Fewer locals seeking employment assistance

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY — One-Stop Employment centers are popular these days, but not as much as last year.

With the county's monthly unemployment rates still hovering above 10 percent, the Center of Business Excellence of Volusia/Flagler recently released its 2011 annual report, which covers July 2010 to June 2011. During that time, about 31,300 unemployed people sought services at the local One-Stop Employment centers.

"When I pull into the parking lot, there are lines waiting to get in," said Rick Frasier, president. "Like 15 people waiting here at 7:30 (a.m.) and we open at 8."

However, last year slightly more than 45,600 unemployed people sought job-hunting help at the three One-Stop centers in Daytona Beach, DeLand and Palm Coast.

The CBE is one of 24 workforce development boards that operate under the new Florida Department of Economic Opportunity, which replaced the Agency for Workforce Innovation this year.

In the 2011 reporting period, about 2,700 veterans and qualifying spouses used the employment centers' services. That's down from 3,400 the previous year.

The number of low-income adults using One-Stop services also dropped — from about 2,300 to about 2,000. Low-income is defined as a yearly family income at or below 150 percent of the federal poverty level.

Crèche artist Bill Egan of Flagler Beach shows a figurine from one his handmade nativity scenes to Melissa Cargile of Ormond Beach and Jennifer Goodwin (right) of South Daytona. The nativities are on display at the historic Dunn Building on Beach Street in Daytona Beach for the second year. 'This is the largest exhibition of original crèche art in the Southeast United States,' Mr. Egan said. Careful viewing of the nativity scenes will unveil various 20th century personalities and businesses within. In one vineyard scene, Lucy Ricardo can be seen stomping grapes. The exhibition will be on display through Jan. 6, 2012.

Couple want to bring healthy lifestyles to locals

By Laurie Sterbens
For Hometown News

It's no secret that America has a childhood obesity problem. According to letsmove.gov, the website for first lady Michelle Obama's Let's Move initiative, nearly one in three children in this country are overweight or obese, and statistics are even higher for African American and Hispanic children, 40 percent of whom are overweight or obese.

If the trend continues, one-third of American children born after 2000 will suffer from diabetes, and many others will face heart disease, high blood pressure, asthma and cancer.

For Camille and Omar Brown of Daytona Beach, the road to a healthier future begins in their own neighborhood with a smoothie. The Browns recently founded Midtown EcoVillage, Inc., a grassroots, nonprofit organization to advocate healthy lifestyles, environmental sustainability and community solidarity.

"Infusing our love of family, fitness and organic food, we strive to serve our community in innovative ways," the Browns say on their website.

The effort began in August, when the Browns volunteered to provide fresh juices and smoothies at the mayor's backpack giveaway for area children.

ORMOND BEACH — The City of Ormond Beach Leisure Services will hold its "HOme for the HOlidays" nighttime parade at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 10.

The theme for the 21st annual parade is "Holiday Illuminations."

Parade coordinator Mike Demchak says like every year, the parade will feature several different entries, floats and performances. One difference this year is that the Seabreeze High School marching band, which usually ushers in Santa at the end of the parade, will be accompanied by Ormond Beach

Schools chairman: 'education lifts you up'

VOLUSIA COUNTY — He grew up on the mean streets of a big city in the middle of some of the nation's most tumultuous years for race relations. There were few options for success for an African-American youth such as himself; but he found them through education, graduating college and finding a career he loved.

Today, Dr. Al Williams is the new chairperson of the Volusia County School Board.

"I come from the rough streets of Chicago; from the ghetto; from a single-parent family. I understand what education can do for you — it can raise you out of despair," Mr. Williams said. "I'm very committed to quality education for all

Hybrid racquet sport is hot: 'pickleball' bouncing onto local courts

By Dan Harkins
For Hometown News

DAYTONA BEACH SHORES — The "tink" of wooden paddles on a bright-orange wiffle ball was unmistakable one recent Friday morning over on court nine at this city's public-access Oceans Racquet Club.

There's more of it going on over at McElroy Park. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning. It's those pickleballers again.

"My wife, she teaches Zumba, and she calls it 'exercise in disguise,'" said 67-year-old Peter Mitchell of Port Orange between games. "This is exercise in disguise. The tennis players, they might roll their eyes, but the name of this place is racquet club. The sign didn't say tennis club."

The atmosphere isn't hostile at all, though. By all accounts, pickleball, while perhaps garnering scoffs from some more serious athletes of other racquet sports, isn't a walk in the park. Played with a wooden paddle and wiffle ball on a concrete badminton court divided by a tennis net, pickleball melds the rules of all those games, with a pace and breadth that isn't quite as taxing as tennis.

"If you're older and your joints ache, they won't ache as much with this," says George Rimler, 69, whose wife, Anita, has become the area's ambassador for the game through the USA Pickleball Association (www.usapa. org).

The couple discovered the game on their last visit to see their daughter in Austin, Texas. There, they stumbled across a veritable sea of dedicated pickleball courts at a retirement village there, even indoor opportunities. They came home and discovered that The Villages near Ocala had more than 100 courts.

"I'll admit, I've had hamstring problems," Anita said. "And this doesn't require as much as tennis does. It's our foray back to competitive sports, where we can compete together instead of solitary things for working out like walking or the elliptical."

The city has taken notice of the interest in pickleball. Since April, Roni Jackson, senior center director and pickleball convert, has gone from marking off pickleball courts in chalk on a basketball court with a portable tennis net to having two parks offer it on a few striped tennis courts three mornings a week. The demand has required it, with a handful of original players swelling to several dozen most mornings.

Ms. Jackson also convinced city leaders in recent months to set aside in the budget the estimated $35,000 needed to build two or more dedicated pickleball courts in the coming months. The location could be decided, she said, on Dec. 13.

"I'm hoping, with the courts, we'll start leagues with instruction and all that soon," said Ms. Jackson, who's proud of saying this expansion will create the first public dedicated pickleball courts in Volusia County.

A few other municipalities could beat the city to it, though. In Port Orange, Recreation Supervisor Jennifer Sisk reports that a recent meeting with local pickleball enthusiast Mike Pascale will likely lead to similar changes there.

"We're looking at converting one of the tennis

Driving on Volusia's first thoroughfare

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

Each year I revel in the fact that I get my beach back from December 1st until January 31st. For those two months Volusia County removes those awful, military style tollbooths that I like to call Checkpoint Charlie, and allow the beach to revert to free public use. I have never paid to drive on the beach and I never intend to.

Recently, as I rolled down the ramp on East Granada and past the Birthplace of Speed Park, I feel that old thrill that first brought me here over 40 years ago. I turn left and drive a couple hundred yards before encountering a line of ugly telephone poles stuck in the sand to barricade me from proceeding any farther north. I sit there for a while staring through my windshield at the posts and remembering a cold winter's day in the late 1970s when I drove my old '67 Dodge pickup all the way up to the Flagler Pier. I had done that just because it was a fun thing to do. Now my only option was to turn around and go back south.

Just past the Granada ramp I pause once more to remember that the original measured mile began just about where I sit. The tide is out and the beach is smooth and flat. This is probably the way it looked when Ransom Olds' Pirate raced Winton's Bullet in 1903. I smile at the thought of that obscure event that evolved into the monster sport of NASCAR.

As I roll off, I remember to obey the 10 mph speed limit, for that is a perfect speed at which to enjoy my gorgeous beach. As I drive I try to ignore row after row of tall concrete hotels and condos atop the dunes that block out the setting sun. Just before the lifeguard tower at Cardinal Drive, I stop to snap a photo of the marker that juts up from the waves. It marks the shipwreck of the three-masted schooner "The Nathan Cobb." It was at this spot in 1908 that R.G. Kelsey, in a borrowed racecar, collided with the remains of the boat. That has to be the only time in the history of the world when a racecar was involved in an accident with a ship.

Another mile or so and I am on the Daytona Beach portion of the sand. When I can see the big Plaza Hotel I begin to remember the great photos of some of the all time great cars and drivers who pulled onto the beach through the tunnel under this hotel. When I get to that ramp I am blocked by another stark line of poles to keep me from driving a mile of the main beach area. Some years ago, that part of the beach was closed to driving and set up as a private beach for the big hotels there. I remember when that was the center of entertainment for this area. Late at night there would be three rows of cars parked on the sand as folks patronized beachside businesses. I wonder how that non-driving idea has worked out for them.

Forced up onto A1A, the first thing I see is the big block of concrete that is the pay parking garage, a monument to discouraging folks from coming to the main beach. Down at the International Speedway Blvd. ramp I am allowed to go back on the beach. That area is also defended by a horrid row of posts that must look like the line at the de-militarized zone between North and South Korea. My only choice is to go south, but instead I pull over and park.

I walk through the poles and head north to the Daytona pier. The same pier that Sir Malcolm Campbell rolled his Bluebird under in 1935 when he set the world land speed record of 276 mph on the beach. That iconic old pier is in for a lot of changes. I hope they save some room for the locals and don't make it just another tourists stop. I wander up to the boardwalk — or what there is left of it. How can you have a beach without a boardwalk? Guess the tourists at the big hotels didn't support it.

Back in my truck I pass the new Volusia County Beach Patrol Headquarters just south of Silver Beach. I sit and look at that thing and ponder the fact that it represents all that is wrong with the over-regulated, over-patrolled beach and the bloated department that runs it. A tax drain on every citizen of the county. It seems to me that with all of the law enforcement on the beach these days there are more accidents now than ever.

I am soon at Daytona Beach Shores' measured mile where all of the most famous speed records were set. Down at Wilbur By The Sea I go past the North Turn Restaurant where Bill France laid out his beach road course for stock cars.

At Ponce Inlet I pass the spot where my wife and I used to build a fire on the sand, boil shrimp and fish all night. Of course, you can't do that anymore. As I turn around to drive the return trip on the hard packed sand I know a lot of the fun has been removed for both locals and tourists on my beach. Still, driving on the most unique strip of sand in the world — even just parts of it — will always remain a thrill.

When Doctors Get Back Pain & Sciatica, This is What They Do...

Finally, A Breakthrough In the Treatment of Back & Neck Pain & Sciatica Caused by Bulging, Herniated Or Squashed Discs.

In this doctor's opinion, the best breakthrough treatment for serious back pain of our age is NOT surgery, but a non-surgical, safe & painless, state-of-the-art technology now available in Ormond Beach.

Ormond Beach – When a local doctor came to consult with me about low back pain and sciatica down his leg, he told me he's seen too many patients who've had surgery and he wanted to avoid it at all cost. He had seen 3 or 4 patients that I had treated and the "amazing results they had received" and he was asking me if I could help him.

You see, after I treat a patient, I always send a medical report of findings to their doctors, keeping them informed of the patient's progress. I also encourage the patient to report back to their physician for a visit and to show-off their newfound health to their doctor.

This doctor had several patients come back to him from our office after treatment to do just that and he came to me with his own condition.

I've successfully treated Dentists, Nurses, Chiropractors, Veterinarians, Physicians, Therapists, just to name a few. I've treated even more of their staff. I haven't treated a spine surgeon yet…pride is a funny thing, but I'd be honored at the opportunity.

Doctor or not, every person entering our office undergoes a thorough history, extensive examination, and review of spinal films. We then determine the cause of their pain, whether they are a good candidate for non-surgical spinal decompression and then I consider the severity of the case and decide on acceptance of their case.

Do You Have A Disc Problem?
If you experience any of the following in your back or neck, chances are your pain is due to a disc bulge, herniation or degeneration:

- A vice-like squeezing feeling in your back
- Sitting causes back or leg pain
- Stabbing pain at the belt line or in your neck
- Can't turn over in bed without hurting
- Numbness in your toes or fingers
- Fire down your legs
- Searing pain radiates into your arm
- Prickling in your leg or toes

Finally, Some Good News
If you've been suffering with back pain or arm/leg pain caused by a disc bulge, disc herniation or squashed or compressed discs.

I can now GUARANTEE your satisfaction with my nonsurgical computerized treatment for bad discs and bad backs!

It's all because of 14 recent medical studies on spinal decompression.

Until recently, the only advice for many of you suffering in pain was to try what you've been told:

- √ Try exercising
- √ Try physical therapy
- √ Try pain medications
- √ Try muscle relaxers
- √ Try pain shots
- √ Try dangerous back surgery
- √ Just live with it

If you're like most, none of these have worked for you or you are afraid of what could happen if you do try some of these. Exercising makes you hurt more, pain medications and muscle relaxers cover up the problem and give you side effects. Pain shots can cause more pain, don't work or don't last very long nor FIX the problem, back surgery didn't work or made you worse. Or maybe you were one of the lucky ones that back surgery actually helped, but now the problem is back with a vengeance.

Caution! Decompression is DIFFRENT than old time traction or hanging upside down or inversion machines which can make your muscles sqeeze the discs even harder!

Whatever your situation, you owe it to yourself to check into a Breakthrough Computerized Non-Surgical Treatment for back pain and sciatic or leg pain caused by a bulging, herniated or squashed disc or discs.

It has helped hundreds of people who were suffering just like you. This new treatment machine I'm calling my squashed disc machine.

How Do Discs Go Bad?
Over time the discs in your back tend to get squashed or compressed, especially if you've played certain sports when younger or have a job that requires lots of sitting or standing in one place for long periods of time. Car accidents, lifting things, very physical jobs just to name a few.

It's kinda like a cookie with cream filling, and the cream filling will start to ooze out from between the sides of the cookie if pressure is applied on top of the cookie (like gravity on our spines).

Eventually this happens to a lot of us. Statistics are something like over 80% of Americans will suffer with back pain sometime in their life.

Back to my new computerized squashed disc machine. You're probably wondering how this new machine works.

How Does This Machine Work?
Haven't you ever had the thought…"Gosh, if somebody could just pull me apart...I would feel a whole lot better". Yeah, I know you have. And it kinda makes a bit of sense.

Well someone else, actually a medical manufacturer, back pain specialists, neurosurgeons and engineers have come up with just that. A machine that gently pulls you apart, stretches the disc to a certain point that causes a drop in pressure inside the disc (like a little vacuum in the middle of the cream filling) causing the cream filling to suck back in!

In my clinic, I've treated hundreds of patients with non surgical spinal decompression with great results so there should be no reason your back pain should be any different.
Actually, I'm so sure we can help you with your back problem, I'm willing to back it up…but not with hot air.

I GUARANTEE your satisfaction.

That's right, I can guarantee your satisfaction because there are only a very small percentage of people we can't help. And I'm going to let you know if you're not right for the treatment.

Most Serious Back Pain Sufferers Are Very Skeptical Of This New Procedure, As Skeptical As I Was When I Purchased My First Decompression Machine, So If You Are Skeptical…See What Some Of Our Patients Who WERE Good Candidates Have Had To Say About Our Program:

"When I came in to see you I had been to several doctors. They were not helping and I was taking lots of pain pills and muscle relaxers. Before the treatment I would get out of bed and fall to the ground. I was in very severe pain. I was slow to react to the DRX9000 treatment, but I stayed with it. Today I feel great. No more pain or pain pills. I want to thank all the staff at Dr. Labonte's. They are awesome."

- Lisa F., Ormond Beach

"My experience at Dr. Labonte's office has greatly improved my quality of life. The DRX 9000 protocol for a herniated disc worked for me. After 6 weeks of treatments my back was better than before I injured it."

- Dan N., Ormond Beach

"Dr. Labonte and his staff exude an upbeat and caring concern for each patient. I was treated as a person and not just a number. Thanks to Dr. Labonte, his staff and the DRX 9000 my quality of life has been restored to what it was eleven years ago. I am looking forward to resuming the active lifestyle I used to enjoy. I cannot emphasize how fantastic I feel. I heartily recommend the decompression treatment. All I can say to Dr. Labonte and his staff is thank you for the concern and extraordinary patient care you gave me during the treatments."

- Ray G., South Daytona

And that's why I'm offering for a limited time…

The FREE 17-Point "Smashed-Disc" Qualifing Assesment $245 Value

No charge at all and you don't need to buy anything. But you will find out if you qualify for this revolutionary new therapy.
You won't leave our office wondering if it's something that could have helped you get rid of your pain.

During your assessment, we'll check out your: ligament stability, muscle function, hips, pain levels, reflex response, disc condition, tendons, spinal alignment, pelvic leveling, x-rays, MRI's, spinal flexibility, range of motion, balance & nerve function

YMCA's mentoring program expanding

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

PORT ORANGE — Project 396 is heading to Spruce Creek and Atlantic high schools.

The Volusia/Flagler Family YMCA started it at New Smyrna Beach High School as a mentoring program with an emphasis on teaching life skills, such as shopping on a budget, applying for college and maintaining good health. The students at New Smyrna Beach High School named the program. They came up with 396 by adding the number of days in a year, the number of hours in a week, and the number of hours in a day.

But the program might not be exactly the same at Atlantic and Spruce Creek.

"We launched a new way to create programs," said Bev Johnson, YMCA vice-president of health strategies. "It's called human design research groups. We meet (clients) where they are. Instead of us creating a program and hoping they come, we go to a community and find out what they need, what they would go to."

Program participant Tori Melke said Project 396 is helping her navigate numerous early-adulthood concerns. Tori recently moved from Ohio after a family death to be with her best friend. She's in her senior year at New Smyrna Beach High School, and is living on Social Security survivor benefits.

"(Ms. Johnson) has been amazing," Tori said. "She's pretty awesome. She's there for the kids. She's helping me out with medical things, and ways to make sure my medical is covered."

In New Smyrna Beach, Project 396 works cooperatively with Cudas Unhooked: The Bridge to Success, a program to help homeless and at-risk students finish high school. Among other things, Project 396 gives participating students free memberships to the YMCA and incentives for staying in school. For example, 22 program participants recently got a weekend of paintball at Camp Winona in DeLeon Springs.

Wendy Lane, Cudas Unhooked facilitator, said the YMCA's Project 396 is very nimble and responsive to the needs of students. She said that it provided bussing so several students could attend a recent job-training event that helped them learn the basics of applying and interviewing for employment.

"They bring in a whole team of people," Ms. Lane said. "They walk around talking to and encourag-

Kids can get a phone call from Santa

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

ORMOND BEACH — Kindergarteners and first graders who reside in the city will have an opportunity to receive a special phone call from Santa Claus before Christmas.

"Santa Calling" is a program designed to give children the opportunity to receive a personal phone call from the jolly old elf himself. And most importantly, parents get to tell Santa what they would like him to say.

The city of Ormond Beach, in partnership with the Ormond Beach Lions Club, will hold "Santa Calling" between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m., on Tuesday, Dec. 13 and Wednesday, Dec. 14.

Parents who wish to have Santa call must turn in an application by Monday, Dec. 12, to "Santa Calling," 351 Andrews St., Ormond Beach FL 32174 or fax forms to (386) 676-3322. Applications contain important information that Santa may need such as the child's grade, school, pets and request. Applications are available on the city website www.ormondbeach.org.

The program is in its 15th year, and typically Santa makes about 40 phone calls.

For more information, call (386) 676-3241.

Revisiting John Anderson Drive

We understand that the residents on John Anderson Drive in Ormond Beach have high property taxes. We assert, however, that John Anderson Drive belongs to all of us. All of us who pay taxes, all of us who walk on it, skateboard, cycle and drive. We have seen near collisions on John Anderson Drive involving pedestrians, skateboarders and cyclists with cars. While the violence infused media might tempt us to devalue the life of even one human, we assert that each human life is universe in itself and that the safety issues around John Anderson are a necessary focus. While we are "tree huggers" as well, trees can be uprooted and carefully replanted if need be. John Anderson is an exceptionally beautiful scenic route that needs to be a safe place for all to travel, inhabit, walk and accommodations for sidewalks seems to be the next necessary focus. No matter the inconvenience. Let's allow John Anderson to be a unifier in our area.

Ormond Beach should be more diversified

I love Ormond Beach, but why can't Ormond Beach come into the 21st Century? I don't see any diversity in the city. I feel it is a nice city, but it is not progressing where it should be. I think everyone in Ormond Beach should be recognized and benefit from this beautiful city.

There should be more regulations on driver's licenses

Florida needs more regulations on people with driver's licenses. Licenses are renewed every six years. My mother-in-law had her licensed renewed two years ago. A year ago, she was considered legally blind. Somebody has to regulate this or at least make the Department of Motor Vehicles aware of people who medically are no longer able to drive. This also goes for people on prescription drugs that should not be driving. Who is responsible to notify the Department of Motor Vehicles? Somebody has to be held responsible. I think it should be the doctors.

We're already shopping in your store!

Why can't stores be happy that a person has shopped in their business and leave it at that? No, they want more, so they have their cashiers bombard you with getting their store credit cards. Why can't they back off? With the tough economy and job situation as it is, the last thing people needs are more credit cards. That is why we are in debt up to our necks now. If I want your card, I will ask for it. I'm giving you my business be happy with that, or I can go elsewhere.

Have we lost the meaning of the holidays?

Here we are again, right in the middle of the so-called holidays. Let's face it, just about everyone has lost the true reason for the holidays. We have people arguing over whether it is a Christmas tree or a holiday tree. We now see the Christmas decorations weeks before Thanksgiving. All year long we have heard and read about people loosing their homes, cars, and jobs. Now, they are maxing out their credit cards to buy material things to make their families happy.

When did we stop caring? When do we stop and think about the actual holiday? When you think about it, the holidays can be the most depressing time of year for many. Just about everyone I know has lost someone very dear during the holidays. Suicides go up at this time of year and people don't have the patience to care, really care for people.

Public need to unite for education

I just don't get it. When seven school closures were set a few years ago I dreamt up OSCAR (Opposing School Closings And Reorganization) but seeing how our schools still closed I knew I had to think up an organization that would be difficult to find opposition to.

After witnessing the wealth of passion we Volusians held for our beloved schools at the meeting our school board voted to close the schools, I knew I'd have the membership number for what I envisioned. Shortly after E Cubed Alliance (Expecting Educational Excellence) was born, I realized that school systems across our country were struggling for survival and a local focus became a national one. However, despite writing like I've never written before the wildfire our America must become for our public school system has yet begun. Together, we the people, will make public education the priority it ought to in our nation, so let's please passionately unite on Facebook, E Cubed Alliance – Expecting Educational Excellence.

Jennifer A. Luznar
E Cubed Alliance – Expecting Educational Excellence

School board member shouldn't think for the rest of us

"Wow!"

That's all I could muster after reading your profile of Judy Conte this week. She thinks, "education is more important to people than they know." How highly she must place herself above the rest of us that she knows more about how we, the people, feel than we, ourselves, know (about how we feel). Her comments regarding the "Religious Freedom Amendment" exacerbate negative stereotypes. She stated, "I don't think they (the voters) understand what's going to happen. That money won't go to just Christian private schools. It'll go to (Islamic schools), Wiccan schools, who knows what." First, Ms. Conte, please don't assume that there are not many registered voters in Volusia County who can think for themselves without the benefit of your omniscient revelations. Secondly, I expect a former teacher and representative of Volusia County Schools to be more respectful politically, socially, economically and educationally and, at the very least, know for whom she is working. Who is she to imply that all the voters are Christian and would only want the amendment to apply to Christians? Her statement invokes fear in a very Mccarthyistic way. I know of many Muslim families living in Volusia County. While I am neither Muslim nor Wiccan, I am a citizen of and choose to live in a country that affords all of its citizens religious freedom and equal rights. That is what makes this country special. It certainly isn't our failed public education system. Nineteen years in her position has obviously left her (as history has taught us leaves many in positions of power) with an uninformed-disconnected-from-the-voters-sense-of-superiority. I do agree with her that Florida is actively dismantling its public education system. She simply doesn't see that she is a large part of that dismantling.

'Girls on the Run 5k' planned

Hundreds of Volusia elementary school girls will participate in Girls on the Run 5K at 8 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 10, at Father Lopez Catholic High School, 3918 LPGA Blvd., Daytona Beach.

More than 200 girls, ages 8 to 13, representing 15 Volusia County schools will run 5K with volunteer run "buddies."

Founded in 2005, Girls on the Run of Volusia County is one of more than 170 Girls on the Run councils in the United States and Canada. Girls on the Run councils combine training for a 5K with self-esteem enhancing, uplifting workouts. These girls have been training since September for their December 5K run. The event will draw more than 400 girls and run buddies.

For more information, call (386) 738-4860 or e-mail info@gotrvolusia.org

Daytona Beach Track Club to host Holiday Classic 5K

The Daytona Beach Track Club will hold the Holiday Classic 5K Saturday, Dec. 10, in Ormond Beach.

The race will start at 8 a.m., at Stonewood Grill & Tavern, 100 S. Atlantic Ave., Ormond Beach. The out-and-back course of this Daytona Beach Grand Prix event will take runners through beachside neighborhoods in Ormond Beach.

Pre-registration is $20 for track club members and students and $25 for non-members. Race-day registration is $25 for members and students and $30 for non-members.

Non-perishable food items will be collected for Halifax Urban Ministries.

To pre-register or for more information on the club or race, visit www.daytonatrackclub.org or www.active.com.

Chamber music concert planned

Ease into the holiday season with a concert performance by a string quartet from the Daytona Solisti Chamber Orchestra at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, at the Daytona Beach Regional Library.

The musicians will perform traditional holiday songs and baroque and classical pieces.

The orchestra, founded in 2005 by Susan Pitard Acree and Darell Acree, is composed of professional musicians from central and north Florida. Its aim is to provide a forum in which players and listeners can experience chamber music by the master composers of the 18th and 19th centuries performed in a lively, expressive manner characteristic of the period.

The Friends of the Library sponsor the event, which is free and open to the public. To learn about the friends group, visit www.daytonabeachfol.org.

For more information about the concert, call (386) 257-6036, Ext. 6167.

Learn about entrepreneurial dreams

The Halifax Historical Museum will continue its "Entrepreneurial Dreams That Grew" series at 10 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 10 with the "History at Halifax."

The speaker will be L. Gale Lemerand.

The museum is located at 252 S. Beach St., Daytona Beach.

For more information, call (386) 255-6976.

Learn how to maximize holiday health

Dr. Bill Labonte, doctor of chiropractic, is hosting educational events on holiday health throughout the month of December.

Learn how to be healthy this holiday season by using the five essentials of real health from Maximized Living. Join Dr. Labonte at 6 p.m., Dec. 12 for the "Healthy for the Holidays" workshop, at 4 Pearl Drive Suite 1, Ormond Beach.

High-Fly Hobbies continues to soar

By Cathy Wharton
For Hometown News

DAYTONA BEACH — Long-time local residents are well-familiar with Orange Avenue — an east-west corridor linking downtown Daytona to the beachside. On the northwest corner of Orange and Palmetto Avenues is a one-story building that for many years was home to the Junior Service League. That same building now houses High-Fly Hobbies, an upscale hobby shop that sells, well .... toys that fly high!

Previously located in Port Orange, High-Fly Hobbies moved to its current location at 200 Orange Avenue this past July. Since then, the business has taken off.

"The R/C (radio-control) business is "incredibly diverse — almost indescribable," says High-Fly owner Rob Guarriello. The hobby business is in his blood, Mr. Guarriello said. "It is something I've always been interested in; always into toys," he said. "I worked at hobby stores when I was a boy. I've always known — it was an inner desire."

One look around the shop and it's easy to see how it would be a boy's dream to own this kind of place when he grows up. It is filled with wonder and adventure — an exciting one-stop hobby shop with an array of high-flying products that is second to none.

"Anything that's radio-controlled," as Mr. Guarriello says.

Indeed, from radio-controlled planes, such as the P-51D Mustang, the Corsair T-28 and the Super Cub, to the lighter weight starter planes, such as one called "Teach Yourself To Fly," there is something for everyone. All planes come either in kits for those who might enjoy building their own, or more popularly, "out of the box" — ready to fly with no assembly required.

Not sure how to fly a plane? High-Fly has a simulator where you can practice and/or hone your skills.

"Airplanes are simple to operate," Mr. Guarriello said. As a former corporate jet pilot, he is happy to offer tips and pointers, even lessons, for customers.

Where to fly your plane? Unless it's a starter, forget the backyard. Most planes need plenty of room, such as a sanctioned flying field. There are currently five such fields in the area, including one in Flagler County. The bigger gas-powered models also require a sanctioned flying field, whereas the electric models can be flown in an everyday ball field.

In addition to planes, High-Fly carries a large number of other radio-controlled products including cars, rockets, helicopters and sail boats. There are also power boats such as the nitro-powered Falcon 3.5 and the sleek electric-powered UL-1 Superior. Both can reach speeds up to 16 mph, not bad for a "toy." High-speed models need a lot of water space , thus a lake is an ideal locale for this type of hobby.

Smokeshack BBQ offers new discount programs

The Smokeshack BBQ in Ormond Beach has expanded its discount program.

Diners who check in on Facebook when they are at the SmokeShack, "Like" the restaurant on Facebook, or write a review on Trip Advisor, Yelp or Urbanspoon and let the staff see it on the phone or print it out could receive 10 percent off a meal.

There are two ways to get a free lunch special at the SmokeShack. One way is to drop a business card in the pig and maybe the card will be the one pulled on Monday for that week's drawing. The second way is to be sure to always get a lunch card night before," Ms. Brown said. "We stayed up the night before and made this homemade banner."

A city health fair followed, and "we just kept doing little events," she said.

They are still in the process of obtaining 501C3 non-profit status for the organization, so the couple has used their own funds and small private donations to fund their efforts to date.

"People know what I'm doing and people keep giving me tools to help me do it," Ms. Brown said.

The Browns' motto could be "have blender, will travel," as they've volunteered time and smoothies at schools, churches, parties and other events. They also led a community cleanup on Keach Street and participated in Hallogreen, an event sponsored by another local organization, Florida EcoNet, for which Omar Brown is a board member.

The Browns volunteer as parent leaders for Pyramid Cafe, a Healthy Start program aimed at strengthening families, and work with teen mothers at Chiles Academy. They make it a priority to attend as many events and meetings as possible and serve on boards to raise awareness of their efforts as well as to form alliances with related organizations.

"We realize the task we're undertaking cannot be undertaken by Midtown EcoVillage alone, so we run ourselves ragged going to all of these meetings," Ms. Brown said. "We want to link everything together."

Omar Brown of Midtown Ecovillage pours a smoothie for student Maranda Beaudry of the Chiles Academy in Daytona Beach recently.

Hometown Roots

A native of Daytona Beach, where she was crowned Miss Mainland in 1996 at Mainland High School, it was perhaps the perspective she obtained from living elsewhere that sparked Camille Holder-Brown's passion for bringing healthy food to her community. After receiving a B.A. in Anthropology from the University of Miami and an M.F.A. in Filmmaking from Howard University in Washington, D.C., Ms. Brown moved to New York, where she pursued filmmaking projects including "A Period Piece," an award-winning comedy about a girl afraid of getting her period.

During a visit home to see her mother in March, Ms. Brown realized how much she missed Florida. Meanwhile, Omar, who was laid off after 10 years as a computer network engineer, was beginning to focus more on his passion for being a community activist and growing food. By May, the couple had relocated their family of five to Daytona Beach, where they settled in the Pine Haven neighborhood.

'It's a food dessert'

Food shopping locally was a shock to Ms. Brown, after having had easy access to farmers markets and retail outlets such as Whole Foods. At one store, she requested soymilk and was shown soy sauce.

"That showed me the community didn't know what we were talking about," she said. "We were in a food desert."

In one grocery store, she was so appalled to find diced ham and sugary drinks side by side with produce that she began snapping pictures until she was asked to leave.

"Everything was so junky, it makes you not even want to buy produce," she said.

Though the Browns are educating children about the importance of fruits and vegetables and how good they can taste by providing free smoothies, promoting healthy lifestyle changes involves much more in a community with easier access to fast food than fresh vegetables.

"If people do not know that eating convenience store food and Chinese food and fast food leads to all these illnesses, that's a lack of education," Ms. Brown said.

Even if people know the risks of eating fast food, the cost and lack of access to fresh produce can make healthier options less attractive, especially if the produce is of inferior quality or not attractively displayed.

"People don't want to buy stuff that's expensive and looks bad," she said.

Ms. Brown said it takes a change in attitude to bring about change in the availability of healthier, better quality food in stores.

"There is this mentality of complaining and not having the ability to write a letter to change," she said. "'This is the way it is, we can't change it.' 'We're just going to go to church and pray that it changes.'"

Ms. Brown said people should not give up so easily.

"We don't have to buy anything from these fools," she said, referring to retailers who don't provide healthy choices. "Unless you demand change, it doesn't come."

Another obstacle in the path to getting families to eat healthier is the attitude of the parents, according to Sue Hewlings, PhD, RD, assistant professor at the University of Central Florida College of Medicine. Busy schedules make fast food an easy option unless the parents are committed to healthier choices.

"The kids are like sponges; they love learning all the information," Dr. Hewlings said. "The biggest problem is getting the whole family involved, particularly the parents."

A healthy home

As they continue to volunteer, hand out smoothies and work toward 501C3 status that would allow them to apply for grants, the Browns are seeking private donations and working toward building a home for Midtown Ecovillage. Ms. Brown said their vision for the facility, which they'd like to be built by volunteers using sustainable materials, is a two-story building with a juice bar and space to teach children's cooking classes and produce a kids' cooking show, host Sunday jazz brunches and poetry readings. They would like to base a food co-op in the building as well as offer a limited stock of healthy food items.

In the meantime, on Dec. 17 from 3 to 8 p.m., Midtown Ecovillage is kicking off what they hope will become a monthly "smoothies and movies" event in Daisy Stocking Park at 550 Third Street, Daytona Beach. The free event will feature outdoor movies, health screenings, zumba and yoga demonstrations, smoothie samples. Vegetarian and vegan food will be available for purchase.

For more information about Midtown Ecovillage and upcoming events, visit www.midtownecovillage.org or call (386) 227-7393.

New Ormond fire chief leaves to return to top spot in Palm Bay; interim named Ormond Beach — In a quick turnaround, the city's brand new fire chief has left to take over the department in his hometown.

Jim Stables, who took over duties as chief in October, went back to Palm Bay when the top spot opened up there.

Chief Stables will assume the role of chief of Palm Bay Fire & Rescue this week. In Ormond Beach, Battalion Commander Bob Mandarino has been appointed as the acting fire chief for the "foreseeable future," according to city spokeswoman Loretta Moisio.

"There are no immediate plans to recruit for the Fire Chief position," she said. "Early next year, during staffing evaluations, the recruitment for this position may be re-evaluated."

Palm Bay City manager Sue Hann announced the appointment of Chief Stables, who had worked for Palm Bay for 16 years before resigning as assistant fire chief in September to become fire chief in Ormond Beach.

Two months later, when Chief Abraira unexpectedly resigned, Chief Stables was quick to accept the post he had previously aspired to in Palm Bay.

"Although I regret that I will be leaving Ormond Beach so soon, the opportunity for me to return home and lead the Palm Bay Fire Rescue Department may not ever happen again," Chief Stables said.

"I have been a part of the Palm Bay community for many years. I appreciate the chance to be a part of the city's new leadership team," he said.

In order to return to Palm Bay, Chief Stables submitted his resignation with Ormond Beach, effective Dec. 2.

Deputy city manager Chad Shoultz said Chief Stables' willingness to step away from his new job in Ormond Beach showed a dedication to Palm Bay.

"He doesn't just want to be a fire chief, he wants to be Palm Bay's fire chief. That says a lot about his dedication and desire to serve this city," Mr. Shoultz said.

Chief Stables said it was a tough decision to leave his new post in Ormond Beach.

"The decision to leave Ormond Beach was difficult," Chief Stables said. "But in the end, it is the right decision. To return home and become the fire chief in Palm Bay, where I started my firefighting career, is truly humbling and very exciting."

Stables

Ormond Beach city manager Joyce Shanahan says the city si in good hands with Mr. Mandarino.

"Bob has an exceptional commitment to the City of Ormond Beach and to the professional delivery of Fire Services," she said.

products like helicopters, planes, cars and boats start at $50. Prices vary, of course, depending on individual features and the sophistication of the product.

"It's not a huge investment. It's a hobby — a serious hobby that's fun,"

It's also a hobby that appeals to people of any age .and from any walk of life.

One of High-Fly's oldest enthusiasts is 102.

"We get lots of pilots and retired military, doctors, lawyers, also teachers who use our products for demonstration purposes," Mr. Guariello said. "A lot of our business is with Embry- Riddle."

High-Fly Hobbies doesn't just sell products, they repair them. Mr. Guariello said his is the only full-service shop in Volusia County. And has a vast inventory of parts and supplies.

"We do repairs and have parts for everything we sell. All of our products are completely repairable," he said.

High-Fly" also has model cars of various years and makes, colorful kites for the beach, yard spinners, and various novelty items. For the "young scientists," there is an ample selection of educational toys, including the ever-intriguing microscope.

High-Fly is the quintessential hobby shop — a place where curiosity and inner callings seek to be explored.

High-Fly Hobbies is located at 200 Orange Ave. in downtown Daytona Beach. It is open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Education

children."

Mr. Williams represents the Port Orange area, and is in his second stint on the school board. He held a seat from 1984 to 1992. He ran and won in 2004 and 2008, and plans a 2012 bid, too. This is his third time as chairman of the board.

"My grandmother taught me when I was young to be a service to other people and a service for the people," he said. "That has stuck with me all these years. The school board is not a job for me, it's a vocation."

Henrietta Scott, his grandmother, seems to have passed on the wisdom gene to Mr. Williams, along with the love-of-learning gene. To understand him, it's important to know a bit about her.

"My grandmother was born in 1895, but she got her high-school diploma in 1913," he said. "She was an African-American woman with a high school-diploma. She instilled this in me from the time I was very young."

Mr. Williams got his high-school diploma and headed to higher education.

"I started teaching in '64," he said. "Right out of college."

He spent some years kicking around Indiana and Chicago substitute teaching, and landed work teaching algebra at a high school. Then he started teaching at a seminary in the Windy City. Mr. Williams is Catholic.

By 1970, he'd relocated to the Sunshine State and was teaching at Daytona Beach Community College, now Daytona State College. About that time, he took on another job — fatherhood. As he raised two sons, his grandmother's voice kept echoing in his head, and he formulated what he calls his Five Added Values of Life.

"Faith," he said. "You've got to believe in a higher being and you have a destiny to fulfill. Hope. You've got to have a desire to be the best you can be. Love. You've got to love yourself and others, and understand love gives and doesn't take. Respect. You've got to respect yourself and your fellow man. Service. We all have to provide service to our fellow man."

The school board hasn't been all prestige for Mr. Williams; it's also made him a target of public furor. In 2008, Volusia County Schools was facing financial crisis. Student enrollment had dropped rapidly. So had property-tax receipts and state funding. Seven schools fell on the chopping block, some in African-American neighborhoods. Community passion at public hearings turned to undisguised anger against the school board.

Mr. Williams opposed the closings of four schools: Bonner and Burns-Oak Hill, along with Starke and Samsula elementaries.

"I believe in neighborhood schools," Mr. Williams told fellow board members in 2008. "The other thing I look at is the historical value of these schools to the neighborhoods."

However, board members Candace Lankford, Judy Conte and Diane Smith voted to close all seven. Stan Schmidt only opposed the closure of Holly Hill Middle. The schools' fate was decided despite deep public opposition, and Mr. Williams stood by his fellow board members.

Now, Mr. Williams says fellow school board members and he fumbled the school closings, and he's taken the lesson to heart.

"We didn't do a good job of explaining why," he said. "You have to explain to people; people don't like change. You have to be tough, stick to your guns, and explain to people why you're doing something. Once we communicated, things got better. We didn't do a good job communicating at first."

Despite the school board reducing the annual budget by about $92 million since 2008, Mr. Williams said that no Volusia teachers have been laid off. Predictions are that the district's budget will continue declining for at least a few more years. Mr. Williams said that hasn't dissuaded him from continuing to serve.

"The hardest decisions are the financial decisions," he said. "It's gotten very difficult with the financial situation. We've got to make some tough decisions to make sure people keep their jobs."

With about 61,600 students, and more than 8,000 employees, the school district is the county's largest employer. Mr. Williams said layoffs could adversely affect the local economy for years through added unemployment and, in the long term, reduced graduation rates, which, of course, leads to less success in the job market.

"We need to make sure that kids graduate from high school," he said. "Every kid is not going to go to college. They need to go to a trade school, or go into the military. We need to tell our kids you need to get a marketable trade. That's what we need to tell our kids: you've got to be marketable."

Driver's education registration opens

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

Registration for the spring semester driver's education program is under way at all high schools.

Registration forms can be picked up from each school's guidance office.

Students interested in earning credit in driver's education must register in the guidance office at their home high school. There is no fee for the program.

Students must have a learner's permit in hand when registering.

The after school program will begin on Jan. 5 and run through April 19, from 4 to 6:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Classes will not be held during the weeks of Feb. 20 and March 19.

The program will tentatively be offered at the following East Volusia high schools:

•Atlantic High, 1250 Reed Canal Road, Port Orange
•Mainland High, 1255 W. International Speedway Boulevard, Daytona Beach
•New Smyrna Beach High, 1015 10th St., New Smyrna Beach
•Spruce Creek High, 801 Taylor Road, Port Orange

The Saturday program will begin on Jan. 7 and run through March 31, from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Class dates are Jan. 7, 14, 21, 28; Feb. 4, 11, 18; and March 3, 10, 31. Students will need to bring lunch each day.

The Saturday program will tentatively be offered at the following East Volusia high schools:

•New Smyrna Beach High, 1015 10th St., New Smyrna Beach
•Seabreeze High, 2700 North Oleander Ave., Daytona Beach
•Spruce Creek High, 801 Taylor Road, Port Orange

Registration is on a first-come, first-serve basis. If the class meets the enrollment capacity a waiting list will be started. Funding for this program is made available through the Dori Slosberg Driver Education Trust Fund. No district funds will be used to fund this program.

For more information regarding this program, students should contact their home high school.

Middle School, Hinson Middle School and Atlantic High School bands, creating one large 300-person ensemble.

"We are all excited to see how this will all come together," Mr. Demchak said. "It should be a great show."

The parade is expected to last about two hours. The staging area is located off Division Avenue. It will proceed west of Division Avenue to U.S. Highway 1 and north to State Road 40, turning eastbound to north Beach Street.

A large turnout is expected.

"We will feature over 100 entries in our parade which consist of over to 2,000 participants with over 10,000 watching the parade," Mr. Demchak said. "When you add in a great accessible downtown parade route and being a nighttime parade, the stage is set for one of the best parades in our area."

The best places to park for the parade are the City Hall parking lot, behind the Ormond Beach Police Department or at one of the surrounding parks .

The streets on the parade route will be closed from 5 to 10 p.m.

Pickleball

courts by the adult center into a few for pickleball," said Ms. Sisk, in response to Mr. Pascale and other public inquiries.

When?

"Not long," she said. "The first of the year we'll probably have something."

DeLand is also planning to convert a few of its public tennis courts behind the Wayne Sanborn Activities Center into pickleball courts. The city's Club at Victoria Gardens once had a pickleball court at its tennis center, but management confirms that the game is no longer played there.

Parks and Recreation Director Rick Hall said the demand can't be denied.

"Less than a year ago, we toured The Villages, and the thing we came away with is that (pickleball) is the hot item right now," Mr. Hall said.

He couldn't give a timeline, though, for when courts in DeLand would be striped for pickleball, noting that the upgrade would likely be a small part of the city's ongoing $5.6 million renovation of Earl Brown Park and Spec. Martin Stadium on the city's south side.

This doesn't mean that pickleball is a universally accepted game, though. Karl Grebosz, Deltona's recreation supervisor, just heard about it.

"Nobody's come yet and said, 'We're looking for those,'" He said.

Mr. Grebosz is among the many who are just finding out about pickleball, even though it's been around since 1967. According to USA Pickleball Association lore, two friends in Washington state, former Congressman Joel Pritchard and entrepreneur Bill Bell, couldn't find badminton gear one weekend, so they improvised with an asphalt badminton court, wooden paddles, a short net and a wiffle ball belonging to Pritchard's dog, Pickles.

Soon, Mr. Pritchard, Mr. Bell and another friend, Barney McCallum, were writing the rules based on badminton. Every year, the game has slowly grown in popularity, to the point at which it's now included as a medal sport in the National Senior Games.

Pickleball is a sport that makes tennis more accessible, says Stetson University professor Matt Wilson, director for the school's sports management program. Mr. Wilson learned the game from a high school gym coach in the Northeast, but hasn't played it much since. Maybe someday, he says, when body parts are creaking a little more.

Mr. Wilson equates the rise of pickleball to a more recent development in golf. Legendary player and course designer Jack Nicklaus recently began featuring a new type of golf at his Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio. Catering to those with lesser fitness, skill or time, the course has larger cup sizes on certain days with stroke penalties for holding up the line. Other experiments have featured shorter fairways.

> "You don't have to be a Roger Federer on the tennis court to play pickleball well."
> Stetson University professor Matt Wilson
> Director for the school's sports management program

"When a sport is modified down like that, it becomes a little easier, and when it becomes easier, it becomes more attractive to more people," says Mr. Wilson. "You don't have to be a Roger Federer on the tennis court to play pickleball well."

Ms. Rimler, the area's USAPA contact, agrees with Mr.Wilson. Pickleball is no best-of-three-sets tennis marathon, she says, but "I still lost about 10 pounds since I started (playing) this."

And with Florida still hanging in there as one of the country's retirement and vacation meccas, she added, it wouldn't hurt to offer as many amenities as possible: "People have called me just to make sure we have pickleball for their vacation. If this city doesn't have it, some other city will."

Report

The number of low-income youth, dropped from 920 to 640. Here, low-income means family earnings are at or below 70 percent of the federal poverty level, and that there are barriers to employment, such as failure to complete high school, homelessness, pregnancy or criminal record.

Mr. Frasier said fewer people using One-Stop centers could be due to lowering unemployment, or to more discouraged workers giving up job hunts. He said there isn't enough information in the report to know how much either is contributing to the decline.

"There are certainly some encouraging signs, but I'm not overly encouraged," he said. "It does feel like the trend is going in the right direction."

The only number that rose from 2010 to 2011 was dislocated workers — people left unemployed by a businesses downsizing or closing. Their numbers increased from 860 to 990.

Lou Paris, communications manager, said that One-Stop center users can make repeated visits for different services and be counted in multiple categories. He noted that categorization largely depends on self-reporting. For example, someone can report and be counted as unemployed, and as a veteran. Alternately, an unemployed person may not report his or her military service.

From 2010 to 2011, there was almost no change in the number of people who received job-training scholarships through the One-Stop centers — about 2,100. Mr. Paris said scholarships and training services are one of the workforce development boards' most important services.

"Historically our mandate is to make available a local workforce for business," he said. "If they need school, we offer scholarships if they qualify."

The CBE gets funding through state and federal programs. During the 2011 reporting time, it received about $8.1 million. The previous year it received about $6.9 million, and about $2 from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. Those funds were non-recurring.

The Volusia County Council oversees the CBE. Council member Carl Persis said the reduction of people going to its One-Stop Employment centers could be a good or bad sign.

"That would be hard to determine," he said. "I think it's a little of both. I think there's fewer clients to serve, but I think some got to a point where they're frustrated and don't bother going there anymore."

ing the kids."

Project 396 is funded by a $50,000 grant from Volusia County. Ms. Johnson said it's seeking other funding sources, such as private grants. The program is open to all county students.

"We've got kids we're working with who are probably in the bottom quartile of their grade, and some kids in advance classes," she said. "It's for kids who need a little extra something."

Project 396 aims to expand next to students at Creekside and Deltona Middle Schools and University High School in Orange City. Eventually, organizers want to see it in every high school in the county and several middle schools.

Colt Manufacturing coming to Central Florida

Colt's Manufacturing Company plans to expand its business operations in Central Florida.

Colt's Manufacturing Company, one of the oldest firearms manufacturers in the United States and producer of the iconic 'Colt 45 Peacemaker', announced its commitment to establish a new regional headquarters and product-manufacturing center in Osceola County next year.

This commitment will include a multi-million dollar investment by Colt's Manufacturing and the creation of 63 new jobs. These high-quality jobs in manufacturing and engineering will pay an average of more than $45,000 per year.

Colt will receive incentives from a variety of state sources, including the Quick Action Closing Fund, and will also be eligible for additional incentives from Osceola County.

The Civic Ballet of Volusia County will bring its annual performance of the "The Nutcracker" to the Peabody Auditorium this weekend.

The Company, which is celebrating its 30th year, will perform its 26th presentation of Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker at 2 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 10, and Sunday, Dec. 11.

The Company consists of 90 area dance students who auditioned in May. Rehearsals for "The Nutcracker" began in August and have taken place every weekend since, at the studio of the European School of Performing Arts in Ormond Beach. All dance schools in Volusia and Flagler Counties were invited to audition.

Performers range from age 8 to 18, as well as a few adults who act in the character parts of the party scene.

"The Nutcracker" is a two-act ballet that tells the story of Clara, a little girl who is given a beautiful nutcracker on Christmas Eve, which her brother promptly breaks. She later falls asleep dreaming of the toy.

"Clara" is played by 15-year-old Kelli Davies. The "Mouse King" is Carson Bell and the "Nutcracker" is Vivian Gjessing.

Led by creative director Germaine Bledsoe, the dancers have worked diligently to produce this professional quality, holiday favorite.

A Sugar Plum Tea, a special ticketed event in which children will feast on sweets and get a chance to meet many of the characters, will follow each performance.

Performance tickets are $15 to $40 plus applicable service fees. Tea and performance tickets are $35.

To purchase tickets, call (800) 745-3000, visit ticketmaster.com or the box office at 600 Auditorium Blvd., Daytona Beach.

This year the performance is also a drop off location for Toys for Tots. New, unwrapped toys will be accepted at each show.

Week of 12-9-2011

Aries-March 21-April 19
Endurance is one of your greatest gifts. You are the first sign in the zodiac. You run the longest race. We are all thankful for your strong spirit and example. We look up to you and thank you for always being there. Your fiery nature lights the way and keeps us from getting lost. May the coming holidays be very special.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
When life gets overloaded, take a step back, along with a deep breath and get a second wind. Then refocus and move forward. Call on family, friends or loved ones when you need a helping hand or friendly voice. That's what friends are for. You always give to others. Let it come back. Now everyone is happy.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
Keep searching for balance. Stay happy and glowing inside. It's all about the choices we make. Find humor in small things. You have a sweet inner child. Your heart is as large and loving. When you are happy, the world is happy. Guide your life toward peace, love, health and abundance. It's all that really matters.

Cancer-June 22-July 22
Your spirit is so strong. Your heart prevails. People admire, love and respect you. There is so much more you want to do. Stay active over the holidays, but don't overdo it. You are a people person, capable of great happiness and achievement. When you get fired up and turned on, this world is a far better place to be in.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
Your life force is so strong and vibrant. You have a free flowing connection between your body, mind, heart and soul. Use these great gifts to wind down your work in 2011 and then celebrate and rejoice over the holidays. Now is the time to make plans for the New Year and start it off on

Dance auditions planned

Daytona State College's resident modern dance company, Dance Theatre, under the artistic direction of Kevin Veiga, will hold auditions for the coming year on Wednesday, Dec. 14 at 2 p.m.

Auditions will take place in the Daytona Beach Campus Theater Center (Building 220) Dance Studio (Room 120). Interested students should come prepared in proper dance attire or comfortable movement-oriented clothing, dance shoes (ballet and jazz) and/or bare feet.

The audition will consist of ballet barre and center, modern movement across the floor and learning excerpts from recent repertory.

The Dance Theatre is primarily a modern dance company, but members should be able to perform ballet, jazz and other dance forms as may be called for by the choreography. An informal performance in the fall and a main stage performance in the spring will highlight the year, along with other campus and community performances scheduled as requested or needed.

Auditions are open to the community and members need not be students. Dance Theater members receive college credit if enrolled in DAA2640. Tuition assistance may be available. Rehearsals are scheduled every Monday and Wednesday, from 2 to 5:30 p.m. starting Jan. 25, 2012. Additional rehearsals also may be scheduled as needed. In addition, each member is encouraged to register for a technique class through the dance course offerings.

For more information e-mail veigak@DaytonaState.edu or call (386) 506-3183.

Traditional favorites featured in Hadassah cookbook

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

The Daytona Beach Chapter of Hadassah has published a cookbook entitled "A Dash of Love."

The cookbook contains 320 recipes for traditional and non-traditional Jewish dishes as well as cooking tips and information.

Proceeds from the sale of the cookbooks ($15 each) will go to the six regional camps of Camp Judaea.

Here is a potato pancake recipe for Chanukah that is featured in the book.

CRISPY, CRUNCHY POTATO LATKES

By Jackie Meyers

2-pounds baking potatoes
2-large eggs
1/2 medium onion - coarsely chopped
1/2 medium apple (firm) - peel, core and coarsely chopped
1-1 1/2 teaspoon, kosher salt (coarse), or to taste
1/8 teaspoon, white pepper
1 teaspoon, baking powder
1/4-1/2 cup, all-purpose flour or Matzo Meal
Peanut or Canola Oil - for frying

Peel and cut potatoes into one-inch cubes. Place potatoes in a bowl of water to keep potatoes white.

Drain and squeeze the potatoes dry with paper towels.

Place eggs in a blender. Add onion, apple, salt, white pepper and baking powder. Add potatoes to fill the blender (all two pounds may not fit). Blend and carefully push down on the sides with a rubber spatula. Blend until the potatoes just move around. Add remaining potatoes as you are blending. Don't over-process. The texture should resemble applesauce.

Transfer the batter to a large bowl and mix in the flour. The batter should be flowing but not too thin.

Add oil to a large skillet to coat the bottom. Heat over medium-high heat till quite hot but not smoking. Scoop up approximately 2 tablespoons of batter and drop into pan. Repeat until pan is full without crowding. Cook for about one minute or until brown. Carefully flip each one over and cook the other side for one minute.

Drain latkes on paper towels. Keep warm. Add more oil to pan as needed.

Serve immediately with applesauce or sour cream.

A beautiful antipasto and Papa's Christmas Eve tradition

ROMANCING THE STOVE with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

Today we will make my family's traditional Christmas Eve appetizer, an antipasto. Antipasto is not a salad, but sectioned trays filled with delectable foods. No lettuce is used.

Genoa salami, provolone cheese, roasted red peppers, pickled mushrooms, pickled eggplant, marinated artichoke hearts, caponata (eggplant appetizer), sardines, anchovies, capers, black and green olives create a magnificent display. You can add tomato wedges, tuna, hard-boiled egg or any other appetizer food that will fit.

Each appetizer is prepared separately. The salami must be sliced paper-thin and rolled pencil-thin. The provolone is not the slicing kind found in supermarkets, but a strong cheese found in gourmet cheese sections, delis or meat markets. The domestic is a little milder than the imported; cut in wedges. Each is placed in its own section for individual selection.

Crusty Italian or French bread completes the feast.

Now I'd like to share with you a very old and special family tradition that my grandfather, Luciano Camerino, born in Bari, Italy, brought to America.

A crèche (nativity with a stable, Mary and Joseph, a cradle for the Christ child, kings, stable hands, animals, etc.) is set up, but the infant child is placed elsewhere, since he hasn't been born yet.

On Christmas Eve at midnight, with appropriate music in the background, the lights are extinguished. Everyone carries a lit household candle, except the youngest child, who carries the baby Jesus on a silver tray. The oldest family member navigates the child in a procession throughout the home, blessing each room. The procession goes in birth order, and guests are always included. The Christ child is then placed into His cradle. All kneel and pray, the candles are extinguished and all embrace and wish each other a blessed Merry Christmas.

Enjoy. See you next week.

NOTE: All can be made days in advance, refrigerated and served at room temperature.

ROASTED RED PEPPERS

Sweet red bell peppers come jarred, but roasting your own is easy and the flavor is wonderful. One medium-size jar or two large or three medium peppers is enough for about 10 people when used in an antipasto.

1 medium-size jar roasted red peppers, not pimentos OR 3 medium red bell peppers
2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
1/2-teaspoon oregano
2 cloves garlic, cut up
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
Salt and pepper

Drain jarred peppers and tear into large segments. To roast fresh peppers, place washed peppers in pan on lower rack of oven. Broil until the skin turns almost black, turning until entire pepper is roasted. Place in a paper or plastic bag and seal. Let sit until cool enough to handle. Peel, seed and tear into large segments, add remaining ingredients and season to taste.

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

One 14-ounce can artichoke hearts, drained
2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
1/2-teaspoon each, garlic powder and oregano
Salt and pepper

Cut artichokes in half, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add remaining ingredients. Mix well, refrigerate.

PICKLED MUSHROOMS

Best made with canned mushrooms.

2/3-cup tarragon vinegar
1/2-cup canola oil
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2-teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons water
Dash hot pepper sauce
1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
2 cans mushrooms (7-ounces each), drained; stems and pieces are fine
1 small lemon, halved lengthwise, and cut into paper-thin slices

Combine first eight ingredients. Add onions, mushrooms and lemon. Refrigerate. Stir occasionally.

NANA'S EGGPLANT CAPONATA

Tastes best if made at least two days before serving. Will keep two weeks in the refrigerator and can be frozen.

1/4-cup extra virgin olive oil or canola oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 large stalks celery, one thinly sliced, one chopped
2 medium eggplants, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1/2-cup pitted black olives, coarsely chopped
1/2-cup whole pimento stuffed olives
One 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4-cup red wine vinegar
1 small jar capers, drained
1 small or 1/2 large green bell pepper, coarsely chopped
1 teaspoon dried basil
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute eggplant in oil until slightly done. Add celery, onion and green pepper. Cook about 10 minutes. Add tomato sauce, sugar and seasonings. Cook until almost dry. Add olives and capers, heat through. Add vinegar, heat to simmer and remove from heat. Refrigerate.

When a recipe is not in my cookbook it will have (NIB) next to the title.

an even higher path of greatness.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22
You have a guardian angel sitting on your shoulder, guiding you. The key is to follow your heart, not the head. Your life path and greatest happiness comes when you are serving others. You love to see everybody well fed and happy. The more you receive the more you can give. This is your harvest of a good life well lived.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22
A lifetime of accumulated wisdom and experience continues to move you forward toward your dreams and goals. Your decisions are made on feelings and instincts and allow you access to your higher power. This gives you a distinct edge. It is the stuff that great souls use to guide their lives. You are a great soul.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21
You continue to move forward to new and better days. You have outgrown old, outdated patterns. You aren't stuck anymore. Your creative juices are flowing again. Get restarted on the life project that has been sidetracked for a while. You have the blessing of the universe upon you. You are a free spirit ready to fly.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21
The universe wants to give you all the energy you need to make it safely through the holidays. Yeah! It's time to celebrate. Call some family members and friends who love and miss you. In the giving we receive back 100 fold. Get back to your roots. Renew your life force and spirit. Watch out world. Here I come!

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19
You are doing great. Not much change is needed. Stay with your major goals. Your positive attitude has set you in an excellent direction. The holidays will be great and very exciting for you. You have overcome life. People are beginning to tell you how young you look. Could anyone be doing better? I don't think so.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Family matters will take center stage the next few weeks. Stay true to yourself, but pay attention to others who need emotional support. Stay in a festive mood. A bright attitude brings cheer to any occasion. Gladly give your support to those who need you. Return love received with love given. This justifies your life.

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20
Stay focused on your main creative projects. The universe will reward you with much increase. Your power of observation is especially strong now. Let the holidays be a time of rejoicing and celebration for the many blessings this year. Open up the heart even more and know that the coming year will be the best ever.

It's good — but still hurts — to be outfished by the master

FISHING WITH DAN
DAN SMITH

Not long ago, I joined Capt. Leo Hiles for a great day of fishing in the northern Mosquito Lagoon.

Leo and I had been picking up an occasional stray red there in prior days but nothing very memorable. As we began just after dawn, we knew that we would need to cover lots of water to find fish.

When I fish with Leo, I get his book "Fish Sense" out the night before for a refresher course. In it, Leo describes his methods and does his best to impart his knowledge of the intricate waterways near his home in Edgewater. He talks about fish movement and gives tips on reading the water.

As a person who spends a good part of my time teaching fishing, it is a nice change to become the student when in Capt. Leo's boat.

On the chilly ride out, I chuckled to myself for I know that, try as I might, I can't keep up with Leo on his home turf. He broke out a motley brown paddle tail minnow type jig that he rigged on a 3/0 red "J" keeper hook adding a little lead for improved casting. When I saw that rig, I was not impressed.

I should have been.

At our first stop, Leo caught 10 reds before I caught a fish. The brown minnow was tearing up my trusty chartreuse shrimp tail. All the fish were undersized except one of 22 inches, which we boxed.

My only chance was a good one with a big ol' red taking my jig and wallowing at the end of my cast. Pretty quickly, that red threw the hook.

Moving south near Orange Island, we began catching out-of-season trout. This time, my jig put me in the game, and I landed 10 spotted sea trout. Many of those fish would have been welcome dinner guests at another time.

Did I mention that while I was catching 10, Leo was landing 15?

After all that arm work, the captain was thinking size, and we moved south near the old Goodrich oyster lease to fish cut bait. Leo dropped his bait in front of a 2-foot gator trout, and after a short move, he hooked a 24-inch red.

All I could do was take notes and net his fish for him.

Secretly I vowed to read his book more closely. Everything he was doing is in there. Leo says he is dropping the price of his book to $11 for Christmas.

If you enjoy my columns in this paper, you may also want to pick up a copy of my book. Both books will make a great Christmas gift.

Folks, a rod and reel is a very personal thing, and trying to buy the correct one as a gift is near impossible. A better plan is to buy a personalized book and include a gift card.

Call Capt. Leo at (386) 345-2213 or me at (386) 441-7793.

When our trip was over, the count was 17 redfish and 26 trout caught. Forty-three fish and done by noon.

I can't guarantee it, but if you buy Leo's book, he may even take you along on such a fantastic trip. If you do go, you will never forget it.

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. E-mail questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.

Hometown News

Hometown News is looking for free-lance and full-time reporters, photographers and editors.

Hometown News team members are passionate journalists who believe in honest, fair and accurate community news coverage. Staff writers are expected to develop sources and story ideas and write five to seven stories a week. These stories will include everything from city meeting folos and in-depth community issue pieces to light features and entertainment stories. Freelance writers are expected to both develop their own story ideas and accept assignments and work with staff on photo and art opportunities for those stories.

Photographers have a unique opportunity at Hometown News – we are all color, all the time. Great way for freelance photographers to build their portfolios. Photographers must have a good eye for art and know how to get interesting photos, sometimes in challenging situations.

Editors must know their communities and the news that is important to readers. We are looking only for experienced journalists who know what it means to serve their communities through the press.
