Library's adult section to close for renovations

The adult section of the Daytona Beach Regional Library-City Island, 105 E. Magnolia Ave., closed Monday, Sept. 24, and will be closed until Monday, Oct. 15, as workers replace the floor covering and paint the walls.

During the downtime, the children's section will remain open and some adult computers, DVDs and new adult books will be moved into the children's auditorium. Patrons will be able to pick up their

Volusia school enrollment comes in below expectations

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

The students keep disappearing. Volusia County Schools did its annual 20-day count on Monday, Sept. 17, and didn't count near as many students as it hoped.

The count helps determine how much money Volusia schools will receive from the state and federal governments. The fewer the students, the less the state and federal dollars.

The district counted 61,124 children and youths in its schools and programs. That's down 512 students from last school year's 20-day count. Saralee Morrisey, planning director, said she'll have an analysis ready for the Volusia County School Board by its Oct. 23 meeting. After last year's 20-day count, the district predicted student declines, which started in August, 2007, were stopping, making this year's drop especially disappointing.

"I still think a lot of it has to do with jobs and foreclosures," Ms. Morrisey said. "So far it appears to be the economy and people leaving the area."

Between the 2010-11 school year and 2011-12, the district had lost only about 50 students. It was expecting to lose about 500 between those school years. In May 2007, just over 64,000 students attended Volusia's public schools. The projection at the time was the county's public schools would have more than 70,000 students by now.

Ms. Morrisey said the district has about 18,850 high school students, and 14,200 middle schoolers. There are slightly more than 25,500 elementary students. The district's 10 charter schools, hybrid private schools that operate with funding from the district, have nearly 2,000 students. Those students are part of the 20-day count, as are those in alternative education programs, such as the Department of Juvenile Justice Educational Program. Also in the count are 125 students in the district's online schooling program, VolusiaVirtual.

There's one grade that's making student gains. "We're up in kindergarten," Ms. Morrisey said.

She said there are 4,601 kinder-

Commission adopts 2012-13 tax rate, budget

By Richard Mundy
For Hometown News

The Ormond Beach City Commission voted unanimously to approve millage rates for the coming year and adopted the budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The millage, or property tax rate, was approved at $4.0123 per $1,000 of taxable value of property. This is not considered a tax increase under state law as it is a rolled back rate. Added to that rate are three General Obligation Bond amounts, approved by previous referendum, totaling $0.313. The total budget is about $72.8 million.

Mayor Ed Kelley had previously stated that 65 percent of the city's revenue comes from residences. During the past week he showed several citizens, who protested the rate at the previous commission meeting, what their actual tax would be, and in all cases it was lower under the new rate.

Commissioner Troy Kent lauded the mayor's efforts in helping to sell the tax rate to residents. "I want to publicly praise Mayor Kelley for his diligence in getting the correct figures to demonstrate that those citizens' property tax actually went down compared to last year."

Historic Daytona Kress building has new owners

By Erika Webb
For Hometown News

On a recent breezy Tuesday, the changing angle of the sun promised fall. Light played on the Halifax River in front of the Daytona Beach Kress Building on Beach Street. The four-story structure is situated as though standing sentry over the skyward-jutting Broadway Bridge.

Heidi S. Webb's law office is on the fourth floor. Behind her desk, just to the right of her computer, is a how-does-she-get-any-work-done view. Ms. Webb said she and her husband, David, were thrilled at the opportunity to buy the Kress building from longtime owner Mac Smith, to whom she gives complete credit for the building's upkeep and ongoing appeal. The Webbs took over in August.

"Onsite ownership is what makes us different, someone who really cares about it," Ms. Webb said. "It is a great building, full of eclectic people. We have everything from a hair salon to attorneys and even a medium."

The Webbs have just completed construction on Work Webb, the fourth-floor "shared office space" they feel will offer solutions to small-business owners in the community. "There is a communal work area with individual desks and wireless internet, semi-private offices with two desks, and a conference room with video conferencing and Whiteboard," Ms. Webb said. "It's all overlooking the Halifax River so it should really impress clients."

The idea behind Work Webb is that small or home-based businesses will have access to updated amenities and a professional atmosphere without high monthly overhead. Prices range from $25 for a "day pass" to $299 a month for "all access."

In December 1938, at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 39th Street in New York City, holiday shoppers were mesmerized by Giorgione's Allendale Nativity, which was on display at the popular discount store known as Kress.

S. H. Kress & Co. 5-10-25 Cent stores, established in 1896 by Samuel H. Kress, purveyed "affordable, durable and cheerful domestic merchandise," according to the website kresslegacy.org. "Designed to exacting company standards, the chain of stores were cherished not only for their quality merchandise, but also as prominent local landmarks."

Back then stores beckoned, and the website touts

the downtown Kress stores as "celebrated beacons of prosperity and progress, exemplars of urban art and sources of municipal pride".

Outside, golden letters spelled out Kress, and curved glass display windows led shoppers through heavy bronze doors into an interior with a wow factor — rich marbles, fine woods and large customized counters. There were 4,725 inexpensive items on display.

The "flagship" store in New York City was one of 50 Art Deco buildings — heralded as the most distinctive and best remembered of the 221 Kress stores — designed by the company's longtime chief architect, Edward F. Sibbert. His polished constructs, lavishly ornamented with terracotta, reportedly modernized and streamlined the Kress image.

Constantly restocked merchandise, "gracious" retiring rooms and a basement soda fountain encouraged customers to linger in the store, a popular destination during hard economic times.

But the seven-story structure in New York City was demolished in 1980.

Built in 1932, The Daytona Beach Kress Building was added to the U.S. National Registry of Historic Places in 1983. Though completely renovated, the building still boasts the original curved-glass windows as well as the marble, wood, detailed tray ceilings and terracotta accents that contributed to Mr. Kress's dream of making each store a gift of civic art to its community.

Today there are 45 suites in the 28,000-square-foot building at 140 S. Beach St. Some are combined to provide more space. Ms. Webb said occupancy is 80 percent.

"Each floor has something for everyone," she said. "The first and second floors have the exposed brick and tray ceilings, and the third and fourth floors are completely updated and refurbished."

Tenants in the building since 2009, Mr. and Mrs. Webb enjoyed the cohesive atmosphere and were compelled to become permanent fixtures in the downtown landmark.

"They're happy people, and we have some real long-term, old-Daytona people in here," she said. "It just has such a family feel. Everybody knows everybody and they're all cooperative. That's the norm in here for everybody."

Award-winning Zgraph Web Design and Marketing occupy half of the first floor and have been tenants for nearly 13 years. Lasseter Appraisal and Daytona Beach Racing District have each been there for nearly 20 years. Many others have been in place for close to a decade. Volusia County Growth Management has an office on the third floor and the building is home to the Mary McLeod Bethune Educational Legacy Foundation

Heidi and David Webb stand in front of their business located in the Kress building on Beach Street in Daytona Beach recently.

Inc., founded in 2002 by Ms. Bethune's granddaughter, Dr. Evelyn Bethune.

Eclectic indeed. The Webbs recently hosted an open house in the building and Ms. Webb shared her culinary skills with tenants and community members.

In addition to estate planning, preparing wills, creating trusts, and managing the Kress building, Ms. Webb and a friend own Gourmet Girls Catering.

"I would say I'm divided pretty equally in thirds as far as jobs go," she said.

Back downstairs, dime store merchandise has long since been replaced. Artist Paul Baliker's driftwood sculptures of dolphin, smaller fish and birds are on display behind the curved glass. Their dramatic emergence from a rough and weathered element demonstrate how the rudimentary can become extraordinary with a little vision.

And with hard times afoot, a little majesty goes a long way.

Words that make me see red

In order to be a writer you must enjoy words and their descriptive qualities.

Thinking of a new way to say the same old thing is always difficult, but is fun when you do accomplish it. As I have said many times, I consider myself more of a storyteller than a writer and try to relate my tales to you as if we were both sitting on the porch enjoying a tall glass of iced tea.

Often, I will type my column just the way I think it and when I am finished, I am surprised to find that a good portion has turned red. It seems the spell-check feature on my computer does not understand the colloquialisms of a country boy.

Here, I will list a few words that cause my machine to blush. Some will be foreign to you and others you will know but I may have assigned them different meanings.

“Bacturn” is the act of screwing a lid on a jar in the opposite direction in order to get the threads to line up.

“Tipsy” is when you have had so many cocktails with your dinner that you over tip the nasty waitress that you didn't care for an hour ago.

“Heaphappy” is when the check engine light on your old car goes out on its own.

“Dootyfoot” is when you go out in the dark for the morning paper and discover that a dog has visited your yard.

“Puckerpuess” is the face you make as you taste milk that is past its expiration date.

“Flubalyric” is what you do while singing along to the car radio (best done alone).

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

“Brownthumb” is your talent to kill a perfectly healthy plant in two weeks.

“Mcsmile” is when you discover one more French fry in the bottom of the bag.

“Crapshout” is when you hit your thumb with a hammer.

“Olataalk” is when you have had so many drinks at the Mexican restaurant you now believe you can speak Spanish. (This is always accomplished by adding “o” to any English word.)

“Creamsmile” happens when you have been relegated to a life of drinking fat-free milk and someone slips you a glass of 2 percent.

“Vacutorture” is running the vacuum cleaner only to aggravate your cat.

“Roachoflage” is when you try to convince company the quarter pound insect that just scampered across the floor is a palmetto bug.

“Poxferlife” is what you wish on the neighbor who lets their dog go in your yard. (See Dootyfoot.)

“Fruitgrin” is when you bite into a plum and it is red on the inside.

“Rotinhell” is what you wish on the fellow who invented the slippery toilet paper you sometimes find in public restrooms.

“Greattaseeya” is what you say to an old high school chum who you have not seen in 30 years and they look older than you.

“Sniffright” is the act of whiffing any foreign object found on the carpet.

“Johnblues” is when there is nothing to read in the toilet.

“Shiftyfoot” is what you do while you wait for someone to check out a month of groceries in the 15 items or less line.

“Alienshout” is when you talk louder to someone who cannot speak English.

“Dropsqueeze” is how you clamp down on the gasoline pump after it has stopped.

“Newjohnson” is what your mechanic calls to say your car needs as soon as you get home from dropping it off.

“Beachvolleyballeye” is when you are so ashamed of the inane program you are watching on TV that you must change the channel as soon as anyone enters the room.

“Eurospot” is when you go to the beach and see an old guy in a Speedo wearing knee-high black dress socks with sandals.

Last, but not least, is the very dangerous “clotheslie.” That happens when you tell your wife the dress she has picked out looks nice just because you are tired of waiting.

Well, sure enough, most of this column is red. Feel free to use these words to suit your own circumstances, but be careful. Words are nothing to play with.

Dan Smith is on the board of directors for the Ormond Beach Historical Society, The Motor Racing Heritage Association and is the author of a fishing book.

However, Commissioner Kent wasn't so agreeable on the city's contracts for fluoride supply. He raised a number of concerns concerning the purchase of certain chemicals, including those used in the fluoridation of the city's water supply.

It was ultimately decided to retain an outside party to perform an initial batch analysis of the chemicals in question at time of delivery, most specifically hydrofluorosilicic acid, more commonly known as fluoride, and make it mandatory that suppliers of chemicals present a document upon delivery showing the chemical makeup, including contaminants.

It was observed that the amount of fluoride present in the water supply is being tested three times a day but the original makeup of the chemical itself, including contaminants, was not analyzed anywhere at any time during the process.

Celeste Philip, acting director of the Volusia County Health Department, quoted the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention that declared “... fluoride is one of the top 10 greatest health achievements in the past century.”

But Alan Burton, chairman of the Volusia Soil and Water Conservation District stated that by putting fluoride in the drinking supply the city was in essence “medicating” its citizens. “If you're going to medicate me, get my consent first,” Mr. Burton said.

At the crux of the resolution was a 1957 referendum approving the use of fluoride in the drinking supply. The feeling among most of the commissioners was the only way to overturn that decision was to have another referendum and let the citizens decide what they wanted.

Also in the meeting, commissioners approved a resolution recommending to the Florida Public Service Commission, the oversight agency for Florida Power and Light, to allow an “opt out” choice to customers of FPL regarding “Smart Meters.”

VCHD launches new health survey

The Volusia County Health Department is launching a new health information survey and needs help from the community to make the project successful. The purpose of the survey is to get opinions about community health issues that impact local families in the county. The results will be used to identify major health concerns to be addressed through community action.

"Hearing our residents' opinions on their health and the health care system in Volusia is very important for us and our community partners to meet their health needs," said Assistant Director for Public Health Celeste Philip. "Every opinion is important as we strive to improve the health of our community."

To participate in this important 10-minute online survey, visit www.volusia-health.com.

This survey will be open until Sept 28.

Prescription drug take back planned

The Daytona Beach Police Department will participate in the National Prescription Drug Take Back Day from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 29.

Organized by the Drug Enforcement Agency in conjunction with state and local law enforcement, National Prescription Take Back Day is an opportunity to dispose of unused and unwanted prescription drugs.

The Daytona Beach Police Department will have two drop off locations:

Headquarters, 129 Valor Blvd.,

Beachside Precinct, 510 Harvey St.

The Drug Enforcement Agency will then properly dispose of the medication, which protects Florida's water supply, environment and animals.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. More than 7 million Americans abuse prescription drugs, according to the 2009 Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's National Survey on Drug Use and Health. In addition, every day, on average, 2,500 teens use them to get high for the first time, according to the Partnership for a Drug-Free America. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet.

Other participants in this initiative include the Partnership for a Drug-Free America; the International Association of Chiefs of Police; the National Association of Attorneys General; the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy; the Federation of State Medical Boards; and the National District Attorneys Association. For more information, visit www.NationalTake-BackDay.com.

ECHO Ranger program offered in Ormond Beach

The ECHO Ranger Program "Afternoons in Ormond" will be at 1:45 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, at the Anderson-Price Memorial Building, 42 N. Beach St. Ormond Beach.

Girls and boys who sign up to become ECHO Rangers may visit scheduled program sites throughout Volusia County to learn about community resources. ECHO Ranger sites include local parks, museums and historical sites.

The program is designed for schoolchildren, home-schoolers, Boy and Girl Scouts, religious groups and others in grades 1-5. The cost is $20 per child per season. Entry fees to all sites for the ECHO Ranger candidate and one adult are included in the $20 fee.

The Ormond Beach program will offer three sites on Saturday, Sept. 29. Activities begin in the morning and continue through the early afternoon. Included are The Casements, former home of John D. Rockefeller, the Ormond Memorial Art Museum and Gardens and the Anderson-Price Memorial Building, home to the Ormond Beach Historical Society.

For more information, call (386) 668-3840 or (386) 677-7005. For more information go to the ECHO Ranger website, www.debaryhall/ranger, or www.ormondhistory.org.

Lecture series covers the Everglades

The Ormond Beach Historical Society will host its Discover Our History Lecture Series at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, at the Anderson-Price Memorial Building, 42 N. Beach St. Ormond Beach.

The topic will be "Unusual Tales of the Everglades."

by James "Zach" Zacharias, curator of history, Daytona Beach Museum of Arts & Sciences.

Participants will learn how people lived, worked, and died in the Everglades, America's largest wetlands. Unusual stories emerging from this wilderness show the determination of the human spirit. Hear about building the Tamiami Trail, Al Capone's hideout, the Third Seminole War, the 117-year-old "Hermit of Panther Island," the secret nuclear launch base and other fascinating tales of life in the Everglades.

Refreshments will begin at 9:30 a.m. Admission and parking is free. For more information call (386) 677-7005, or click on www.OrmondHistory.org.

garteners. Last year there were about 4,450.

Ms. Morrisey said while student declines cost a district state and federal funding, it has little chance to reduce costs proportionately. Student enrollment drops are unevenly distributed.

"Our biggest loss is in the elementary level," Ms. Morrisey said. "Southwest [Volusia] continues to be a concern. We have declines elsewhere, too."

Liquidation Sale

Systems up to 60% off retail while supplies last

Thanks to each and every one of you, our scratch and dent sale went so well that the manufacturers have extended the discounts for 300 additional systems. We have agreed to purchase this equipment and pass the huge savings on to you. That's right, scratch and dent prices for new, in the box, undamaged systems with full factory 10 year warranties (Lifetime warranties on select equipment). Don't be misled by other ads selling low prices on no name non-heat pump equipment, and telling you to find your own licensed contractor to install it for you. This will only lead to warranty confusion, frustration and in the end your cost will be much higher than you expected. Purchase your equipment from Certified, it's installed by Certified, the warranty is serviced by Certified. We are a BBB accredited business, Angie's List Super Service Award winner for 2011, Trane Comfort Specialist and an Amana A+ dealer. Below is the list of the systems available and the installed price*, don't wait this sale is first come first serve.

Give peace a chance

Concerning the anti-Islam movie, I am proud of our U.S.A. protesters who, without violence or killings, are getting their message across. The filmmaker and preacher in Gainesville should be fined and deported to the Middle East to be judged. They should not be allowed to defame the United States image of peace in the world. Don't bite the hand that helps you.

What was the point?

I am glad the railroad work on South Nova Road is finally done, but I am curious as to what they actually accomplished. That crossing is 10 times worse than when they started on it. Maybe they were trying to make a big speed bump out of it. If so, they did a good job. Otherwise, it was a waste of time, money and resources.

A different perspective

May I point out a different perspective concerning the weenie wagon at Tom Renick Park. I have been around this area long enough to remember the sandlot, a known beach area where only locals and surfers hung out. Then some politicians decided to spend nearly a million dollars to pave paradise at our beloved sand lot.

Gone are the days when you could actually bird watch and enjoy the spot in peace. Now, there is litter and cigarette butts, and some sadistic playground planner placed a loud bell for children to ring. No longer can I hop in the car after mowing the lawn and have a place to park for a quick swim. The parking lot is now full of strangers, out of state tags and a food truck. No wonder there is a parking issue. People are going out to lunch where it should be beach parking only.

One last word, to visitors of any beach, the world is not your ashtray. Please stop littering. It is bad for the wildlife and yourself.

Housing needed

I am a fulltime resident and worker of New Smyrna Beach. I think the apartments on North Causeway are a good idea.

I really don't care what the people who can afford to live in Orlando and come here whenever they choose think. I would like my kids and others who are struggling to pay rent to have a place to live that they can afford.

I don't care about more condos. They are not needed. Affordable housing is needed. Keeping the beachside where I live the way it is, is important. New families trying to raise their family on the beachside are struggling with high rent, no dogs and now they only want nonsmokers. I raised my kids here and I would like them to live here, too.

What is the plan?

I would like to ask the New Smyrna Beach City Planning Manager, just what exactly is the plan?

Many of us in New Smyrna Beach are dismayed at the development we see more super Walmarts, more Crack-

The Children's Home Society, North Coastal Division, presented a Lifetime Achievement Award to Barbara Wolfson, left, of Ormond Beach, director of Very Special Arts of Flagler/Volusia. She has worked with children of special needs for more than 40 years including director of Very Special Arts Volusia for 20 years. Through festivals, talent nights and celebrations, students and adults with developmental disabilities and other challenges can participate in, learn through and enjoy the arts. Among those honoring Mrs. Wolfson were her husband, Steve, and State Sen. Evelyn Lynn of Ormond Beach, who is ending her legislative career Nov. 6. The award was given Sept. 15 at Puttin' on the Ritz at the Plaza Resort and Spa, Daytona Beach.

er Barrels, more land and habitat cleared for another McDonalds, more boat ramps, where we will be filling in more wetlands, to put more boats in our already polluted Intracoastal waterway.

Now, a high-density apartment complex on 14 waterfront acres, with the increased pollution into the wetlands there.

Many of us see the urbanization of New Smyrna Beach taking place, being done by our own "planning commission." Don't they have any other ideas? Can't they think outside of the big box? Have they been to any other cities that have done this successfully? How about Greenville, S.C., where they developed a beautiful riverfront park that runs through the city, and a street filled with good restaurants and shops. How about the cities in Hawaii, each one with a central park area with shade trees and grassy areas to relax and enjoy the natural beauty?

The only park areas we have are our big beach. The rest of the town seems like it's being paved over. Many elderly people cannot go sit on the beach, it's too hot. How about a tree-shaded park on the 14 acres? Some running trails? How about a Botanical Garden in our city, to showcase our spectacular flora of Florida? Why is there not a biologist who consults with the planning commission? Why would we take our natural beauty here, which is part of the draw of tourists and wreck it. How do we get rid of the planning commission and get a new one?

Response from Pam Brangaccio, New Smyrna Beach city manager:

No. 1: There is an approved State Road 44 City Overlay Plan for land use and zoning, that was worked on over the last 10 years with the very active participation of county and city residents and officials from both the city and county, as it was recognized some time ago that annexation and development of the S.R. 44 Corridor would occur. At the present time, FDOT is also finally doing a S.R. 44 Corridor Study which addresses transportation concerns as well.

No. 2: With regard to park lands, in the last two years the City has worked with Volusia County to access ECHO grant monies (City General Fund and County ECHO funding) to purchase two new park properties, 40 acres located at Pioneer Trail and Otter Boulevard; and a beachside parcel located on South Atlantic, between Flagler and Third Avenues, which will provide public parking and pedestrian access to the beach as well. In addition, the city's CRA has funded more than $2.5 million in the last three years to construct Esther Street Park; as well as renovate Flagler Beach Park.

No. 3: With regard to the North

Causeway, both private developments under review have been requested to construct a public sidewalk along the waterfront to maintain public access and connect to the city's pedestrian trail on North Causeway. The city has also obtained a grant for $1 million to construct a 2.2-mile pedestrian trail along a utility easement from Mission Road to Sugar Mill. There is an ongoing commitment from the city, when opportunities are presented, to seek grant partnerships to attain as much parkland, and pedestrian access as possible for the future.

Is littering legal?

When did it become legal to litter in Central Florida? About once or twice a week, I have to pick up a lunch baggie out of my driveway with a rock in it and some dumb ad. I am fed up with cleaning up other people's trash. First, it's the people throwing their drinks and bottles out the window and now, I have to throw away these idiotic ads? Trust me when I say I get an ad like this, whether it is Avon, lawn work, window repair, vehicle repair or computer repair, they go straight to the trash, right after the business name goes on my never do business with these people. Not creative at all, just more garbage I am being forced to clean up.

Twisting ovation

I read the article about Chubby Checker appearing in DeLand on Oct. 11. I will be out of town or I would have a front row seat. I hope this event is standing room only.

I had the pleasure of attending his show at the Volusia County Fair last November. He put on a great performance and was very personable with his audience. His actions after the show is what really impressed me.

I had the pleasure of helping with the assistance of the veterans attending from the Emory L. Bennett Veterans Nursing Home. A Florida Highway Patrol officer escorted them to the front of the line of souvenir purchasers and autograph seekers. Words cannot express the humility, patience, and respect Chubby Checker showed our veterans. He took the time to talk and listen to each and every one of them. They were so thrilled. He ranked tops in my book that day, and still is, and I am still awed by the reverence he showed them.

Thank you for letting me extend some praise where it is due.

Saving education

What's our problem? America's public school system is collapsing and we the people are simply allowing its fall? I keep hearing about strengthening the middle class but if America's public school system fails, that task will remain impossible to achieve. Years ago I dreamt up "E Cubed Alliance — Expecting Educational Excellence" and have even given it its own Facebook page, yet I'm not seeing the public's fire that's required for my dream to become reality.

Please help preserve America's preservative — our schools — by forming "E Cubed Alliance — Expecting Educational Excellence" and uniting on its Facebook page.

Persistent unemployment problematic

The persistent problem of unemployment didn't go away in August in Volusia County.

While the unemployment rate dropped to 9.1 percent from 9.5 percent in July and 11 percent in August 2011, the cause was people dropping out of the workforce, figures from the state labor department show. The workforce was at 251,640 in August compared to 253,995 the previous month and 257,350 a year ago. The number of employed workers hasn't changed that much. It was at 228,658 in August, 229,965 in July and 229,049 in August 2011.

The non-agricultural jobs survey wasn't too good either. The county was down 2,800 jobs from a year ago with much of the loss in retail and business services.

Of course, these are all estimates. Actual numbers for the first quarter will be out soon with the Census of Employment and Wages, which is based on employer reports filed with unemployment insurance payments. While that's a little dated now, we can compare to the actual numbers to the estimates.

VOLUSIA BUSINESS

One of the more surprising developments popped up recently. CBL & Associates, owner of Volusia Mall and The Pavilion at Port Orange, is teaming with property owner Consolidated Inns to demolish the Ramada Inn Speedway and replace it with two restaurant buildings.

CBL isn't sharing what the restaurants will be at this point, the permitting process just began, but my guess is a Bonefish Grill and Texas Roadhouse. My guess is based on the fact that those are two restaurant chains that are expanding. With the Ramada Inn gone, the other lodging properties in the area around Daytona International Speedway definitely will fill up during race weeks.

After a mostly quiet summer, Brown & Brown Inc. has gotten back on the acquisitions trail, buying Texas General Security Insurance, which is a fairly large operation with $5.8 million in annual revenue. The move not only expands Brown & Brown's presence in Texas, but also its wholesale insurance division.

O'Reilly Auto Parts apparently plans to hit Volusia County hard. It already is planning to put a store where the old Quincy's restaurant was near the intersection of Nova Road and West ISB in Daytona Beach. Now it has bought a site for a store in DeLand, which will be on North Spring Garden Avenue, just south of Plymouth Avenue.

A couple of projects are moving forward. Mullinax Ford is seeking approval of a storm water drainage system for a new dealership facility at State Road 44 and Colony Park Road in New Smyrna Beach. Racetrac has bought the land for its newest store - at Deltona Village. The company paid $1.6 million for the property.

Reddy Ice has begun work on replacing its building in New Smyrna Beach that was destroyed in an explosion in May. Apparently neither bankruptcy nor explosions can melt this business.

D.R. Horton must think the number of available cheap foreclosed houses on the market in Deltona is dwindling. The company paid $384,900 for 18 lots in the Live Oaks Estates subdivision off Doyle Road. Home building has picked up in Deltona. There were only 19 homes built there in 2011. Through July, 24 houses have already been started in the city.

Associate Managing Editor Cecil G. Brumley has been tracking business in Volusia County for more than 15 years. Contact him at cbrumley@hometownnewsol.com or follow him on Twitter @cecilbrumley.

65 Million

65,000,000... That's the number of people in the US who suffer from low back or neck pain. Many of these people suffer needlessly.

Bill Labonte's Office in Ormond Beach, FL receives inquiries about his new non surgical treatment for herniated, bulging and degenerated discs from all over the nation. As a result, he has one non surgical disc machine for lower back pain and second one to treat neck, arm and hand pain from disc problems in the neck.

If you are suffering with SERIOUS neck pain or hand or arm pain caused by a bulging, herniated or degenerated disc, pay attention. This may be the most important article read this year!

Do You Have A Disc Problem?

If you experience any of the following, chances are your pain is due to a disc bulge, herniation or degeneration:

- Tight muscles in your neck
- Turning your Head causes neck pain
- Shooting pain in arms or hands
- Migraine Headaches
- Numbness in your arms, hands or fingers
- Fire down your arms
- Prickling in your hands
- Weak hand or wrist muscles

Finally Some Good News!

We can help if you have been suffering with neck pain, arm or hand pain caused by a bulging disc, disc herniation or squashed or compressed discs.

Until recently, the only advice for many of you suffering in pain was to try what you've been told:

- Try exercising or physical therapy
- Try physical therapy
- Try pain medication
- Try pain shots
- Try back surgery
- Just live with it

Caution! Decompression is DIFFERENT than old time traction or hanging upside down or inversion machines which can make your muscles squeeze the discs even harder!

If you like most, none of these have worked for you. Exercise hurts, pain medications and muscle relaxers cover up the problem and cause side effects.

Pain shots cause more pain, don't work or last very long and don't FIX the problem. Or maybe back surgery didn't work, worked but didn't last or even made it worse.

Whatever your situation, you owe it to yourself to check into this Breakthrough

Computerized Non-Surgical Treatment for back pain and sciatic or leg pain caused by a bulging, herniated or squashed disc or discs. It has helped hundreds of people who were suffering just like you.

How Do Discs Go Bad?

Over time the discs in your back tend to get squashed or compressed, especially if you've played certain sports when younger or have a job that requires lots of sitting or standing in one place for long periods of time. Car accidents, or heavy or repeated lifting.

It's kinda like a cookie with cream filling, and the cream filling will start to ooze out from between the sides of the cookie if pressure is applied on top of the cookie (like gravity on our spine).

Eventually this happens to a lot of us. Statistics show over 80% of Americans will suffer with back pain sometime in their life.

How Does This Machine Work?

The computerized decompression machine gently pulls you apart, stretches the disc to a certain point that causes a drop in pressure inside the disc (like a little vacuum pulling the disc back into proper placement).

In my clinic, I've treated hundreds of patients with non surgical spinal decompression with great results so there should be no reason your back pain should be any different.

Most serious Back Pain Sufferers Are Very Skeptical Of This New Procedure, As Skeptical As I Was When I Purchased My First Decompression Machine, So If You Are Skeptical ...See What Some Of Our Patients Have Had to Say About Our Program:

When I came in to see you I had been to several doctors. They were not helping and I was taking lots of pain pills and muscle relaxers. Before the treatment I would get out of bed and fall to the ground. I was in very severe pain. I was slow to react to the DRX9000 treatment, but I stayed with it. Today I feel great. No more pain or pain pills. I want to thank all of the staff at Dr. Labonte's. They are awesome.

Lisa F, Ormond Beach

I have gone from waking up 4 times in the night with pain radiating down my right arm and numbness, to sleeping through the night and waking with no pain or numbness in my right arm. The whole staff has treated me so wonderful, They have all been there to listen and do anything possible to help me get well and on the road to recovery from cervical disc bulging. I am so pleased that I have found this treatment center and am very happy with the wonderful service and medical help from the whole staff. You couldn't find a better group of people that provide excellent care and are some of the nicest people I have met. I would definitely recommend them to anyone who has neck pain or disc pain.

Candy B, Ormond Beach

Within less than halfway through the treatments, my major neck discomfort ceased. The experience from the front desk, the technicians, and the doctor were extremely friendly, caring and professional. I highly recommend Dr. Labonte's Team.

Robert T, Ormond Beach

My experience at Dr. Labonte's office has greatly improved my quality of life. The DXR9000 protocol for a herniated disc worked for me. After 6 weeks of treatments my back was better than before I injured it.

Dan N, Ormond Beach

Dr. Labonte and his staff exude an upbeat and caring concern for each patient. I was treated as a person and not just a number. Thanks to Dr. Labonte, his staff and the DXR9000 my quality of life been restored to what it was 11 years ago. I am looking forward to resuming the active lifestyle I used to enjoy. I can not emphasize how fantastic I feel. I heartily recommend the decompression treatment. All I can say to Dr. Labonte and his staff is thank you for the concern and extraordinary patient care you gave me during the treatments

Healthcare costs drive entrepreneur to a new idea

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

DAYTONA BEACH — Jeremy Durfee was paying a pretty penny for health insurance, and didn't feel he was getting much in return.

When he talked about his medical-dollars conundrum, he found out he wasn't the only one with crazy stories about healthcare costs.

"I told my wife, 'What is going on?'" he said. "We're paying $15,000, $17,000 a year for medical insurance, and we're still paying for everything."

The longtime entrepreneur did what made sense to him; he hatched a business idea — membership-based primary healthcare centers stretching across the nation. Now he's one of about a dozen upstarts at the University of Central Florida's Business Incubator at the Daytona Beach International Airport, 601 Innovation Way. He's launching Healthy You Medical and Wellness Centers from there.

Jeremy Durfee was frustrated by spending money on health insurance and feeling like his family wasn't benefiting from it. He's starting Healthy You Medical and Wellness Centers at the University of Central Florida's Business Incubator at the Daytona Beach International Airport.

"Healthy You Medical and Wellness is a primary-care and wellness center we'll be opening all over the United States with a focus on preventative maintenance and wellness services," he said.

On board as the chief operating officer is Angela Franceschi. She said her medical career has repeatedly shown healthcare is often far more expensive than it needs to be, because too often cost-conscious people are getting treated on the backend of problems. That's the time expensive surgeries and medications are needed, instead of less costly treatment options.

"I've been a nurse for 25 years, and do consulting now," Ms. Franceschi said. "We truly believe — the team Jeremy pulled together — we have a very deep feeling and agreement that it's not acceptable these days and age in these United States for someone not to have healthcare. It's baloney."

Mr. Durfee had what he called "very good insurance" when he was working in the Washington D.C. area. That was a big help when his 9-year-old daughter, Jules, was born. Then the family moved to Florida in 2004, got an insurance policy that was supposed to help cover pregnancy, and son James was born. He's 6 now. He was large, so doctors opted for additional medical assistance to deliver him. The Durfee's price tag for the pregnancy?

"I believe close to $17,000," Mr. Durfee said. Later came his wife's, Jamie's, routine operation for a medical condition not related to her pregnancy.

"We paid for the whole surgery," Mr. Durfee said. It was about $25,000.

Followed less than a week later by a letter from the insurance company.

"I got a letter from my insurance company that said, 'To better serve you, we're raising your rates to $20,000,'" he said. "I said, 'What? You haven't paid for anything.'"

Sheer economics forced the family into an uncomfortable choice. They had to drop the medical insurance and seek alternatives. Mr. Durfee called doctors' offices and negotiated prices before visits, but still ended up with medical sticker shock when he got bills.

Mr. Durfee said Healthy You will be affordable to members because it'll give them predictable costs and focus on the services that prevent bigger medical bills down the line. It's all built around his experiences.

"When we looked at what we used and needed, it was primary care, as a young family," he said.

Healthy You is still raising capital and plans to open its first centers in California and Texas the first quarter of next year. Mr. Durfee believes it will spread rapidly from there.

"Our goal, within five to seven years, is to be the largest provider of primary healthcare and wellness in the United States," he said.

If successful, that'll translate locally into Volusia County jobs.

"Our immediate impact would be between 10 and 30, and that could grow over time as we scale the company," he said. "Most of those jobs would be more than $50,000 [a year]."

The business incubator celebrated its first anniversary recently. In 2010 the Volusia County Council approved $1.4 million to renovate a 10,000-square-foot facility to house it. Additionally, the county gave the university $750,000 to run it for three years.

"The business incubator is a place to start a company," Doris "Connie" Bernal, site manager said. "The entrants have a lot of resources to work with here. They have professionals who help them with a number of areas."

Healthy You recently celebrated its first anniversary at the Incubator. It moved in September of last year. Mr. Durfee said the Incubator has been a big help to the company he started in 2009.

"We've met business experts," Mr. Durfee said. "We've met funding people. To have the endorsement of the UCF gives us credibility in what we're trying to do."

Owners' ardor for 'Vettes never runs out of fuel

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

DELAND— In 1967 and 1968, Larry Skinner was a young soldier in Vietnam. He was there for the Tet Offensive, one of the war's most violent episodes. The 69-year-old knows what got him home — Corvettes. He spent his days in Vietnam picturing getting home and driving one.

Mr. Skinner is a founding member of the Volusia County Corvette Association, whose members' favorite possession will be seen a lot in high school homecoming parades over the next 30 days.

Mr. Skinner spends his days driving Ol' Leaky, a red, 1975 convertible Stingray. The latest of many Corvettes Mr. Skinner has owned since he got home from the Vietnam War at the age of 25.

"It's been a string of them," he said. "I've had several through the years."

The whole Ol' Leaky thing comes with a humorous story about a car show, heavy rain and improper weather sealing. That problem's fixed now, but Ol' Leaky stuck.

The Corvette association started in February, 2009. Chuck Powers, president, was tired of driving to Orlando to meet with other Corvette aficionados at the Central Florida Corvette Association. He struck a deal with Sterling Chevrolet to host a meeting to see if other Vette owners wanted a local club.

"It just seemed like a long way to go," he said. "A couple members of that club helped me out quite a bit getting this one started."

The meeting night hit, and Mr. Powers was in for a surprise.

"We started with 44 members, and now we have 35, 36 paid members," he said.

Mr. Powers drives around in a red, convertible '87 these days. He used to own a brown 1985, but other club members teased him mercilessly about red being the right color for a Corvette.

"I got that car in 2004, when I first came to Florida," he said. "I call it root beer brown. It looked like the old root beer barrels."

Both men relocated from Michigan, home of General Motors, the maker of the legendary car that's captured people's imaginations since it was introduced in 1953. That year only a few hundred Vettes were made. But, the two-seater powerhouses had an innovation that grabbed attention — fiberglass. The body was made of it then, and that remained a hallmark of its decedents since.

"It's the only real sports car made in America," Mr. Powers said. "And it's the only car made of fiberglass, and they haven't waivered from that since they first started in 1953."

The club full of convertibles will be providing rides in homecoming parades for at least four area high schools this year. The club charges $25 a car in each parade. One school requested 17. That money is going into the club's charity fund.

"We support Parker's Pals in DeLand," Mr. Powers said. "We also help the Neighborhood Center in DeLand, and the Family Book Store. They send free books to service members serving overseas."

Additionally, when club members haven't been showing off their rides at area car shows, they got together to rebuild a Jeep Cherokee and gave it to a struggling Ormond Beach family.

Mr. Powers, 69, remembers the moment he decided to buy a Corvette.

"It was 1962. He said, 'A buddy I was going to school with, his dad was a big shot at GM, and I got to ride in one. I said, 'I'm going own one before I die.'"

Mr. Skinner wasn't quite as sure when he first got the Corvette bug. He said he just loves cars — all kinds of cars. But he'd decided long ago that he was going to own a C3, or third generation Corvette.

"I particularly like the '75," he said. "A lot of people say the curves and shape is like a woman."

The Corvette Mr. Skinner bought about five years ago was...well, Mr. Powers generously described it as a "basket case." It needed a complete teardown and rebuild, including a paint job. Mr. Skinner did it all himself — his way.

"These guys that do it correctly, every screw has to be just so," he said. "That gets extremely expensive. By the time you're done, it's too expensive to drive. I wanted to drive it."

Volusia County cold cases coming alive on the Internet

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

Carol Lynn Sullivan moved quietly to Osteen from Longwood in July 1978. Then she mysteriously disappeared from her school-bus stop about two months later. Carol Lynn was a small girl, an inch shy of five feet tall. The Deltona Junior High eighth grader was only 80 pounds and she hadn't had much time to make friends at her new school.

As the 34th anniversary of her disappearance on Sept. 20, 1978, passed, Volusia County Sheriff's Investigator Chuck Lee, was still working on Carol Lynn's case. One of several for which he and volunteers have been putting information about on the Internet.

In Carol Lynn's case, it's a murder he's investigating, not a missing person.

The grisly discovery of a skull in a rusted paint can about three miles from Carol Lynn's home crushed hopes that she was alive. That was on Oct. 2, 1978, less than a month after the girl's disappearance. At the time, it didn't seem the skull could be Carol Lynn's. But, on Nov. 9, 1978, area newspapers reported then Volusia County Sheriff Ed Duff announced it was.

Investigator Lee doesn't care that 34 years have passed. He has an 8 by 10 photograph of Carol Lynn's skull — probably the last picture of the young girl. Her empty sockets look forward demanding justice.

"Any time a human life is taken off this earth, it's a tragedy to every family member and friend they had," he said.

Investigator Lee works in a time warp, in a world where people had never heard of smart phones, or the Internet. It's a world where folks listened to records or cassette players, and cops knew nothing about getting DNA samples. He's the Sheriff's Office's new fulltime cold case investigator, and spends his days going behind a heavy wooden door into a large storage room at the back of another storage room. There's one key in the world to open that door and he keeps it close to his chest.

Inside that special evidence room, behind a plastic shroud, are shelves of mostly uniform cardboard boxes. Inside them are the results of investigations that haven't resulted in prosecutions yet. Before Investigator Lee, so-called cold cases easily slid to the background as new murders that required thousands of investigators' hours came up. In March, Sgt. Patrick Thoman, major case supervisor, asked Investigator Lee to dive into the 40 or so unsolved missing persons and murder cases.

"Historically these cases get pushed aside," the sergeant said. "We've assigned one investigator. His primary assignment is to work cold cases."

Investigator Lee has help from two volunteers. Both are retired Volusia County Sheriff's investigators. Sgt. Thoman said one worked Carol Lynn's case in the '70s.

The sergeant has his own experience with an unsolved murder. He was one of the first two deputies to see Laralee Spear after her murder on April 25, 1994.

When the 15-year-old DeLand High student got off the school bus that Monday afternoon, she joined the sad union of youthful murder victims whose killers have gone unprosecuted. When she didn't get home at her usual time, Laralee's mother, Barbara Spear, quickly called 911. Deputies found her daughter about 90 minutes after the call. Her bullet-riddled body was heart-wrenchingly close to home.

The killing rocked Volusia

County. Laralee's murder epitomized random and senseless crime. By all accounts, Laralee was a kindly and popular girl. She didn't use drugs or alcohol. She wasn't a runaway. Laralee wasn't rebellious. She studied hard and sang at church. Laralee was the all-American girl who had watched "The Sound of Music" with her sister, Virginia, the day before she was killed.

The quick find of the crime scene seemed to ensure Laralee's killer wouldn't escape.

"I think modern technology will help us in this case," Sgt. Thoman said. "If this case is solved before the end of my career, I'll be a happy man."

Carol Lynn's bus stop was at the corner of Doyle Road and Courtland Boulevard, about 100 yards from the family's home. There were no other students at that stop.

At about 7 a.m. the day she disappeared, Carol Lynn left for school without her mother, Joanne Sullivan. Her mom told police she wanted to go with her and wait for the bus as she did every other morning. However, the mother told police and press, Carol Lynn talked her out of it with the words, "Mom, I'm growing up. Nothing's going to bother me."

The year before Carol Lynn's murder, Angela Ramsey went missing in DeLand. The 17-year-old ran away from her South Carolina home and befriended a worker at the Boulevard Motel. With his help, she stayed there for a couple days, then disappeared. All of her belongings were left in the motel room. The Sheriff's Office is still trying to find her.

The Sheriff's Office recently got a DNA sample from Angela's mother to add to a database at the national Center of Missing and Exploited Children. The department, like thousands of others, submits samples of unidentified bodies to the University of North Texas, which has created a database of their DNA.

Volusia has seven open investigations of unidentified murder victims.

Investigator Lee said unsolved cases all have something in common. They all have witnesses.

"People know what has happened," he said. "Everybody knows something. It can be a morsel or the whole big story of what occurred."

The investigator and volunteers are meticulously turning old pieces of browning case notes into modern electronic files. Soon, he said, dozens of the unsolved cases will be added to others already on the Volusia County Sheriff's website: volusia.org/sheriff.

Investigator Lee expects some will come off the site within a few years as the Sheriff's Office names suspects and prosecutions begin. After all, someone recently shared new information with law enforcement about the murders of Harold and Bonnie Butler, a Daytona Beach couple killed in 1957. The Sheriff's Office is investigating.

Anyone with information about these or other unsolved crimes, can call Crime Stoppers of Northeast Florida at (888) 277-8477.

BIOMETRIC PALM PRINTS

The FBI developed a brand new 1.2 billion dollar identification database called:

Next Generation Identification (NGI)

Its purpose is to hold and process both Fingerprints and Palm prints

Over 40% of prints left at a scene are Palm Prints

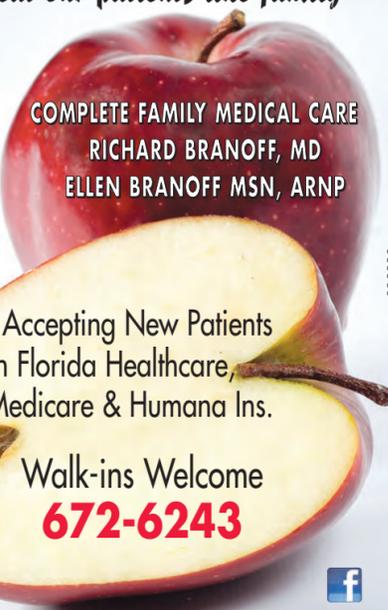

There are few, if any, places a parent can go to get their child's FBI Certified Biometric Palm Prints. So don't miss this rare and free opportunity!

FBI certified means that the Palm and Finger Printing equipment that we use for our events have been tested and meet, or exceed, the FBI's high standards.

Family Days coming next week

By Michael Salerno
For Hometown News

PORT ORANGE – It's been a local tradition for the last 16 years, offering free and low-cost family fun.

Now, as Port Orange Family Days prepares for its 17th event — once a small community block party, now a four-day festival — Jill Geddy, Executive Director of the Family Days Community Trust, believes this year's event will be "our best year ever."

"We've got great support from the community," Ms. Geddy said. "Our Community Expo sold out quickly so a lot of people are interested in being here. We're thinking we're going to have a great event."

Booths for the Community Expo, which features around 300 local businesses and organizations on the Saturday and Sunday of the festival, sold out before the end of July, a record for Family Days.

"We sold out the last six or seven years," Ms. Geddy said. "But never that early."

New to this year's Family Days is the Food Truck Bazaar, a traveling convoy of Orlando-area gourmet food trucks. The trucks will come to City Center Circle on Thursday, Oct.
4, from 5 to 8 p.m., the same night a car show and school band concert will take place.

Ms. Geddy said the food trucks proved very popular on their first visit to Port Orange earlier in the year.

"We had a small version at our Spring Fair and it was well received, so we're bringing that to Family Days for the first time," she said.

According to TheDailyCity.com, which promotes the Food Truck Bazaar, 15 trucks are scheduled to appear at Family Days, including Cafe Rouge, Yum Yum Cupcake
Truck, Twisted Cuban, Firehouse
BBQ, Ice Cream Social Club and New Smyrna Beach-based Cafe Heavenly.

Also new this year is Family Days Star Search, a talent show that will take place Saturday, Oct. 6, at the Kenneth W. Parker Amphitheater from 7 to 9 p.m. Ms. Geddy said the show will feature 12 participants from the Central Florida area that were pared down from YouTube auditions.

"Talent lurks everywhere, and Family Days is showcasing some of

Week of 9-28-2012

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Aries, relaxing for a few days seems like the perfect idea, but restlessness will ultimately thwart these plans. Engage in low-energy activities, instead.

TAURUS - April 21-May 21

Taurus, you might find it difficult to ask for what you desire, but you just have to buckle down and make a stand. It may not be easy, but your efforts will prove fruitful.

GEMINI - May 22-Jun 21

Gemini, you are in your element this week and the good vibes will last for several days.
There's no pressure to get things done, so keep on sailing.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Cancer, it may seem like a good idea to retreat to a fantasy world when the going gets tough, but you'll need to have your feet and mind firmly planted in reality this week.

LEO - July 23-Aug. 23

Leo, it is good to be optimistic, but it also helps to develop a plan in case things don't go your way. Ask a friend or family member for help when devising your plan.

VIRGO - Aug. 24-Sept. 22

Virgo, concentration comes naturally to you, so don't worry if some extra work at the office is presented at the last minute. Ask a coworker for help, if necessary.

LIBRA - Sept.23-Oct. 23

You are eager to listen and learn, Libra, but you also want to share your own experiences. This week you will need to find a balance between being a student and a teacher.

SCORPIO - Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Scorpio, think things through before making big decisions.
There is some pressure on you, but concentrate and focus on the task at hand.

One amazing cake enjoyed by many

Hello smart shoppers. The holidays are around the corner, so I must repeat this amazing cake for special occasions in both the original and the low-fat version.

I found the recipe in a magazine when I was a teenager. It was so intriguing I saved it. Years later I made it for my father's birthday. The fact that he didn't like cake in any shape or form didn't enter the picture.

My granddaughter Christy, another one who doesn't like cake, requested it for her birthday. She was forewarned and promised she would eat it, which she did.

This cake is a project, but for a special occasion, you can just count on the applause.

This cake is large and can't be changed; leftovers freeze great. You can cut the fat and cholesterol if you use my recipe for a fat- and cholesterol-free cake and by substituting low-fat or fat-free whipped topping for the heavy cream.

I will repeat the recipe for a fat and cholesterol free cake for those of you who missed it and then go onto the recipe in its original form.

FAT- AND CHOLESTEROL-FREE CAKE

When using a cake mix, substitute applesauce for the oil, egg substitute or egg whites for the eggs, adding one extra white and 1 tsp. flour. Add water as package directs. Spray pans with cooking spray.

END OF THE RAINBOW CAKE

2 packages white cake mix

ROMANCING THE STOVE

with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

- Food coloring (optional)
- 3/4-cup canned crushed pineapple, well-drained
- 1/2-teaspoon almond extract
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1/2-cup finely chopped pistachio nuts
- 1/2-cup apricot preserves, slightly beaten
- 1/2-cup raspberry preserves
- 1 quart heavy whipping cream OR 8 cups frozen whipped topping*
- 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

NOTE: I prepare all of the whipped cream mixtures first and then layer the cake.

Day before: In two 8-inch by 8-inch by 2-inch square pans or two 8-inch round pans, bake 1 package cake mix as package directs. Repeat. Refrigerate four cooled, wrapped cakes.

Early next day: If you're using heavy whipping cream, whip half the cream (2 cups). Heavy cream doubles when whipped, giving you 4 cups. Refrigerate remaining cream.

1. With long sharp knife, split each of 3 cakes, making 6 layers. On large, low cake plate, place one of the split layers, cut side up.

2. With yellow color, tint pineapple pale yellow; then fold in one fourth of the whipped cream. Spread mixture on split layer; top with second split layer, cut side up.

3. With red color, brighten raspberry jam; fold in one fourth of the whipped cream. Spread on second layer; top with third split layer cut side up.

4. With green color, tint one fourth of whipped cream pale green. Fold in almond extract, granulated sugar and nuts. Spread on third layer; top with fourth split layer, cut side up.

5. With yellow color, brighten apricot preserves; fold in rest of the cream. Spread on fourth layer; top with fifth split layer cut side down. (Use rest of cake elsewhere).

6. Refrigerate cake for at least 2 hours to set.

7. Whip remaining 2 cups of cream, adding confectioner's sugar.

Frost top and sides of cake, refrigerate until serving time. This cake is so tall you will need dinner plates to serve it. An electric knife cuts it best.

Decorate cake as you choose. I used fresh cut, washed flowers from the garden. Remember, the flowers are to decorate, not to eat, just to look at.

WHIPPED CREAM

Whipped cream is extremely tricky to catch it just right before it turns to butter. Use 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar to 2 cups heavy whipping cream. Use a high narrow bowl. Chill bowl and beaters.

Using an electric mixer, beat at high speed until frothy. Add sugar and continue beating, watching the cream very carefully. It will start to thicken. Continue beating, scraping bowl occasionally. The cream is whipped when it starts to have a slight "break-up" look. (Over-beating by just a few seconds will suddenly turn it into butter. It will become a mass with water around it.)

This makes enough to frost two 8- to 9- inch layers.

Imagination House co-founder to speak at Stetson

Jonathan Barr, co-founder of The Imagination House, a full-service, creative production company, based in Orlando, will present a special lecture at Stetson University 8:30-9:30 a.m., Tuesday, Oct. 2, in Presser Hall, Room 132.

The event is free and open to the public.

Mr. Barr's presentation will focus on entrepreneurial skills needed to thrive in an ever-changing entertainment industry and his path to enormous success since leaving the academic environment.

The Imagination House was co-founded by Mr. Barr, who was a former music composition major at Stetson in the early '90s.

For more information on the Oct. 2 lecture, contact the Office of Career Development at (386) 822-7383, or visit stetson.edu/career-development.

FUTURES receives $30,000 grant

FUTURES Foundation for Volusia County Schools received a $30,000 contribution from Progress Energy for the "FUTURES Mini-Grant Program and Volusia County Schools Energy Project."

The Mini-Grant program will provide science grants for classroom teachers. The Energy Project will focus on the student's study of alternative energy costs to transfer energy and the conversion of energy.

FUTURES Foundation is a nonprofit, direct-funding organization founded to support Volusia County Schools. The organization's board of directors consists of business and community leaders who raise funds for needed programs, for which tax money is not available, in the public schools.

Daytona State's SGA presents Candidate Day 2012

Daytona State College's Student Government Association presents Candidate Day 2012 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 3, at the Daytona Beach Campus, 1200 W. international Speedway Blvd., in The Landing, Education Hall/Building 200.

The event provides a public forum for the season's political candidates, bringing timely political discussion to college and university students and the general public, while raising awareness of civic-minded participation.

Invited candidates and their representatives are in these political races: president of the United States; U.S. Senate; U.S. House districts 6 and 7; Florida State Senate districts 6, 8 and 10; Florida House of Representatives districts 24, 25 and 27; Volusia County Council, chair race and districts 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; City of Daytona Beach mayor's race, and city commission ones 1, 4 and 6. Other candidates are welcome to attend as well.

The event is free and open to the public.

For more information, call (386) 506-3385.

AMVETS to conduct Americanism contests

The National AMVETS is holding its "Americanism Contest" for youth.

This contest is open to all students in public and private schools, and home schooled students.

The contest consists of a "Flag Drawing Contest" for kindergarten and first grade students; a "Poster Drawing Contest" and a short 50 word or less explanation of the poster for children in grades two through five; and an essay contest for students in sixth through 12th grades.

This year's essay theme is "Why is It Important To Vote..." for 2012-2013.

The deadline for national submission is Dec. 1. Submissions will have to be post-marked by this date to be considered. Drop them off at AMVETS Post 911 or mail to 5624 S. Ridgewood Ave. Port Orange, FL 32129

DSC building dedication honors longtime donor

A building that houses Daytona State College's education programs has a new name in honor of a longtime donor whose trust fund will ultimately give the college one of the largest gifts in its history.

Building 200 on the Daytona Beach Campus was named the George C. Nunamann Hall during a dedication ceremony recently. Over the past 10 years, Nunamann's trust has donated more than $750,000 to the Daytona State College Foundation in support of student scholarships, helping 650 students to date.

Ultimately, it will provide the foundation $3.5 million when fully conveyed, Daytona State President Carol W. Eaton announced during the dedication.

District Board of Trustees Chairman Dwight Lewis said the Nunamann Trust's gift is especially timely in light of the current recession and budget cuts that have forced public colleges to make do with less, while maintaining their mission of providing access to education for all who can benefit.

A longtime New York banker and investor, Mr. Nunamann retired to Daytona Beach, where for 27 years he enjoyed the climate and relaxed pace of life. In 1984, he established the trust and named members of his family its beneficiaries. He also designated Daytona State College as the beneficiary once the trust's designated family members passed away, stipulating the college establish the George C. Nunamann Scholarship Fund to pay the tuition of students based on their academic performance and financial need.

Nunamann's surviving nephew, Stephen B. Dietz Jr., was recognized during the dedication ceremony and participated in the unveiling of the building's new name.

For more information, contact the Foundation, (386) 506-3195 or foundation@daytonastate.edu.

New registrar at Stetson named

Kristina Brantley, assistant registrar at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, has been named university registrar at Stetson University.

Ms. Brantley will join Stetson effective Oct. 15, leading important initiatives in collaborating the university's comprehensive strategic enrollment and student success efforts. She will lead a team overseeing all aspects of student academic record management and integrity.

With more than 20 years experience in higher education in the registrar and enrollment management fields, Ms. Brantley also worked in residential life at the start of her career. She has served at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville since 2009. Before that, she held positions at the University of Georgia, Davidson College, the University of North Carolina at Asheville and Belmont Abbey College.

Ms. Brantley earned a Master of Education in Higher Education Administration from the University of Georgia and her undergraduate degree from Mars Hill College, where she majored in psychology and minored in music.

Stetson University named Military Friendly School

Stetson University with campuses in DeLand, Celebration and Gulfport, Fla., has been named among 2013 Military Friendly Schools.

The 2013 Military Friendly Schools list honors the top 15 percent of colleges, universities and trade schools in the country that are doing the most to embrace America's military service members, veterans, and spouses as students and ensure their success on campus.

A full story and detailed list of 2013 Military Friendly Schools will be highlighted in the annual G.I. Jobs Guide to Military Friendly Schools, distributed in print and digital format to hundreds of thousands of active and former military personnel in early October.

Embry-Riddle's aerospace program named best in nation

For the 13th consecutive year, the Best Colleges guidebook published by U.S. News & World Report ranks Embry-Riddle's undergraduate aerospace engineering program No. 1 in the nation and has named Embry-Riddle No. 13 out of 128 Southern universities granting mainly bachelor's and master's degrees.

Highlights of the rankings of more than 1,600 accredited four-year schools in the United States are posted at www.usnews.com/colleges. The 2013 Best Colleges guidebook is now on newsstands and can be ordered at 1-800-836-6397 or usnews.com/usnews/store/college_compass.htm.

Also of note, this year's Best Colleges guide named Embry-Riddle's Daytona Beach campus No. 13 in the category of "Best Regional Universities (South)," a ranking of 128 institutions that grant primarily bachelor's and master's degrees. This marks the 11th straight year that Embry-Riddle has placed among the top 25 schools in this category.

our neighbors who can sing, dance, play instruments, stack cups and the like," said Family Days president John E. Evans, who will emcee the event.

Three judges — jazz singer Linda Cole, musician and radio broadcaster Alan Rock, and entertainment reporter Allison Walker — will narrow down the field from 12 to four, and the audience will act as "the other judge" with Family Days staff using audio measurements to determine the audience's reaction to each of the top four performers. The top four will split $2,500 in cash prizes, with the first place winner receiving $1,000.

The Family Days carnival, open all four days of the event, will feature an opening night special of $1 rides on Thursday and wristbands for time-specific access to the carnival on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with a $5 discount offered Sunday with a coupon from the Family Days website, familydays.com.

The Family Days Parade will start at 10 a.m. Saturday

Handcyclists roll into Volusia County this weekend

By Patrick McCallister
For Hometown News

Dozens of world-class handcyclists will be in the area for the second annual Rims on the Run, Saturday, Sept. 29, and Sunday, Sept. 30 Spring Garden Ranch in DeLeon Springs. Event organizers expect 2012 Paralympics gold medalist Matt Updike to compete, and possibly other Paralympians.

New Smyrna Beach handcyclist Mike Sprouse, executive director of the Central Florida Paralyzed Veterans of America, said handcycling has gone the distance in the last few years and local cycling fans will enjoy watching the competition.

"It's an adaptive cycling sport for someone with spinal-cord injuries, or disease, or an amputee," he said.

Handcycles are recumbent three-wheel cycles propelled by arms and hands, rather than legs and feet. Manufacturers, such as Invacare, produce handcycles with slight variations to accommodate riders' different seating needs. A bilateral amputee, such as handcycling rising star Joe Beimfohr, must sit upright, whereas someone with a spinal-cord injury would usually lie supine.

Rims on the Run is a U.S. Handcycling Federation sanctioned event. Port Orange's Scott Rimmer, 44, is the founder and organizer.

"Last year was the first year, and it was very successful," he said. It drew 32 competitors from across the nation.

Handcycling has grown in popularity in recent years due, in part, to a large number of service members getting injured in operations Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom. The Department of Veterans Affairs and Paralyzed Veterans of America has promoted the sport through events, such as the National Veterans Wheelchair Games in Tampa next July.

Mr. Sprouse, 52, was paralyzed in a bulldozer accident after serving in the Marine Corps in the 1980s. He started the sport in 2003 as a form of continuing rehabilitation and exercise. His wife, Peggy, also has a spinal-cord injury, and both ride competitively. Mr. Sprouse said back in 2003, conventional cyclists greeted handcyclers with a patronizing attitude. That's changed, he said, as handcyclers purchased respect with the one commodity cyclists trade in — speed.

"Handcycling is growing so fast that we're competing in a lot of conventional cycling events now," he said. "They were astonished at how fast some of these bikes are."

Mr. Rimmer served in the Naval Hospital Corps from 1988 to 1992. He broke his neck in a motorcycle accident in 2003, leaving him quadriplegic. While he's lost some use in his hands, he can still use his arms.

"Life goes on," he said. "You can sit around and feel sorry for yourself or you can take control of the situation. I've never been a sedentary person. Even though I sit in a chair, I'm always on the go doing something."

Mr. Rimmer has competed in events such as the New York Marathon, which has a category for handcyclists. He said a busy work schedule keeps him from training for the Paralympics. He aims, instead, to promote handcycling and other adaptive sports, such as wheelchair rugby, which is also called murderball.

"(Handcycling) is growing immensely," he said. "When I first started riding around the neighborhood, people were very inquisitive. I had people say, 'Hey, I'd like to ride it,' and they come back and say, 'Man, my arms are sore.' It's not as easy as it looks. My legs don't move, and I'm not using the strongest muscles in my body to propel (the handcycle)."

Rims on the Run will launch at Spring Garden Ranch Rd., at 9 a.m. Saturday with riders doing time trials. At 6 p.m., they'll be at the DeLand Industrial Park, 1830 Patterson Ave., for a criterium. After the criteri-um, some riders will head to the Fish House, 310 E. International Speedway Blvd. Mr. Rimmer said they'll meet with fans there, starting around 8 p.m. On Sunday, riders will be back at the Spring Garden Ranch for a road race. That'll start at 8 a.m.

Rims on the Run is co-sponsored by Brooks Rehabilitation Hospital of Jacksonville and Plan B Cycling of Port Orange.

Sometimes it's not easy being a mullet around a flounder

Out in the predawn recently to wade the Halifax, I caught a great morning and as I stepped into the warm water I knew the slight breeze would be just enough to keep the blood-sucking gnats at bay. With first light, I looked across the wide bay to see mullet everywhere. Thousands of baby mullet swimming with the outgoing tide toward Ponce Inlet. For a while, I stood just to watch and enjoy. There is no more valuable fish to inshore fisherman than mullet. Everything we like to catch preys on the prolific mullet. The sight was truly astounding and just seeing so many baitfish in the water gave me hope for my fishing future. Soon, my reverie was interrupted by the splashing of feeding fish that were also enjoying the huge mullet run. Jacks, ladyfish, sea trout and who knows what else were having a mullet breakfast. At one point, I saw jacks that had to be in the 10- to 15-pound range pushing a wake in the shallow water, their backs fully exposed. The tide was high and had flooded into the marsh grass behind me as I stood about six feet off the bank. Suddenly without warning an explosion happened right in front of me. A jack had burst into a school of mullet that was swimming past and only about four feet in front of me. That sent up a shower of baitfish, some flying into my legs in their frantic jump to escape the predator. I was startled at first to be in the center of such a commotion and in a split second I watched the jack that had hit the mullet streak past me and capture one up against the shore. That was a rare sight, indeed. We often say that nature is happening all around us, but in that instant I had the chance to watch a game fish run down its target and swallow it. Very cool! As the morning progressed, fishing was not so very good for me. With all of the food in the water, the fish were not terribly interested in my hunks of plastic. I did catch a couple of the jacks, but never hooked one of the big boys. Just before I was ready to leave I landed a decent 16-inch flounder. Not a trophy, but a fair keeper. As I looked deep into that gaping mouth on the flounder to try and get my jig out I found myself staring into a pair of eyes. The flounder had only partially swallowed a finger mullet and the little fish was still alive. If you know the anatomy of a flounder, you know that they are not like most fish. They do not have a long hollow body, but only have a small stomach tucked up behind the head. This one had attempted to swallow a six inch mullet, and I suppose the plan is for it to just stay lodged in the flounder's throat while the digestive juices slowly make the mullet go down. As I looked in past all of those sharp teeth the little mullet just looked so forlorn. That's when it began to talk to me. "Say fellow," it said "I know we have just met, but I'm in a bit of a bind here. Do you think you could help a guy out?" OK, it said that with its eyes, but I got the message. At great peril to my own fingers, I timed a grab and pulled the mullet out of the flounder's mouth. Once out, I thought I saw him smile, but maybe not. I put the little mullet in the water, but he was too far-gone. Not wanting to see my new friend suffer I dispatched him and allowed the remains to sink to the bottom. The mullet's misfortune would make the day of a crab or some other bottom forager. Some days I guess it just does not pay to be a mullet. Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.

Women's Symetra Tour wraps up at LPGA

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH – The Symetra Tour, the junior circuit of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, wraps up its season here this weekend with the final round on Sunday. This is the first time the tour's season-ending event will be at LPGA International. The Daytona Beach Invitational is sponsored by Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University and is the last chance for the golfers to reach the top 10 in the money list and exempt status for the 2013 LPGA Tour. The field of 144 players is vying for a total purse of $125,000, tied for the second largest purse this year on the tour and the highest in the event's four-year history. A tournament cut will be made after 36 holes, which should be at the end of Friday weather permitting, to the low 70 scores and ties. All 20 players in the Volvik top-20 rankings were on the event's preliminary roster and will be contending to improve their season earnings one last time. Only $383 dollars currently separate No. 10 Leah Wigger and No. 11 Jaclyn Sweeney. Players in the current top 10 in the Volvik Race for the Card rankings set to play are No. 1 Esther Choe, No. 2 Victoria Elizabeth, No. 3 Paola Moreno, No. 4 Mi Hyang Lee, No. 5 Julia Boland, No. 6 Jenny Suh, No. 7 Jenny Gleason, No. 8 Nicole Smith, No. 9 Sara Brown and No. 10. Leah Wigger. Rankings are subject to change with the conclusion of last week's Vidalia Championship. A golfer from Embry-Riddle is scheduled to compete as well as Moriya Jutanugarn, who won the South Atlantic Ladies Amateur Championship (SALLY) in January at Oceanside County Club in Ormond Beach. General admission for the tournament is $10 per day at the gate. Kids 15 and under are admitted free with a paying adult. For information, go online to SymetraTour.com.

Ryder Cup sits down for chat with longtime golf fan

He's back! One of golf's biggest icons has returned. No, not him. I'm speaking of my dear friend, Ryder Cup.

After a European team victory at Celtic Manor in Wales in the last Ryder Cup matches, my old friend has spent the past two years traveling Europe. This weekend he is back here in the United States, at Medinah Country Club outside Chicago for the 2012 Ryder Cup matches.

I caught RC just before his scheduled daily massage and shining. After him spending so much time across the pond, we had a lot to talk about.

As I sat down with him, the grin plastered on his face was hard to ignore. He loves the spotlight that these matches put on the game and the fellowship it promotes. He reminded me that he loves these matches, but longs for the days when sportsmanship and camaraderie were the rule of the day.

"Truthfully, I'm tired of the 'war on the shore' talk we've been hearing for weeks now," he said. "The way everyone was treated that year saddened me. And now they plan to replay it all week before the matches begin. I guess Golf Channel wants to provide the Euros with some bulletin board material."

I asked him what he thought of the captains' picks and of Davis Love III, our U.S. captain, passing on a couple of players.

"I'd do what the king did," he said with a twinkle in his eye. "Arnie told everyone 'If you want to make the team, finish in the top-12.' That's how I'd do it. Either that or let the captain pick all 12 players. Now that could be interesting."

"I can also understand a few players feeling left out," he added. "Poor Hunter Mahan, the man won the match play this year! And Bo van Pelt was playing so well. I'm a bit miffed."

Did the victory in Wales by the European team surprise you at all? I mean the European team had some big players, but the U.S. team had that emotional win two years before.

"I think being the underdog was great for the lads," said RC. "They didn't have too much pressure and I truly think they caught the U.S. lads at just the right time."

You mean with Mickelson, Mahan, Watson and Furyk, the top-four U.S. players, combining to win just three points the entire weekend? They certainly didn't help

Captain Pavin.

"They played well enough; they just ran into a few guys who wanted to show the world they can play great golf. Ricky Fowler was fun to watch. That reminds me, do they sell those fancy orange outfits at the mall? I think I'd look quite spiffy in that. "I think Pavin did fine. It was his wife who messed things up," RC continued, shaking his head. "She insisted on having their rain suits embroidered. Doesn't she know that thousands of needles punching holes in a rain suit simply made them screen doors?"

Are you hoping to spend the next couple of years back here in the states?

"Honestly? I am a bit tired of sitting over there in Europe. I love it in Palm Beach. The women shave their legs before putting on a bikini, the Cuban food is fantastic and there is so much great golf right in the area. I can also play golf without two sweaters, a jacket and a bonnet. I will miss the Guinness, though."

What do you have planned for the week before the matches begin?

"My good friend Wanna-maker (the PGA Championship trophy) and I have a lot of catching up. He's throwing a big party for all the big-name trophies. Do you have any idea how much of the hard stuff that clubhouse from the Masters can put away? We may even invite the new kid, FedEx Cup. Maybe with enough liquor in him, he'll explain how that silly scoring system works.

"I'm also going to work on my tan and find a few cigars. Unless I can find Michael Jordan, I may be on my own in that regard."

RC, thank you so much for your time. We'll have to tee it up again some day soon.

"Thank you, it was my pleasure. And to all of our readers, I must say thank you for caring so deeply about our great game and the Ryder Cup. Remember to keep the spirit of the game in your hearts and a pint in your pocket."
