Daytona commissioners seek balance in taxes

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH — The city commission promised to seek more ways to cut the budget but also emphasized the need to maintain services at a recent meeting.

The commission has set the tentative property tax rate for the city at $5.99 per $1,000 of value. About $2 million was cut from the budget since the previous city commission meeting when the rate was set at $6.53.

The rate could go lower if city staff can come up with more budget savings by Sept. 23 when the city commission makes the final vote.

Police upset about no raise

By Wayne Grant

ORMOND BEACH — The city commission passed the property tax rate and budget this week.

The tax rate was set at $3.67418 per $1,000 of taxable property value, a 6.4 percent decrease from the roll-back rate of $3.92802, officials said.

The roll-back rate is the tax rate that would bring in the same amount of money as the previous year excluding new construction.

Finance director Kelly McGuire said that the proposed net budget is just under $85 million, a reduction of $17.5 million or 17 percent from the current budget.

Ms. McGuire said that property taxes account for 12 percent of revenue for the city. Other revenue comes from permits, charges for services, fines and other areas.

There was no parade of protestors speaking at the meeting as there have been at other commission meetings around Volusia County, but representatives of the police department protested the fact that a raise was not budgeted for law enforcement officers.

Vince Champion, of the Police Benevolent Association, said commissioners should not punish the city's law enforcement officers.

"You're looking at a budget with a zero percent increase in pay raises," he said. "You're taking away something that was promised the officers a year ago. We know times are tough and you want to balance the budget, but don't do it on the backs of police officers."

Mr. Champion referred to a letter last year from former city manager Isaac Turner. He said the letter promised a two-percent raise.

Mayor Fred Costello said the city did not go back on its word. He said two percent was the planned raise, but that

McKay-Vaughan recognized for training, leadership

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH — City Commissioner Sheila McKay-Vaughan has recently become one of only 37 elected officials in the U.S. to attain the highest level in the National League of Cities Leadership Program.

She attained the Diamond "Leadership Regent" Level by accumulating 80 credits in the NLC's Leadership Training seminars and by putting her leadership training into action, said Susan Cerbone, Daytona Beach spokeswoman.

Ms. McKay-Vaughan said the seminars have been very helpful.

"When you become a commissioner, they say congratulations, give you your book of ordinances and the city charter, and say 'good luck,'" she said, laughing. "There's no real training."

She said the seminars provide an opportunity to learn about city government. They include topics such as budgeting, media relations, working with large groups, building citizen involvement, current trends, economic development, etc.

"You meet people from all over the country," Ms. McKay-Vaughan said. "You share ideas and what worked in your community. I recommend it to other commissioners. It's the only place you can get specific training for government."

Crislyn Lumia, senior associate with NLC, said reaching the Diamond Level shows dedication and commitment to becoming a better leader.

"They learn skills they take back to their community," she said.

Ms. McKay-Vaughan will be officially recognized at the NLC Congress of Cities and Expo in San Antonio in November.

Achieving 80 hours of credits required 120 hours of actual class time over a four-year period. The seminars are conducted by the NLC throughout the year at conferences across the country.

The city of Daytona Beach pays for the seminars.

Sheila McKay-Vaughan

To addition to class study, Ms. McKay-Vaughan had to submit an essay detailing an example of leadership and mentoring to reach the Diamond Level.

Ms. McKay-Vaughan chose to describe a reading program she started for children at the Star Family Center, a homeless shelter. She arranged to have adult volunteers, including students from Bethune-Cookman University, work with the children.

"I train the volunteers and mentor them along the way so that each child gets the help they need,"

Daytona Beach offers mortgage help

By Wayne Grant

Development Corporation, a non-profit organization.

DAYTONA BEACH — With homes across the nation falling into foreclosure, the city has introduced a new program to help some residents who have fallen behind in mortgage payments.

Homeowners in certain income brackets can get a forgivable loan up to $5,000 to catch up on their payments.

The program is one of the strategies recently developed in the City's housing plan, said Avis Wilkinson, housing manager for the city.

"We did this based on a study for what was needed for our area," she said.

Ms. Wilkinson said the money is in the form of a mortgage, with a lien placed on the house for a period of five years. If the homeowner abides by the conditions of the loan, it is forgiven, she said.

The program, which started Sept. 1, is being administered by the Central Florida Community

Emory Counts, the city's economic and community development director, said he believes it is important to make help available, particularly to people who have received assistance in the City's housing program.

"Without this program we're going to have people lose their homes who, if they had gotten just a little help, would have been able to hold on," Mr. Counts said.

Funding for the program is being provided by the State Housing Initiative Partnership, Ms. Wilkinson said. The total amount available is about $120,000.

The brochure for the program states that the homeowner must be income-eligible under SHIP guidelines, show ability to make future mortgage payments and complete a budget-counseling course. There are other requirements, terms and conditions.

Resident: Beach bathrooms disgusting

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

ORMOND BEACH — Many people at a recent Ormond Beach City Commission meeting learned a new word — “schmeg.”

The word is described at urb dictionary.com as an “unidentified, disgusting substance.”

It was used by a commissioner to describe the slippery stuff he said ran down the Granada Beach approach from the bathroom shower.

The shower runoff was one of several complaints brought to the council’s attention by Chuck Carlson of Ormond Beach.

“I’ve personally seen tourists slip and fall on it,”

Mr. Carlson said.

He said he was a frequent beach user and represented five people in the audience and several friends who could not be there.

“We were wondering if it would be possible to clean up the bathroom facilities at the beach,” he said. “The men’s bathroom has not had doors for some time, for what reason I do not know, and the smell is very foul.”

He said he didn’t think it was right that small children could have people walk in on them in the bathroom, because of the missing doors, and that his friends sometimes go to bathrooms in businesses across the street to avoid the smell.

He said people slip and fall on the runoff from the shower — which he guesses is some type of fungus.

“It’s called schmeg,” Commissioner Troy Kent interjected, to laughter from the audience.

Mr. Kent said the beach approaches are the responsibility of Volusia County and that the commission would contact the County and get back to Mr. Carlson.

“This is something we’ve been complaining about for years,” Mr. Kent said. “It’s something you constantly have to address so thanks for coming.”

Mr. Kent also asked Mr. Carlson to take friends to a county council meeting and make their complaint.

Mayor Fred Costello took

Taxes

eral residents complaining about the proposed property taxes, commissioners promised to keep looking for places to cut.

“I promise we will continue looking,” said Commissioner Robert Gilliland. “My home value went down 25 percent and my tax went up 13 percent. I’m not happy about that but I also recognize that there are essential services that are required.”

Commissioner Cassandra Reynolds said a balance needs to be achieved.

“I’m fearful that residents who are without will continue to be without,” she said. “Sidewalks and streets need to be put in. Let’s keep that in mind and find the right balance.”

Mayor Glenn Ritchey said the Daytona Beach property tax is only part of the total on the bill that residents receive.

“Our ad valorem tax impact on your tax bill is not really all that great,” he said. “If you look at the hospital, school board, library and other taxing authorities, that’s not us.”

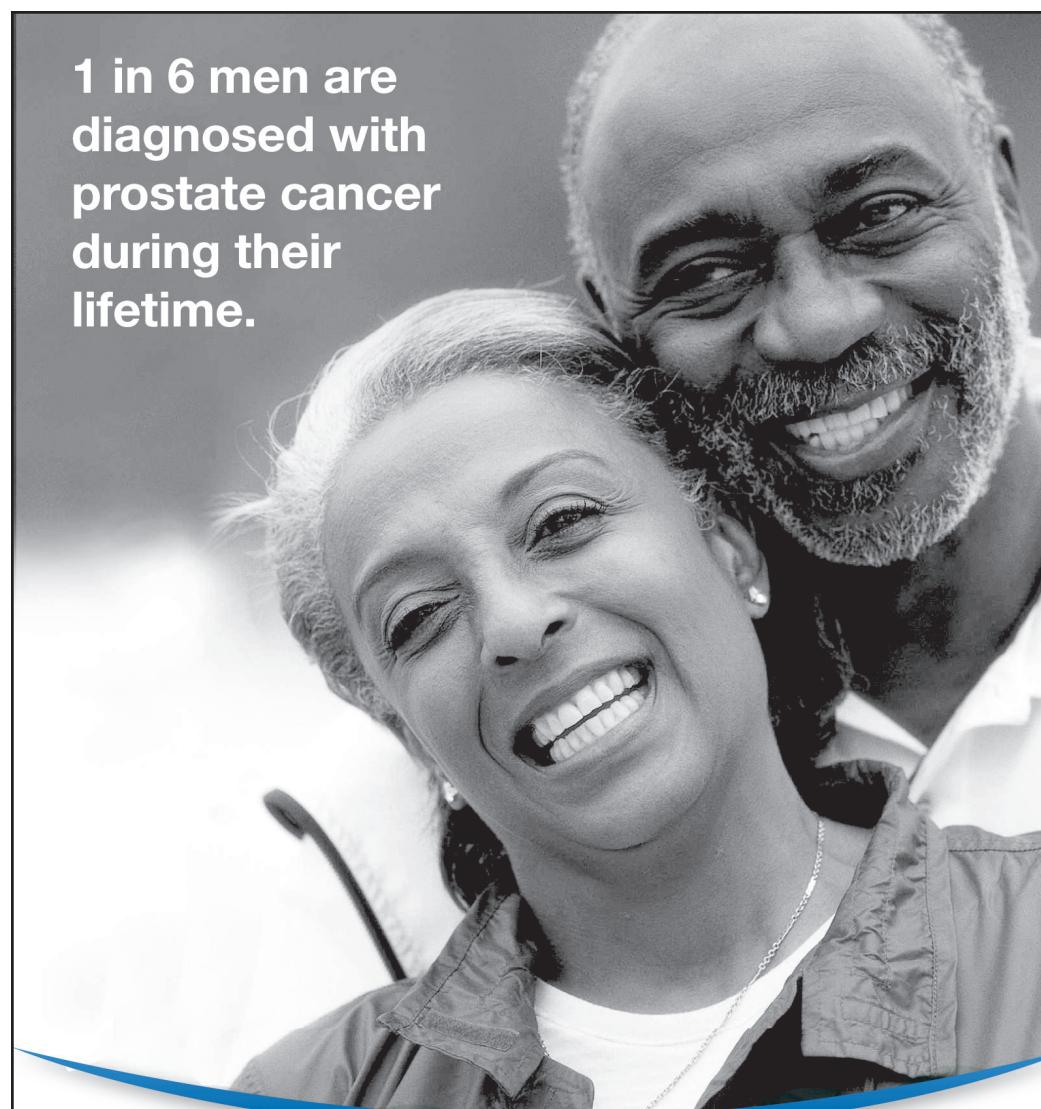

Mayor Ritchey also mentioned the importance of government programs.

“I know the services we provide the needy in this community,” he said. “I don’t think any of you sitting out there would want to see a child disenfranchised or any elderly person or anyone down on their luck. That being said, we owe it to you and the community to get your taxes as low as we can.”

The mayor said the process is not over and the commission will continue to receive input on how taxes can be lowered.

Wildlife, outdoor

SEBASTIAN — The Treasure Coast may be famous for sunken treasure chests and gold doubloons, but the sights above water are just as priceless.

Sebastian is a hidden gem in the crown of the Treasure Coast. The amber-colored sandy beaches, crisp, cool breezes off the ocean, lush native and tropical plants in shades of emerald, and the sparkling sapphire waters of the Indian River Lagoon, St. Sebastian River and the Sebastian Inlet are true area treasures.

Once a small fishing village, Sebastian has seen substantial growth in the past 25 years, yet managed to retain that small-town, neighbor-helping-neighbor atmosphere, said Beth Mitchell, director of the Sebastian River Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Sebastian area played a unique role in the history of conservation land in the U.S. and is home to the first wildlife refuge ever designed.

The Pelican Island Wildlife Refuge was established in 1903 after native birds were being slaughtered for their feathers, which were a high fashion accessory at the time.

Visitors can tour the refuge today by kayak or canoe in the water, or by hiking along the island. Pelican Island offers many opportunities for photography lovers to capture the local wildlife, such as brown pelicans, egrets, and herons,

The inlet is the location of several large surfing contests every year, including the Sebastian Inlet Pro, the largest, most prestigious surfing contest on the East Coast and one of the top four in North America. More than 160 surfers participated in the event last January.

For those adventurous enough to take the plunge, Skydive Sebastian is the place to do it.

The local skydiving facility gives lessons for beginners, offers tandem jumps and provides for experienced skydivers.

The arts are heartily embraced in Sebastian and local craft and art shows, as well as outdoor concerts, are often held at Riverside Park, right on the Indian River.

The residents of Fellsmere are proud of and work hard every year to feed thousands of people a traditional old Florida dish: deep-fried frog legs during the annual Fellsmere Frog Leg Festival in January.

Clean up after dogs

I walk on the sidewalk three or four miles a day, five times a week, in Ormond-By-The-Sea.

Some people do not clean up after their dogs. We always have to walk around their "business."

These are the same people who are going to have dogs on the beach. What makes people think they will clean up there?

Thanks for your help

Thank you to all the firemen and police officers who helped put the fire out in the 400 block of South Atlantic Avenue in Daytona Beach. I live behind it, and I am on oxygen.

Private trucks should not park overnight on county lots

Our tax dollars were used to buy the parking lot at Hiles Boulevard and South Atlantic Avenue in the unincorporated Volusia County Silver Sands area for beach parking. So why, on busy Labor Day weekend, was the lot used for overnight tractor-trailer parking during the whole holiday weekend? There was a United Van Lines truck parked there all weekend.

It was parked right next to the Volusia County Beach Patrol shed. Didn't they notice it? Didn't the patrolling sheriff notice it? Didn't either of them care that our beach parking lot was being used as a truck stop?

Does someone know someone? Does anyone know anything about this? Is the county hopefully getting paid by private truckers for use of our tax-paid beach parking lot?

I'm glad it was a jellyfish

I was walking on the beach in the semi-dark recently. I stepped on a jellyfish. I walked a little further and there were two people with two dogs on the beach. I am just glad I stepped on a jellyfish and not a pile of dog poop.

In response to 'Dogs should not be on the beach'

They say dogs on the beach is not a good idea. What about the diapers I see on the beach. Is that healthy? What about the food? What about the potato chip bags? What about the cans? Is that healthy? The dog stuff just washes out. You should worry more about the economy and what's wrong with the world, instead of worrying about dogs doing their "duty" and these people not picking up after them. People should pick up after their kids. Start worrying about something more important.

Let's clean house

Didn't anyone tell the Volusia County council we are in a recession? Let's put 19 more hardworking families, who have invested in motorized beach vehicles, out of business. Let a corporation from DeLand take their jobs away. Please remember the council's members' names in the next election. Let's clean house.

Use local businesses

I have had the experience of using an out of town hearing aid service that offered discounts. Even though there were discounts, I spent money traveling back and forth. The travel expenses negated the savings. It is best to use local services for hearing care.

Stop land use changes until we vote

It is time to speak up about the two gigantic developments our local politicians want to approve in our drainage basin and Aquifer recharge area. The first, Restoration, is an annexation that doubles the size of Edgewater with 10,000 more homes on what looks like swamp land. The second, Farmton GreenKey, creates another 29,000 homes still farther out in the swamp. The County Council has prepared their rubber stamp, but state regulators want solutions to Volusia's dwindling drinking water supply first.

So now our politicians want to rape the river too. Large sheets of toxic algae swarm in the St Johns River, but they want to pump it anyway so their campaign contributors can clear the state water review. This pumping will only increase the river's pollution concentration killing more estuaries, plants and fish. Once it flows to the ocean it creates low oxygen dead zones, red tide, and beach closures.

Some say Farmton will never be built and all this is just to artificially run up the property value before another triple price conservation purchase. But what if they do build? Our current life of water restrictions changes to one where we all have another zero added to our water bill to pay for their alternative water processing. Property taxes are nothing compared to that.

Once you get you head around our water problem it is something you can't unlearn. I am not an environmentalist, but I am becoming an economic survivalist since our politicians can't say no to an obvious fleecing of our future. The rest of Volusia property owners can't escape supply and demand so if these plans pass it's bye-bye real estate recovery and hello to more tax subsidies for urban redevelopment.

Aren't you ready to make a change yet? More than 600,000 of your fellow Floridians have secured your right to have local voter approval of land use changes starting next year through amendment four. Considering our water shortage and the resulting effects on property values, shouldn't any further changes have to stand up to a vote of the people? Sustainability can be more than just another developer buzzword, but it only happens if you act now. E-mail your politicians today and tell them all to "Stop all the land use changes and other development giveaways throughout Volusia until we vote on amendment four, the Florida Hometown Democracy Amendment."

In response to 'Now is the time to think about flood insurance'

I have thought about it. (Flood Insurance) since our home was built in 2004. I have applied and reapplied for the last five years, only to have my money returned with cancel letters.

I am sure Larry LaHue has heard this story more than once. Where is your article on these citizens who want flood insurance, but can't get it after going through three different insurance agencies in Volusia County?

Next time a flood disaster hits in Volusia County, let's see an article written on citizens that were denied flood insurance and who becomes responsible for those damaged homes.

Our development was build in accordance with the laws, regulations and codes of this county and state, so we should have the right to insure our property.

Creating privacy with your garden

With more people using their yards as outdoor kitchens and outdoor living areas, privacy is a major concern.

You can go through the expense of installing a physical wooden or resin fence or you can opt for an easier and less expensive solution: a living fence made of plants.

As an example, I am trying to hide an unsightly area in my yard that includes an A/C unit and water softener. I decided to use a fast-growing shrub called cherry hedge. You also may know them as Surinam cherry. They make one of the toughest hedges that you can get. This is especially important in Florida.

This plant belongs to the

inches apart for a more economical scenario. Once established, these plants can grow up to 2 feet or more per year.

As with all new plantings, watering daily during the first few weeks of planting is critical to future development of the plant.

Once established, a couple of times a week will probably be sufficient.

Once your plant starts to rapidly grow, you are going to want to shape and prune it on a regular basis. The right tool for doing this will be essential for good results.

You can use a good-quality electric hedge shear or you might opt to trim the bushes by hand. If you decide the latter, be sure your shears are sharp so you cut the branches and not rip them.

You can shape the hedge to your liking and be as creative as you like. Since these bushes can grow from 3 to 8 feet in height, you have lots of options for creativity!

There is one more bonus I forgot to mention: the plants grow small cherry-like berries that are edible. The fruits are often used in jams and jellies.

It's almost like the perfect Florida plant. They are also very tolerant to high winds, which is one more added bonus in our area.

Owner Bill Morgan of Action Golf Cars stands in front of his business in Ormond Beach recently.

Tax credit boosts sales of street legal golf cars

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

ORMOND BEACH — If you find yourself driving down the road behind a golf car, don't worry, you didn't take a wrong turn and drive onto a golf course.

Street legal, electric golf cars are starting to appear on the streets more and more.

A professor at the University of Florida said this is part of a growing trend in alternate forms of transportation.

The golf cars are selling quickly at a local dealership because a new tax deduction is now available to buyers, said Bill Morgan of Action Golf Cars in Ormond Beach.

The tax credits are available through the 2008 Emergency Economic Stabilization Act.

Mr. Morgan said the golf car business has been slow in recent years "just like everything else in Florida" and now he is being overrun with customers.

They range in price from $6,500 to $10,000 and all of the models qualify for a $5,335.60 tax credit.

Mr. Morgan said the deduction is not off income, but is subtracted from the tax due.

The golf cars are equipped with lights, turn signals, seat belts, a Lexan windshield and other equipment to make them street legal.

They are classified "low-speed vehicles" and are restricted to streets where the speed limit is 35 mph or less.

"We have been selling them rapidly," Mr. Morgan said. "It's a no-brainer to buy a $6,500 golf car when you can get $5,335 off."

He said some people are buying them to play golf and will only drive them in their community.

He also pointed out that with a sticker, they can be driven on the beach.

The golf cars, which are manufactured by Star Electric Vehicles in Greenville, S.C., get 40 to 50 miles on a charge. To recharge, the owner plugs the supplied battery charger into a wall outlet.

Several options are available on the cars. The most popular are wood grain trim and polished aluminum wheels. Other choices include AM-FM stereo CD player and side curtains.

Ruth Steiner, associate professor of urban and regional planning at the University of Florida, said the popularity of street legal golf cars is related to the general trend of people using alternate transportation such as Segways, micro cars, bicycles, roller blades, etc.

"Cities are going to have to figure how to deal with vehicles of different sizes and weights in the same street," she said. "For example, if you restrict Segways to the sidewalks, where do people walk?"

She said cities are going to have to deal with these questions at a time when money is tight.

at a complex on Jean Street when a man opened the front passenger door holding a gun. The victim said the gunman robbed her while warning her to cooperate so that nothing happened to the baby. White told police the suspect left with some cash and she said another man was with him, though he remained outside the car. A friend drove White to the hospital for care. Police said the accomplice is Sammie Crooms, 29, and he was quickly arrested, but the search for the man who pulled the trigger is still on going.

Another suspect in teen's shooting death arrested

Police in Daytona Beach have arrested a third suspect in the July 20th shooting death of 13-year-old Lloyd Robinson Jr. They said the woman lured the victim's father to the door and signaled to others, including the gunman. Carine Doctor, 26, is being held on charges that include first-degree murder. Police Chief Mike Chitwood got a call from a tipster who told him Doctor had returned to the area and could be found in a home on Washington. Chief Chitwood said Doctor told arresting officers she was glad it was over and wanted to get some things off her chest, but as she was being led to a police van, Doctor shouted to us that she was innocent. Police said Doctor's boyfriend, Ronald Roscoe, 21, actually pulled the trigger and Tarod Weaver was an accomplice in what police said was to be a home invasion robbery. Police are still searching for two others.

Home invaders shot by resident

Ormond Beach Police said two armed men who barged into a home on Cypress Circle during a home invasion robbery were shot by the resident as the suspects fled the house. Dane Rollins, 34, told police the men burst into the home as he was sleeping and demanded money. Rollins gave it to them, but grabbed a shotgun as they ran and gunfire was exchanged in the street. One suspect ran off on foot, while another jumped in a vehicle that was later stopped by police in Daytona Beach. That suspect was taken to the hospital suffering with several gunshot wounds. The suspect who fled on foot was found close to the residence, also suffering with gunshot wounds. Homeowner Rollins was not hurt. Police later identified the two suspects as William Bell, 31, of Daytona Beach and Christopher Young, 38, of New Smyrna Beach. Police said a woman was with the two men and eventually identified as Brandy Lee Harris, 28. Harris lives in the same area as the victim and has been charged on connection to the crime.

Editor's Note: In an e- mail received Monday from Ormond Beach Mayor Fred Costello, he said:

"I am of the opinion that because the victim was armed and chose to use his firepower in response to the invasion of his home, all our residents are safer and will have less of a threat from subsequent home invasions. Criminals who otherwise would consider an armed home invasion will consider the results of this home invasion turned around onto the criminal and remember that they don't know who has the firepower to respond. Based upon the information provided, I hope our laws protect the homeowner who protected his home."

Sexual predator found on school grounds with weapon

A disturbing turn of events at an elementary school in New Smyrna Beach recently dominated headlines when a convicted sexual predator turned up on campus at Chisholm Elementary, making false claims and carrying a weapon. Several parents noticed Karen McNeal, 28, in the parent pickup area on at least two occasions and in one instance they say McNeal was carrying a gun and actually drawing attention to it. They say he also boasted to them that he was a DEA agent. A mother disturbed by his behavior checked him out online. She learned McNeal was a convicted sex predator who had served eight years for kidnapping and sexually battering a minor in South Florida. New Smyrna Beach police arrested McNeal for impersonating a police officer and bringing a gun on campus. The weapon turned out to be a BB gun, but under the law it's a weapon. However, McNeal's sexual predator status is not an issue because in June, he was released from any kind of court supervision.

McNeal is not on probation and not under any restrictions, including being around children. His only requirement as a sex predator is to register with New Smyrna Beach Police after moving to the area and police say he did that.

According to officials with the school district, McNeal was picking up his God son and is listed as a legitimate emergency contact at the school, so they could not legally prevent him from being there, but say McNeal was always supervised on campus. After his arrest on the new charges, a judge granted McNeal a bond, but if he is able to post it, he has to follow several pre-trial requirements. Among them, McNeal cannot go anywhere near Chisholm Elementary School.

UPS employee steals thousands in sunglasses

A UPS employee in Daytona Beach is accused of stealing thousands of dollars worth of high-end sunglasses. Brandon Loser, 21, of Port Orange is facing grand theft charges. Police said they got a call from UPS investigators who had been looking into the theft of more than 200 pairs of Costa Del Mar sunglasses worth at least $53,000 from the offices on Fentress Blvd. The investigation pointed to Loser and police said Loser admitted he stole the glasses.

Gift store fire being investigated

Investigators with the State Fire Marshal's office still haven't determined if the Labor Day fire that gutted two gift stores in Daytona Beach is a case of arson. The fire spread quickly through the stores on North Atlantic Avenue, sending huge columns of smoke into the air. Several witnesses claim they saw someone throw something inside one of the stores just before fire broke out, but investigators haven't confirmed that with us and continue to interview witnesses and review surveillance tape from other businesses in the area.

Student facing assault charges

A Bethune-Cookman College student is facing aggravated assault and battery charges after police said he brought a gun on campus and pistol-whipped another student. Police said Leonard Addison Jr., 20, who is not in a fraternity, got angry when he was asked to move off a bench in front of a frat house. Police said Addison left and returned with a couple of friends, confronting the people who had asked him to move. Police said Addison pointed a gun at one person and struck another on the top of the head several times. That victim suffered a head injury and dislocated shoulder.

Principal arrested for suspicion of drunk driving

A local elementary school principal was arrested on suspicion of drunk driving, according to police in Daytona Beach. Earl Johnson Jr., 45, principal at Turie T. Small, was charged with DUI and resisting arrest without violence after he was recently involved in a minor car crash. Investigators said Johnson smelled of alcohol and said they found alcohol in his car. Police said Johnson repeatedly told them he was a principal. Johnson remains on the job though the school district confirms he is the subject of a professional standards investigation.

Stabbing victim continues to recover

A man gravely injured when police said a neighbor stabbed him continues to recover in the hospital. Ronald Williams was attacked by neighbor, 40-year-old Brian Tettamanti, according to police, at an apartment house on North Halifax Avenue. Tettamanti was later arrested at his mother's home in Edgewater, but police still don't have a motive in the gruesome crime.

Convicted rapist testifies at hearing

In an effort to suppress his own confession, a convicted rapist, accused of killing a Tomoka State Prison Corrections Officer, recently testified at a hearing. Enoch Hall said corrections officers beat and kicked him, and threatened to kill him to get him to confess. Hall allegedly stabbed Officer Donna Fitzgerald at the prison in Daytona Beach in June of 2008. Witnesses for the state said Hall only had a small scratch near his eye when he was arrested and never complained of being abused. A judge will rule on the motion after considering the presented evidence.

Police investigate accident deaths

Holly Hill Police continue to investigate the crash of a red Camaro that claimed the lives of three people inside. They have no doubt driver Jeremy Allison was racing down Nova Road, with a mother and her 17-year-old daughter, family friends, inside. They're still not clear if another vehicle was involved in street racing or if the Camaro was just passing other vehicles so fast, witnesses figured the other cars were involved. Police have recovered the car's black box and though much of it was crushed, they have recovered components that when the technology is run through computer programs, investigators can get information to help reconstruct the accident. Police will use that with physical evidence from the scene and witness statements to try and find out what led to the victims' deaths and to try and figure out if indeed, another vehicle was involved.

Boy dies after collapse

A 7-year-old Port Orange boy critically injured after he was hit in the head by a golf club, died with his grieving family by his side. Police said Zachary Siegfried was playing with his twin brother when he was accidentally hit in the head and collapsed. Pediatric specialists at Wolfson Children's Hospital in Jacksonville now say the little boy was born with a weakness in the blood vessels of the brain that led to massive bleeding, likely, when he collapsed. Doctors don't believe the golf club injury contributed to his death.

Carol Custodio was treated by Dr. Kelly Molpus, the area's only gynecologic oncologist, equipped with the only da Vinci® robot in the area.

It was a frightening diagnosis, but Carol was lucky. She came to the only medical center in the area where minimally invasive da Vinci S Surgical System procedures are an option for cervical cancer patients. "My biggest concern was not being there for my daughter Grace." But with the expert care she received here at Halifax Health from Dr. Molpus and his team, Carol was back on her feet in no time. One of more than 11,000 women diagnosed with cervical cancer last year, Carol feels fortunate to live so close to a medical center that offers this level of innovative care.

The greatest ideas flow from the heart well. These arise from spirit and universe and pop into the mind. This is like a light bulb turning on. It is your greatest truth. Listen to it, accept it and take it into your being, no matter what your head says. Then act on it. Spiritual instincts do not lie. It gives you the winning edge.

Your strong spirit is there when needed. It gives you the grit, determination and choices to keep on going when challenges confront. Deal with them and move forward. Never give up on your dreams. You always help others. Let them help you when you need a friend. Now you are headed on and up to greater glory.

Cinematique: "The Drummer," a drama, will open Friday at the Bookstore Café, 410 S. Nova Road, Ormond Beach. The film will be shown 7 p.m., Friday; 2 p.m., Saturday; noon, Wednesday and 7 p.m., Thursday. Sid, the rebellious son of Kwan, a controlling and savage triad boss in Hong Kong, has to flee to Taiwan upon enraging his father's adversary, a powerful tycoon and underground business leader. Hiding out in the mountains, Sid encounters a group of Zen drummers whose mesmerizing art, rigorous physical training, and austere way of life pique this hostile urban young man's interest and he requests to join the group. Although Sid despises his father, he is turning out to be a younger version of him: wild and defiant. Immersing in the world of the Zen drummers eventually converts him into a firm and focused young man. Sid's independence from the triad life and his father is profoundly challenged, however, when a twist of fate awaits him back home in Hong Kong and forces him to choose between loyalty to his family and his new found faith in himself. Playwright Marshall Karp has penned this comedy in a tried and true style of writing, utilizing some of his own life experiences as a backdrop. Having carved a successful career in advertising and overseeing contracts for the likes of Coca-Cola, Gillette and Nestle, Mr. Karp turned to writing for television, stage and screen and live theatre. Mr. Karp's "Squabbles" tells a story about Jerry Sloan, who is a successful writer of advertising jingles and married to an equally successful lawyer. Living with the happy couple is the not so happy Abe Dreyfus, Jerry's curmudgeon of a father-in-law. The situation is exacerbated when Jerry's mother (Mildred) loses her house in a fire and needs a place to stay. Since the wedding, Abe and Mildred can't stand each other. # Hometown News $UPER BUYS of the week

Shopping at the more expensive stores may save you more money

In the past couple of months, I've shared some of the best and most exciting super-couponing secrets with you. This week, I have another. Like some of my previous tips, this one may challenge your assumptions about getting the best possible price when you shop.

Shopping at the "more expensive" stores may save you more money. In many areas, shoppers have several grocery stores to choose from. The same area may have smaller grocery markets, discount grocers that offer "everyday low prices" and large-scale, major-chain supermarkets.

Many people tend to consider large supermarkets more expensive than their low-price, themed counterparts. This is a reputation the large supermarkets typically don't deserve, as they can be some of the best places to save big.

COUPON QUEEN

Consider this point: Grocery stores that offer "everyday low prices" definitely have prices that are not too high. But prices here are also usually not too low, either. These stores offer the same prices on items week to week, with few to no sales.

By contrast, the larger supermarkets offer "high/low" prices.

On any given day, it's true that about half the items' prices will be higher at the supermarket than at an "everyday low price" store. But prices on the other half of the items will be lower. Those are the items that super couponers watch for price drops on. When the prices take a big dip, that's when we can move in with our coupons and bring the price down even more.

This is an advantage supermarkets can have over other stores. During a typical 12-week sales cycle at a supermarket, the price of any particular item will fluctuate from high to low. But just once during that time does the price hit its lowest low, we call this the "12-week-low." This is the lowest price that item will appear at during the price cycle.

Why is it a good idea to watch for these 12-week-lows? That 12-week-low price is typically 50 percent lower than the regular shelf price. Anytime we're able to buy something for half the original price, even without a coupon, it's time to buy it.

Of course, we also want to use coupons at that point to bring the price down even more. With coupons we can often save 70 percent or more off the original price.

Here's an example. A box of granola bars is usually $3.29 at my large supermarket. The same brand of granola bars is $2.99 at an "every-day low price" grocery in town. The grocery store doesn't change or cycle its prices; the granola bars are $2.99 every single day. But at the supermarket, the granola bars will go on sale numerous times over the next 12 weeks. Some weeks the bars will be the full $3.29, but other weeks the price will be lower and lower still.

I watched the bars over several weeks and saw them go on sale for $2.99, and $2.49 and $1.99. But one week, the bars dropped again, to "2 for $3," or $1.50 a box.

During this entire time, I was holding onto a $1 coupon for the granola bars. When the bars hit $1.50, they were now on sale for less than half their original price. I used my $1 coupon and took the box home for 50 cents. If I had purchased the granola bars at the "every-day low price" store with my $1 coupon, I would still have paid $1.99 a box. But I picked them up for a quarter of that price... at the larger, so-called "more expensive" supermarket.

Jill Cataldo, a coupon-workshop instructor, writer and mother of three, never passes up a good deal. ### Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Stay calm when others around you are trying your patience. Refuse to let events out of your joy rob you of your patience. You have an unusually large wide, open heart. Sometimes others will not fully appreciate this large heart. It's up to you to protect it and keep it safe. If you don't do it first no one else will or can.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22

No matter what happens around you, the key is to keep a lighter touch. Trust in your own instincts first and then in your closest friends. There is no need to be judgmental or analytical now. Live and let live. A lighter touch always works and moves you closer to positive realities. A little fun is in order.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Stop trying to figure things out. The more you think, the less you will know. You are born of feelings and heart, not from mind. This doesn't mean that you don't have a strong mind. You do. But your greatest strength comes when you follow your awesome heart and let it guide you home to victory.

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Your spirit is so strong. Your heart is open and your mind is alert. Your energy is flowing much better than in the past. Be sure to listen to your instincts first and make decisions based on your inner guidance. This high form of respect insures that family and friends will give it as well. Now everyone honors you.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Acknowledge your worth. You may be more valuable than you give yourself credit for. Look at all the positive change and progress in the past few months. Your communication and leadership skills continue to grow. You are happier and having more

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20

You are the depth of the depths. No one is deeper than you. The greatest visionaries are born Pisces. The greatest challenge is what you do with these prophetic gifts to help yourself survive the world and move on to your greatest calling. Do you know what it is? If you do, move it on and up. Joy is the ultimate gift.

Atlantic's Quarterback Washington trying to find his way

By Andreas Butler
For Hometown News

PORT ORANGE — Being the leader of a losing team is never easy. But quarterback Sean Washington of Atlantic High School took it especially hard when the Sharks went winless for all of last season.

"It was tough, nobody expected us to win," Sean said. "We got teased a lot but we stuck together like brothers. Playing quarterback, I had to learn on the fly. I learned what I was being taught as well as some things on my own. I had to believe in my coaches, teammates and myself."

That attitude seems to be helping, as the Sharks won their first game this season 27-7 against Deltona Trinity and were winning their second game against Melbourne Holy Trinity when the game was called because of rain.

Against Deltona, Sean, who is a junior, had 331 yards of total offense. He ran for 122 yards and a touchdown while passing for 209 and another. "It felt great to finally win," Sean said. "We played a great game all around. We knew that if we executed, things would go well."

Football hasn't always gone so great for Sean — he transferred to Atlantic from New Smyrna Beach High School because he "didn't like what was going on there" — but both family and coaches say his desire to learn and excel has put him on the road to becoming a great ball player.

"He did some really good things in the ball game. He made some good reads and really got us going," said Atlantic head football coach Toussaint Roberson of the Deltona Trinity game.

Sean's father Lawrence Washington calls his son responsible.

"Sean is calm, shy and well mannered," he said. "He has been brought up in church. He gives his all in everything and he takes responsibility."

But being well mannered doesn't mean he's a softie on the field.

"Sean has always been very aggressive in sports," Mr. Washington said. "He gives his all in everything that he does. When things go wrong, he shoulders the blame."

Sean constantly battles to strive in both athletics and academics. He currently has a 2.8 grade point average, but is determined to get it over 3.0 this semester.

"I have to balance school and sports," said Sean, who also plays on Atlantic's varsity basketball team. "As quarterback I must study the playbook more than anyone else. I must know what the entire offense must do on every play."

Sean played both baseball and soccer as a youngster and got into football in the sixth grade.

"I wasn't always good at it, I kind of grew into it once I got to high school," he said.

While it can be tough, he said he likes taking the leadership role on the

"Everyone thinks that it is easy but it's not," he said. "I really have to know everything and make sure that the rest of the offense knows what they need to."

Coach Roberson said Sean is on a learning curve.

"He is starting to get a grasp on what he is supposed to do as a quarterback," Coach Roberson said. "He comprehends it more. He sees what he did not a year ago. He is still young but he is coming around. He still has to become more of a leader, but he will."

Washington has received interests from North Carolina State and Duke but is concentrating on two more seasons of high school ball.

"Sean has a chance to become a really good football player, if he keeps his head straight and continues to work hard," Coach Roberson said.

Puma open series shakes up a traditionally stodgy sport

Every year I find myself fortunate to play in many events. While each one is fantastic, there is always one that stands out. Last year it was the Puma Open and this year's event promises to be even better.

For the third year running, Puma is putting on a national golf event unlike any other. The Puma Open, heading to the Doral Golf Resort and Spa in Miami on Oct. 9, promises lots of fun and lots of golf.

Puma, known for being a global sports lifestyle brand, launched the Puma Open series in 2007 as a way to shake up the traditionally stodgy sport and offer an inclusive and fun way to enjoy golf, mixing it with gaming and fun activities.

The Puma Open is a non-traditional golf event where teams of four compete in a nine-hole scramble, meant to test not only your golf know-how, but also your wit and skill. The best teams will win fantastic prizes.

Participants must sign up to play in teams of four. Men and women older than 21 are eligible to play, from novices to experts.

The nine-hole scramble includes a mix of "traditional" golf holes where Puma will test your golf skills mixed with a few golf hole challenges such as "lucky 7," where participants must play the entire hole with their seven iron or the "on the clock" hole where the team who plays the hole in the shortest time receives a great prize.

Last year we had a par-5 sponsored by a sports drink and we had to use one of their bottles for a tee. Getting the ball to sit just right while you tried to knock it a mile was the trick on this hole.

On one hole we had to choose, from some very old clubs, the club we'd ply our tee shot with. I had forgotten how small those old persimmon heads were.

We also got to sample some wonderful adult beverages, which helped loosen everyone up a little.

After a round of golf played the Puma way, participants will continue their adventure and go "all in" through a series of Vegas-style card games.

The foursome who has the combined best golf score and highest winnings at the gaming tables will win the ultimate grand prize.

"The Puma Open is the epitome of what Puma Golf is all about: fun and inclusivity," said Bob Philion, international business unit manager for Puma Golf.

Throughout the entire day, Puma will keep the energy flowing with drinks, food, music and tons of prizes and gifts. Bud Light Lime and Don Julio Tequila will be on hand providing adult beverages.

Function Drinks, an innovative beverage brand that was created by physicians and employs all-natural, functional ingredients with real benefits, will be supplying fun drinks such as "urban detox" and "shock sports."

Check in begins at 2:30 p.m. at Doral Golf Resort & Spa located at 4400 N.W. 87th Ave., Miami, with festivities and competition starting at 4 p.m. The event will run until about 9 p.m. A registration fee of $300 per foursome is required and space is limited. Participants must sign up at www.thepumaopen.com.

Come join me at the Puma Open. It will be a great excuse to start the weekend early.

Send the young guns to Cooperstown

In other event news, the Treasure Coast Young Guns Travel Baseball Team, a group of 9 and 10-year-olds, is hosting a benefit golf tournament on Saturday morning, Oct. 3 at Champions Golf Club at Summerfield in Stuart.

Proceeds from the event will go to help the team play in a national tournament in Cooperstown, N.Y., home of the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Cost is $100 per player and includes continental breakfast, golf, lunch and prizes. Entries must be received by Sept. 28.

For additional information or to register yourself or your group, call Brenda at (772) 285-1616 or 263-0610 or Tobi at (772) 341-2349 or (772) 647-8436.

Ah, nature: ospreys, water lilies and ... beer trees?

A few days ago, I went to Ormond Beach's Sanchez Park to drop my boat in at the natural ramp there.

The water was extremely high and the surface of Strickland Creek was choked with duckweed. That is a plant usually only found in fresh water, so that tells you the state of the water quality there.

In 25 years of fishing Strickland, I have never seen any duck weed at all. I ran my trolling motor over to Smith Creek, an idyllic little stream that is a

natural showcase. The fish were moving and the wading birds stood silent sentinel as they concentrated on breakfast minnows. Overhead the sharp "chee" of an osprey caused me to look skyward and admire the big bird of prey.

Wild lilies and orchids bloomed along the banks.

As I moved along, I wasn't catching anything, but that was of little consequence. Gorgeous nature was all around me.

Just then, I rounded a curve in the stream and into a sight that stopped me in my tracks. Just ahead was the dreaded "beer tree," a phenomenon I witness all too often. The beer tree is the result of under aged beer drinkers placing their empties on the ends of a downed tree.

Blue and silver aluminum cans impaled on tree limbs right there in the midst of all that beauty.

Leaving them lying about

I have never seen the perpetrators of this ugly act in action, but I am sure they must be juveniles because I know adults would not do such a thing.

As I removed the cans, I wondered what could inspire anyone to create such a hideous thing. Are they so immature that they must show the world that they are able to drink 12 cheap beers? It is always the less expensive brand that is displayed.

Why would they take the time and labor to place them on a tree rather than leaving them lying about as so many thoughtless others do? No, this takes a concerted effort. I just don't get it. The High Bridge area has always been a favorite place for morons to make a beer tree, but it may show up anywhere, a pagan offering to some unknown malt god perhaps?

Folks, littering is a big problem in Volusia County as it is elsewhere. Fishermen, who profess to love nature, should never be the ones guilty of leaving behind their trash. If you are ever in your boat and you witness a beer tree in the making, please turn the criminals in. Don't be fooled by their appearance. They have to be underaged drinkers.

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for 40 years. When he's not fishing, the retired contractor is heavily involved with the Ormond Beach Historical Trust. For questions or comments send an e-mail to apes123@mybluelight.com
