Area BMX racers qualify to represent U.S. in summer

By Diane M. Carey
 dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Some area BMX racers have exceeded expectations and will compete for the U.S. at the UCI BMX World Championships in Heusden-Zolder, Belgium, July 23-28.

"What was once a group of friends just taking their first laps around a BMX (bicycle motocross) track in 2016, has now grown to over 30 riders" said Port Orange resident Nick Moulton, whose daughter Kayla is one of the riders.

The group are with Fox Hunt Racing of Daytona Beach, which was created by Kevin Caccavale, a USA BMX Pro rider and coach. It includes racers from age 3 to adult.

"His vision was to create a program and team that gave kids in the area a better alternative during the after-school hours," Mr. Moulton said. "All three of my kids are on the team. I am very excited for (Kayla). She has really taken to the sport. She enjoys doing it and is a quick learner."

Coach Caccavale, 33, said, "My niece and my son (Waylynn, 5) and a couple of other kids who lived in the same cul de sac, Fox Hunt Court in Port Orange, said 'hey, we got enough people to make a race team, let's make a race team.'"

"It just started out as us supporting a couple of kids in our neighborhood, he said. "It gives the kids a different alternative at those after-hours times. The kids do better in school because they want to come to BMX. They learn responsibility, they learn to handle success and failures, they learn you have to work hard to win, you can't just show up."

Life lessons come a little easier from BMX, Mr. Caccavale said. "You get to do it through BMX instead of learning the hard lessons through life."

The sport is one that can involve the whole family.

Helping your pets 'adjust'

By Diane M. Carey
 dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Yes, even pets can benefit from a chiropractor.

Just ask Dr. Nicole Schultze, human and animal chiropractor.

The 45-year-old Palmer College of Chiropractic graduate holds licenses in both Florida and the British Virgin Islands. For animal patients, she gets referrals from veterinarians, such as Halifax Veterinary Center in Port Orange where she sees furry patients one day a week.

She was already providing chiropractic services for humans and then six and a half years ago Stetson, her horse, trotted into her life. The thoroughbred, with a heart on his forehead, was left for dead on a road in Tortola where she had been living fulltime.

He had no mane or tail, was covered with ticks and maggots and he had no skin on his neck. She saw a spark of life in the dying horse and made it her mission to save him. She told him "If you want to fight, I will stay with you the rest of your life and protect you. The biggest, proudest moment of mine is him. There is nothing more rewarding than saving a life."

At a huge expense, she got him rehabilitated and shipped to Puerto Rico and then Florida, right before Hurricane Irma wiped out her home and practice in Tortola, B.V.I. He gave her hope and thus her logo "What Love Does."

"Hurricane Irma blew us (back) here," Dr. Schultze said.

She rode out the storm despite her home being a loss

Naturalist wants you to take a hike

By Diane M. Carey
 dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Spring is almost here, the perfect time for a reminder of the hidden treasures found throughout Volusia County, many that can be found along biking and walking trails.

Port Orange resident Roger Fulton, 71, a Master Naturalist, shared some insights about himself and all Volusia County has to offer.

"People don't know what is in their own backyard," he said. He wants to be known for "getting people outdoors and sharing my resources for lifelong learning for everybody."

Mr. Fulton is a noted author of many outdoor guide books for hiking, biking, canoeing/kayaking and other outdoor topics covered a love of nature, which he now shares with residents in both Florida and New York. The self-employed free-lance writer has written 40 books, starting with his first in 1988 called Common Sense Supervision. That book is still in print in five languages.

Many of his books are about hiking trails or kayak trips in Central Florida. He has a whole series for hiking and biking Northeast Florida all the way up to the Georgia line. He stated his information covers from State Road 40 in Volusia to State Road 70 in St. Lucie County and all the way across the state.

Making the transition from police work to nature talks wasn't a big stretch, he said. "It's all the same skill set. You go to the scene, you look around, you take some photographs, you talk to people who know more about it than you do, and then you go back to the office and compile everything," Mr. Fulton said. Marine veteran creates memorial

By Diane M. Carey
 dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Stressing it's not about him, Nicholas "Nick" Mottola, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran and New Smyrna Beach resident, has been planting trees since 1985 for U.S. military casualties that occurred from 1982 to 1984 in Beirut, Lebanon.

In 2015, his memorial took on a new twist by adding an airbrushed stone, donated by Rick Heald and painted by Pete Lagi.

The trees he has planted are spread throughout 10 states and in the yards of different houses in which he has lived.

The memorials will spread further soon as Mr. Mottola is moving to North Carolina to assist his elderly father.

This year's memorial, which consists of U.S. and Marine Corps flags, three robellini palm trees and the stone, has See MARINE, page A9 with rescued cats “strapped to her side.” She reunited with Stetson and moved back to Port Orange in 2017 after living in Tortola nine years.

Dr. Schultze just opened an office in Port Orange. She works on human patients two days a week and much of the rest of the time works on both horses and riders as she has a mobile set-up. She encourages referrals from veterinarians for all animals in need. She can go anywhere in Florida and still practices in Tortola one week per month. She uses a cold laser that helps with hip dysplasia in larger animals. She emphasized her services help both animals and people with a better quality of life.

“Chiropractic in general is meant to help with movement,” Dr. Schultze said. “If something is not moving, I want to help it move. There are several symptoms that lead you to show recurring issues. The goal is to put it back where it belongs so we can restore that motion and the body can heal itself. If it’s got a spine, let me check it. If I can use a very gentle technique to move that bone to where it belongs, it gives the nervous system the ability to talk to the body again.

“I have always loved the power of what chiropractic can provide for people. My other passion is horses and now I am doing both,” she said. “I just firmly believe there is a lot of things that love can do. You just inspire somebody, and you love on them, get them moving again and the body will do the rest. I am just a tool. I inspire your body to optimally communicate to itself. I am fortunate that God gave me a gift to be able to use it with both (human and animals). I feel very fortunate that my two loves are what I get to wake up and do.”

She added with animals, “The signs they give you as you are adjusting them, they will lean around and wrap their head around you, or sigh.”

She stated animals clearly know they are being helped.

Dr. Schultze also was a combat medical specialist in the U.S. Army and athletic trainer for football, wrestling and basketball at the University of Minnesota. She has rescued 60 cats in Tortola to date, currently owning four (Bebe, Palmer, Petula and Clark).

One of Dr. Schultze’s future goals is to form a nonprofit to be able to provide resources for rescue facilities.

days it is called a book chapter.”

He added, “It’s not so much about me, but about the resources I bring. As of Jan. 1, we just launched a complete database, which has all the information for my Florida books as well as stuff I am adding as we go along.”

Mr. Fulton has been doing nature presentations and tours for at least 15 years. He has been running two tours a month for the West Volusia Audubon Society at Lake Woodruff National Wildlife Refuge in DeLeon Springs and another at the Clark Bay Preserve in DeLand for the county’s Explore Volusia program.

He has done night hikes and is also known for presentations, such as outlined in his definitive book, “Safe In The Woods.” He is a frequent presenter at DeBary Hall and Lyonia Preserve and leads mountain bike tours, including in Tiger Bay State Forest. In 2015 he biked the entire length of the New York State Erie Canal, 366 miles, but “not in the same day.”

Mr. Fulton has never seen a trail he didn’t want to know where it goes. He realized other people didn’t know where to go or how to get there. Thus, many of his books have specific directions from interstates. “The reason for that is if you can’t find an interstate highway, you can’t be trusted alone in the woods anyway,” he said.

Mr. Fulton also a Coast Guard veteran from the Vietnam era and has been a “snowbird” for 20 years, dividing his time between Port Orange and Courtland, N.Y. He was a bobsled competitor at Lake Placid, has delivered a baby in freezing temperatures on the Canadian border as a young trooper, watched a ship sink at sea after rescuing the crew, and says “it’s just been a fun run.”

“Every day I am able to get out and share what I know and places I can go and things I can do with other people,” he said.

Mr. Fulton has traveled extensively, including the Galapagos Islands on which he did a recent presentation at DeBary Hall. He believes in staying active and keeps trying to reinvent myself.

His previous life allowed him to write books in the field of supervision, management and leadership. These titles can be accessed at rogerfulton.com.

Opie Taylor, the poor loser

Since I began watching the Andy Griffith show in the 1950s television has gone on a wild ride.

Back then we only had three channels. Now, more than 60 years later, there is a flood of channels and information on the tube. Shows about crime, romance and mystery are at our beck and call along with programs devoted to trying to sell us a disgusting apparatus to siphon out our nostrils or trying to convince us to buy a trick ladder.

We have premium movie channels like HBO and Showtime, and streaming services like Netflix to name a few. Of course, we pay an obscene fee for all that TV, but what the heck, I do love my television.

Personally my favorites are shows like Planet Earth and The Blue Planet on BBC and the other programming on History and Discover. Lots of good fun. After all these years I am not ashamed to say I watch the Andy Griffith Show as much as any of the others. Yep, Andy, Opie and Barney are still on Sundance and TV Land as well as others.

LAND LINES

I love it. The slow moving, downhome wit of Mayberry still suits me just fine. The hyper deputy Barney Fife so ably played by Don Knotts keeps the action coming so that laid back sheriff Andy can straighten it all out. Each week Andy and the gang worked through their problems and often sent along a message. Not the in-your-face messages that were played out by All in the Family or The Cosby Show, but subtle country wisdom delivered with a high degree of southern charm.

In one of my favorite episodes, little Opie decides to run in a foot race against other boys his age. He is determined to win and take home the trophy, but finishes dead last. Opie then exhibits every trait a poor loser can have. He hates the winner and vows to never compete again. He becomes mean and spiteful, nothing like his usual upbeat self.

Dad Andy has to do some masterful work to show him that throughout life he won't be able to win every time. In the end, Opie learns what it means to be a good loser. (a lesson sorely needed today.)

At times when I am watching the Andy Griffith show, I find myself re-casting it with some of the modern celebrities. Adele would be my choice for a new Aunt Bea and Mick Jagger is a dead ringer for Barney Fife. Vince Gill is a pretty good Gomer Pyle lookalike and Phil Collins is the only choice for Earnest T. Bass. Martina McBride could be Helen Crump and Rick Astley could be an older Opie. Toby Keith could be Andy with a lot of hair removal (both head and face.)

To be sure the original cast

was great. Recently, famed actor Billy Bob Thornton did the best character portrayal that had ever been on television was Don Knotts as Barney. I couldn't agree more. Just brilliant, and seemingly so effortless.

There you will find no swear words or sexual innuendo. I know that modern television has passed them by, but please pause sometime to take another look at the bunch from Mayberry. This time watch the talent they exhibit in doing their jobs. Sure the boob tube was pretty quaint back then, but perhaps that was not such a bad thing.

You wouldn't call a plumber to fix your car; why trust the care of your loved one to anyone but a professional.
Our Professional services are complimentary.

For the elderly, it happens unexpectedly and all too often. They suffer a stroke or break a hip or suddenly find themselves unable to continue living alone in their own home.

Then, at the worst possible time, the senior or a member of their family must scramble to find a new, safe place for the loved-one to live.

In desperation, many turn to the Internet in hopes of finding a quick solution to their problem.

"It's a scenario that we see all too often," said Rose Traub, one of ten senior care placement advisers at Assisted Living Made Simple in New Smyrna Beach. "But, with a little advance planning, it's a stressful situation that could have been avoided."

"The Internet is the last place they should go," warned Rose. "What they need is boots on the ground in the community, someone who's familiar with local assisted living facilities, have visited and evaluated them, and can knowledgeably recommend them to our seniors, just as we would to our own parents."

What separates us from the other placement companies is that we interview the client/family, find out who they are and what they want and work as a team to find what's right for them. Assisted Living Made Simple considers everything including the emotional, financial, medical, and social needs.

Rose Traub

Estelle Pecchio

The most important thing we do is look at the individual and find out who they are as a person to see where they will be most comfortable.

While the senior's family may feel guilty about encouraging their loved one to move into an assisted living community, they shouldn't. "Usually, when the loved one living alone moves into their new home, which they personally help select, they become much more social, less isolated, happy and thrive," Rose added.

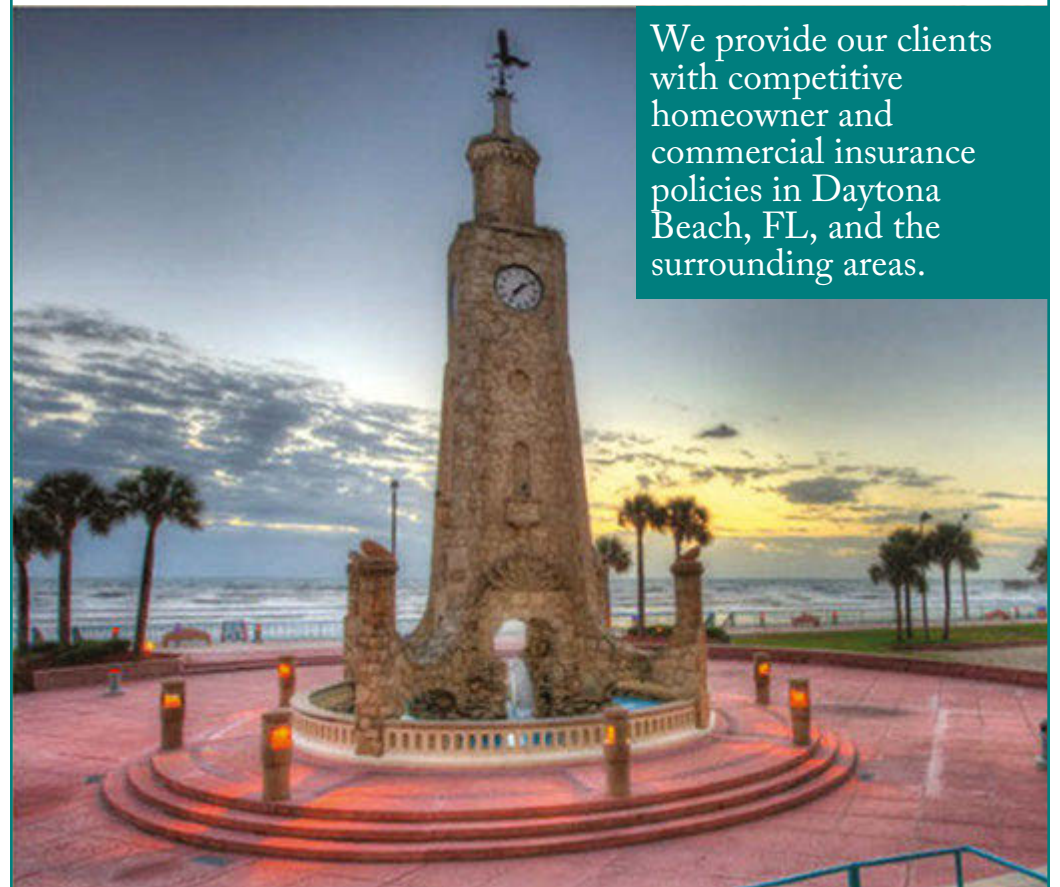

"Choosing the right home the first time is extremely important; our number one goal at Assisted Living Made Simple is to find seniors a right place to live where they truly feel at home and can enjoy life knowing that they are not alone."

he said. "I had some information and didn't mind sharing it with new riders and parents. We want to support the kids from new riders all the way to being an Olympian."

The riders progressed in their skill levels, getting uniforms in 2018, their first competition season. The team practices at Robert Strickland Park in Daytona Beach.

Five riders qualified for Team USA from Fox Hunt Racing, which Coach Caccavale describes as the biggest race his participants had ever done to date, a state world qualifier race.

"These are riders from all over the world and we were just a little new rider team," he said. "This past year we advanced to second place in the state. We work really hard. It's been a fun ride these last few months, it's really taken off."

Besides himself and Kayla, Danny Mandarino, Sophia

Frye, and Michael Cubitt also qualified.

BMX categories in the United States are based on age and proficiency, either as a novice, intermediate or expert. Girls can race with boys, but have the option of staying in girls-only classes. In Belgium and world BMX competitions, Coach Caccavale said the races are divided by age only, not proficiency.

Kayla, 13, attends Silver Sands Middle School. She started racing in November 2017 when she was 12. Her father said she has progressed quickly in the sport, taking third place for her age in the 2018 Florida state series.

Florida is second only to California in the number of BMX tracks.

"Kayla is a dedicated athlete and trains six days a week in both BMX and dance all while maintaining over a 3.7 GPA at school," Mr. Moulton said. "She has been accepted into the IB program at Spruce Creek for her upcoming freshman year. She also set a goal to ride for Team USA in a future Olympics."

Kayla said, "It is fun because there is a bunch of people I know, and I started after my brother, so it is fun to see the sibling rivalry competition. I qualified (for Belgium) in the top eight."

Pam Goodman's grandson Michael Cubitt is an expert BMX rider after just starting two years ago, she said.

Michael, who lives with the Goodmans, has progressed from novice to intermediate to expert. He went to Oldsmar Feb. 22 to race in the world qualifier race for Team USA.

"Well, he qualified, and now has a chance to represent our country in Belgium in July of this year," Ms. Goodman said. "Of course, we would love to see him go, but we need to raise money to get him there."

Michael, 12, goes to Hinson Middle School. He said to qualify, he had to finish in the top eight, but finished in the top four.

For more information or to donate to the team, email Coach Caccavale at Kevinacacavalebmx@yahoo.com.

Fixed Rate CD

Annual Percentage Yield for 11 months²

Both accounts are FDIC-insured up to the maximum allowable limit. Platinum Savings offer available in CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NY, SC and VA. Fixed Rate CD offer available in AL, AZ, CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NM, NV, NY, PA, SC and VA. Portfolio by Wells Fargo® customers are eligible to receive an additional interest rate bonus on these accounts.³

1. To qualify for this offer, you must have a new or existing Platinum Savings account and enroll the account in this offer between 01/21/2019 and 03/22/2019. This offer is subject to change at any time, without notice. This offer is available only to Platinum Savings customers in the following states: CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NY, SC and VA. In order to earn the Special Interest Rate of 2.08% (Special Rate), you must deposit $25,000 in new money (from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., or its affiliates) to the enrolled savings account and maintain a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 throughout the term of this offer. The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 2.10%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000 minimum, the Special Rate will not apply and the interest rate will revert to the standard interest rate applicable to your Platinum Savings account. As of 12/10/2018, the standard interest rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NY, SC and VA with an account balance of $0.01 to $99,999.99 is 0.03% (0.03% APY) and with an account balance of $100,000 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12 month promotional period, standard interest rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. Offer not available to Private Banking, Wealth, Business Banking or Wholesale customers. 2. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 01/21/2019 and 03/22/2019. The 11-month New Dollar CD special requires a minimum of $25,000 brought to Wells Fargo from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., or its affiliates to earn the advertised APY. Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A fee for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the Special Rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. Due to the new money requirement, accounts may only be opened at your local branch. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Offer cannot be combined with any other consumer deposit offer. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. Offer cannot be reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

Can't get off I-95

As I sit for five minutes or more at the Edgewater exit of Interstate 95 south each evening, waiting to turn left (because there is no reason yet for anyone to turn right, except for the exasperated folks who scoot that way and make a u-turn) onto State Road 442, I wonder why and how so much money was recently spent on "improvements."

It takes longer now than ever to get off and there are often cars lined up the entire length of the exit ramp. On occasion, an Edgewater policeman will show up and wave people safely through the stop sign.

Today, I read in Hometown News about a newly approved development south of Edgewater on Volco Road that will eventually add 700 homes. Along with the aforementioned area southwest of I-95, Restoration, planned for 8,500 houses and millions of square feet of office space, and 200 more homes on S.R. 442 and Airpark Road, how will S.R. 442 handle the traffic?

I think I read there will someday be a connection from S.R. 442 to points west. That will also bring people from points west to this area, creating more strain on the road.

The improvements to S.R. 442 only created a new overpass for I-95 while slowing cars exiting and obstructing their view of oncoming traffic entering the new southbound entrance to I-95. Progress in this instance is the opposite.

Too much auto pollution

Has anyone done a survey to determine how many cases of lung cancer have occurred on the west side of Atlantic Avenue in New Smyrna Beach due to prevailing winds out of the southeast and 24/7 automotive traffic with auto exhaust and other particulates occurring?

This needs to be done, since a "New York City" set of buildings has been erected to the south with only one street coming and going ... even at midnight.

Many articles can be found on the internet telling how bad lung cancer can be with heavy traffic patterns.

Accountability for the postal service

We need to hold the post office and delivery service accountable in our area.

Several times, I have mailed a piece from Ormond-by-the-Sea or at the post office on Granada Boulevard and the person, who lives in The Trails, received the package a week and a half to two weeks later and the package was ripped.

This is disgraceful. We must expect more. If it had happened once or twice, it could be overlooked, but this is a deep concern and it is happening locally. We need to hold our delivery system, our postal system accountable.

Always wanting more

Please convey to Ed Kelly and his team of mismanaged council members that the taxpayers of Volusia County are not ATM machines.

Just because you feel you need more funds for things, learn to budget correctly. For instance, alcohol is taxed already. Isn't it illegal to double tax anything? Shouldn't they learn to budget within the funds they already have.

When will it stop? They never seem to be satisfied and are always wanting more.

DEADLINES

The deadline for submissions to Hometown News in Volusia County is 5 p.m. Thursday for the next week's issue, except for Rants & Raves, which is 5 p.m. Friday. Deadlines are adjusted for holidays. For more information, call (386) 322-5924.

Champion Elementary recently celebrated Read Across America, an annual reading motivation and awareness program on the birthday of beloved children's author Dr. Seuss. First Graders at Champion also celebrated Read Across America with the 120th day of school by dressing up as senior citizens. In school for 120 days can really age. From left back are Jon McQueen, McKenzie Waldon, Owen Altman, Mercedes Soto, Kayden Jenkins, Gabriella Westfall, Caleb Keever and Raymond Wright; from left front are Drew Smith, Makenzie Mott, Julian Burrows, Briar Knight, Jonah Rotich, Kalia Ormaza, Alan Gillespie and Fred Jacobson.

Too many more houses

Once again the powers that be chose to go with the money instead of what is really best for the City of Edgewater.

I have lived in growing areas where they just keep building empty houses with nothing to offer but more empty houses. Meanwhile destroying more of the land so people can complain about the "wild" animals coming into their neighborhood.

These extra 774 houses they plan on allowing will only serve to line their pockets. What does it do for the city? A lot of people live here for the enjoyment of a small neighborhood. Instead we get this.

They do nothing about the people who shoot up and leave their needles all over. I know this because every day some idiot wants to show pictures of the needles they found on Florida Shores Crime Watch.

They do nothing about widening the residential streets so that when someone parks on the street you don't have to play chicken to get around them. They do nothing about all the empty business buildings all over the city just keep building houses. What does Edgewater have to offer? A couple lousy fast food restaurants, several auto parts stores and a ton of thrift stores. The only plus was that it was not an overcrowded city. Who will be paying for the schools that will be needed? You will have to build them also. Here is an idea you won't take. Make the builders build the schools, the streets and installing the lights.

Humane?

A feral cat has been showing up in my yard for months and I've been slowly gaining his trust.

A few days ago, he appeared with fresh wounds about his head and neck. Knowing he needs to be neutered, I called Volusia Animal Control and they provided me with a trap so the little cat could be trapped, neutered and released back into what has become "his" yard.

Well, I trapped him and he panicked and fought hard to get out of the small trap he was in, scratching his face and reopening the wounds on his head and neck.

I, of course, called Animal Control to have the cat picked up as promised, but they had only one person available on the east side of the county and she, unfortunately, was tied up and could not give me an approximate time when she would be able to pick up the animal, in fact, it might be the next day.

So I started calling veterinarians, the humane society, the Red-dinger Clinic, anyone who might be able to help me help this cat. No one could or would. Too busy, make an appointment, no surgeries today and, ultimately, call animal control.

So I did the only thing I could do to help this poor cat, I let him out of the trap. I hope his cuts and wounds will heal on their own and I will try to regain his trust until, hopefully, I will be able to put him in a proper carrier. And then, maybe, a veterinarian will allow me to have the cat seen. How very disappointing no veterinarian would step up in a situation like this.

In response to: "Police Can Help"

It is interesting that the Volusia County Sheriff's Office has a bomb squad.

We can reasonably assume that considerable resources went into training and equipping the bomb squad.

Does the VCSO (or any local police department) have a specially trained and equipped stalking squad? Judging by the number of rants on this subject in recent weeks, it seems they should. We probably have a lot more stalking than bombing.

Hello Sam's Club

To the subscriber who thinks Sam's Club is deserting them, I am so excited they are moving.

I will no longer have to drive from Ormond Beach through the traffic on Beville Road to go there any more. Interstate 95 is a quick route for any of us. I welcome the new, larger Sam's arriving at Tomoka Town Center just off of I-95. Can't wait for the opening.

You've got to have the right kind of jobs

As I'm sure you've heard over the years, for a strong local economy, you need higher-paying jobs with good benefits.

That's why the opening of a place like Dave & Buster's in Daytona Beach, while nice to have, isn't that great as employment news, despite its 200 jobs. Retail and restaurants jobs just don't provide the boost you want in an economy. Since many of them are part-time and don't provide benefits like health insurance, they don't really provide a boost to quality of life either.

The jobs you want are in construction, manufacturing, wholesale trade, healthcare and professions, such as accountants and lawyers. That's why it pains me to look at what we have in the Volusia/Flagler area. The first jobs report of the year from the state labor agency shows the two-county area with 14,800 construction jobs, 11,900 manufacturing jobs and 5,300 wholesale trade jobs. The statistics are a little better with 40,400 jobs in education and health services, and 22,700 jobs in professional services.

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

All of that sounds like a lot of jobs until you do the math and realize it's not even half of the 206,500 total jobs the state estimates non-agricultural employers provide in Volusia and Flagler counties. That's because we have big numbers in retail trade at 31,500 and leisure and hospitality at 33,000.

We don't even do that well with government jobs at just 24,000 with a measly 1,500 federal government jobs. Even Alachua County, which is half the size of Volusia, has 4,500 federal jobs. Of course, with the University of Florida, Alachua has 29,700 state government jobs.

So, while Dave & Busters, Miami Grill and all the other places opening recently was fun, I was most excited to find out the nearly $14 million office/warehouse next to Trader Joe's distribution center will be occupied by Amazon Direct. While I've seen reports that working in Amazon warehouses isn't that great a job, it's a lot better than most retail, restaurant or hotel jobs.

Unicorp National Development has begun leasing space for its South Williamson Shops, which wraps around the RaceTrac at Williamson and LPGA boulevards. So far, the developer has signed up ABC Fine Wine & Spirits, AT&T, Extra Space Storage, Goodwill and Great Clips.

You'll be reading a lot about Unicorp's activities as it now owns a lot of land in the LPGA/Williamson area. By-the-way, that tip was sent to me by reader Jeff Bourgoyne. Keep those tips coming folks.

Daytona Beach-based ICI Homes, which just started building in its new Woodhaven development in Port Orange, is planning Lago Verde with apartments, townhouses and an office building north and west of Hinson Middle School, between Clyde Morris and Williamson boulevards in Daytona Beach.

Not a lot of business happens during Bike Week. The only commercial real estate deal of note was a Port Orange investor buying the office building at 4550 S. Clyde Morris Blvd., Port Orange, for $865,000.

On a final note, a couple of miscellaneous items include the Speedway Bar going into the former site of Oyster Bay at 500 E. International Speedway Blvd. in Daytona Beach. Also, Vanacore Construction moving forward with the planned 58 lot addition to Halifax Plantation in Ormond Beach.

Managing Editor Cecil G. Brumley has been tracking business and the economy in Volusia County for more than 22 years. Contact him at cbrumley@hometownnewsol.com (no hyphen) or follow him on Twitter @cecilbrumley.

Coastal Integrative Healthcare fits the bill

By Diane M. Carey
dcarey@hometownnewsol.com

Owner Dr. Timothy Steflik has made it a point to showcase his business as being much more than chiropractic services.

The healthcare team he has created offers an array of unique services designed to relieve pain and provide the finest quality care utilizing innovative therapies and state of the art medical equipment and technology.

Coastal Integrative Healthcare is at 315 N. Ridgewood Ave. in Edgewater. Dr. Steflik also owns a practice in Palm Coast and is part owner in an Orlando office.

Services include cold laser therapy, digital motion x-ray, knee pain treatment, physiotherapy, rehab, chiropractic, platelet rich plasma, trigger point injections, and stem cell regenerative medicine. It is important to note the stem cells come from live birth umbilical cords from c-section babies where neither the baby or the mother are harmed.

Dr. Steflik who lives in New Smyrna Beach with his wife, Mary Kay, and four children, Carter, Hyrum, Emmy and Zane, has been in business since 2011, and the current location the last six years.

The Edgewater location has four additional chiropractors, a full-time nurse practitioner, and a supervising medical doctor. They are Dr. Melanie Thomas, Dr. Amanda Bozar, Dr. Samantha Wunder, Dr. Lorraine Texidor-Feliciano, Greg Salter and Dr. Jason Schultz.

Dr. Steflik stated his family has roots in both Volusia and Flagler counties, making offices in each a perfect fit.

"Our practice is actually a holistic medical office that employs medical staff and chiropractors," he said. "Chiropractic is one of the things we do, but the majority of our focus is on those holistic medical services that patients can't find anywhere else and there is a great need for them.

"Stem cells are so unique, and it is a growing trend because it works so well," Dr. Steflik said. "Stem cells fall under the category of regenerative medicine. The mothers donate the umbilical cord, it is processed in the lab, and it is shipped to us and stored in a liquid nitrogen freezer. The mothers are tested for any diseases or blood borne possibilities of infections. They test the cells to make sure there are viable live cells in the product." Dr. Steflik noted no matching is needed. Rejection medications are unnecessary. When the cells are injected, they respond to inflammatory signals the body puts out when there is damage in an area, and they go to that area and build it and repair it. He added as long as a tear (in a rotator cuff for example) is not too severe or damaged, the response rate is excellent. Arthritis in the knee, shoulder pain and peripheral neuropathy responds especially well to the stem cell treatment, he said. It is a one-time injection and the cells stay in the body and continue to work for months.

Dr. Tim Steflik, owner of Coastal Integrative Healthcare in Edgewater, points out what a difference stem cell treatment can make.

All insurance is accepted even though some of the services offered are not covered by insurance, such as the stem cell treatments. However, there is patient financing and Dr. Steflik emphasized the cost is "affordable" by most means.

He said a special feature of his practice is no one waits more than 15 minutes to be seen. You also know how much all your treatments will cost ahead of time.

Dr. Steflik keeps in shape and competed on the television show American Ninja Warrior in 2017. He also played in a championship rugby match while attending Brigham Young University in a game televised by ESPN. He plays soccer and continues Ninja training. He also comes from a family of accordion players.

Dr. Steflik stated, "Surgery is not the only option, (patients) don't just have to live with (pain), there is some hope, there are some things that we can do, and we just want to reach as many of those people as we can. We exist to help people avoid unnecessary surgeries and unnecessary drugs. Nothing gives us as a clinic more joy than to see our patients get better."

The practice also specializes in car accident cases. Dr. Steflik stated people should be evaluated within 14 days of a car accident, which is the law if insurance is expected to pay for treatment. Injuries from a car accident may not be immediately observed. It doesn't hurt to get it checked out. While obvious injuries, such as broken bones and cuts demand immediate medical attention, less obvious injuries sustained in a car accident, such as sore muscles, reduced range of motion, headaches, neck pain and spinal pain are easier to put on the back burner.

The practice's office hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 2 to 6 p.m. weekdays, except Thursday when the hours are 9 a.m. to noon.

Civil Air Patrol cadet completes solo flight

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Cadet Major Shane L. Fitzgerald, 18, a member of the Ormond Beach Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, has successfully completed his first solo flight, which will help him earn his private pilot's License.

C/Maj. Fitzgerald flew from Ormond Beach to Gainesville and back executing landings at both airports. During the flight, he used Flight Following services from Daytona Beach and Jacksonville Approach Control, and used onboard tools, such as GPS and VOR navigation for situational awareness.

After returning to Ormond Beach, C/Maj. Fitzgerald said, "It was at some point between Ormond and Gainesville that it dawned on me that I was doing it all. I truly felt as though I could consider myself a pilot."

He is learning to fly as a participant in the Civil Air Patrol's Cadet Flight Training program.

Civil Air Patrol, the official auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, is a nonprofit organization with more than 61,000 members nationwide, operating a fleet of 550 aircraft. CAP, in its Air Force auxiliary role, performs over 90 percent of domestic U.S. inland search and rescue missions as tasked by the Air Force Rescue Coordination Center.

Its volunteers also perform homeland security, disaster relief and drug interdiction missions at the request of federal, state and local agencies. The members play a leading role in aerospace education and serve as mentors to nearly 27,000 young people currently participating in the CAP cadet programs.

been moved to the home of Jim and Linda Martin in Pierson to permanently honor their son, PFC Jack Martin. He was one of 220 Marines killed Oct. 23, 1983, in the bombing of the Marine Corps barracks in Beirut where 18 sailors and three soldiers lost their lives.

During the event, two truck bombs struck buildings in Beirut, housing American and French service members of the Multinational Force, a peace-keeping operation during the Lebanese Civil War. The first suicide bomber detonated a truck bomb at the building serving as a barracks for the 1st Battalion, 8th Marines.

Mr. Mottola, who was stationed in both Grenada and Beirut, said his company wasn't directly affected.

"When I got out of the Marine Corps in 1984, the following year I wanted to plant this tree," he said. "I decided to plant a tree in October in memory of all the guys I served with. As the years progressed, I started planting a tree every year and then instead of one tree it became three trees on three different dates. It's so important that this story gets told."

He said 15 Floridians were killed in Beirut between 1982 and 1984.

The dates he annually memorializes include Sept. 30 when Cpl. David Reagan, a fellow combat engineer was killed while clearing mines from Beirut International Airport. Besides a tree for the casualties of Oct. 23, he also plants a tree for March 9 when Todd Holdstrum, a squad leader who he served with, died. This year's memorial service for the first time became a public event.

Mr. Mottola has a close relationship with the Martins. He remarked how amazing it was they met, as Linda Martin was his son's occupational specialist at New Smyrna Beach High School.

It was important to Mr. Mottola he acknowledge all the American casualties in Beirut, and when he saw this year's robellini palm with three trunks, he said "Holy cow. This is what God does. God stepped in and said here's your tree right here."

Home Depot donated the tree.

The Martins are thrilled the memorial Mr. Mottola created is now permanently on their property, which is on a lake.

"Any time anybody wants to come out they are welcome to come," Ms. Martin said.

Mr. Mottola said, "When you enjoy the view of the lake you can't help but see that memorial."

Ms. Martin added, "I would have never thought anything would have happened to (Jack). He was a kid who always landed on his feet. Things always seemed to work out for him. He was a good student. His cousins went into the Marines and he decided to go in, too. He was a laser range finder, so we didn't worry. He was on the top of the building, directing the fire, telling them how far to shoot. We really didn't think he was in any danger. He wasn't down on the ground like everybody else."

She said Jack was an excellent surfer and skateboarder.

"We go where the Wall is once in a while, but that's too far to go," Ms. Martin said. "Now we have the memorial right in our yard. Nick is family (a friend that is like family)."

Mr. Martin said, "We split our time between Tennessee and here. I have been so appreciative of what Nick's done. It would have never happened if it hadn't been for him. We appreciate him so much."

Jill Barton, Jack's sister, is equally appreciative. "I'd like to thank Nick first of all for honoring my brother and all the other guys," Ms. Barton said. "Just to have (the memorial) at our forever house and going to be with us all the time I am over the moon about it. (Jack) had the kind of personality that everybody was drawn to, kind of like a light. Just the coolness about him. Somebody said they remembered him because he would skate up and down the barracks."

Yamaha rider wins 78th Daytona 200

Kyle Wyman, riding the N2Racing Yamaha, emerged from a late-race, four-lap shootout to win the 78th Daytona 200 on Saturday, March 16, at Daytona International Speedway.

Mr. Wyman edged polesitter Sean Dylan Kelly (M4 Ecstar Suzuki) and Bobby Fong (M4 Ecstar Suzuki), who started second in the 60-bike field. The overall margin between Mr. Wyman and sixth-place finisher Geoff May (Yamaha) was only 1.206 seconds. That statistic illustrated the closeness of the four-lap battle that ensued following a red-flag period.

The red flag was brought out by a Lap 53 incident involving third-place starter Jason Aguilar (Yamaha) that set up a four-lap shootout to the finish. The restart came on Lap 54. After several swaps of the lead among the frontrunners, Mr. Wyman took control for good coming out of the chicane on the 57th and final lap, pulling away from his rivals as the cycles climbed the 31-degree banking in the speedway's Turn 3 and Turn 4.

"To win it like this, Daytona, in a four-lap sprint race, it's just unreal," said Mr. Wyman, who said the red-flag period was fortuitous.

Briar Bauman won the Daytona TT Thursday, March 14, at DIS, in the season-opening race for the American Flat Track season.

Mr. Bauman, riding an Indian FTR750, built an early lead in the 25-lap AFT Twins main event featuring 16 riders. Henry Wiles (Indian) finished second, 5.149 seconds behind, followed by Jake Johnson (Yamaha).

Switching from natural to artificial bait helps

As I have said before when I first threw out the anchor on these shores, all I had to do to catch a nice fish dinner was cast out a shrimp.

Back then that would work any place and any time. Not much talent was needed and I sure had little. I came here as a mostly fresh-water fisherman and knew next to nothing about fishing the brackish inshore. I used heavy line of at least 20-pound test with an ounce or two of lead and a large number 40 reel on a stiff rod. Not good but it didn't matter.

As the years passed, the fish became more scarce and little by little my methods changed. They had to. Now understand I was raised using artificial baits in Louisiana's bayou country, but that was in the fresh water. Here I began to switch to artificial baits in the late 1970s.

As a winter resident only, I was forced to seek an alternate bait when the tackle shops invariably ran out of shrimp and mullet as they always did in cooler weather. I struggled, but found a little success while wading around the Turtle Mound area and down at Eldora. That was an older man's game and I was usually the youngest wader on hand. (There is an unwritten rule that after age 50 an angler must switch to fake bait.)

Eventually one of the older gents came to my rescue. He told me that I had to lose the heavy tackle and go light. Some there were using four-pound test.) I couldn't bring myself to do that, but I did go to six-pound.

Now I was fishing with a number 25 reel and a limber seven-foot rod. I began working my way through my box of lures to see what would work. I tried horsehair jigs and feather tails. I threw spoons and an assortment of plugs. Nothing was doing what I had hoped for.

Finally I began having a bit of success with a white paddle tail jig and a broken back white and black Rapala plug. The jointed Rapala and the paddle tail both provided their own motion. Still, my success rate was low.

Back then I subscribed to several fishing magazines and as I read them I kept noticing most of the big fish pictured were caught with a lure with a red head. That sent me to the red and white floating/diving MirrOlure that I still use today. I stuck with it because right away I began to see my catch improve. That plug worked for me.

I was still trying an assortment of jigs and finally I went to the chartreuse shrimp tail and the fish seemed to love it.

As I became better and better with those two baits, my fun quotient soared. I suppose the lesson learned from all of this is that you must experiment until you find your bait. That is, the one that works for you. Sure try mine, but those may not be yours.

I have always believed fishing is 90 percent confidence. The only way to get that is by having success with a lure. These days I am convinced my two lures will out-fish natural bait and many times I have seen that happen.

I still have several large well-stocked tackle boxes, but I am able to carry my baits in my shirt pocket when I go fishing. That is quite a luxury. I don't have to fool around with messy natural baits (or spend a lot of money on them.) I don't have aerators or bait buckets and I can go fishing for an hour or so anytime I want without looking for bait. It is a freedom that I value.

So, I would urge you to go artificial. Try baits until you find yours. You will know when that happens. The answer will be in the fun!

Organic or not organic – that is the question

I am a chef, so what do I know about organic food?

Probably more than most people would think. As a professional chef, it is important I keep up with the latest food trends, new cooking innovations, USDA initiatives, and healthy nutritional food information. So, let me share what I have researched recently.

The latest organic food definition was revised in 2002 by USDA. It stated organic food is produced by farmers who emphasize the use of renewable resources and the conservation of soil and water to enhance environmental quality for future generations. Organic meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products come from animals that are given no antibiotics or growth hormones.

Organic food is produced without the use of most conventional pesticides, petroleum-based fertilizers or sewage sludge-based fertilizers, bio-engineering or ionizing radiation. Organic food must be grown on land that has been chemical free for three years.

CHEF COSTA'S COOKING CORNER

When reading food labels, natural and organic is not interchangeable. Free range, hormone-free and natural may appear on labels; however, organic food may only be listed on labels if it has been certified by USDA as meeting organic standards.

Organic farming has grown by 20 percent annually, but only accounts for about 3 percent of the food market. Farmers are considering organic food because there is generally four times the profit than from conventional food.

Organic foods sounds pretty good, but let us look at these interesting facts and the rest of the story. A 20/20 investigative report on ABC made the case that organic food is not necessarily safer than conventional food and might actually be more dangerous because the manure used in compost may be more dangerous than the chemical residues. Manure may contain E Coli bacteria, which can be spread to humans. Manure may not kill micro-organisms in the soil that fertilizers kill.

Consumer Reports stated that no one should avoid fruits and vegetables for fear of pesticides. The health benefits overwhelm any possible risk.

Organic foods are not inherently tastier than conventional food. A taste test revealed free-range chicken tasted average, among nine chickens tested.

Mark McClellan, director of the Institute of Food Science & Engineering at Texas A&M University, states that organic food cannot always supply food free from pathogens or pesticides and cannot provide our country with a more nutritional, diverse and safe food supply.

USDA is now considering approving the use of 38 ingredients that are non-organic to be added to organic food and still be labeled organic. A prime example of this is a major beer company will be allowed to use non-organic hops, which is the main ingredient in the production of its product, and still be able to label it organic!

So where does that leave us? If you want to use organic food, expect to pay more. Is it worth it? You will have to decide for yourself. Now here are some recipes that will work no matter what you use.

Baked Stuffed Figs

Ingredients
 6 ounces blue cheese
 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts

1/4 cup chopped Italian parsley
 4 ounces thinly cut ham chopped small 12 figs

Directions
 Mix together all ingredients except the figs. Cut an X in the middle of the fig and stuff each fig with the mixture. Bake for 8-10 minutes at 325 degrees or until cheese is melted. Serve warm. Yield: 12 servings.

Mediterranean Fish

Ingredients
 4 tilapia filets
 8 ounces red onion chopped
 1 small red pepper chopped
 1 medium tomato chopped
 1 clove garlic sliced
 2 ounces olive oil
 2 ounces butter
 2 ounces Kalamata olives.

Directions
 Place all ingredients except fish in a sauté pan and cook until onions are soft. Add 6 ounces of feta cheese and pour mixture over the fish filets. Place in 350 degree oven and bake for 10 minutes or until fish is tender. Serve warm. Yield: 4 servings.
