Ormond sets tax rate and budget

By John Bozzo
For Hometown News

ORMOND BEACH – Despite a drop in property values, the City Commission on Tuesday made sure the tax rate for general operations would not increase next year.

The overall property tax burden will rise because voters last year approved a $5 million bond issue to help buy and develop a beachfront park.

A unanimous vote set next year's property-tax rate at the rolled-back rate of $3.8933 per $1,000 of taxable value.

The rolled-back rate will generate the same amount of money as this year, plus additional income from new construction and annexation. Any rate above the rollback would be a tax-rate increase under state law.

"By definition, what we're proposing, by state law, is not a tax (rate) increase," Mayor Ed Kelley said.

In addition to general operations, the city has three property taxes to pay off bonds, raising the total property-tax rate for the city to $4.2014 per $1,000 of taxable value.

A homeowner with taxable value of $175,000, minus $50,000 in homestead exemptions, will get a city property tax bill next year of $525.17.

Rossmeyer family continues father's legacy

By Laurie Sterbens
For Hometown News

ORMOND BEACH — In the corporate offices behind the cavernous showroom of Bruce Rossmeyer's Harley Davidson at Destination Daytona, members of the Rossmeyer family recently gathered around a large oval conference table. CEO Sandy Rossmeyer, widow of Bruce Rossmeyer, took her place at the head of the table and was joined by son Will Rossmeyer and daughters Mandy Rossmeyer and Shelly Rossmeyer Pepe. Across the room, behind a massive desk, a large leather swivel chair sat empty.

The office where the family meets remains unchanged since Bruce Rossmeyer's untimely death in July 2009. The family and business patriarch was riding with a group of friends on a Wyoming highway on his annual trip to the Sturgis motorcycle rally in South Dakota when he collided with a pickup pulling a camper trailer that slowed to make a left turn as he was trying to pass.

The family, now operating the Rossmeyer empire of Harley-Davidson dealerships and charitable interests without the former occupant of that big desk and swivel chair, leaves the office just as it was, as if to give space to the larger-than-life spirit of the husband, father and community leader who brought them to where they are today.

"You still think he's going to come around the corner hootin' and hollerin'," said Will Rossmeyer, vice president of Daytona Harley-Davidson.

But he does not, and they carry on without him.

The close-knit family says they've grown closer since the tragic loss of their husband and father.

"A family business can be tough sometimes, but he gave us all the opportunity to be part of it, and there's nothing we would do to jeopardize that, said Shelly Rossmeyer Pepe, who is general manager of the dealership.

Her sister Mandy handles promotions and events marketing for Daytona Harley-Davidson and Destination Daytona. Their brother Will, as vice president, is involved in all of the daily operations. Their mother, Sandy Rossmeyer, has assumed the role of CEO.

"Bruce and I made a deal years ago that I would raise the kids and he would go to work — and I did my job!" Sandy Rossmeyer said about her unexpected role.

After her husband's death, it was Sandy who rallied the family to get back to work.

Employee health fair popular, good for city

By John Bozzo
For Hometown News

DAYTONA BEACH — Dance-exercise demonstrations and free massages spiced up a recent health fair for city employees.

"The free massage is the biggest hit of the show," said Janis Goff, city nurse.

Parking at the City Island Recreation Center was jammed with city vehicles as employees took advantage of the Health and Wellness Fair.

Blood pressure, vision, Sickle Cell, glaucoma and other health screenings were offered along with important health information.

"We do this to promote a healthy lifestyle," Ms. Goff said. "A lot of our people don't go to the doctor on a regular basis."

About 200 city employees were expected to take advantage of the health fair.

One of those employees was Tracy Manning, 47, an electrical technician who has worked 25 years on traffic signalization for the city.

"There's great information here," she said. "Seven years ago I found out I had had a thyroid problem through the health fair here."

Flavio Uribe, 49, said he enjoys the health fairs, which are held roughly every two years.

He has worked eight years as an equipment operator in the Streets Division.

Holly Hill sets tentative tax rate and budget

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

HOLLY HILL — Property taxes are going down … or up, depending on who you talk to.

At its most recent meeting, the Holly Hill City Commission gave initial approval to a property-tax rate of $6.95 per $1,000 of assessed value for the 2011-2012 fiscal year. Commissioner Donnie Moore was alone in thinking that was not low enough and voted against it.

"It's below the rolled-back rate and that's great," he said in an interview after the meeting. "(But) it's still a tax increase."

While $6.95 is an increase over the current tax rate of $6.60, it's below the rolled-back rate of $7.06. The rolled-back rate is the property-tax rate that produces the same revenue as the previous year based on new assessments and minus new construction. Although the tax rate went up, Holly Hill property owners will get smaller property-tax bills next year because values went down.

However, Mr. Moore said that if property taxes don't decrease proportionately more than property values, the result is tax increases. For example, a property owner pays $1,000 in taxes on a home worth $100,000. The home loses 25 percent of its value the next year, and his or her taxes are reduced 20 percent. Mr. Moore says the property owner has gotten a five percent tax increase, not a 20 percent cut.

Mayor Roy Johnson said he's satisfied that the city staff did a good job crafting a budget and tax rates.

Ormond Beach officials like downtown street improvement plan

Former commissioner warns of traffic issues

By John Bozzo
For Hometown News

ORMOND BEACH — One voice warned of a dangerous bottleneck, but all others hailed planned improvements for a short stretch of Granada Boulevard west of the bridge.

Florida Department of Transportation officials held a meeting Sept. 15 at City Hall to get public comments on plans to improve the boulevard from Washington Avenue to Beach Street.

"This is a project that is going to produce disastrous consequences," said Jeff Boyle, a former city commissioner who also owned the Baseball Card Exchange on Granada Boulevard, where he watched traffic roll by for 21 years.

Mr. Boyle said plans to narrow the lanes and build landscaped medians would pose an obstacle for emergency vehicles, as well as make truck traffic and parking alongside the road more dangerous.

"We're putting a bottleneck on the only east-west bound lane that goes across our city," he said. "Then we're going to calm traffic down. I predict backups to Interstate 95 every day."

Construction plans for the 0.4-mile stretch of Granada Boulevard include building a raised median to be landscaped by the city. On-street parking will be retained and mid-block crosswalks will be added to enhance pedestrian access. The street will be repaved.

Mr. Boyle said the medians will prevent eastbound emergency vehicles from skirting traffic backups at Beach Street and Granada Boulevard by pulling into the westbound lane to get onto the bridge.

"When in doubt, don't do it," he said after referring to the project cost, $265,000 for design and $573,000 for construction.

However, Mr. Boyle's voice was the only objection raised to the project that has been a darling of city and business leaders for years.

Current elected officials kicked off the comments.

Mayor Ed Kelley said the improvements would "enhance our downtown as a destination."

"These medians, while seemingly inconsequential, are actually pivotal in creating a sense of place downtown," Commissioner James Stowers said.

Commissioner Rick Boehm compared the potential for downtown Granada Boulevard to downtown Winter Park.

"Winter Park was always a special place for those who live in Orlando," Mr. Boehm said. "In my mind, this is one of the first steps in creating an arts district. This can make Ormond Beach to Daytona Beach, what Winter Park is to Orlando.

Dorian Burt, project coordinator for Highlander Corp., the largest property owner in the project area, expressed the company's support for the project. Highlander is redeveloping a number of properties, including the Caffeine Bistro.

"We support this project," she said. "We're ready for you to start."

Ryck Hundredmark, president of Ormond Beach Main Street, a non-profit group formed to revitalize the downtown, thanked the Florida Department of Transportation for working on the improvement plan

"You're helping us achieve the vision we have for downtown," he said.

Jim Cameron, vice president of the Daytona Regional Chamber, praised the plan especially for the landscaping and scheduling construction at night to create less disruption.

Construction will take place after 8 p.m. Parking on the street will be prohibited from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. during construction. All lanes will be open in the event of a hurricane evacuation, according to plans.

The project schedule envisions completing plans by April 3, 2012, accepting construction bids by Aug. 29, 2012 and starting construction in November 2012. Construction is scheduled to take six months.

Seven people spoke after the first of two presentations on Sept. 15 by Florida Department of Transportation officials. When the presentation was repeated an hour later, no one from the public spoke.

More retail? New hotel? Ideas abound for economic growth

By John Bozzo
For Hometown News

ORMOND BEACH – Thirty residents gave up their Saturday morning to improve the city's plan for economic progress.

All agreed the plan has been successful since its adoption five years ago and the goal of the workshop, which included both residents and businesspeople, was to ensure continued success.

After a presentation, participants broke up into separate discussion groups for talks before making suggestions to the overall meeting.

"The only (idea) we would eliminate would be encouraging workforce housing opportunities because we've decided we have many workforce housing opportunities (due to the collapse of the housing market)," said Rita Press, resident and activist.

Ms. Press also suggested incentives to encourage "green" construction, special marketing strategies to attract medical and other niche industries, a marketing program to brand the city and attracting regional industrial-commercial development to a portion of the airport.

Jayne Filer, of the Volusia Manufacturers Association, proposed fostering a healthy business climate.

"We need to evaluate existing business regulations and instructions to simplify and reduce costs," she said.

Ms. Filer also suggested identifying additional areas in the city for economic development, promoting internships with business and educational institutions as well as partnering with Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University to support expansion of a new high-technology park here. Embry-Riddle has established an incubator for high-tech business start-ups. Some of the overflow might need a place to go, such as Ormond Beach, residents said.

"It's an opportunity for us to piggyback on what their needs are," said resident Al Jorzak.

Residents were also interested in attracting a company to build motorcycles or motorcycle parts here.

Ryck Hundredmark, president of Ormond Beach Main Street, proposed modifying the business improvement grant program to include tenants and loan guarantees to developers. He also urged development of a downtown arts district and implementing the Granada Opportunity Zone, which offers incentive such as tax breaks to developers who build and hire new people.

"The best way to predict the future is to make it happen," said Bob Gray, a consultant with Strategic Planning Group, who coordinated the discussions.

Mr. Gray led the group through a review of the Eco-

Pirates are the only men who should wear jewelry

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

The Daytona Beach area has a long history of piracy. Back when sailing vessels ruled the seas, marauders would attack the ships that plied the Atlantic and then escape into the tangle of islands inside the Mosquito (Ponce) Inlet. In more modern times speedboats would intercept cocaine and marijuana drops just off our coast.

The latest incident is only a continuation of a long tradition. If you missed it, a local fellow advertised his classic boat for sale on the Internet and the supposed interested buyer asked for a demonstration on the water. Once they were in a remote area the pirate pulled out a gun and demanded the boat. The owner put up a good fight, escaped and eventually had his craft returned.

To me the surprising thing about that is the seemingly rarity of pirate attacks these days. As I attend gatherings and events I notice more and more men wearing earrings. With so many buccaneers in the area we are fortunate piracy is not rampant. Surely, legitimate gentlemen would not don an earring unless they are true pirates. Historically, sea-going men wore a gold earring as a sort of get-out-of-jail card in case they drank too much on shore leave. The gold would usually pay their fine. Other than that reason, I can't understand why a man would wear one.

As a matter of fact, I don't care much for any jewelry on a man. I believe ladies began wearing jewelry to adorn a part of their anatomy they wished to highlight. Earrings look nice on a lady's ear but I have yet to see one man who has lovely lobes.

Not long ago I was watching Jude Judy on TV when I noticed that the defendant had a diamond-like stud in each ear. Now, this fellow had a pair of of ears on him — huge side lugs that sat at near perfect right angles to his head. I couldn't listen to the court case for staring at the guy's ears. If his purpose was to bring attention to those prominent flaps he had succeeded.

I'm not much for a fellow wearing a bracelet either, and when I encounter a man with a necklace I can't help but become embarrassed for him.

While jewelry is meant for women that does not mean it always works as beautiful ornamentation.

Some time in the recent past it became popular for young ladies to wear a gold chain around their bare midriffs — usually attached to a hole in their belly button. That was fine for girls with a 20-inch waist, but I have seen somewhat larger females sporting a "muffin top" midsection wrapping a chain around that. Did they really want to draw our eye there? Luckily that fad has seemingly passed.

These days many women wear an ankle chain. That's fine if you have a slim, well-turned ankle but must you draw our attention to those legs that seem to disappear into the shoes without tapering at all? I believe they're called cankles. They should not be bejeweled.

Still, even at its worst, jewelry should stay with the fairer sex. Most ladies have a body part they would like to emphasize. A nice necklace, ring, bracelet, or earring usually works. Men's bodies are utilitarian. Bringing attention to hairy knuckles or a big Adam's Apple does not fly.

I guess what I am saying is unless you have a peg leg and a parrot, or you are a modern-day boat thief — ditch the earring.

Area unemployment 'stable'

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY—Depending on how it's looked at, employment and unemployment are holding steady in Volusia County.

"The best news is the unemployment picture looks like it's staying stable," Rick Frasier, president of the Center for Business Excellence, said in an interview. "The fluctuations are minimal, which isn't the best news in the world, but at least they're not going down."

The center is the local branch of the state's Agency for Workforce Development. The agency recently released its August employment report. According to the report, unemployment in Volusia County was at 10.9 percent last month. In July, the unemployment rate was 11 percent.

The unemployment figure counts workers without jobs who've looked for employment in the last four weeks. It doesn't count discouraged workers who've temporarily abandoned job hunting, or underemployed individuals who are seeking better jobs. The state's seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate in August was 10.7 percent.

Rebecca Rust, the agency's chief economist, said in a teleconference that it's common for unemployment numbers to hold steady or increase in the early part of an economic recovery, as more first time job seekers and discouraged workers enter the market. However, she said that international and national economic occurrences, such as the Greek debt crisis, keep sapping energy for a job-producing recovery.

"Economic recovery is weak and not happening," she said.

There are about 987,000 jobless Floridians. The labor force is about 9.2 million. The state's unemployment rate was unchanged from July to August. However, the state's unemployment rate dropped .9 from August 2010 to last month.

Mr. Frasier said that unemployment numbers will likely drop in next month's report.

"In September the schools are back up and running," he said. "I anticipate our September numbers will show an improvement."

The national unemployment rate in August was 9.1 percent.

Tax

Individual tax bills will depend on the value of property and exemptions.

Two residents expressed frustration with property taxes.

Ed Connor said a small percentage of people who own highly valued properties pay more than a fair share of taxes, allowing people to vote to buy and develop a beachfront park, "confident" that other will pay a greater share of the bill.

"The real damage is not the city," but the combined impact of all the different taxing agencies, said Mr. Connor, a board member of Volusia Tax Reform who said he was not speaking on behalf of the organization.

In addition to city taxes, property tax bills also include taxes from other agencies, such as Volusia County and the School District.

Jim Cameron, vice president of the Daytona Regional Chamber of Commerce, said state legislators are working on a bill to limit the growth of taxes on non-homesteaded properties.

"It's got to where it affects the profit line right now," resident Marvin Miller said of property taxes.

Mr. Miller gave city officials good marks for cutting next year's budget.

"There was a lot of fat in there and you went at it and chewed it up pretty good," Mr. Miller said.

Property values declined in the city by $150 million, or 5.72 percent, from $2.63 billion to $2.49 billion.

After approving the property tax rate, the City Commission unanimously adopted an overall budget of $83 million for next year, about $4 million higher than this year. Capital projects such as the beachfront park and replacing racquetball and basketball courts at the Nova Community Center account for the increase.

Water service improvements are also planned next year, including $2.65 million to replace a two-inch water main and $3.42 million to build a water main to re-use treated wastewater for irrigation.

About $820,000 of reserves will be diverted to capital projects, such as improvements to The Casements parking lot and replacing a citywide computer system.

Increased costs next year include about $800,000 more for employee pensions.

General operations including police and fire will be $28.5 million, about $750,000 less than this year.

No salary increases are proposed for the city's 326 full-time and 36 part-time employees. One part-time position will be cut next year. Since the start of the housing slump in 2007, Ormond Beach has eliminated 62 full-time jobs.

The 2011-2012 fiscal year begins on Oct. 1.

KRASKI, COSTELLO & DRAKE P.A.
Let Dr. Costello create "Your Winning Smile"

People choose cosmetic dental procedures for various reasons - to repair a defect such as a malformed bite or crooked teeth, treat an injury, or just improve their overall appearance. For these and many other reasons, cosmetic dentistry has become a vital and important part of the dental profession and one of the fastest growing areas of dentistry. For example, tooth-whitening procedures have tripled over the past five years. Common cosmetic dental procedures can be performed to correct misshaped, discolored, chipped or missing teeth. It also can be used to change the overall shape of teeth - from teeth that are too long or short, have gaps, or simply need to be reshaped.

Keith Eugene Nelson

Crime Stoppers of Northeast Florida is seeking information on the whereabouts of Keith Eugene Nelson, 47. Nelson is registered in Illinois as a violent sexual predator, but was recently seen in the Daytona Beach area. Because he left Illinois and has failed to register a local address as required by Florida's sex offender laws, a warrant was obtained on June 23, 2011 charging Nelson with failure of a sex offender to properly register. Nelson's present whereabouts are unknown.

Nelson is 6-feet tall and weighs about 160 pounds and has blonde hair, green eyes and a medium complexion. If you see Nelson or know where he is, don't attempt to apprehend him.

Anyone with information regarding Nelson's whereabouts is asked to call Crime Stoppers toll-free at (888) 277-TIPS. You can also Text your tip by texting "TIP231 plus your message" to CRIMES. Anyone who provides information to Crime Stoppers will remain anonymous and can qualify for a reward of up to $1,000.

Vets for Peace thank event organizers

Thanks for helping with 9/11 event. The Central Florida chapter of Veterans For Peace worked together with the Orlando chapter of WeAreChange to put on a wonderful 2-day event in Daytona Beach this past weekend in marking the 10th anniversary of the September 11th attacks.

We would like to thanks everyone who helped us out, including CFVFP veteran member Chris Cerullo of Kissimmee, FL, who serves as the coordinator and lead organizer for the Orlando chapter of WeAreChange and did a fantastic job in organizing the event and getting people from all parts of Central and North Florida to participate in the event

CFVFP veteran member Harold Saive of Gainesville, did a marvelous job in coordinating the 2-night screening of the new film from architects and engineers for 9/11 Truth entitled "9/11: Explosive Evidence - Experts Speak Out" as well as doing all the videography, editing and production of the 29-minute YouTube video chronicling our event featured in the article "Active Military Look for 9/11 Truth at Veterans For Peace Rally in Daytona Beach".

CFVFP veteran member Charlie Williams of Daytona Beach, once again delivered for us big-time in coordinating with Steve's Famous Diner in getting his projector, movie screen, and other equipment to show the film set up and in good working order so that we could put on the film screening.

Thank you also to the many volunteers from WeAreChange Florida who came from as far as Melbourne, Jacksonville, Polk County, and the regular die-hards from the greater Daytona-Orlando are who once again suited up and showed up. We also want to thank Kathy Bracewell and Annie Hansen from the East Central Florida chapter of CODEPINK Women for Peace for their huge help in so many ways. Thank you everybody.

Even with zero media coverage or publicity, we were still able to raise $319.20 from many small donations to send off to the FealGood Foundation (www.fealgoodfoundation.com) to help the sick and dying 9/11 first responders. Thank you also to the good people of the Daytona Beach area who donated. www.cflveteransforpeace.org

Beware of people raising phony funds

In regard to phony vets raising funds: During the Sept. 11th weekend when everyone was more than patriotic, there were two people at a busy intersection in New Smyrna Beach. They had no identification and their camouflage fatigues on, which anyone can buy, and were getting donations for a small flag. I did not give, but they made quite a haul over that weekend probably for themselves.

Tribute was impressive

Kudos to the VFW Post 4250 for the inspiring formal POW/MIA ceremony on Friday evening that 70 people took time to attend. I can only say this is one of the most impressive events I have ever had the pleasure of attending. The formal presentation of the dress caps of every branch of the service with full honors to the empty table of remembrance was chilling. Thank you.

Dan's tribute should be annual classic

Dan Smith's Sept. 11 tribute should be an annual classic. Just please no more dark background. It's hard to read and it's hard to reprint.

Raises for local firefighters shouldn't be tied to 9/11

I just read the rant and rave in this week's edition of the Hometown News comparing local first responder pay negotiations to the brave police, firefighters, and civilians who died as a result of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. I just have one question. What does honoring the tragic deaths of so many innocent people in the worst terrorist attack ever on United States soil have to do with giving raises to local first responders? This is a ridiculous parallel to draw and local politicians who give raises to any local first responder because they are comparing them to the men and women who died on Sept. 11 should resign immediately.

Gearheads!

It took three teammates from the Jacksonville Hatchets to take down Mario Castro of the Daytona Gearheads rugby team during the Daytona Beach Rugby Festival at the Ormond Beach Sports Complex recently. www.daytonabeachrugby.com

BUSINESS

Wireless World showcases Verizon innovations

By Diane Carey
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY — Dan Gardner, Wireless World Founder, has been in the retail business nearly 40 years. The last 27 years have been spent revolutionizing the cell phone industry working in conjunction with corporate giant Verizon. Although Mr. Gardner has eight well established Wireless World stores in New York, he and his family now call Volusia County home with new store locations in Port Orange, New Smyrna Beach, and Holly Hill.

"It's in my blood I guess you could say," Mr. Gardner said. "I like helping folks find just the right product for them to make their lives better and enjoy for many years,"

He said wireless communication devices are in his blood.

"My dad was a radio operator with the Army-Air Corps during World War II, establishing one of the first ground to air radio stations on Normandy Beach," Mr. Gardner said. "For those who don't know it, a cellular phone for all its 'gee-whiz' effect, is still just a two way radio."

Wireless WorldWide Inc. is a New York based Corporation in the primary business of retailing Verizon Wireless cellular services and DirecTV. All stores feature a wireless world eStore that offers all of Verizon's products including iPads, phones for purchase, services, DirecTV, and staff support. Mr. Gardner said what sets his stores apart are "hometown customer service."

"Let's face it, you can buy a cellular phone out of a vending machine but that machine can't answer a single question you are bound to have," he said. "Unlike the big stores, we know your name and you know ours. Our company culture and our niche have always been small communities and our people are trained to spend all the time necessary with every single customer to make wireless simple for them."

Joan Snow, a customer of the New Smyrna Beach store, agrees.

"I was very pleased when I saw the store was coming to the beachside," she said. "Kayla (a store employee) was so pleasant, knowledgeable and helpful. She walked me through getting a new phone and making the transition to a new provider. I have been back several times with questions and she has always been accommodating."

Randy Barber/staff photographer

Mr. Gardner said he has been in the wireless business since the beginning.

"I installed the first cellular mobile phone in our country in New York in 1984," he said. "… I was among the very first group of Verizon Wireless retailers. As Verizon evolved, so did Wireless World. We became one of the first premium retailers for Verizon Wireless, a proud accomplishment as only a small group of agents nationwide have earned such a designation."

The Gardners, who came here in February, originally planned to build out the initial Volusia locations and get back to upstate New York where their other stores are well established . However, with daughter Sarah in New Smyrna Beach and longtime friends and employees Ken and Sara Probst relocated here as well, they have decided to stay.

For more information, visit the website at ewirelessworld.com. The Port Orange location is in Dunlawton Square, 3841 S. Nova Road. For more information, call (386) 846-1144. The New Smyrna store is at the Publix Plaza beachside, 1335 Saxon Drive. For more information, call (386) 478-8856, and Holly Hill is at 1834 Ridgewood Avenue in the Publix Plaza. For more information, call (386) 872-1060. All locations are open seven days a week.

"(Mr. Moore) doesn't like property taxes altogether," he said in an interview. "I just don't agree with him on how you can shut off the income and still operate. He's trying to do what's right, but you still have to balance the budget."

According to the Volusia County Property Appraiser, the gross taxable value of Holly Hill property is about $479 million, about the same as it was in 2004. Property values have been dropping in recent years.

"We lost $200 million in value over the last two years," City Manager Jim McCroskey said. "It's difficult for the public to understand how we could spend less money than we did last year, but raise the millage rate."

If adopted at its second reading, the city's 2011-2012 budget will be $7,106,000. The current budget is $7,251,000. Mr. McCroskey said that no city services are getting cut. The savings, he said, will come from reduced capital expenditures on equipment such as police cruisers.

The city expects to get about $2.5 million from property taxes. Additional monies come from a variety of sources, such as sales taxes the state remits to the city.

The final reading and adoption of the budget and tax rate will be at the Sept. 27 commission meeting.

When Doctors Get Back Pain & Sciatica, This is What They Do...
Finally, A Breakthrough In the Treatment of Back & Neck Pain & Sciatica Caused by Bulging, Herniated Or Squashed Discs.
In this doctor's opinion, the best breakthrough treatment for serious back pain of our age is NOT surgery, but a non-surgical, safe & painless, state-of-the-art technology now available in Ormond Beach.

Ormond Beach – When a local doctor came to consult with me about low back pain and sciatica down his leg, he told me he's seen too many patients who've had surgery and he wanted to avoid it at all cost. He had seen 3 or 4 patients that I had treated and the "amazing results they had received" and he was asking me if I could help him.

You see, after I treat a patient, I always send a medical report of findings to their doctors, keeping them informed of the patient's progress. I also encourage the patient to report back to their physician for a visit and to show-off their newfound health to their doctor.

This doctor had several patients come back to him from our office after treatment to do just that and he came to me with his own condition.

I've successfully treated Dentists, Nurses, Chiropractors, Veterinarians, Physicians, Therapists, just to name a few. I've treated even more of their staff. I haven't treated a spine surgeon yet…pride is a funny thing, but I'd be honored at the opportunity.

Doctor or not, every person entering our office undergoes a thorough history, extensive examination, and review of spinal films. We then determine the cause of their pain, whether they are a good candidate for non-surgical spinal decompression and then I consider the severity of the case and decide on acceptance of their case.

Do You Have A Disc Problem?
If you experience any of the following in your back or neck, chances are your pain is due to a disc bulge, herniation or degeneration:
• A vice-like squeezing feeling in your back
• Sitting causes back or leg pain
• Stabbing pain at the belt line or in your neck
• Can't turn over in bed without hurting
• Numbness in your toes or fingers
• Fire down your legs
• Searing pain radiates into your arm
• Prickling in your leg or toes

Finally, Some Good News
If you've been suffering with back pain or arm/leg pain caused by a disc bulge, disc herniation or squashed or compressed discs.

I can now GUARANTEE your satisfaction with my nonsurgical computerized treatment for bad discs and bad backs!

It's all because of 14 recent medical studies on spinal decompression.

Until recently, the only advice for many of you suffering in pain was to try what you've been told:
√ Try exercising
√ Try physical therapy
√ Try pain medications
√ Try muscle relaxers
√ Try pain shots
√ Try dangerous back surgery
√ Just live with it

If you're like most, none of these have worked for you or you are afraid of what could happen if you do try some of these. Exercising makes you hurt more, pain medications and muscle relaxers cover up the problem and give you side effects. Pain shots can cause more pain, don't work or don't last very long nor FIX the problem, back surgery didn't work or made you worse. Or maybe you were one of the lucky ones that back surgery actually helped, but now the problem is back with a vengeance.

Caution! Decompression is DIFFRENT than old time traction or hanging upside down or inversion machines which can make your muscles sqeeze the discs even harder!

Whatever your situation, you owe it to yourself to check into a Breakthrough Computerized Non-Surgical Treatment for back pain and sciatic or leg pain caused by a bulging, herniated or squashed disc or discs.

It has helped hundreds of people who were suffering just like you. This new treatment machine I'm calling my squashed disc machine.

How Do Discs Go Bad?
Over time the discs in your back tend to get squashed or compressed, especially if you've played certain sports when younger or have a job that requires lots of sitting or standing in one place for long periods of time. Car accidents, lifting things, very physical jobs just to name a few.

It's kinda like a cookie with cream filling, and the cream filling will start to ooze out from between the sides of the cookie if pressure is applied on top of the cookie (like gravity on our spines).

Eventually this happens to a lot of us. Statistics are something like over 80% of Americans will suffer with back pain sometime in their life.

Back to my new computerized squashed disc machine. You're probably wondering how this new machine works.

How Does This Machine Work?
Haven't you ever had the thought…"Gosh, if somebody could just pull me apart...I would feel a whole lot better". Yeah, I know you have. And it kinda makes a bit of sense.

Well someone else, actually a medical manufacturer, back pain specialists, neurosurgeons and engineers have come up with just that. A machine that gently pulls you apart, stretches the disc to a certain point that causes a drop in pressure inside the disc (like a little vacuum in the middle of the cream filling) causing the cream filling to suck back in!

In my clinic, I've treated hundreds of patients with non surgical spinal decompression with great results so there should be no reason your back pain should be any different.
Actually, I'm so sure we can help you with your back problem, I'm willing to back it up…but not with hot air.

I GUARANTEE your satisfaction.

That's right, I can guarantee your satisfaction because there are only a very small percentage of people we can't help. And I'm going to let you know if you're not right for the treatment.

Most Serious Back Pain Sufferers Are Very Skeptical Of This New Procedure, As Skeptical As I Was When I Purchased My First Decompression Machine, So If You Are Skeptical…See What Some Of Our Patients Who WERE Good Candidates Have Had To Say About Our Program:

"When I came in to see you I had been to several doctors. They were not helping and I was taking lots of pain pills and muscle relaxers. Before the treatment I would get out of bed and fall to the ground. I was in very severe pain. I was slow to react to the DRX9000 treatment, but I stayed with it. Today I feel great. No more pain or pain pills. I want to thank all the staff at Dr. Labonte's. They are awesome."
- Lisa F., Ormond Beach

"My experience at Dr. Labonte's office has greatly improved my quality of life. The DRX 9000 protocol for a herniated disc worked for me. After 6 weeks of treatments my back was better than before I injured it."
- Dan N., Ormond Beach

"Dr. Labonte and his staff exude an upbeat and caring concern for each patient. I was treated as a person and not just a number. Thanks to Dr. Labonte, his staff and the DRX 9000 my quality of life has been restored to what it was eleven years ago. I am looking forward to resuming the active lifestyle I used to enjoy. I cannot emphasize how fantastic I feel. I heartily recommend the decompression treatment. All I can say to Dr. Labonte and his staff is thank you for the concern and extraordinary patient care you gave me during the treatments."
- Ray G., South Daytona

And that's why I'm offering for a limited time…

Grow your own parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme ... and basil

GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

Hi, everybody and welcome!

I think one of the greatest thrills is to be able to pick and use your own herbs right from your garden.

Many herbs can be easily grown either in the ground or in small containers on a windowsill right in your kitchen. Let's explore some of those.

The first thing you need to decide is whether you will dedicate an area outside for your garden or if you want to plant in containers inside or on your porch.

Your next step is to decide what types of herbs you want to grow. Basil is by far, one of the most sought-after herbs out there, but many people also like to grow oregano, thyme, sage, mint and lavender.

The best way to grow your own herbs is to plant them from seed. Depending on the type of herbs you plant, most seed germinate in about seven to 10 days.

The first herb we will talk about is basil (ocimum basilicum). Basil is probably one of the easiest herbs out there to grow. Use a good quality potting mix, such as Miracle Gro, if you plant in containers or high-quality topsoil such as Hyponex if you sow your seeds in the ground.

Basil seeds will take about 10 days to germinate and you can use small peat pots to start them out, if you prefer. Since they are easily trans-planted, you can start them out wherever it is most convenient for you. The Dark Opal variety has deep red foliage and boasts pink flowers. This variety can also be used for decorative purposes as an accent plant.

If you decided to plant in the ground, space your plants about 12 inches apart to allow room for the plants to grow and mature.

Basil has many uses but is most commonly used in Italian dishes and as a seasoning in sauces.

Thyme (thymus vulgaris) is another common herb that is used for flavoring soups and sauces. Since thyme needs a very rich soil, be sure to opt for the best. I always prefer Miracle Gro since it already has a small amount of fertilizer already added to the soil and it is loose enough for easily starting seeds.

Unlike basil, thyme will take almost 30 days for germination to occur and it will grow very slow at first.

Thyme can also be grown in containers, but since it is more of a shrub-like plant, be sure to use a container that is at least 12 inches in diameter. If you plant in the ground, space your plants at least 8 inches apart.

Once your herbs have grown and matured, you might want to dry them out for use at a future date. This is easily done and is actually a lot of fun to do. Simply cut off the tops of the leafy varieties and wash them in cold water. Hang them in an area indoors just long enough for the water to evaporate from the leaves.

You can then tie the stems together with twist ties designed for gardening. Place the plants in a paper bag, leafy side first. Secure the end of the bag with a rubber band and hang the bags indoors for about three weeks. You can now remove the dried leaves and crumble them in a shallow baking pan. Dry them out for a short time in your oven at the lowest setting. (about 100 degrees). That's it! You can now store your herbs in glass jars or containers and enjoy them whenever you need them for a recipe.

nomic Development Plan adopted by the city five years ago, citing its strengths and successes. Those successes include getting Energizer to continue production after taking over Hawaiian Tropic, helping Pace Analytical expand and development of the Airport Business Park.

"Economic development means money," he said. "Without revenues, we don't get the quality of services. To a large degree, Ormond Beach is virtually built out."

A major project for development here is the proposed Ormond Crossings on U.S. 1, a 3,000-acre mixed use development straddling Interstate 95, with a potential for 5 million square feet of industrial, commercial, retail and office space, as well as 2,900 homes. Planning continues to move ahead on the project.

Other opportunities include spin-off medical development near the new Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center and re-use of the former hospital building on Sterthaus Drive.

Ormond Beach is also making progress with redevelopment of several properties downtown.

"Downtowns are so important to people," Mr. Gray said. "They create your image."

Topics residents talked about at discussion tables included expanding non-residential properties. Ormond Beach currently is about 76 percent residential and 24 percent commercial.

"Around this table, there seemed to be less interest in tax base and more interest in ensuring quality development," said Marty Press, a city activist.

By ensuring quality development, the values of property would naturally go up.

Ms. Filer, of the Volusia Manufacturers Association, proposed a suggestion from her discussion table to set a definable goal for commercial property.

"Expand commercial-industrial-retail to 33 percent over three years," she said. "If we don't do that, we've failed."

However, the specific goal did not get support from the other tables, so the goal remains a general objective to expand the percentage of commercial, office, retail and industrial properties compared to residences.

Don Kane, a Daytona Beach resident and former business owner in Ormond Beach, was impressed to learn that 10 percent of the city's workforce of 16,000 people work in manufacturing, a ratio nearly five times higher than elsewhere in the county.

"That's outstanding," Mr. Kane said. "You're really doing a good job."

Several residents expressed concerns about the impact of the national economic slowdown on the city's business prospects.

"Given the state of the economy, we've got to be aggressive in taking advantage of opportunities available to us," said resident Gary Vance.

Joe Mannarino, city economic development director, said retail would be added to the new plan, which is designed for three years instead of five, so updates will be done sooner.

"We added a retail component this year," Mr. Mannarino said. "There's a definite need in our community to look at niche retailers. We've had some vacancies."

Also, the city is seeking proposals from a master developer for 87 acres at the Airport Business Park.

In addition to defining the city's economic development strengths, residents also looked at weaknesses

"We don't have a flagship hotel," Mr. Mannarino said. "Any time we have an industrial prospect, we have to put them up in Daytona Beach. It's a big problem."

The re-worked Economic Development Plan will go next to a workshop with the City Commission, possibly in October.

Legacy

"The following day, mom said, 'OK, let's get back to work,'" Will said. "Everyone was in their position and everyone knew what everyone had to do."

It wasn't so normal for Sandy.

"The children had worked here forever," she said, "I'm the one who had to learn."

In addition to Sandy, Mandy, Shelly and Will, there are other family members involved in the business. Another of Mr. Rossmeyer's daughters, Randy, was active in the business's early days before she moved out of state. Another daughter, Wendy, has her own career but helps her mother with estate business.

They all work hard and never expected favors from Mr. Rossmeyer just because he was dad.

"He never handed any opportunity over to us," Shelly said.

Now, Mandy's children, the oldest of Bruce and Sandy's 10 grandchildren, are helping out at events.

Jeff Cheek, general manager at Bruce Rossmeyer's Fort Lauderdale Harley-Davidson, praised the way the family has carried on sincle losing their patriarch.

"Bruce was a larger-than-life figure," Mr. Cheek said. "He made a presence, and the untimely loss of him would certainly put you on your heels for a little bit, but I can tell you there is a nice strong knit among Mrs. Rossmeyer and the kids."

They have learned a lot from Mr. Rossmeyer, Mr. Cheek said, not only about business but about morals.

"They maintained the business with integrity and they maintained taking care of their associates, provided strong leadership to the dealerships, and maintaining the support of the charities that were near and dear to Bruce," he said. "You can't say enough positive things about how they've handled this tragedy and how they've stayed the course."

Sarah Gurtis, vice president of marketing and corporate development for Camp Boggy Creek, a place that was near and dear to Mr. Rossmeyer's heart, said thanks to his careful planning, the family was spared from having to make any major decisions in the days immediately following his death. However, "they had an awful lot thrust upon them."

"He was flat-out all the time, so when you take that amount of energy and snap it away from the universe, this was a big, black hole," Ms. Gurtis said. "Because he did make it look easy. It just looked fun and easy, but the depth and scope of what he had going on was truly amazing."

The Rossmeyers carry on their father's legacy for Camp Boggy Creek with the annual Ride for Children, which this year will be held on Oct. 9.

Of course, Ms. Gurtis said, the biggest loss for the family was personal.

"The other thing that became obvious in his death, as in life, is how much these children loved their father," she said, "which makes the loss all the more painful, but makes the memories all the more sweet."

The Rossmeyers report that the family's businesses are all doing well, and with a third generation, now ranging from 3 months to 21 years old, in line to join them, the Rossmeyers have no plans to let go of Bruce Rossmeyer's dreams.

"We don't want to disappoint him," Sandy said, as though her father might still be sitting in the empty chair across the room.

"The bottom line is, we miss him." Will said.

This year's Rossmeyer's Ride for the Children will be a 'love-in'

By Laurie Sterbens
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY — After Bruce Rossmeyer visited Camp Boggy Creek in 1995, he became dedicated to helping the chronically ill children who are given weeklong camp sessions there. He decided then that his one-year-old Ride for the Children annual fundraiser would solely benefit Camp Boggy Creek.

"He loved the camp and the kids," said Sarah Gurtis, the camp's vice president of marketing and corporate development, in 2009, the year Mr. Rossmeyer was killed in a motorcyle accident. "He was here all the time just to visit them."

This year, the 17th Annual Bruce Rossmeyer's Ride for the Children will continue Mr. Rossmeyer's legacy on Oct. 9. The race will depart at 10 a.m. from the Coca-Cola Pavilion at Destination Daytona, located at U.S. 1 and I-95 in Ormond Beach.

"We absolutely consider (the Run) to be a legacy," Mr. Rossmeyer's daughter Mandy Rossmeyer, said. "It was a really important event for my dad. He always said it was all about the kids."

The funds raised goes directly to Camp Boggy Creek. In addition to the weeklong sessions for the children, there are retreat weekends for their families. There is no charge for the families, and the camp relies on the support of individuals, corporations, foundations and healthcare partners.

The 17th Annual Bruce Rossmeyer's Ride for Children will rev up with a "Peace, Love and Happiness Love-In" pre-ride party for VIP riders, sponsors and ticket holders at 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 8 at the Coca-Cola Pavilion. Participants are encouraged to "get out those groovy threads and have a far-out time." The party will include food, music, open bar and a live auction.

Check-in for the ride begins at 6:30 a.m. Oct. 9 at Destination Daytona. Bikers will ride with a police escort from Destination Daytona to Camp Boggy Creek, near Eustis. At the camp, participants will enjoy lunch from Outback Steakhouse with Coca-Cola and Miller beer, live and silent auctions and a prize drawing.

This year, for the first time, event organizers decided to "crank it up a notch" by going outside the Harley-Davidson community.

"We want all rider groups to get involved with the Ride for Children," Ms. Gurtis said.

Inviting a broader range of motorcycle enthusiasts to participate in the ride will mirror the inclusive atmosphere of the camp, she said.

The ride, which raised $200,000 for Camp Boggy Creek last year, was formerly known as the Daytona Harley Davidson Ride for Children but was renamed the Bruce Rossmeyer's Ride for Children after his death. When Mr. Rossmeyer dedicated the ride in 1995 to Camp Boggy Creek, he pledged to raise $1 million in 10 years, a goal he exceeded by the 10th anniversary ride. According to the event's website, motorcycle enthusiasts throughout Florida and the Southeast have helped raise more than $4 million for Camp Boggy Creek.

Mandy Rossmeyer said she knows her father will be at this year's ride in spirit.

"I've been working very hard to make him proud," she said. "He's watching us."

Florida Hospital is now affiliated Mayo Clinic Cancer Center

Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center Comprehensive Cancer Center is now enrolled as a member of the North Central Cancer Treatment Group.

Mayo Clinic Cancer Center serves as the research base for the group, providing clinical and laboratory research expertise.

With this enrollment, Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center becomes an affiliate site to Mayo Clinic of Florida and has the opportunity to participate in large clinical trials.

Business incubator welcomes two more clients

The University of Central Florida business incubator in Daytona Beach recently welcomed two new clients – Fusion Fitness Designs and Black Creek Financial – to its newly opened offices at the Daytona Beach International Airport.

Fusion Fitness Designs, an Ormond Beach designer and manufacturer of high-end exercise equipment, officially moved into their leased office space at 601 Innovation Way on Sept. 1.

Black Creek Financial, a two-year-old Daytona Beach risk management and auditing company owned by Daytona Beach resident Kearn Williams, also has set up an office at the incubator.

Ten additional applicants from area businesses have been interviewed for space in the incubator, which eventually can house up to 20 clients.

HOW WEIRD IS THAT?!
SEAN MCCARTHY

Spend any time surfing the Web and you are bound to find stories that are just too bizarre to be true. Here's a sampling, edited for length. And remember, just because it's online doesn't mean it's true!

From newsnet5.com:

Burglar gets stuck in vent trying to break into burger joint

A Cleveland burglary suspect was caught in the act after getting stuck in a restaurant's rooftop air conditioning vent.

It happened at Burger Haven on Broadway Avenue in Cleveland. Police at the scene said Edward Lawson scaled the brand new Burger Haven restaurant and noticed an old AC unit cover.

"They ripped it off and got halfway in the store and they couldn't go anywhere else. So he was just hanging there," said owner George Nakhle.

Someone spotted Lawson on the roof and called 911. When officers arrived, they couldn't find the guy at first. Then, they saw his legs dangling from the ceiling. The man was rescued and arrested in a matter of hours and booked into jail.

Burger Haven will install a surveillance system and add a more secure cover on the vent.

From digitalspy.com:

Duo arrested for stealing 260 baby alligators

Two men from Florida have been arrested for attempting to steal 260 baby alligators.

Robert 'Bo' Martin Duval and Christopher Cork Scroggins were caught leaving Lake Apopka, near Orlando, with two sacks full of the newly hatched reptiles. The pair was charged with felony possession and capture of hatchling alligators along with misdemeanor conspiracy, while Duval faced additional charges of possession of firearms and ammunition by a convicted felon.

A woman accused of assisting Duval and Scroggins is still under investigation.

"Unfortunately, there is an illegal market for hatchling alligators, and people who participate in this type of poaching have no regard for our resources or the laws that protect them," David Straub of the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission told MSNBC.

Duval and Scroggins were later bailed out on $13,000 and $3,000 bonds, respectively. They offered to return the alligators to the lake alive.

From seattlepi.com:

No more cigarettes for Malaysian orangutan

A captive orangutan often spotted smoking cigarettes given to her by zoo visitors is being forced to kick the habit, a Malaysian wildlife official said.

Government authorities seized the adult ape named Shirley from a state-run zoo in Malaysia's southern Johor state last week after she and several other animals there were deemed to be living in poor conditions.

Shirley is now being quarantined at another zoo in a neighboring state and is expected to be sent to a Malaysian wildlife center on Borneo island within weeks.

Melaka zoo director Ahmad Azhar Mohammed said Shirley is not being provided with any more cigarettes because "smoking is not normal behavior for orangutans. I would say she is not addicted ... but she might have formed a habit after mimicking human beings who were smoking around her," Ahmad told The Associated Press.

Nature Alert, a British-based activist group, wrote to Malaysian officials about Shirley earlier this year, saying conservationists who visited the Johor zoo often saw people throwing lit cigarettes to her in a pit-like enclosure. The group said Shirley seemed to suffer severe mood swings, sometimes looking drowsy and on other occasions appearing "very agitated" without a cigarette.

vitals," he said. "Sometimes I don't go to a doctor. It's been four years since I've seen a doctor."

Joan Hoffman, manager of the Diabetes Center and Center for Wound Healing and Hyperbaric Medicine at Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center provided information at one of the many tables set up in the recreation center.

"Diabetes is an epidemic now," she said. "People don't understand the disease."

Ms. Hoffman said people should have their glucose level tested every year.

Michael Smith, 55, was happy to learn at the health fair that his blood pressure was normal. He started working in the Streets Division of the city three months ago and has been riding his bicycle eight miles to and from work.

"I feel great," he said.

Ricky Jones, 48, a 14-year Utility Service employee, said he tries to participate in every health fair offered to employees.

"Anytime something is free, without a co-pay, I check it out," he said. "When you go to a doctor, you have to pay a co-pay. Here, you get tested for things like Sickle cell free."

The wellness fair on Sept. 15 was the first time Mr. Jones underwent a glaucoma screening.

"I never had a glaucoma screening," he said. "I found out I don't have glaucoma."

In addition to the health benefits from the wellness fairs, Mr Jones said the events build good morale among city employees.

"There's the camaraderie of all of us getting together," he said.

Ms. Goff, the city nurse, said one benefit of improving the health of city employees might be lower health insurance rates, but that's not the main motivation.

"We do it to help improve the health of city employees," she said.

Musician still leads the bands

By Shelly Koppel
For Hometown News

ORMOND BEACH — For some musicians, retirement means jamming in a local band. For Sal Ronci, a trumpet player and retired music educator, it means leading everything from the Sal Ronci Big Band, an 18-piece ensemble, to a duo, with a swing band and trio mixed in.

Mr. Ronci, 74, was raised in New Haven, Conn. He often watched his uncle practice the trumpet.

"I got the bug at 12," he said. "I had my first professional gig at 14, and I've been playing at weddings, parties, clubs and dances ever since."

Mr. Ronci attended the Hartt College of Music in Harford for two years and then moved to Miami, where he studied at the University of Miami School of Music. He joined the Coralaires, a popular Miami group, and toured the country in the 1950s.

When Mr. Ronci married and began a family, he returned to school and got a degree in music education. He taught band, orchestra and chorus from the elementary-school to the community-college level, while still performing in Miami.

He started Jazz Labs in the Dade County public schools, which brought in adult musicians from the area to play with students.

"The young kids got influenced by the musicians who took them under their wings," Mr. Ronci said.

After 30 years of teaching, Mr. Ronci retired in 1994. He and his wife, Judy, also a retired teacher, moved to the area, and he started a big band that performs around Volusia County.

Sal Ronci performing.

Mr. Ronci's bands have performed at the Daytona Beach Bandshell, Peabody Auditorium, Port Orange Amphitheater and Flagler Auditorium. With his trio, he performs for the Navy and Marine League Balls.

Mr. Ronci and his bands also do fundraisers, private events and holiday parties.

He shows no sign of slowing down.

"The older you get, the more busy you have to be," he said. "A friend in his 80s plays with my band and is still going strong. It's good therapy."

Week of 9-23-2011

Aries-March 21-April 19
You are a winner in the game of life. Why? Because you have courage, conviction, integrity and high purpose. Your strong conscience and loyalty always make you want to do the right thing. Stay focused on the top goals that make you happy. Now the universe is working for you and bringing you higher rewards.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
Make time each day to do things that make you happy and recharges your batteries. You don't have to always be consumed with work. Psyche yourself up each day. Everyone needs this, especially Taurus. Now you are at your best. Do it today and every day to come. Now life's greatest rewards will find you everyday.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
Pacing yourself is the key to getting the most important things done first. You don't have to do everything at once. This just wears you out. Most of the things you worry about never happen in the first place. This is why it is so important to separate the positives from the negatives. Feed the positives, starve the negatives.

Moon Child-June 22-July 22
You wake up most mornings with a happy mood and a positive attitude. This is high magic and continues to bring new blessings of love, peace, abundance and happiness each day. Your large heart is filled with gratitude and thanks. Your heart literally sings with gladness for all you have been given. More is on the way.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
Your strong belief in doing things right is a major factor in your wonderful personal and professional growth. When you get that "Right" feeling nothing can stop or slow you down from victory over life. You have such a large reservoir of love, patience and understanding. Victory is on the horizon heading your way.

Contemporary Dance Theatre presents 'Masculine Feminine'

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

Surfscape Contemporary Dance Theatre, Volusia County's resident professional dance company, will present "Masculine Feminine" at the Harris Theater at Atlantic Center for the Arts in New Smyrna Beach.

The company will perform new choreography by artistic directors Rachael Leonard and Kristin Polizzi.

The musical accompaniment will range from classical to blues to electronic to spoken text, and the movement will explore aspects of relationships, gender roles, and the male and female dichotomy.

Complimentary wine, cheese, fruits and gourmet desserts will be served.

them is the key to your happiness. It is unwise to work on more than three main projects each day. There has to be time to play as well, you know. Quality is more important than quantity. Trust your instincts. They speak truth.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct.22
When you listen to and let your higher nature guide you, wiser decisions are made. You were born under the lucky number seven in the Zodiac. The odds of success are in your favor. This gives you the winning edge. You have all the tools it takes to live a rich, full and happy life. You are truly a child of the light.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21
You are one of the few bold enough to live your dream. All created forms start with a vision, a dream or an inspiration. You live close to the source. You have the power of original thought. This is a clear mind, an open heart and a vivid imagination. The only other requirement is action. Bring it all out and set it free.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21
Your life is filled with positive opportunities and challenges. The starting point is to make the best of what you have right now. Before starting any new projects, finish up and complete old ones first. Then set new targets. You are the Archer of the Universe. One of your main jobs is to give us all a sense of direction.

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19
Much truth is unfolding around you lately. Try to keep a lighter touch when you are not sure what to do. Patience is a virtue. Keep balanced by doing things that keep you healthy. This keeps the stress level down. No need to burn out this late in the year. Call on your friends. They will help. That's what friends are for.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Foresight is your great quality. It works best when you follow your heart more than your head. If it doesn't feel right, don't do it. Some of the greatest ideas and theories don't work when tested. This is where you are at your best. A visionary, a prover and an action. You are a visionary. Test and prove them before taking action.

Pisces-Feb. 19- March 20
There is no room for fear, indecision or doubt in your life. Tell us what you want us to do. You have the answers. You have gotten this far in life, it's awesome. There is still a ways to go. Keep on revealing your secrets. You are so great and so deep. You take us safely into our deeper hart nature. Thanks.

Three dinners from one roast — now, that's saving money

ROMANCING THE STOVE with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

Hello, smart shoppers; if you've stopped getting the Hometown News, just call, it's still free but you must subscribe. Call toll-free (866) 913-6397.

Food prices are going up like crazy and I'm sure many of you are having trouble trying to make ends meet. Buying large cuts of meat is usually cheaper, but that's not practical for a small family — or is it?

My daughter and I love roast beef and pot roast — both large cuts of meat. I finally decided we're gonna have them no matter what.

Follow my lead, this is money-saving and marvelous. Bottom round roast makes a tender roast beef or pot roast. Wait for a "buy one get one free" deal and buy a large 3–4 1/2 pound roast and a free one for the freezer. The price should be a little over $3 a pound. For your first dinner, roast beef. Cut enough for leftover brown bagging, then freeze the rest. Freeze the gravy in a separate container.

Second dinner, my mock Sauerbraten pot roast. Brown the meat and follow the recipe. Still leftover meat? Back to the freezer along with the gravy.

Now it's time for my late husband's mom's Lapsgouts (Danish Stew).

ROAST BEEF SERVES 5 TO 6

There is usually a thin layer of fat on one side of the meat; leave that and trim any other visible fat.

3 -lb. bottom round roast
5 or 6small onions or 2 medium onions, quartered
Garlic powder
Salt and pepper

Season roast. Place in pan and surround with small peeled or quartered onions, (hold together with a toothpick). Do not add water. Place pan in the center of a 350-degree oven; roast as follows:

Rare, 18 minutes per pound
Medium-Rare, 22 minutes per pound
Medium, 24 minutes per pound
Well, 27 minutes per pound

NOTE: When using a roast over 3-1/2 pounds, reduce the cooking time by two minutes per pound. The meat keeps cooking after it's done. Make a gravy following instructions in previous columns.

POT ROAST (MOCK SAUERBRATEN) SERVES 6

This recipe is for pressure cookers, stove-top or oven. Invest in a pressure cooker, it will be the smartest purchase you've ever made.

Many years ago I tasted sauerbraten. My opinion: flavor too strong, time involved too long! Using many of the same ingredients and adding a few of my own, I created my mock sauerbraten. It has become a family favorite and I hope you enjoy it as much as we do.

3 lb. bottom round roast
1 lg. onion (3 inches in diameter), quartered and sliced
1/4 cup catsup
1/2 tsp. each, garlic powder and black pepper
1 tsp. salt
2 rounded tsp. brown mustard
3 tbsp. red wine vinegar
1 small bay leaf
3 or more cups water

Trim all fat from meat except what's on top. Brown meat on all sides in a large covered oven-proof pot or pressure cooker. Do not add any fat. Place meat fat side up. Add onions and cook until golden. Add remaining ingredients, leaving the water for last. Cover and cook in a 350-degree oven or on the stove for two and a half to three hours until tender and well done. Add more water if necessary.

Pressure cooker: cook at 10 pounds of pressure for 40 minutes or follow instructions with cooker.

Remove meat to serving platter. Strain liquid into saucepan, discard bay leaf, reserve onions. Make gravy, add reserved onions. Thinly slice meat across the grain.

LAPSGOUTS

This recipe comes from my husband's Danish heritage. When you prepare a roast beef or a pot roast cook more than you will need and slice only what you will eat. Freeze the leftover beef and gravy separately and use for this recipe.

Leftover roast beef or pot roast, thawed and cut in bite-size cubes

Leftover gravy, thawed
1 can mixed vegetables with potatoes such as Veg-All, drained, or

1 pkg. frozen mixed vegetables and 1 can whole potatoes, rinsed, drained and cubed
1 jar small white onions (optional)

Heat gravy to a rolling boil, stirring constantly. Stretch if necessary by adding water, flour and water mixed, Gravy Master for good color and beef bouillon for added flavor or you can add packaged or canned gravy. If using pot roast, add to gravy and cook for 15 minutes.

Add vegetables and cook until tender and heated through. If using roast beef, add just before serving. This is a stew you eat with a spoon.

To order my cookbook, access past columns or check out great tips go to my website www.romancingthestove.net.

Fish hooks don't get the appreciation they deserve

FISHING WITH DAN
DAN SMITH

Fish hooks are one of the most under-appreciated pieces of equipment in any angler's box, yet at the moment of truth, nothing is more important.

Last winter while fishing in Edgewater with Captain Leo Hiles, I hooked a big trout on a free-lined live mullet. Just as I had the 6- or 7-pound fish coming to the boat, my line gave way.

When I had the line back in the boat, it was clear that it had not broken, and my trusty palomar knot was still very much tied on the end of the line. The hook was gone.

Leo and I agreed that the eye of the hook had probably not been properly crimped closed, leaving a small space for the hook to pull out of the knot.

Even if that was the fact, 99 out of 100 times, the hook would not pull from the knot like that, but it can happen. When you lose a big fish in that manner, it will ruin your whole day.

The hook in question was a red circle 3/0 model from one of the best-known brands. That day, Capt. Leo and I went on to catch lots of fish, and we never spoke of it again, but I don't forget losing a gator trout easily.

Once back home, I pulled out the pack of hooks for an inspection. There were six remaining of the 10 that were originally in the pack, and sure enough, one had a gap in the eye.

That tells me that at least two of the 10 had not been well crimped. Check your hooks out.

Fish hooks are centuries old, with the oldest one known being a bone hook found in Palestine. That hook was dated to 7,000 years before Christ.

Ever since man has wanted to dine on fish, there has been a variety of hooks devised to help him catch his prey. In 2005, Forbes Magazine listed the common fish hook as one of the top 20 tools ever invented.

Big hooks, little hooks, circle hooks, treble hooks, wire hooks, long shank, short shank, wide gap and narrow gap. There is an infinite number of hooks available to us.

I would advise against buying the thin wire fresh water hooks for the inshore. Anyone who fishes our local brackish waters will eventually hook up with a big redfish. Those battlers will straighten out a flimsy hook in a heartbeat.

That day last winter, I wasn't the only one having hook trouble. Leo was having great success fishing a top water plug that was produced mostly for fresh water applications.

Time and again, we noticed that the treble hooks would straighten under the strain of the big fish we were landing.

Leo thought about switching the hooks but worried that the different hooks might affect the action of the lure. He opted not to mess with success.

When fishing natural bait, Leo is sold on using a big 5/0 red circle hook. That angle looks outlandishly large in the backwater, but, let me tell you, it works. I go with a 3/0 or 4/0 circle hook.

If you have yet to try the circles, you may be pleasantly surprised. It eliminates the need for the old saltwater snatch.

When a fish bites the bait with a circle hook, all you need to do is allow it to swim a bit and then gently raise your rod tip and start reeling. Most of the time, the hook sets right in the corner of the mouth. That makes it easy to unhook and easy on the fish if you want to release it.

Remember, no treble hooks with natural bait, and don't assume that a new hook is properly sharpened.

Next time you begin to tie on your terminal tackle, take a moment to inspect and admire your best ally, the fish hook.

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. E-mail questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.

•Southeast Museum of Photography: "A Second Telling - September 11th: Here Is New York:" This powerful set of photographs is drawn from the Permanent Collection of the Southeast Museum of Photography. The original exhibition was organized in response to the World Trade Center tragedy of 2001, and to the unprecedented flood of images that resulted from that event. The goal of the 2002 project was to collect, organize, display and preserve for historical purposes the broadest possible view of this event and its aftermath. The 2002 presentation of "here is new york" at the Southeast Museum of Photography was one of only a handful of such presentations outside of New York City. More than 50 images were acquired by the museum from the 1,200 photographs that were originally exhibited at the museum in spring 2002. The images on display at the museum include powerful and poignant images taken by professional and amateur photographers. The exhibition is subtitled "a democracy of photographs" because the images on display were taken not only by top photojournalists and other professional photographers but also by schoolchildren, office workers, emergency workers and amateurs. This exhibit will be on display until Oct. 2. The museum is located at Daytona State College's Daytona Beach Campus, Hosseini Center, 1200 W. International Speedway Blvd., Daytona Beach. For more information, call (386) 506-4475.

LEGAL SERVICES

The hiring of a lawyer is an important decision that should not be based solely on advertisements. Before you decide, ask the lawyer to send you free written information about their qualifications and experience.
Under Florida law, non-lawyers are permitted to sell legal forms & kits & type in the factual information provided by their customers. They may not, however, give legal advice.
