Corporate headquarters takes a step downtown

By Diane M. Carey
dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Brown and Brown new corporate headquarters took another step as the Daytona Beach Planning Board members gave unanimous support to the company's request to rezone 14 acres of land in the 300 block of North Beach Street to a planned development.

The request, made on behalf of Brown & Brown by attorney Robert A. Merrell III, already received unanimous approval by the Daytona Beach Downtown Redevelopment Board Aug. 7. A majority vote by the planning board was needed to send the measure to the City Commission.

Reed Berger, city redevelopment director, said the area was always slated for developing something significant.

The planned development includes removing 10 historic live oaks, but replacing them with larger trees, Mr. Berger said. It also allows for large signage. There were two neighborhood meetings on this particular project.

"This is a first class, 10-story office building with roughly 37 million taxable improvements, it's a world headquarters, and one that will be adding an estimated 625 jobs," he said. "The total includes the folks who are already here locally working, that's 900 jobs to be on this campus."

Brown & Brown also is acting as a catalyst to attract more businesses.

Mr. Berger noted a number of other companies are considering coming to downtown Daytona Beach to be a part of the live, work and play destination mentality.

Board member Jeff Hurt stated property prices are already increasing downtown with just the idea the company is coming. He noted other already

Schools move closer to allowing medical marijuana

By Gina McKee
gmckee@hometownnewsol.com

Zoe's Policy is one step closer to approval by the Volusia County School Board.

"I commend the board for trying and thinking of putting a policy in place. It's very courageous," said J.J. Adams of Edgewater, whose daughter, Zoe, suffers from a terminal illness and benefits from the use of medical marijuana. "About four months ago I went to a funeral home to prepare for my daughter's passing. No man should have to do that … but that's the reality we are facing. It's inevitable."

His daughter's quality of life has improved in the last four months with the use of medical marijuana, Mr. Adams told school board members at the regular meeting Sept. 25 in DeLand.

"Instead of declining, her life is getting drastically better because of this," he said. "You guys could lead this fight out of Central Florida. You could be the third school system in the state to do this."

Board members unanimously voted to advertise a potential policy, with three amendments to the draft and on the condition of a special name change.

Proposed Policy 2018-218 is now Zoe's Policy, and, the unanimous vote to advertise suggests school board members intend to make Volusia County the third district in the state to allow caregivers to administer medical marijuana to qualified students on school grounds.

New business helps pizza shops

By Diane M. Carey
dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Ryan Paiva and some friends wanted some pizza one night and wound up getting a great business idea delivered.

Mr. Paiva and his co-founders created Pizzamico, which translates to "pizza friend."

Their company works with restaurants around Central Florida, and virtually anywhere, on online branding and website management.

Pizzamico offers website design free with free continual upgrades and ongoing management with no monthly contract. The only cost to business owners is Pizzamico retains a small percentage on each online order. Websites can be launched in as little as 48 hours.

The goal of the company is to promote and help local restaurants, and the better they do, the more successful Pizzamico becomes.

"About two years ago, Ray, Marc, myself and Hala were working late one night and ordered some pizza from a local pizzeria," Mr. Paiva said. "We ran a web development firm. The manager delivered it himself. He saw we were in a tech place and wanted to learn a little bit more about what we were doing. He came and he said 'we need help. I don't feel like we are keeping up with technology.'

"We did some research and there was no one specializing in pizzerias," he said. "There are a handful of companies building their company brand, but no one is trying to build their (private pizzeria) brand, tell their story, take pictures of their food, really put them out there."

A series of interviews and research began in summer 2016 to determine the feasibility of developing a high-tech system to help one small independent pizza shop (Luigi's, which became Gaetano's) and ultimately others. The staff volunteered at various restaurants earlier this

Sheriff's office rolls out 'Text to 911'

By Gina McKee
gmckee@hometownnewsol.com

Although calling 9-1-1 in an emergency is still the fastest way to get help, a Text to 911 service is now available in Volusia County.

"Anytime you have an emergency, the best and fastest way to get help is calling 9-1-1," said Mike Chitwood, Volusia County Sheriff. "For those who can't make a phone call, the Volusia County Sheriff's Department is rolling out Text to 911."

There are instances where a text message to 911 could be a life-saving alternative.

"Texting during an emergency could be helpful if you are deaf, hearing impaired, have a speech disability, or if a voice call to 911 might be dangerous or impossible," before allowing dispensing of medical marijuana on school grounds.

"The are five areas we have to address: how the medical marijuana will be received by the student, how it will be accounted for, how it will be stored, and establish a process to prevent access by other students," District General Counsel Michael Deyer said, adding the Volusia policy uses the Santa Rosa County policy as a guideline.

The policy allows a parent, who is a caregiver, to have access to the school, to meet privately with their child and to administer it to their child," Mr. Dyer said. "School administrators would not be involved and the medical marijuana would not be stored on school property."

Prior to the vote, board members requested three amendments to the original draft, along with the name change to Zoe's Policy: deleting section III A-1, which stated medical marijuana could not be given on school grounds unless "the marijuana cannot reasonably be administered outside of school hours and off district property; and adding a mandatory five school day notice period to parents of MMJ-prescribed students in the event the policy is suspended.

School board members expressed support for the policy and a measure of pride in doing what they called "the right thing."

"I'm totally in favor of this policy and of us moving forward. I'm really proud of us for doing this," said Board Member Carl Persis. "We could have stuck our head in the sand and said we don't want to deal with any potential fallout, but we are doing the right thing for the right reasons."

established businesses will benefit with more people to order food for lunch, for example.

"This is the beginning of a dream for downtown," Mr. Hurt said. "As this progresses, there will be more and more and more and more of undesirable buildings that are going to come down and we are going to see them replaced with other stuff."

Mr. Merrell said, "This is what needed to happen. We needed something really big. It is going to change everything, not just for that project. It is a beautifully done architectural building. New sidewalks, new pedestrian opportunities, architecture, landscaping, and more. All of the landscaping that we are going to be using will be upsized. Everything will be above the code. We are going to be mitigating way beyond what we are required to do. Leave it to the Browns to one up everybody in every aspect of this."

He estimated the project completion date as July 2020.

Jim Cameron, representing the Daytona Regional Chamber of Commerce, spoke in favor of the project.

"We want to go on record in support of this project," Mr. Cameron said. "This will be a positive change. A 10-story office building in this area will significantly enhance property values. It's already improving the property values in this area."

He also noted Hyatt Brown, company chairman, and his wife, Cici, are donated $15 million to improve Riverfront Park.

In other planning board business, a small-scale comprehensive plan amendment was approved for 3.7 acres of land at 1401 Beville Road for the creation of a 7-11 store. Also, approval was given to modify the building design, add a phasing schedule and extend the timetable for development of the Islamic Center at 825 Derbyshire Road. City Commission approval is still needed.

The Brown and Brown request is tentatively scheduled to be heard by the City Commission for first reading on Oct. 17 and for second reading Nov. 7.

Exploring the deep blue sea

LAND LINES
DAN SMITH

It has long been documented that more than 70 percent of Planet Earth is covered with water.

It is also a well known fact humans have visited only a small percentage of the floors of our vast waterways. That was never so obvious as when a recent government scientific expedition revealed a previously unknown coral reef that sits in a half mile of ocean 162 miles off the coast of Charleston, S.C.

This massive reef is 85 miles in length and has "mountains" as high as 300 feet jutting up from the bottom of the Atlantic. That discovery was made using submersibles and dive teams that explored from Virginia south to Georgia.

The researchers at first believed the peaks in the reef to be rock formations covered in a thin layer of coral, but have now come to understand the undersea mountains are made up entirely of lophelia coral. The sheer size of the thing is amazing enough, but for it to remain undiscovered all these years is unimaginable.

It also is unusual to find such a reef so far from any land mass and makes us wonder how many more reefs are yet to be discovered. It just further demonstrates how little we know about our world.

This story amazes me for as I am writing it I know the federal government is preparing for more exploratory missions into deep space. Wouldn't you think it would make more sense to first try and learn all there is to know about Earth?

Right now Florida's coral reefs are dying at an alarming rate and no one really knows why. Locally our waterways are in terrible shape and steadily declining. There are no answers and no fix in sight. Universities from across the nation have sent teams to investigate what is wrong with our fragile Mosquito Lagoon, but so far the results have been useless.

Those of you who read my fishing columns know I prefer to mostly skip the scientific input and put my trust in the old fishermen when it comes to answering questions about water problems. To my way of thinking, no college degree can match a lifetime on the water.

Not long ago I had the opportunity to speak to a salty elder statesman. Without any prompting from me he began to tell me about the commercial shrimping enterprises that worked the Halifax River in the 1940s and early '50s. He said there had been at least eight companies that shrimped the river daily all year long, but that all came to an end when the big causeway was built at Dunlawton Avenue in Port Orange.

As I have said many times, the flow of our rivers is reduced with each new bridge built. Undoubtedly that is happening right now on Orange Avenue. The state does not force the contractor to haul away all of the excavated material it takes to build those large pilings that hold up the bridge. Each time the tidal flow is restricted. Right now there is polluted runoff in the Halifax that has been trapped there since January. It does not take a degree to see the water is brown instead of a healthy green.

Look, I know that septic tanks, fertilizers and automotive chemicals are a big part of the pollution, but if the rivers were able to send all that out into the Atlantic most of the problem would be solved. The big ocean can handle it much better than our inland waterways.

Whenever you can, please impress upon your elected officials that we would be better served by spending the space exploration money right here on Planet Earth.

year to learn different phases of the pizza making business to become more effective and accurate in their web designs. The company just obtained an official location in Daytona Beach.

Marc Vanja, chief strategic officer, said they decided to figure out (pizza owners) problems from their point of view. They researched 20-30 pizza places in Volusia County. He emphasized how online orders decrease mistakes vs. orders called in by telephone.

"The biggest problem we are able to help them with is keeping up with technology," Mr. Paiva said. "Lots of people offer websites, but not websites that will also handle the online ordering and really promote their brand.

"Most consumers have moved towards placing their orders online," he said. "All these independent restaurants that might be a generation behind on technology are missing out on customers. We are looking to get customers that are going to be loyal to them."

When people go to a website, they will read all about that individual business, not Pizzamico, even though Pizzamico creates and maintains the websites.

"They already have great food, we are just helping them out with the technology," Mr. Paiva said. "The more successful they are, the more successful we will be. Our relationships are built on trust and performance."

Of course, if you look at the fine print at the bottom of the website, you'll see "powered by Pizzamico."

Gaetano's Pizza in Port Orange, Constantine's Pizza House in South Daytona and Pete's Pizza in Daytona Beach are three of the local pizza shops that have engaged the services of Pizzamico.

Raymond Vandenberg, chief technology officer, is working on allowing team members to use the features they have designed for pizzerias for other types of restaurants. The first non-pizza restaurant sites are launching soon and feature restaurants in Volusia County, Georgia and New Jersey. Any restaurant that needs help from Pizzamico can get it, but the company's focus is Central Florida. There are 30 pizza shop locations in Volusia County being served by Pizzamico. Mr. Vandenberg, an original co-founder stated he has been programming since age 12.

Stephen Lawrence, chief marketing officer, said "If they (local business) don't have a google business listing, you are not going to find them. We are helping them get found. There are a number of ways individually or all-encompassing that Pizzamico can help these different restaurants."

Other members of the team are Noble Masters and Eli Sandman, brand managers; Nichole Osinski, chief content officer; and Hala Paiva, chief financial officer.

Cleaning up the streets explained Andrew Gant, VSCO public information officer, in a news release.

For example, if a person is being threatened by someone who is in their home and making a phone call could be overheard, a quick text message could be done more secretively and more safely.

"Texting 911 for help should not be your first move unless it's absolutely necessary," Sheriff Chitwood said. "The simple key to remember is call if you can, text if you can't."

Although text to 911 services are available in Volusia County as well as other counties in the state, there are some areas in the county where the services are not available. In those instances, the user will be notified via return text message, according to information provided by the VCSO.

If you are in an area that will not accept the text message, or if it is temporarily unavailable, a bounce-back message will be sent stating "make a voice call to 911 for help; text to 911 is not available."

Residents can easily discover if their area is a text to 911 coverage area before an emergency situation arises where seconds count.

"Check with your wireless phone company. In general, you must have a text-capable wireless phone and a wireless service subscription or contract with a wireless phone company," Sheriff Chitwood said. "You will need a wireless data plan. Remember, you can make a voice call to 911 using a wireless phone that does not have a service plan, but you cannot send a text message to 911 without a service contract that includes texting."

Residents also may check service coverage areas fcc.gov/files/text-911-master-psap-registryxlsx.

The VCSO offers the following instructions for using text to 911: Enter the numbers "911" in the "To" field; send the message from your wireless device; the first text message to 911 should be brief and contain the location and type of emergency; be prepared to answer questions and follow instructions from the call taker; text in simple words, keep messages brief and concise, and do not use abbreviations.

Also, keep in mind that text location information is not equal to current location technology; that text to 911 is only available in English and translation services are not available; as with all text messages, 911 text messages can take longer to receive, can get out of order or may fail to send; the service is not available if you are roaming; do not send emojis; do not send in a group message; and avoid using slang or social media jargon or abbreviations.

Unknown Suspect

Volusia County sheriff's detectives want to know the identity of a suspect in the armed robbery July 28 at the Asian Gaming Internet Cafe, 800 S. Nova Road, Ormond Beach.

A female employee told deputies a male suspect entered the cafe around 4:04 p.m. and asked for change. The employee went into the office and the suspect followed her. He demanded cash while displaying a black handgun. The suspect then left the business on foot with an unknown amount of cash.

He is described as black, 5 feet, 10 inches to 6 feet tall, 25-35 years old, weighing 170-200 pounds. He was wearing an orange jacket, blue jeans, black sandals with three white stripes, black sunglasses, a do-rag and had a thin beard.

In response to: 'Why work'

Not only Daytona Beach suffers from the chronic panhandling plague.

DeLand has been besieged by these iPhone carrying, always cigarette having, beer guzzling bums as well. They camp on the same median strips, and litter them with mounds and mounds of garbage. They step out into the traffic lanes and stop traffic.

They create a public nuisance and a traffic hazard, and yet the local police will do absolutely nothing as they seem to have more rights than taxpaying motorists do. There are laws on the books regarding the interference with traffic, yet nothing gets done to stop them. What will it take?

Cooler roads prevail

Why is it some of the roads are paved with a light colored asphalt mix and Nova Road was just blacktopped?

Don't the roads get hot enough around here? Is it that much cheaper to pave the road with blacktop? We pay plenty in taxes. Any little thing to cool things off here helps, like shade, lighter colored roadways and select clearing of shade trees during construction. What are these builders thinking of other than profit?

It's time people started to wake up and speak up. It is later than you think, folks say something. Do something. Before it's all blacktopped.

Free the sidewalks

I have been a Port Orange resident for 30 years.

In my neighborhood, there have been three barriers for sidewalks up for over a year and a I am really upset about this. It has been over a year and something should be done about it.

Let karma deal with it

Thank you to the person who hit my truck and put two dents in it.

This is my new truck. This is my pride and joy. You didn't even have the common decency to come see me. Well, all I can say is the Lord knows who did it and karma will take care of you.

Reflection needed

The corner of Hand Avenue and Clyde Morris Boulevard needs help.

I've tried before to find someone to do something about the lighting at that intersection with no results. The biggest problem is driving west on Hand and turning left onto Clyde Morris. It is very difficult to see the side roads, the median on left and the curb on the right, especially for us seniors.

All that is really needed is some reflective paint and/or tape to show the lines. The new construction on LPGA has this tape/paint and works beautifully. How can we get this done at Hand and Clyde Morris?

No so good news

The Hometown News puts on the front page as the headline Daytona airport goes international for the first time in 20 years.

This is good news? I guess it goes along with the uncontrolled growth and construction that is taking place here. Fantastic for the wealthy. Traffic, congestion, litter, pollution and everything else that goes along with unchecked growth for the rest of us.

Someone please explain how this is good for the area and please don't use the minimum wage jobs created as a valid argument. You can work minimum wage anywhere.

Also, now we need to consider who is crossing our borders from the north and what do they bring with them?

Open up the pool

We, as members of the Edgewater Y, are frustrated and disappointed again, as in the past couple of years with regards to the closing of the swimming pool.

It gets closed earlier every year (late September) and then reopens at a later calendar date (late April) in the following year. This is Florida and the swimming pool is actually open for only five to six months and closed for six to seven months with the temperatures in the 80s and 90s.

Management at the Y states that we can go to the Port Orange Y, which is very inconvenient and about 35 miles round trip, as if that's a consolation. We pay the same membership fee as Port Orange Y and Ormond Beach Y members and we have less use of the facility. Their pools are open year-round and heated.

Development finds the back roads

The development in Ormond Beach has gotten way out of control.

Most recently a quiet little back road has come under the assault of clear cutting of trees to make way for more houses or business. Once completed, it will be a thoroughfare for just what we need -- more traffic. Because it is a back road, this scarring of the land is going unnoticed except for the few who use this back road. I am talking about Pineland Trail Road, north of Airport Road.

So many trees have been cut down and so much land cleared they called in logging trucks. It is alarming to see these fully loaded logging trucks lumbering down this once quiet back road.

Soon Ormond Beach will be overpopulated and congested as bad or worse than Daytona Beach or Port Orange. Does anyone want that ?

People need to take action to stem this tide. Elections are coming up and their appear to be candidates who oppose this type of growth. Get informed and choose wisely people or it will be too late. Uncontrolled growth like we are seeing is bad for the people, great for the wealthy who don't give a damn about you or me.

Historic oak trees

Remember when the Hampton Inn was built, the graduate arborist, who was employed by New Smyrna Beach, flagged two or three historic oak trees where the Hampton Inn was to be built.

The building plans showed the building being built with those trees removed, even though they were marked as historic oaks. Shortly thereafter, the arborist resigned and by some quirk those trees were removed. They were not diseased. They were not infected with bugs. They were just removed.

On top of that, the Hampton Inn was suppose to come up with 27 additional parking spaces, which are now located across the street and the city taxpayers pay for that month by month parking lease for the Hampton Inn. Isn't it about time the Hampton Inn pays for those parking spots?

Uplifting presence

Several weeks ago, I found myself in the emergency room with my 95-year-old mother, when I realized I was not going to be able to pick up something I had ordered from Peggy's Whole Foods in Ormond Beach.

I called Peggy's. To my delight, rather than being concerned about me not being able to pick up my order, they asked about my mother and started praying for her right then on the phone. This was wonderful. Even the nurses were impressed.

Kudos to Peggy's Whole Food for being a wonderful and uplifting presence in our town. It was lovely.

In response to: 'Enforce these rules'

I agree with the enforce or eliminate rant.

Some beachgoers, especially on the weekend, ignore the beach rules. Not only do they ignore the rules in the rant, they also bring dogs to the no dog beach and blast loud music on speakers mounted on their vehicles.

I suggest we charge non-residents $150 per beach pass and use the extra money to hire beach patrol officers who will enforce the beach rules.

Get checked now!

October is here and soon we will be inundated with happy images of women in pink, walking 5Ks across the country, to support Breast Cancer Awareness month.

Sadly, one out of eight women will be diagnosed with breast cancer. My sister was one of them. She missed her mammogram for three years due to a change in jobs, and no health care. (Prior to our current health care options.) She got a mammogram at age 49, and died at 55 (she lived longer than the 95th percentile for advanced breast cancer).

I am now 56, and I am her younger sister by three years. Don't walk, run to get checked. No health insurance? Thankfully, there are organizations who provide this service for free.

Another good friend, a marathon runner, vegan, surf-loving girl, did not feel well. She went to her doctor. She had advanced colon cancer. She was 52 years old. She died six months later. Her ashes, along with my sisters', are forever joined.

Breast cancer and colon cancer are highly curable if caught early. Please, get checked. Male or female, young or old, your life matters.

In response to: 'Save the trees'

I agree with saving the live oak trees. The are beautiful when they are pruned.

They also have a large spread root system that can take on any flooding, The roots system keep the soil in place during a flood. They bear the brunt of the wind during a hurricane and have protected my house. In addition, my electric bill is $70 cheaper than my neighbors because I have a large one on the south side of my house.

Live oaks should be planted, not torn down, especially with rising water levels.

Shrink the cards

To all the candidates running for public office, please discontinue your large cards.

Some of us have small mailboxes. Just one little pamphlet is enough. I would appreciate it very much. If you are a worthwhile candidates we know what you did. You don't have to give us portrait cards.

Good management

I wish to compliment the managers of the Winn-Dixie on State Road 44 and Wallace Road in New Smyrna Beach.

They do a fine job of cleaning up the shopping carts. These things do cause a hazard to the carts, so keep up the good work.

Giving back

Everything is easy with a strong economy

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

One of the great features of an area with a strong economy and a hot housing market is the opportunities for redevelopment are almost as good as new development.

It also creates opportunities for a more diverse housing stock, so people have more choices in the type place they want to live. Not everyone wants to own a three-bedroom, two-bath house with an attached garage and two cats in the yard. Some people like mayonnaise on their peanut butter sandwich. I don't judge.

But anyway, in that climate, Capital Apartment Group has acquired the Venetian apartments' site in the 3000 block of South Ridgewood Avenue in South Daytona for $4.5 million and is getting all the permits changed over to its ownership so it can begin construction. The original developer had a great idea, but apparently not the financial strength needed to build the apartment complex. Still, he obviously believes in that area, because he used the money to buy the condo site just up the street and across from Sandy Point Progressive Sports for $1.65 million.

So, how hot is the housing market in Volusia County?

Realtors in the Volusia/Flagler area sold 1,147 existing houses in August, up 14.2 percent from August 2017. The median price, where half sold for more and half for less, was at $213,250, up 7.7 percent. The Realtors sold 334 condos in August, up 3.1 percent from August 2017. The median price was at $214,500, up 7.8 percent.

Builders in Volusia/Flagler obtained permits for 250 new housing units (236 single-family) in August, with 64 percent of the area reporting to the U.S. Census Bureau, compared to 201 (187 single-family) in August 2017 with 70 percent of the area reporting.

So, a lot of people are buying houses, but what about the multi-family market? Well, New England real estate developer and investor Christopher C. Finlay just paid a cool $37 million for the Jade Park (formerly Wood Forest) and Lake Forest apartments on Jimmy Ann Drive in Daytona Beach. That was for just 384 apartments, making the purchase price about $96,000 a unit.

U.S. 1 definitely could use some redevelopment through Volusia County. The City of Port Orange was doing its part with its new Riverwalk Park, which is just down the street from the Venetian apartments. Brown & Brown's plans for a corporate headquarters will push rebuilding in downtown Daytona out to U.S. 1. Ormond Crossings, where Security First Insurance's headquarters is going up, will help that section of U.S. 1. So about three or four years from now, a drive through Volusia will show a much better looking scene along U.S. 1.

Speaking of redevelopment, it is definitely on the upsurge right now. The old restaurant building at Bill France and West International Speedway Boulevard in Daytona Beach is planned for demolition with a Chase Bank building replacing it. Eastport Business Park in Port Orange could get its first new building in years if a plan for U.S. Glass goes through for a 4,500-square-foot structure. Renovations are underway for Lucky's Market in the old Food Lion building on East Granada Boulevard in Ormond Beach. Construction is starting on a Waffle House at 1120 N. Woodland Blvd. in DeLand.

Of course, new development also continues to surge. Work is starting on the roadway and utilities for the second phase of Latitude Margaritaville in Daytona Beach. MI Homes has bought a large number of lots at Riviera Bella in DeBary for about $1.46 million.

On a final note, multi-family development isn't limited to East Volusia, plans were submitted to the St. Johns River Water Management District for the stormwater management system for Integra Dunes apartments on MLK Beltway between DeLand and Orange City.

Avoid financial exploitation!

PLAN STRONGER
DAVID D. HOLLAND

PlanStronger readers, who pay close attention to local print advertising, might already know my public television program, PlanStrongerTV, has just entered a new season.

There are several reasons why the filming of these most recent shows is so exciting: 1. We have a beautiful, new, modern set; 2. The program has an updated format, with shorter segments, audience interaction and more guests; And, 3. The program will now be offered to public broadcasting stations nationwide! To watch one of the new shows, tune in to Channel 15 on Sunday at 7 p.m. (previous seasons' shows will air at 7 p.m. Monday through Friday).

I tell you this as a lead-in to a subject inspired by one of my first guest interviews of the new season. Mr. Don Blandin joined me to talk about a very important topic – investor exploitation. Don is the CEO and president of Investor Protection Trust, a consumer advocacy organization that educates and informs consumers on investing.

Who is vulnerable? Financial exploitation is alive and well. Anyone, at any age, can be a victim, but those especially at risk are over age 65. Why? This age group has the most wealth! Also, scammers are well aware some people may not be as "sharp" as when they were younger. This makes our senior population an appealing target.

When should alarms go off? It's important to know some of the warning signs of a (potentially) bad investment/financial scam. Here are a few questions to ask yourself: 1. Is there a big rush to sell me the investment (is the offer time-sensitive)? Am I being pressured to make a quick decision? 2. Have I been promised a large return – much better than any return from a bank? 3. Am I being told there is no risk involved? If you answered "yes" to any, or all, of these questions, slow down, step back and do some investigative work before making any decisions.

What to do? To help avoid scams, you need to check the background of the person offering the investment. And, don't drop your guard if the person is a relative. A large percentage of financial exploitation cases are committed by family members! Research the product/investment as well. Consider information provided by your state securities regulator (an agency that works to protect investors as it maintains the integrity of the securities industry). You might also consult with a trusted friend, or, better yet, get a second opinion from a financial professional.

Are you concerned? If you think an elderly neighbor or relative is being taken advantage of, financially, you might notice depression or a withdrawal from normal social activities. A conversation with his/her physician might be in order. Some doctors are now screening patients for signs of stress and duress (a possible indication of financial difficulties, manipulation or pressure from outside sources). You can also contact the aforementioned state securities regulator and/or adult protective services.

This is a broad topic, and, unfortunately, I'm unable to cover everything in one column. For more information as well as helpful educational resources, visit Don Blandin's website at investor-protection.org.

David D. Holland, a Certified Financial Planner practitioner, hosts a TV show Fridays-Sundays on WDSC Channel 15 at 7 p.m. He has also authored two books in his Confessions of a Financial Planner series. Mr. Holland offers investment advice through Holland Advisory Services Inc., a registered investment adviser in Ormond Beach. He can be contacted at (386) 671-7526. FISHING WITH DAN

I began my paddle into the High Bridge swamp before daybreak.

The calendar told me the giant octopus-like tentacles of the sub-tropical sun that had been strangling Central Florida for the past five months was ready to loosen its grip. Not so. Each breath warmed my nostrils and heated my lungs as would a blast from a furnace.

As I paddled the Green Peanut past the dark silhouettes of stunted trees, I had to smile. Only years of ocean winds and salt can twist the forest in that manner. The tree stands looked as though they could have been part of an Asian bonsai garden. Stillness was all around me and only the ripple of my boat broke the morning silence. Nothing moving; nothing feeding.

The tide was beginning its six-hour incoming cycle and the drift gave me a respite as the kayak moved deeper into the swamp. Although there were no game fish feeding, the first light revealed lots of mullet and shrimp riding the current. I made cast after cast with nothing happening. Oh sure, I had a couple hits, but the fish that did bite did not have their hearts in it.

Finally I felt the telltale thump of a flounder. As I reeled the nice 18-inch fish to the boat, my thoughts wandered to the blue crab stuffing that would soon adorn the flatfish. But, once the fish saw the boat, it made a flip and I was left to watch it swim away. There goes my stuffing, I thought.

A while later I had allowed the Peanut to bottom out on a sand bar in what looked like a good spot. The tide was flowing around the point of a slender island and I was able to toss the chartreuse jig upstream and wait for it to wash back to me. After doing that about 20 times with no results, I was preparing to leave when I heard a big fish feeding.

At the point of the island, a red drum was rooting the shoreline with that blunt nose they are famous for. The back of the fish was out of the water and I could tell it was going to be at least 30 inches in length. The wrong size to keep, but the perfect size for a lot of fun. The big guy was intent with what he was doing and totally oblivious to me. The red was perpendicular to the bank as it worked the shore for a tasty blue crab breakfast.

I was a ways off, but I summoned up all my talent and let loose with a horrible cast. My plan was to drop the bait a couple feet down the shore where the fish would soon be, but instead I hit it on the tail. The big fish was startled and jumped straight up before zooming into the depths. Hitting a fish with a lead head jig is not the way to catch it. The red thought it was under attack and made a hasty exit. Good job, Dan!

On a slow morning, I had blown my only chance for a bit of fun. As the morning wore on with nothing happening, I replayed that cast over and over in my mind. Sure a breeze had kicked up, but that was no excuse. Perhaps I shoulda moved a little closer. The fish hadn't seen me. Maybe if I had waited for the big fish to move a few more yards it woulda been an easier cast. Oh well, I coulda just stayed home.

Nope, not an option. If I had done that, I wouldn't have hooked a flounder and seen a big red feeding. You can't experience that at the house.

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for purchase for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.

Church presents 50th Octoberfest

For Hometown News

Prince of Peace Catholic Church will host its 50th annual Octoberfest Thursday, Oct. 11, to Sunday, Oct. 14, on the parish grounds at 600 S. Nova Road in Ormond Beach.

The event has delighted generations of area residents while raising funds for the parish's religious, charitable and social activities, and additions to the parish campus.

This year's event will feature an all new midway with 15 adult rides, including a huge Ferris wheel, as well as six kiddie rides and a merry-go-round. Discount wristband coupons are available online at Eventbrite.com and at the church office the week of the event.

In addition to the amusement rides and games, there will be a food court filled with carnival food and an entertainment tent serving a wide selection of craft and premium beers, several from Central Florida craft breweries.

The festival began in 1969, at the suggestion of Jay Van Rhee, a founding member of the parish and first chairman of the event, who was inspired by the Oktoberfest celebrations in Germany while serving in the U.S. Army. He and his wife, Barbara, are still members of the church and helped Prince of Peace celebrate its 50th anniversary in 2016.

You just missed Vegetarian Day

CHEF COSTA'S COOKING CORNER
COSTA MAGOULAS

Every year on the 1st of October we celebrate Vegetarian Day.

I don't, but vegetarians do. Give me the beef, fish, chicken, lamb and pork. I want it all. Vegetarians on the other hand, don't eat any animals or animal byproducts at all.

I have to tell you, vegetarians earn my respect. I don't think I could ever do that. If I was on a deserted island with nothing but vegetation, I would be looking for anything that moves, slithers or crawls, and everything in the ocean better look out; even sharks would need to hide. I want meat!

To be fair, there are a lot of vegetarian options that taste great and you feel better after you eat them. My wife will eat vegetarian on different occasions during the year. Sometimes for religious fasts, sometimes for weight loss, but many times just to feel better.

My wife is so lucky to be married to a chef that can cook anything, and takes pride in food and how it tastes and looks. Nothing like blowing my own horn!

But all kidding aside, the truth is I like cooking vegetarian dishes. I use to compete in national culinary competitions. I would practice making many dishes to see how they tasted, mostly beef, chicken, pork and seafood. I noticed after preparing a beef entrée and eating it, I would feel stuffed afterwards, so I decided to try some vegetarian entrées and found I could do a lot of interesting dishes that tasted really great.

I also decided to compete using vegetarian entrées and found I was the only chef doing vegetarian. None of the other competitors would even try. I thought, 'here is my chance to WOW the judges with something different,' but there was one big problem. The judges were not knowledgeable on vegetarian dishes! I would have judges asking me, "What's quinoa? Why are you using edamame beans?"

Times are changing. Today fresh from the farm to table means vegetables and fruits are the trend and in demand from the public. Many people are trying to eat healthier and trying different styles of cooking. I found Indian cuisine has many meatless dishes that taste wonderful. Curry flavored recipes use fresh herbs and spices are amazing and easy to prepare. Much of the food is gluten and lactose free, which is a plus for many people.

I made the following recipe for my wife and she loved it. She is very picky you know, her husband's a chef.

Vegetarian Dish

Ingredients

2 cans (13.5 oz.) coconut milk

2 cups assorted vegetables; zucchini, mushrooms, red onions, red bell pepper, fresh spinach chopped

½ cup chopped cilantro

1 cup cashews

1 teaspoon turmeric

2 teaspoons powdered cardamom

1 teaspoon powdered cumin

1 teaspoon Mace (optional) or ½ teaspoon allspice or nutmeg

1 teaspoon ground ginger(fresh is better)

Salt and pepper to taste

Directions

Place all ingredients except cashew nuts in a two-quart pan over medium heat. Cook until vegetables are tender, about 9-10 minutes. Taste and season with salt and pepper.

Add cashews before serving. (Variation using the same recipe, add raw shrimp during the cooking process.)

It's time to get ready for fall color in your yard

GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

Although it does not feel like it now, soon we will be enjoying the wonderful fall temperatures for which Florida is famous.

If you're trying to decide on what you might want to plant, why not try some roses?

Roses are beautiful, flowering plants that represent love and friendship. Roses are a perfect addition to your friendly tea garden. These lovely plants are surprisingly easy to grow with some basic TLC.

Roses can be successfully planted in either containers or in the ground. In either case, the plants should be in well-drained soil in a sunny location. If you plant your treasures in the ground, be sure the soil drains well.

Dig a hole about 15 to 18 inches wide and 18 inches deep. Put a layer of gravel on the bottom of the hole. This is to allow drainage so water drains away from the root system. The same would apply if you plant your roses in a container. The next step is to prepare the soil you are going to use to plant your roses. You should use a mix of a good quality potting soil with around half the mixture composed of organic matter, such as mulch or peat. You can also use some bone meal with your soil mixture.

Now, it's finally time to plant your prize. Carefully remove the plant from its original container. Place the plant in your prepared hole so the top soil layer on the plant is the same level as the surrounding soil. Fill the gap underneath the plant with your prepared soil mixture. Now, fill the gaps around the remaining parts of the plant and pack down lightly. You are now ready to water in your newly planted rose.

Once you have your roses planted and bursting with color, you will need to do some basic maintenance steps in order to keep them lush and colorful. Since we live in such a humid climate, certain diseases, such as black powdery mildew and black spot, can both be a common problem. Both diseases are much easier to control if you prevent them happening in the first place. Once established, both are difficult to get rid of.

Although there are many products on the market that are used for disease control on roses, Orthenex reigns as the king. The product controls not only diseases, but also controls insect infestation as well. If you are interested in an all-natural cure for fungus, how about baking soda. That's right, baking soda. Plain ordinary baking soda added at the rate of 3 teaspoons per gallon of water. You then can add a small amount of mild dish detergent to the mix to act as a spreader sticker. This will work as a preventive measure but will not work well if an infection is present. Be sure not to make your mix too strong as damage to your roses could result.

Roses are heavy feeders and like a good supply of food. You should feed your roses once a month with a good quality commercial rose food. Always follow label directions carefully. Also please do not put your plants in the line of fire of your sprinkler systems as this keeps your leaves wet which can cause some of the fungus diseases described above.

Joe Zelenak has more than 30 years experience in gardening and landscape. Send emails to hometowngarden@gmail.com or visit his website hometowngarden.com.

Health department urges flu shots by Halloween

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

To protect against the seasonal flu, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention suggest everyone six months or older get a flu vaccine by Halloween.

The Department of Health in Volusia County offers flu vaccines from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at all DOH-Volusia locations:

•1845 Holsonback Drive, Daytona Beach

•775 Harley Strickland Blvd., Orange City

•717 W. Canal St., New Smyrna Beach.

Appointments are not needed for flu shots.

For the best protection from the flu, you should get a flu vaccine before flu begins spreading in the community.

According to the CDC, it takes about two weeks after vaccination for antibodies to develop in the body to provide protection from the flu. However, getting vaccinated later can still be beneficial. DOH-Volusia will offer flu vaccination through the winter since seasonal flu activity can continue through late spring.

Annual flu shots are recommended for everyone. People at high risk for complications from the flu include:

•People age 65 and older

•Pregnant women

•Infants over six months of age

•People with weakened immune systems or long-term health problems (such as asthma, diabetes, or kidney disease)

DOH-Volusia also recommends pneumonia shots for people over 65 years of age or anyone with a chronic illness or weakened immune system.

Flu vaccine also is available in a variety of locations, including family physicians, pharmacies and many worksites.

For more information, visit volusiahealth.com/shots or call (386) 274-0509, option 1.
