Bill did so.

"Now wet your feet in that bucket," he was further instructed.

Bill did as he was told.

"Now walk across the room," said the army man.

Bill knew from the actions of the army officer that he had made a good mark and wanted to increase his average. He started across the floor, bringing every inch of his weight to bear at every step. He looked back. Yes, he was doing fine. He could plainly see the whole imprint of his feet each step he had taken. He was happy, and the task was finished.

"Don't want you. You're flatfooted," said the army man.

"What do you think of that?" reflected Bill as he made his way to the street.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

THE ROYAL HOAX.

And the Missing Sword of the Duke of Cumberland.

What became of the Duke of Cumberland's sword, which was lost or stolen at the Haymarket theater Jan. 16, 1749?

It was on the night of the great "Bottle Hoax." According to advertisement, a man was to "play on a common walking cane the music of every instrument now used to perfection, get into a quart bottle without equivocation and while there sing several songs," besides doing other things only a little less marvelous—more marvelous that the theater should have been packed with spectators, including many of the nobility and the Duke of Cumberland of Culloden fame.

The conjurer did not appear, but one of the theater officials did and informed the house that all money would be returned at the doors. "Cumberland was the first that flew in a rage," a contemporary account tells us, "and called to pull down the house. He drew his sword and was in such a rage that somebody slipped in behind him and pulled the sword out of his hand, which was as much as to say, 'Fools should not have chopping sticks.' This sword of his has never been heard of nor the person who took it. Thirty guineas of reward are offered for it."—London Chronicle.

Curious Street Names.

The list of curious street names is inexhaustible. Bermondsey possesses a Pickle Herring street. Near Gray's Inn there is to be found a Cold Bath square. Most of the Nightingale lanes and Love lanes are hidden ironies enough in the slums of the east end.

Bailed SENT LIVE BORN MEN

W. Macon (Ga.) Telegraph coming upon the fact that Governor Howard is a native Floridian and that Senator Fletcher was born in Georgia, goes on to describe the different states and how many of their representatives are not native born, as follows:

"This is not an uncommon thing in the United States Senate of today. Many of the states have only one native senator and a number have none, while some have no native in congress."

"The states that are represented by two native senators are Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia. It will be seen that the South and the New England states have stood by their own sons."

"The states which have but one native senator are: Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Wisconsin."

"The states that are not represented by native sons are: California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming."

"The state that has furnished the largest number of members in the present senate is Mississippi—giving one each to Arkansas, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas. The next is Ohio, which gives one each to Indiana, Montana, and two to West Virginia."

"Of the states that have not a native representative in the congressional delegation are: Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, Nevada."

Prominent White City Citizen Dead

A. P. Christensen, a resident of White City for many years, died last Friday, aged about 58 years. Deceased has been a sufferer for more than a year, being confined to his bed for nearly six weeks before relieved by death. Interment occurred at the White City cemetery last Saturday. Deceased leaves a wife and three children, F. P. Christensen, of New York; C. T. Christensen, of Fort Pierce, and Mrs. J. P. Oleson, of Jacksonville, the two latter being at the deathbed. Mr. Christensen was held in high esteem by his friends and neighbors at White City, and wherever he was known, who join THE TRIBUNE in extending sympathy to the bereaved ones.

sun rises in a cloudless sky, mounts higher in the heavens, temperature of the air likewise rises. About 8 or 9 o'clock, the comes partly overcast with cumulus clouds, while the wind freshens a little. By noon the temperature has climbed well into the 90's but the sky is nearly overcast with clouds which shield the sun from the direct rays of the sun. In the west the clouds begin to bank and by early afternoon the first mutterings of thunder are heard. Gradually the sky grows dark as the storm approaches; then the squall comes on and the temperature falls 15 to 20 degrees in as many minutes. During the next few minutes the lightning flashes and the thunder rolls while the rain falls in torrents; all the elements are in an uproar. In less than half an hour the storm passes on to the eastward; the sun peeps out from a clearing sky and maps its rainbow upon the back of the receding storm. The air has a peculiar freshness and exhilaration about it now, which all nature seems to imbibe. The sun declines in a clear west, but the energy of the sunbeams is expended in the evaporation of the surface moisture, and not as sensible heat; therefore the temperature of the air continues relatively low. Night comes on. The stars shine from a cloudless sky, and a fresh breeze springs up to add further comfort to the glorious night. The clear sky permits an unhampered radiation of heat from the ground; so that the night advances, there comes a chill in the air that causes us to draw up the cover to keep us comfortably warm. Finally morning dawns, to begin the sequence of the preceding day.

It must not be inferred that every day in summer has its thunder storms yet a spell of weather of more than a few days without a thunder shower is rare indeed. On those days that thunder showers do not come, the wind ordinarily increases through the forenoon to a fresh little gale by 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon; thereafter, decreasing gradually to a gentle, pleasant breeze at night.

"These thunder storms are a blessing and not a scourge. Their rains water the ground and keeps vegetation from becoming parched while their influence lends a helping hand in making our summer climate not only bearable, but pleasant as well. It is a mistake to infer that our thunder storms are more violent and destructive than those in other portions of the country. The following statistics were taken at random—the United States census favorite—Deaths due to lightning: Havana, Florida, 4; California, some industry. Illinois, 34; Indiana, some industry. New Hampshire, some industry. vania, 29; Sc Dakota, 14 FORT PIERCE, FLA. Compar
