Big Apple, here we'll come — if flights are scheduled

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY — Passengers will soon be flying between the Daytona Beach International Airport and The Big Apple.

Maybe. That's what Stephen Cooke, director of business development at the airport, is working on. "What we'd like to see is New York service," Mr. Cooke said. "We're talking to Jet Blue about that. One of the things we're working on is a travel bank."

In short, the airport is asking area businesses to put money into dedicated accounts to buy airline tickets to fly out of Daytona International. That money, it's hoped, will show airlines that the needed customers are there to open direct service to New York.

"Consolidated Tomoka (Land Co.) has agreed to $10,000 in tickets," Mr. Cooke said. "That's the first one. We're going to get more."

Mr. Cooke said the Daytona Regional Chamber of Commerce is helping to promote the travel bank. He said getting $50,000 to $100,000 in the travel bank could tip an airline in favor of opening the proposed service.

"If they use the aircraft we suggested, the (Embraer E-190), if they ran that thing here a couple times a day they'd be up to 60,000 passengers a year easily," he said.

The aircraft carries about 100 passengers, depending on internal configuration.

County unveils proposals for DeLand Sunrail

By Joe Crews
For Hometown News

While construction has begun on the 32-mile first phase of the SunRail commuter transit system between DeBary and Sand Lake Road in Orlando, Volusia County planners are focusing their attention on an area east of the DeLand station that will be in the second phase of the eventual 61.5-mile project.

The first phase is expected to be operational in 2014, while phase two is scheduled to be online by 2017 from DeLand to Poinciana in Osceola County.

County officials recently conducted a public workshop to unveil two possible scenarios for about 262 acres east of the railroad tracks, south of State Road 44 and generally along the north side of Old New York Avenue, plus an area on the south side of Old New York from West Euclid Avenue to West Beresford Avenue. The proposed boundaries define what would become an Activity Center around the SunRail station.

At the workshop, Volusia County Planning Manager Becky Mendez said the Florida Department of Transportation is "encouraging" what it calls "Transportation-Oriented Developments" — TODs -- around all the stations in the SunRail line.

The existing zoning within the Activity Center is a mix of industrial, agricultural, and residential designations, plus 57 acres that comprised a residential planned unit development called Pelham Square. That development, approved in 2006, was never built.

After working with planners from the city of DeLand and the Florida Department of Transportation for several years, county officials are proposing that 89 acres become the TOD core, while a large swath along the south side of S.R. 44 and the area south of Old New York Avenue become TOD transition areas.

Ms. Mendez presented two scenarios for implementing the TOD.

In the first scenario, the county would designate the entire area an activity center on future land-use maps. That would implement the SunRail TOD "to its fullest extent" and "clearly states the purpose and intent for the area." On the other hand, the existing zoning would be incompatible with the new designation, and would require any new development to comply with the new policies, she said.

The second scenario would allow property owners to develop under existing zoning and does not create incompatible zoning or non-conforming uses of existing properties. But that flexibility could result in development that is incompatible with the

Orange City mason still bringing Old Florida alive

By Dan Harkins
dharkins@hometownnewsol.com

ORANGE CITY — Reese Moore is spending a lot of time these days away from his artifact-laden family home on Tangelo Avenue.

For decades, the 63-year-old would bring his whole family along for elaborate, loinclots-and-all Timucuan Indian reenactments that marveled thousands of school children and history buffs for miles around. But there isn't enough time — or willing volunteers — for that kind of primitive recreation anymore, now that the 63-year-old's nest has emptied of his seven children and has started to fill again with seven grandchildren.

Mr. Moore fills the days now with historic reenactment of a different sort. Over the past few decades, the career stone mason has become one of a handful of historic set designers called upon by museums around the country to either improve existing displays or build new ones from scratch. Most often the work involves Indian recreations, but not always.

The Old Florida Museum in St. Augustine is loaded with his handiwork. So are Old St. Augustine Village, the Daytona Beach Museum of Arts and Sciences, Old St. Augustine Village and King Carlos' Court at the Florida Museum of Natural History in Gainesville to name some more.

"I work harder now than I ever did, but I can pick and choose my projects now," said Mr. Moore during a recent walk through his treasure-laden backyard. "It's not like I need the money any more. It's more about the adventure."

His home reflects that spirit.

The façade is almost completely wrapped in ancient-looking stones. Some are authentic from archeological digs. Others he's made to look as if they are.

A workshop behind his house is lined with just the best of thousands of Volusia County artifacts he's accumulated while treasure hunting or trading. Authentic Timucuan arrowheads and shell-beaded jewelry fight for space with elabo-

The sun also rises on my fishing column

Lately, it has come to my attention that as a writer, I have a very divided fan base. It seems a portion of the people who read "Land Lines" are somehow able to keep from thumbing into the depths of The Hometown News to peruse Fishing with Dan.

LAND LINES
DAN SMITH

Others tell me that they had no idea that the fishing column Dan and the Land Lines Dan are one and the same. (I will pause here while you turn to "Fishing With Dan" back near the classifieds.)

Surprise! That's me wearing a disguise.

I have been wearing that hat for close to seven years now. Fans of that column often tell me that they don't bother reading the rest of the paper or much of anything else. As soon as their paper hits the driveway, they grab it up and turn to Fishing with Dan to glean the fishing tips that I try to include each week. I do appreciate such loyalty, but those crusty old salts are missing the interesting (quirky?) prose that I offer each week in "Land Lines." Why, just last week, I somehow managed to compare the implosion of the Ormond Beach hospital with the old TV series "The Many Loves Of Dobie Gillis."

Come on, you won't find that kind of prose lying around on many coffee tables. Conversely, those of you who always stop at Page 3 and never take the time to check out the fishing column are also missing some literary pearls. A few weeks ago, I described my early morning kayak trip thusly: As the sun arose over the peninsula behind cotton candy clouds of pink and blue and smoke from a campfire cloaked selected trees like spun silk from a Catawba worm.

You can read yards of fishing reports and not find gems of that quality. Actually, I'm not sure how the readers of "Fishing with Dan" liked that insertion of flowery language into their fishing news.

Truth is, the fishing column is based on the seven or eight fish that we regularly catch here in the inshore. Consider that after seven years, I have written around 400 columns on those same seven or eight fish. Try that sometime.

Some years back, I wrote a book titled "I Swear The Snook Drowned." Although it purports to be a fishing book in reality, it is more like "Land Lines" set to water. In that book, you will surely find fishing tips, but mostly it consists of tales of adventure that I could not include in "Fishing with Dan." If you like this column, turn to the back of the paper and find ordering instructions for my book following the fishing report. While you won't find "Snook" in Oprah's Book Club list, I guarantee that you will find it interesting and entertaining.

Remember, Earnest Hemingway was also a pretty good fisherman (unashamed comparison to the great one). I am doing this particular column to try and promote some cross-reading (no not cross-dressing), but I know that the fishing crowd probably won't read anything in the front of the paper. Those weather-beaten old river rats (like myself) are totally opposed to this type of fine literature. So, I am writing this to you in hopes that I can convince you, the more cerebral crowd, to take a look at my fishing column. Actually, this fine paper allows me to write a column in the monthly Forever Young magazine section as well. That piece is geared to the aging baby boomer generation and the entire magazine is done on a theme. I'm not so good with those assigned stories, but I give it my all. To receive Forever Young, you must order a free subscription. Take a look — you might enjoy it. Now, with that one, I am doing a total of nine columns a month. That means that much of my tan these days comes from the glow of a computer screen, but I still enjoy it. Recently we expanded our circulation to include West Volusia County, and I welcome those folks aboard. It is comforting to know that my mug shot is lining birdcages all the way from the Atlantic Ocean to the St. Johns River.

Dan Smith is on the board of directors for the Ormond Beach Historical Society, The Motor Racing Heritage Association and is the author of a fishing book.

"We tend to get a lot of business types in here," Mr. Cooke said. "We don't tend to get a lot of tourists. We get a lot of business travelers who don't want to put up with (Orlando International Airport)."

Nevertheless, Mr. Cooke said the airline industry is notoriously risk averse and slow to try new things. He explained that while the industry's expenses are very large, its profit margins are narrow.

"We tend to get a lot of business types in here. We don't tend to get a lot of tourists. We get a lot of business travelers who don't want to put up with (Orlando International Airport)."

Stephen Cooke
Director of business development

"The saying goes that the Wright Brothers flew the first plane in 1903, and the airline industry hasn't made a nickel since," he said.

Last year there was a refurbishing and updating runways at DBI, which cost about $10 million. The Federal Aviation Administration and Florida Department of Transportation funded most of that. According to Mr. Cooke, Delta and US Airways have started flying larger planes into the airport, too.

In addition to negotiating with Jet Blue to open service to New York, Mr. Cooke said he's having conversations with international carriers for flights to Mexico and the Caribbean.

"Since the first of the year, I've had 20 face-to-face meetings with airways," Mr. Cooke said. "I think they're more receptive. Two years ago, we fell off a cliff, the airline industry, and hit a recession. We've been digging our way out of that hole."

65 Million

65,000,000... That's the number of people in the US who suffer from low back or neck pain. Many of these people suffer needlessly. Bill Labonte's Office in Ormond Beach, FL receives inquiries about his new non surgical treatment for herniated, bulging and degenerated discs from all over the nation. As a result, he has one non surgical disc machine for lower back pain and second one to treat neck, arm and hand pain from disc problems in the neck. If you are suffering with SERIOUS neck pain or hand or arm pain caused by a bulging, herniated or degenerated disc, pay attention. This may be the most important article read this year!

Do You Have A Disc Problem?

- If you experience any of the following, chances are your pain is due to a disc bulge, herniation or degeneration:
- Tight muscles in your neck
  - Turning your Head causes neck pain
  - Shooting pain in arms or hands
  - Migraine Headaches
  - Numbness in your arms, hands or fingers
  - Fire down your arms
  - Prickling in your hands
  - Weak hand or wrist muscles

Finally Some Good News!

We can help if you have been suffering with neck pain, arm or hand pain caused by a bulging disc, disc herniation or squashed or compressed discs.

- Until recently, the only advice for many of you suffering in pain was to try what you've been told:
- Try exercising or physical therapy
  - Try physical therapy
  - Try pain medication
  - Try pain shots
  - Try back surgery
  - Just live with it

Caution! Decompression is DIFFERENT than old time traction or hanging upside down or inversion machines which can make your muscles squeeze the discs even harder!

If your like most, none of these have worked for you. Exercise hurts, pain medications and muscle relaxers cover up the problem and cause side effects. Pain shots cause more pain, don't work or last very long and don't FIX the problem. Or maybe back surgery didn't work, worked but didn't last or even made it worse.

Whatever your situation, you owe it to yourself to check into this Breakthrough Computerized Non-Surgical Treatment for back pain and sciatic or leg pain caused by a bulging, herniated or squashed disc or discs. It has helped hundreds of people who were suffering just like you.

How Do Discs Go Bad?

Over time the discs in your back tend to get squashed or compressed, especially if you've played certain sports when younger or have a job that requires lots of sitting or standing in one place for long periods of time. Car accidents, or heavy or repeated lifting.

It's kinda like a cookie with cream filling, and the cream filling will start to ooze out from between the sides of the cookie if pressure is applied on top of the cookie (like gravity on our spine). Eventually this happens to a lot of us. Statistics show over 80% of Americans will suffer with back pain sometime in their life.

How Does This Machine Work?

The computerized decompression machine gently pulls you apart, stretches the disc to a certain point that causes a drop in pressure inside the disc (like a little vacuum pulling the disc back into proper placement. In my clinic, I've treated hundreds of patients with non surgical spinal decompression with great results so there should be no reason your back pain should be any different.

Most serious Back Pain Sufferers Are Very Skeptical Of This New Procedure, As Skeptical As I Was When I Purchased My First Decompression Machine, So If You Are Skeptical ...See What Some Of Our Patients Have Had to Say About Our Program:

When I came in to see you I had been to several doctors. They were not helping and I was taking lots of pain pills and muscle relaxers. Before the treatment I would get out of bed and fall to the ground. I was in very severe pain. I was slow to react to the DRX9000 treatment, but I stayed with it. Today I feel great. No more pain or pain pills. I want to thank all of the staff at Dr. Labonte's. They are awesome.

Lisa F, Ormond Beach

I have gone from waking up 4 times in the night with pain radiating down my right arm and numbness, to sleeping through the night and waking with no pain or numbness in my right arm. The whole staff has treated me so wonderful, They have all been there to listen and do anything possible to help me get well and on the road to recovery from cervical disc bulging. I am so pleased that I have found this treatment center and am very happy with the wonderful service and medical help from the whole staff. You couldn't find a better group of people that provide excellent care and are some of the nicest people I have met. I would definitely recommend them to anyone who has neck pain or disc pain.

Candy B, Ormond Beach

Within less than halfway through the treatments, my major neck discomfort ceased. The experience from the front desk, the technicians, and the doctor were extremely friendly, caring and professional. I highly recommend Dr. Labonte's Team.

Robert T, Ormond Beach

My experience at Dr. Labonte's office has greatly improved my quality of life. The DXR9000 protocol for a herniated disc worked for me. After 6 weeks of treatments my back was better than before I injured it.

Dan N, Ormond Beach

Dr. Labonte and his staff exude an upbeat and caring concern for each patient. I was treated as a person and not just a number. Thanks to Dr. Labonte, his staff and the DXR9000 my quality of life been restored to what it was 11 years ago. I am looking forward to resuming the active lifestyle I used to enjoy. I can not emphasize how fantastic I feel. I heartily recommend the decompression treatment. All I can say to Dr. Labonte and his staff is thank you for the concern and extraordinary patient care you gave me during the treatments

In response to 'Back to the Bible.'

I could not have said it better. No one would choose that lifestyle. Prejudice and bigotry must have been taught in the home or the church. It is better to have a mind open in wonder, instead of closed with belief. Thanks again to in response to "Back to the Bible."

In response to: 'Back to the Bible'

I think what the person is saying is don't judge. It is up to God to judge, not us.

Turnabout fair play

Self-righteous intolerance and hateful bigotry contradict the very foundation upon which Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, Hinduism and other religions of the world are predicated. Loving and caring for our neighbors as ourselves contradicts pitting any race, color, creed, socio-economic status, educational background and yes, even gender, against another. When leaders and followers of such passionately hallowed groups choose to employ ruthless piety for divisive harm, harmony and compassion suffer.

No more is this clearly the case than with respect to the freedoms shamefully denied those identifying other than heterosexual. As the very last among the long list of vilified and abused minorities forced to proverbially sit in the back of the bus, lesbians, homosexuals, bisexuals, transsexuals, polyamorous, asexuals, and undecided or questioning continue suffering hateful denouncement and attack for being born different than mainstream others attracted only to the opposite sex. Neither no more nor less than the very same benefits and protections (per adoption, finances, employment, taxation, habitation, hospitalization, immigration, insurance, marriage, retirement, survivorship, etc.) provided straights are long overdue gays.

Misinterpretation of sacred scripture, preaching, tradition and ritual provide manipulative excuse to propagate prejudicial falsehoods about human sexuality. As scapegoats for natural disaster, economic downturn, terrorist attack, mass murder, college sports and church scandals, gays suffer the slings and arrows one societal wrong after another. Contrary to the hate-mongering of holier-than-thou homophobes, the spiritual truths of Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha, and Confucius are better served through a humane live-and-let-live affirmation of God's children, one and all.

Baptized in the Methodist church — as later were my granddaughter and grandson in the United Church of Christ — I was, at least for a while, "saved." That is, until I recognized and dared to act upon my unaccepted sexual orientation in the 1960s and thereby risk condemnation. Even more painful was witnessing the similarly shameful turmoil of my gay son coming out in the 1990s. Instead of the change for the better, which I had in the intervening three decades anticipated, matters worsened. Legally married to a female for 36 years before divorce, I find the lack of nationwide laws permitting marriage to my male partner of 10-plus years both personally offensive and publicly unjust. I awaken sometimes in the middle of the night pondering

How much data is really on your hard drive? It's easy to find out

Oh, I don't have that much stuff on my computer, just some pictures, music and email, not much."

That's a comment I hear fairly often and using just the tools that are built into Windows, how much data you are accumulating can be a tricky thing to keep tabs on. People are often surprised when they learn just how much data they really do have on their hard drives and are usually at a loss as to how to account for it.

On a typical Windows machine you should see a "my computer" icon either on the desktop or in the start menu. When you open it you should see the contents of the hard drive laid out in a logical order.

Among other things, you should find your disk drives labeled with name and a letter followed by a colon (ie: local disk C: or DVD drive D:). Now on a typical Windows machine, all of the data is saved on the C: drive so that's where we want to focus.

If we ignore everything else and then "right click" the icon that represents the C: drive a menu should open and one of the options should be "properties." Click the properties option and that should open a little window that shows the general properties and characteristics of the drive that you are looking at. You should see things such as the type of drive, file system and then (what we came here to see) how much space is used vs. how much is free.

COMPUTE THIS

This information is then artfully displayed in the form of a pie chart with the used space in blue and the free space in magenta.

Now we can "see" how much data is being used on a disk but what that pie chart doesn't tell us is where that disk space is being used. To figure that out we need to dig a little deeper.

Close the disk properties window and we should be back looking at the contents of your "my computer" window. This time, instead of right clicking the C: drive we are going to double click it, which will open the drive so we can see what's inside.

One way to look at it is like this: think of the C: drive (or any drive for that matter) as a file cabinet drawer and when you open it you see the same thing you would see if you yanked open a "real" file cabinet drawer, a bunch of manila folders.

To continue our quest to determine where all of our hard drive space is going we can now start measuring folders.

All of the little manila folder icons that show up when you open a drive each use up a little or a lot of drive space and the way to tell how much is to hold your mouse over each folder and stop. If you do it right a little message box will pop up telling you how large the folder is. When you have a folder that you want to look at more closely, right click it and then click "properties" and you'll be presented with a little more detail.

Now, that pretty much covers the basics of "determining folder sizes in Windows" but I'll be the first to admit, that whole procedure is a pain in the rear and really hard to determine anything useful. There has to be a better way to "see" what's going on and there is. Point your browser to www.diskspacefan.com and grab a copy of Disk Space Fan. It's free of malware and viruses and free in price (there is a pro version available but the free version works just fine).

Once you've downloaded your copy, double click it and install it on your machine.

When you run it, a pie chart representing your C: drive will be displayed. Click the scan button and wait a little bit for it to scan your drive. When it's finished, you will be presented with a "fan chart" representing all the folders by color and size. Hold your mouse over the center of the chart and move outward to see the folder name and size of each segment of the chart.

Disk Space Fan does an excellent job of putting all that information into one chart you can understand at a glance.

Go ahead, run it on your machine. You may be surprised at just where all your hard drive space is going.

TOD concept, she said.

Existing businesses could continue to operate under either scenario, Ms. Mendez said in response to a question from the audience. But if a use becomes non-conforming after either scenario is adopted, those businesses would be prohibited from enlarging or adding structures on their property, and if abandoned for six months or more, would be required to be brought into a use that complies with the future land-use designation before reopening.

Ronnie Mills, a candidate for Volusia County Council who operates a family-owned septic service company on West Avenue near the station, wasn't pleased with either plan.

"(By doing this) you devalue the property, and devalue the business, if not force it out altogether," he said.

Mr. Mills will have several more opportunities to weigh in on the proposals.

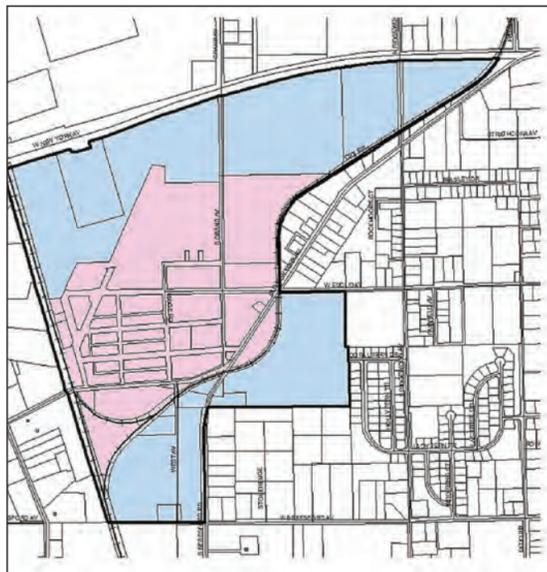

Ms Mendez said the county's Planning, Land Development and Regulation Commission was to discuss the plan earlier this week (Aug. 14) and at a public hearing tentatively set for Sept. 11.

The County Council could hold its first hearing on the TOD plan at its Oct. 4 meeting, she said, after which the Volusia Growth Management Commission and the state would have to review it. The County Council's second hearing could come sometime in December, she said.

"We're definitely having it discussed at the (Planning, Land Development and Regulation Commission) meeting Aug. 14," she said. "The rest of the hearing schedule is not set in stone."

Mike Holmes, DeLand's planning director, said he thought the county was going in the right direction.

"The county is indicating that if the station is built, they will seek changes to the future land uses," he said. "We've got plenty of time. I'll be interested in seeing what the policies will be when it's done."

Sales, renaming on real estate scene

The commercial real estate deals have picked up recently with the biggest one coming in at $11 million for the Island Club apartments on Beville Road.

R.J. Finlay & Co., a New Hampshire multi-family housing developer and manager, acquired the 204-unit apartment complex from Colorado-based AIMCO, which bought it for about $11.3 million in 2002. Finlay is renaming it the Granite at Porpoise Bay. Finlay already owns other commercial properties in Florida and is building new apartments in Port St. Lucie.

Another property that sold for about the same as its previous price was the Publix shopping center in Holly Hill. H&R REIT, a Downsview, Ont., Canada, investment company, paid $7.9 million to Pompano Beach investors that had bought it for $7.8 million in 2004. The real estate investment trust owns about 300 properties, including several in Florida.

The CVS Pharmacy at 101 S. Ridgewood Ave. in Daytona Beach was sold by a Coral Gables investor to Paul S. Phillos LLC for $3.65 million. The Coral Gables investor had bought it under the name CVTONA LLC for $3.05 million in 2011.

It's not just real estate that's selling, though. Fenner Advanced Sealing Technologies, a Houston plastics and elastomeric components maker, acquired American Industrial Plastics, 724 Fentress Blvd., Daytona Beach. Fenner Advanced Sealing, a subsidiary of U.K.-

based Fenner PLC, valued AIP at $3.8 million. AIP develops precision machined products for the oil and gas, industrial and medical markets.

But the most surprising deal was by Syrian investors who bought the incomplete church at Madeline Avenue and Williamson Boulevard for $427,800. I wasn't able to find out anything more this week, but I'll keep a close eye on this one.

There were also some smaller deals, but all-in-all it shows that investors and businesses continue to have a lot of interest in the Volusia County market.

Initial claims for unemployment compensation were at 1,944 in July, down 19.5 percent from 2,416 in July 2011. Fewer workers are going on the unemployment rolls, but it's still not at a level that shows employment is growing strongly. The indication of strong job growth will come when claims drop closer to about 1,000 a month.

Spanos Imports continues to grow, expanding its service department to be able to handle just about any type of auto. The auto dealer, at 520 W. International Speedway Blvd., Daytona Beach, which specializes in used luxury vehicles, now has 41 employees. Spanos offers free insurance estimates and does complete interior and exterior body repair.

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

Some doubly good news is happening on the industrial front. Conelec of Florida has started work on revamping a building at DeLand Crossings to move its electronics manufacturing operation there from Stanford. Conelec acquired the building earlier this year after Intellitec lost the property in foreclosure.

Conelec is expected to have about 120 workers in the building at Interstate 4 and State Road 44 by the end of this year. But Intellitec isn't going far. It is moving to the former beer distributorship property at 1290 E. International Speedway Blvd. in DeLand where it will have about 40 employees.

On the restaurant beat, the news wasn't too good recently. Star Buffet Inc. of Scottsdale, Ariz., has closed the Holiday House restaurant in Ormond Beach. Star, which operates a variety of restaurants across the country, has struggled and is reorganizing under bankruptcy protection. Krystal is putting on hold plans for a new place in DeLand. It has acquired the property, but withdrew a request to the city for annexation, rezoning and land-use change.

It's official now on Jimmy

Johns opening in Ormond Beach, though. The commercial real estate team of Ron Frederick and Buddy Budiansky of Prudential Commercial Real Estate in Daytona Beach recently sold the property at the corner of Perrott Drive and Granada Boulevard to Triebel Family Enterprises. This will be the fourth store for owners Brent and Dawn Triebel, who operate Jimmy Johns in the area with their son, Cort, daughter, Brooke, and son-in-law, Jason. The Triebels bought the 1.05 acre for $255,000 from LSM Holding, which was represented by Roy Akins of Adams Cameron & Co. The Triebels will be tearing down an existing 1,000-square-foot building and replacing it with a 3,000-square-foot restaurant/retail building. The restaurant is slated to open in November.

One last note, Roar Motorcycles, which specializes in motorcycles and accessories for women, has moved to 420 N. Beach St. in Daytona Beach. While it was by itself as far as motorcycle-related businesses go on Bellevue Avenue, it is now in the middle of motorcycle central on Beach Street.

Let Dr. Costello create "Your Winning Smile"

People choose cosmetic dental procedures for various reasons - to repair a defect such as a malformed bite or crooked teeth, treat an injury, or just improve their overall appearance. For these and many other reasons, cosmetic dentistry has become a vital and important part of the dental profession and one of the fastest growing areas of dentistry. For example, tooth-whitening procedures have tripled over the past five years. Common cosmetic dental procedures can be performed to correct misshaped, discolored, chipped or missing teeth. It also can be used to change the overall shape of teeth - from teeth that are too long or short, have gaps, or simply need to be reshaped.

Funds needed for school supply drive

The Jewish Federation's 16th annual School Supply Project has always been successful because of donors but at the present time, the foundation is short funds. They are arranging to give every school in Volusia County through the counselors of each elementary, middle and high school, quality backpacks filled with supplies. Only those who are truly in need will receive these supplies.

In West Volusia, an underserved area the need is the greatest and the foundation has been asked to supply a greater amount. One quality backpack filled with supplies retails for $80, but because the foundation orders in such a large volume (the foundation hopes to help

6,975 students this year), it is able to get these backpacks and supplies for $25. One hundred percent of the funds purchases school supplies. The Jewish Federation absorbs all administrative expenses. The Jewish Federation operates the Jerry Doliner Food Bank and is seeing an increasing amount of families needing assistance.

Tax deductible donations may be made to Jewish Federation School Supply Kits, 470 Andalusia Ave., Ormond Beach, FL 32174.

B-CU Religious Fellowship to present campus service

There will be surprises and a special performance by national gospel recording artist Isaac Carree (of Men of Standard and as seen with Kirk Franklin and John P. Kee).

For more information, call (386) 226-1122.

Since the early 1990s, Reese Moore – here with, from left, daughter Jesse, wife Jeanne and son Christ -- has gathered his family for life-like reenactments of Timucuan life, until recently at a realistic village he built himself in a rustic Orange City spot. He's parlayed that love of artifacts into a lucrative business designing set pieces for museums across the country.

rate pipes, spears whittled from antlers and turtle-shell bowls. The corners of the room are festooned with animal pelts and antlers.

On either side of the workshop are two cluttered sheds: one with old costumes in plastic bins for various types of reenactments; the other contains about two tons of real animal bones.

"All of this has been taking shape for so many years," he said, waving his hand to encompass a backyard coated in historic bricks and native plants. "I'll never be done. I'll do this forever."

It seems like that's how long these types of things have captured his imagination. He admits to being obsessed.

"He really is," jokes his wife of 22 years, Jeanne, later in the living room. "More so than normal."

He's been into Old Florida for awhile.

Growing up in an Ormond Beach Cracker-style house, he said the woods were still the jungle-y tangle where some of the Tarzan movies were filmed.

For a few years, his parents lived near Lake George in Flagler County, where Mr. Moore built his early collection of artifacts by walking the tributary banks and exploring an Indian mound in his backyard that was later used as road fill.

In high school, when he wasn't tagging along on summer archeological digs with teachers to places like Costa Rica and Equador, he was selling baby alligators to tourists passing through to Miami and back.

After school, his father got him a job at the Aquatorium in St. Petersburg.

"They said, 'Your Dad said you like animals,'" he recalled. "So you're working with the whales, the porpoises and the sea lions."

He was there for a decade, until 1978, when he moved on to work with dolphins in Fort Myers Beach and killer whales and seals at The Japanese Village and Deer Park in California.

After ending up at the Seven Seas Marine Life Park in Arlington, Texas, he lost part of his bottom teeth and jaw when a dolphin over-shot the fish in Mr. Moore's mouth. It was all rebuilt.

All along he kept treasure hunting. In the late 1980s, he transitioned to a career in masonry, with Moore Creative Stone, with a side job of reenacting the Timucuan life he'd grown to deeply respect.

"The Indians weren't under any stress until the Spanish arrived here," he said while looking over his collection. "Everybody in the villages had a job. Some people made pottery, stone tools, caught fish. ... And from what we understand by the real written record that the priests first wrote, they were living more by Moses' law than the people who came over to change them to Catholicism."

Jeanne worked with her husband in the masonry business until the kids started coming.

After they started getting older, the Moore's would bring them along, in loin-cloths and jewelry. They'd play with native toys while Mrs. Moore would fry up elderberry blossoms or cat-tails like early Timucuan chefs.

Even the blind could touch the weapons, skins and loin cloths of the people who lived here first. Some are recreations by Mr. Moore and some are the real deal.

"I just love the history," he said, poring over his collection. "I love touching something that was made and used thousands of years ago."

Sara Nettle (Moore), 26, started doing reenactments with her parents when she was in second grade at Orange City Elementary School. She has children of her own now, and has nothing but fond memories of her father's primitive teachings.

"It's really cool because I don't know anybody else who does something like this," she said of her father. "And it got me out there. I just ran into somebody at Walmart the other day, and she said, 'I've known you guys since your Dad and Mom did those Indian shows in Orange City.'"

They don't do those reenactments so much anymore, though.

"I'm not sleeping on the ground again," his wife jokes. "I've got seven grand-kids."

Mr. Moore is getting more pressing work anyway. He just returned last month from helping to design and compile the artifacts for the new Boston Tea Party Museum in Massachusetts.

These types of projects have been coming in for many years now, he said. A decade ago, he designed the wooden peace pipe used in the ceremony to dedicate a new Indian wing at the Smithsonian Institute. He considered it an honor that might have conflicted with his Christian faith.

Some of the area pastors he's helped to build new churches thought building the pipe was wrong, but after he consulted with his aunt, who's also a minister, he learned something new about his connection to the past.

"She told me, 'You owe it to the Timucuan,'" he remembers her telling him, "and you owe it to your great-grandmother. I was like, 'Huh?' and she told me, 'Why do you think your great-grandmother grew up on the reservation?' I said, 'I thought she was a teacher.' And she said, 'No, you're grandmother is Choctaw.' So all along I have this connection I could never explain until then."

A few days later, he was off to a desolate patch of Tennessee for a month, where the owners of a luxury log cabin waited for an outdoor barbecue to be nestled into their section of a mountain-side, and Mr. Moore was just the man to build it.

why my first long-term relationship was so readily accepted and the second one damned, I fall back asleep clueless. Whatever the sexual identities of my young grandchildren, I like to believe that as adults they will live in a world that finally appreciates the universality of love free from the fearful nonsense of gender restriction.

By virtue of taking the Golden Rule to heart, I also take pride in sexual (as well as other forms of) diversity. Believing gays and straights more alike than different, I nonetheless realize the vast divide between tolerant and intolerant human beings. Irrespective of individual sexuality, I invite well-meaning others to join me in disavowing bitter animosity in favor of championing mutual respect as a fundamental essential for turnabout fair play.

Term 'public servant' is a misnomer

Whenever I hear the term "public servant" and the person referred to is a politician or employee of the federal, state, etc., government and very well paid and benefited, I realize that the term "public servant" is truly an overused misnomer of the term "servant."

Tax benefits are unfair to those in private industry

I read about the Social Security payments from workers in the private industry and how much they will contribute versus what they will receive in retirement after working 40 to 50 years and found it quite upsetting.

Why government, municipal workers and teachers are able to retire in 30 years or less, I find quite unfair. They pay a lot less into the system and receive much greater benefits thanks to the taxes paid by those in the private industry.

Does anyone else feel this way?

No fees are required for participation unless college credit is desired.

The Daytona State College Community Symphonic Band, developed in the spirit of the old John Philip Sousa Bands, performs traditional and modern classics as well as marches, Broadway hits and movie selections. The band welcomes community members who can read music and play a woodwind, brass or percussion instrument to join as members of an outstanding 65-piece concert ensemble.

The 26th season of the band will commence with an open rehearsal, including new and returning members, at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27, on the Daytona Beach Campus in the Theater Center Building 220, Room 219. Rehearsals are held from 7 to 9:50 p.m. each Monday.

Art Stroll seeks artists, musicians for monthly event

On the first Saturday of the month, artists and artistic vendors set up along Historic Canal Street in New Smyrna Beach for the "1st Saturday Art Stroll."

To continue to build the event, organizers are looking for additional artistic talent.

"We are looking for fine craftsmen, artists, plein air artists and musicians of different styles," said Lola Duckworth, event co-chair.

Attendance at the event varies, Ms. Duckworth said. When additional events are scheduled in conjunction with the Art Stroll, it's common for a few thousand people to visit the palm-lined historic district. A free, monthly concert in Christmas Park also attracts strollers.

Opportunities also are available for volunteers interested in helping at the event's information booth.

Art Stroll runs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information, call (386) 690-8666.

Call for artists

Out & about

FRIDAY, AUGUST 17

•Hairspray: The Tony Award-winning Broadway musical brings its BIG Hair and Comedy to DeLand's historic Athens Theatre this summer in one of the Sands Theater Centers first professionally directed performances. "Hairspray, The Musical," features an all-local, Central Floridian cast of more than 50 experienced actors between 15 and 35 years old from as far north as Flagler County, Volusia County and the Orlando/Sanford/Mount Dora areas – many with National Tour and Broadway Credits – Our lead, "Tracy Turnblad," even played as "Annie" on Broadway! This show has delighted audiences by sweeping them away to 1960s Baltimore, where the 50s are out – and change is in the air! Loveable plus-size heroine Tracy Turnblad, has a passion for dancing, and wins a spot on the local TV dance program, "The Corny Collins Show." Overnight she finds herself transformed from outsider to teen celebrity. Can a larger-than-life adolescent manage to vanquish the program's reigning princess, integrate the television show, and find true love (singing and dancing all the while, of course!) without musing her hair? The show runs through Aug. 19. For details on production times, visit the Athens Theatre's Events Calendar at www.athensdeland.com/calendar. Tickets are available at Athens Theater Box Office (386) 736-1500 or online at www.athensdeland.com. Tickets are $20 for VIP and $14 for adults. Student tickets are $7.

Fourth annual Hippiefest to bring peace, love and happiness to area

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH — Be a "Hippie" for a day this summer as The Peabody presents the fourth annual Hippiefest Friday, Aug. 24, with a family-fun street festival at 4 p.m. followed by a star-studded concert at 7:30 p.m.

Put on tie-dye and have some fun this summer during the Hippiefest Street Festival on Auditorium Boulevard in front of the Peabody Auditorium. There will be live music, food/beverage/merchandise vendors and so much more. This street festival is free and open to everyone. The concert will kick off at The Peabody in Daytona Beach with a lineup that features '60s and '70s greats: Johnny Winter Band, Mountain's Leslie West, Edgar Winter Band, Rick Derringer, Savoy Brown's Kim Simmonds.

Two of this year's Hippiefest featured bands were part of Woodstock, the most legendary lineup in history.

Johnny Winter Band and Mountain's Leslie West were two of the hottest and most diverse collection of bands of 1969, creating a playlist that would forever shape music to come. The American music scene of the era was defined by this music festival, and what is now known as world music stemmed from the diversity of performers that played at Woodstock.

John Dawson "Johnny" Winter III is best known for his late-1960s and 1970s high-energy blues-rock albums and live performances. Mr. Winter also produced three Grammy Award-winning albums for blues legend Muddy Waters. Since his time with Mr. Waters, Mr. Winter has recorded several Grammy-nominated blues albums and continues to tour extensively. In 1988, he was inducted into the Blues Foundation Hall of Fame and in 2003, he was ranked 74th in Rolling Stone magazine's list of the "100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time."

A night out

Deltona resident Matthew Lonk of Target carefully paints the face of nine-year-old Andreas Butler of Daytona Beach during National Night Out at Cypress Park in Daytona Beach last Tuesday. The National Night Out event is designed to heighten crime and drug prevention awareness while generating support for local anticrime programs. It also strengthens the neighborhood spirit and police-community partnerships and also sends a message to criminals letting them know that neighborhoods are organized and fighting back. # Hippie

Mountain was born out of the '60s music explosion. They are one of those rare bands in the past 30 years that can be credited with forging a style and sound that would forever change the face of rock music. Works include "Mississippi Queen," "Nantucket Sleighride," "Theme From an Imaginary Western," "Never in My Life," "Blood of the Sun," and "Dreams of Milk and Honey." Mountain produced three gold albums and created one of the most recognized rock tunes in this genre, "Mississippi Queen."

Hippiefest captures the spirit of Woodstock and other great music festivals of the era. Tickets for the Hippiefest concert can be purchased at The Peabody Box Office, 600 Auditorium Blvd., Daytona Beach, through TicketMaster by calling (800) 982-ARTS, online at www.TicketMaster.com, or at any Ticketmaster outlet. And now, tickets may also be purchased at any local Wal-Mart store in the electronics department. Tickets start at $39 plus applicable service fees. DINING & ENTERTAINMENT

'Melt' the veggies for a traditional spaghetti sauce

Hello smart shoppers. Every couple of years I find it necessary to repeat my family's superb spaghetti sauce recipe, so here it is. Why no company can make a great sauce is beyond me but I've yet to find anything comparable.

The recipe is from my mother and my father's mother; together it's the best. I was told to use an Italian brand of tomatoes since they're made with plum tomatoes, which are sweeter.

A basic tomato sauce, one to which you will add meat if you choose, does not contain oregano. Oregano is used in a marinara sauce that does not contain meat. Marinara sauce is served plain or with seafood. Disagree? That's fine, that's what it's all about, but try my sauce and you be the judge.

The secret to great tomato sauce is one: in the ingredients; and two: in the method of cooking. One thing you really need is a large heavy pot, so if you don't have one now is the time.

Gone are the days when I used lard or bacon drippings. After learning my cholesterol was too high I changed many of my recipes to eliminate, if possible, high-fat and high-cholesterol ingredients. Today, my sauce is virtually fat-free. But amazingly, it's still delicious. Adding grated Romano cheese to the sauce as it cooks adds a little fat but so much flavor.

See you next week!

SPAGHETTI SAUCE serves 6 or more

- 1 large (28-ounce) can tomato puree
- 1 large (28-ounce) can crushed tomatoes with added puree
- Two small (6-ounce) cans tomato paste
- 2 large onions
- 2 medium carrots
- 2 large cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 5 or 6 large fresh basil leaves, whole, or 1 tablespoon dried basil
- Pinch of dried rosemary, crushed between fingers
- Several sprigs fresh Italian parsley (chopped) or 1 tablespoon dried
- 1 handful grated Romano cheese
- 1-1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- Few shakes crushed red pepper (optional)
- Water or chicken broth

Peel onions and garlic; trim and scrub carrots. Carrots contain a natural sugar, which usually eliminates the need for

with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

added sugar. Chop vegetables very fine (a food processor is great for this). Sauté in a large pot in the oil or use water if you want a completely fat-free sauce.

As Mama used to say, "You must cook the vegetables until they almost melt." Since you are using a very small amount of oil you must keep adding water, about a cup at a time, as it cooks down. This is the longest preparation process for the sauce and can take about 30 minutes.

When I decide to make sauce I double or triple the recipe and freeze it in suitable size containers for future meals.

Add tomato paste and cook a few minutes, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients and liquid until thinned to desired consistency. Stir well; bring to a boil. Lower heat to just a simmer, cover and let cook for 2 hours, stirring occasionally.

Remember, a burnt sauce is bitter and cannot be fixed.

ANY FRUIT COBBLER (NIB) regular and low-cholesterol serves 6

- 1/2 stick butter or 1/4-cup butter substitute such as Smart Balance
- 4 cups peeled and sliced peaches, nectarines or apples
- 1/2-cup sugar or 1/4-cup sugar and 1/4-cup Splenda
- 1 tablespoon plus 2/3-cup biscuit mix, either regular or low-fat
- 1/2-teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons milk*

*If using skim milk add 1 teaspoon more Smart Balance.

In 1-quart shallow casserole combine fruit, sugar, 1 tablespoon biscuit mix and cinnamon. In medium bowl mix remaining 2/3-cup biscuit mix with brown sugar. Using an electric mixer cut in butter or substitute until mixture is the size of small peas. Stir in milk until moistened. Drop batter by spoonfuls onto fruit. Bake at 400-degrees for 30 minutes until toothpick inserted into crust comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes.

MICROWAVE FUDGE

This quick fudge is high-fat because of the butter, but what fudge isn't?

- 1 (1-pound) box confectioner's sugar
- 1/2-cup cocoa
- 1 stick butter
- 1/4-cup milk
- 1/2-cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift sugar and cocoa into ungreased 9-inch square microwave-safe glass pan. Cut butter into five pieces on top.

Pour in milk; DO NOT STIR. Cook on high in microwave two to three minutes until bubbling. Remove from microwave; stir thoroughly; blend in nuts and vanilla; spread evenly. Refrigerate one hour, cut into squares.

Possible closing of the Beach Street Tomoka River Bridge to fishing

There is a nasty rumor swirling that the authorities in their infinite wisdom will soon close the Tomoka River Bridge on North Beach Street to fishing.

As long as anyone can remember, that span has been a favorite for land-bound anglers.

The last time I fished there, I met two men from DeLand who told me that is the only place they fish. Please let the folks at Tomoka State Park and the County Council know if you want the bridge to remain a fishing spot.

On the upside, New Smyrna Beach will soon begin construction on boat ramps at the old Swoope power plant across from the airport. It is intended to relieve the pressure from the ramps on the north causeway, but I believe it will be a better boon to the Ponce Inlet launch area. When it is completed next year, it will give us another way to get to the inlet. Water quality in the Northern Mosquito Lagoon is still in bad shape. The yellowish algae bloom that has occurred this summer is the worst in recent memory and may result in the loss of much of the important sea grass beds. Due to the bloom, the fishing has been way off this summer and some of the old timers think it may not return for a long time. The water in the Halifax is exceptionally clear for this time of year. The usual summer algae bloom has not happened there.

FISHING WITH DAN

Wading last week, I could see bottom in 3 feet of water. That seldom happens in hot weather.

This summer has been the best for Halifax River sea trout in some time. It seems that all of those undersized we have been throwing back for the past few years have finally grown.

Trout there are averaging from 16 to 20 inches and are plentiful. Just about every-one I speak with report good catches.

Flounder are still around, and while this year could not possibly match the last, it has still been pretty darn good.

At this writing, I have caught 56 flounder since mid-March. I have to say this summer's flounder have been a nice size. Fish more than 20 inches have been common and averaging around 17 inches.

Shrimp are still flowing down the center of the Halifax, but timing is everything. Not long ago, I netted an Asian shrimp as part of my catch. I caught it just north of Granada in Ormond Beach and when I notified the state, they told me that is as north as they have come. If you catch an Asian (tiger) shrimp the state wants to know. Measure it and snap a photo, if you can then email to askfvc.com.

Spent the morning recently with 27 kids at the Casements Enviro Camp. That, my friends, is a wild time. Twenty-seven youngsters from ages 5 to 8 fishing at once? Oh my! Lots of squealing, a little crying and many questions.

The star of the show was the puffer fish caught by Jai Wan Rij of Ormond Beach, but a close second was the eel caught by Antonio Nogueiro, also of Ormond. Charlie Freeman caught the most, while Lucy Purvis lost a huge redfish. One little girl screamed for help because she had caught one, but when I went over, it turned out to be the shrimp I had put on her hook for bait. How did the catfish get its name? Did the eel shock me when I took it off the hook? When I asked one kid where he lived, he told me Florida. No use giving up too much information, I suppose. If you think fishing is boring, take a few kids out and watch what goes on. Thanks to Siobhan Daly and her staff for the great job with the tiny anglers.

Charming course will test your skills

Watching the PGA Championship this past weekend made me long for playing a course near the ocean where the wind blows, and then blows some more. Being honest, I didn't really long to play in such wind, but I was up for the challenge.

The Island Links at Aquarina, located on South A1A in Melbourne Beach, just north of the Sebastian Inlet, fit the bill nicely. The course sits with the Atlantic Ocean on the east and the Indian River Lagoon on the west. If ever a course can be windy and tricky, this may be it.

Designed by my late friend, Charles Ankrom, the course opened in 1996. Of all the courses he designed, this is probably one of which he was most proud. The challenges presented by the sand dunes, the salt air, the wetlands and more made designing Aquarina difficult. Some of the innovative ideas he came up with won him awards from his peers.

Closed for more than a year, the development's home owners' association purchased the club and reopened it the day after Christmas in 2009.

Located on the barrier island and adjacent to the Indian River Lagoon State Preserve, the course features an abundance of wildlife including bobcats, horned owls, turtles, alligators and even an occasional Florida panther.

GOLF JAMES STAMMER

Most golfers wouldn't consider a course that plays to a par of 62, measuring just over 4,300 yards from the tips, to be a true test of golf. Ankrom, however, was a master of finding ways other than length to defend a course, yet make it fun, playable and fair for all.

The course follows the natural lay of the land with undulating greens and fairways. There are a couple of wetlands that require you to carry your ball to the green or to the fairway from the tee. The 14th and 15th holes feature a set of tees that won an award. Here you face a tee shot from a dock-style tee over the wetlands. A bit of advice here: when on the 14th tee, aim just to the left of the fairway bunker that you see. Anything right of that may find trouble.

Aquarina starts off with a straight-forward, no frills par-4. From there it's onto a couple of par-3s, followed by a pair of tricky par-4s. The front nine ends with a lovely par-3, measuring 158 yards from the back tees.

The tees tend to be hidden in the trees, shielding you from the wind. This forces you to pay careful attention to the flag and the tops of the trees to figure out what the wind is really doing and make your club selection accordingly.

Since the course cannot defend itself with length, the greens' complexes are quite challenging. Proper placement of your tee shot on the par-4s is paramount to having a good angle at the green. Otherwise you risk a difficult chip, pitch or sand shot should you miss your target.

The back nine starts off with a par-4 that requires two precise shots. The 11th hole is my favorite par-3 on the course. Measuring 181 yards from the back tees, it requires a confidant tee shot. Depending on the wind and pin location, you could find yourself playing as much as two clubs extra or less from the tee.

Sixteen is a very tough mid-length par-3. With water and sand guarding the green, and a hurting wind, you need to select the right club and make a good swing. Eighteen is the longest hole on the course and probably has the largest green and the widest fairway.

While the course doesn't have any par-5s, the eight par-4s and 10 par-3s will challenge your skills. After my round, I ran through my shots and found that I hit all but two clubs in my bag.

To find out more about the renewed and improving

Island Links at Aquarina, call the pro shop at (321) 676-8923 or visit the website www.islandlinksgolf.com. Summer rates are in effect and a better value for your money may be difficult to find.

A couple of quick pointers before you head out to experience the course for yourself. Bring along a few extra balls, there are some water hazards and mangrove hammocks that will eat those stray shots. Also, bring along your best bug spray. The same mangroves that will eat your golf ball, also house some very hungry mosquitoes.
