Some criminal cases are unusual, humorous or just outright odd. And there's no shortage of them on the Treasure Coast. This column will highlight cases that often leave observers shaking their heads.

Manufacturing crime

A Port St. Lucie man's devious plan turned on him when he was arrested last week for making a false report.

The man, who was in his vehicle, encountered his apparently estranged girlfriend, who had apparently left a dress at his residence.

He spoke with her about patching up the relationship and giving her the dress back. He drove her to his residence and supposedly went inside to get the dress while she was waiting outside.

But instead of getting the dress, he called police to have her arrested for trespassing.

One must wonder how someone can be trespassing when the property owner invites him or her onto the property.

And police wondered that also. So instead of police arresting the woman, they arrested the man.

He admitted to police the whole plot was to get the woman arrested.

What plan will he come up with next? Give her money and then ask police to arrest her for theft?

Man arrested after shooting

By Jay Meisel
jmeisel@hometownnewsol.com

MARTIN COUNTY — A man was arrested last week after another man was shot in the arm, authorities said.

Anthony Leonard James Ludovico, 21, 31210 Hartman Road, San Antonio, Fla., was arrested Aug. 12 and charged with aggravated battery.

Witnesses told Martin County deputies Mr. Ludovico came outside of his residence and approached Michael Lauderdale, the shooting victim, an arrest affidavit said.

Mr. Ludovico then shot a gun in the air, pointed it at Mr. Lauderdale's face and then shot him in the arm, witnesses told deputies.

The shooting was apparently preceded by an altercation earlier between the two men, the report said.

Mr. Ludovico told deputies the earlier altercation started after he thought Mr. Lauderdale was going to steal something from a boat belonging to a friend.

However, nothing was reported stolen from the boat and Mr. Lauderdale was not

MARTIN COUNTY — On Aug. 14, 34,549 ballots were cast in the primary election in Martin County Those votes decided who would move onto the November elections, and nine other open positions in the county, including sheriff and superintendent of schools.

Three of the primaries, including sheriff, were open to all Martin County residents because the Republican candidates faced no other party's opposition.

William Snyder won the sheriff's seat over David Dees and John "Ski" Pietruszewski.

"I want to take a moment and thank everyone for their unwavering support," Mr. Snyder posted to his Facebook page Tuesday night.

County boundary to change

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — With the primary elections completed, Martin County residents will see some northern boundaries move.

The residents of the community Beau Rivage, who have been lobbying for more than a year to be part of Martin County, got their day at the polls on Aug. 14.

Of the 300 residents who voted, 283 or 94.33 percent, voted in favor of becoming part of Martin County.

The 129-acre community is currently part of St. Lucie County, but is surrounded by Martin County properties.

In 2011, State Sen. Joe Negron, R-Stuart, held a town hall meeting and later supported the residents' request to place the annexation matter before voters on the primary ballot.

There was high turnout in the community on this issue, since only 550 residents who live in the area were allowed to vote.

Former clients react to wedding planner's arrest

By Samantha Joseph
sjoseph@hometownnewsol.com

STUART — Clients who said they had an unpleasant surprise when their wedding planner "disappeared into thin air" with their deposits are welcoming news of his arrest.

Justin Jeacoma, a groom who faced canceling his June wedding, is among more than a dozen clients who filed complaints against Palm City businessman Marc Bergeron.

"I'm not looking for any reimbursement," Mr. Jeacoma said. "I just want to make sure he's in jail so nobody else can get scammed."

Mr. Bergeron remains at the Martin County Jail, following his extradition from Texas. Arlington authorities arrested him after a routine traffic stop led to the discovery of outstanding warrants in Florida. He faces charges of committing an organized scheme to defraud of less than $20,000, as well as an unrelated count of violation of probation for driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

Bond has been set at $80,000 for the 52-year-old Stuart man of 2740 S.W. Martin Downs Blvd.

"I think it's wonderful he's been arrested," said Jayne Raynolds, a Port St. Lucie-based caterer who has since fulfilled contracts for several of Mr. Bergeron's former clients.

Her company, Silver Platter Entrées, has donated more than $10,000 in goods and services to clients who lost deposits.

"I think he needs to be punished for what he's done to these people,"

Downtown turns into dance party

By Brittany Llorente
bllorente@hometownnewsol.com

STUART — When people start dancing in the streets of downtown Stuart, it symbolizes the end of summer and a celebration that started 25 years ago.

The Dancin' in the Streets celebration will take over the streets of downtown Stuart Saturday, Aug. 25 from 6 p.m. to midnight.

Last year, the celebration brought nearly 8,000 people to the downtown area.

The event that started in 1987 features four stages of live music, bands, street performers, vendors, a skate ramp and more.

Every year, the dreams of those founding members, who saw a struggling downtown and fought to bring it back to life, is reborn.

Annie MacMillian, one of the founding Stuart Main Street members, is the committee chairwoman for this year's event.

"As we were cleaning up the next, day a young man drove by and shouted 'great party, lady,'" Ms. MacMillian said in a press release. "Then he asked if we were going to do it again the next year."

Rachael Snyder is the event coordinator for Dancin' in the Street, owns a business in downtown Stuart and sits on the Stuart Main Street and Stuart Downtown Business Association. She has volunteered at the past events and says that she has downtown pride.

"Dancing in the Streets is the best way to explain it because that is really what it is," she said. "It is very kid-friendly during the day with a skate ramp and activities including bounce houses and face painters. From 9 p.m. to midnight it is a street party for those people ages 21 and over. This year we have a lot of national tribute bands."

The live performances will include Alter Egos,

Cheryl Sweeney of Palm City and Rachel Land Greve of Port St. Lucie danced together to live music at a previous Dancin' In the Streets in downtown Stuart. The Dancin' in the Streets celebration will take over the streets of downtown Stuart Saturday, Aug. 25 from 6 p.m. to midnight

Live Bait, Earthbound Misfits, Ramble On, Livin' on a Prayer and Never Stop Believing, all tribute acts for artists such as the Eagles, Jimmy Buffet and Pink Floyd.

The feel-good=time of the event is boosted by the help given to those in need, as the event is one of Stuart Main Street's largest fundraisers.

"It is our main event, fundraising or otherwise, for the year," Ms. Snyder said. "We work very hard on it all year-round."

Proceeds from the event support the other various Main Street events during the year, such as the Christmas parade and the fireworks shown every Fourth of July, as well as business ventures such as advertising and marketing campaigns to boost business in the downtown area.

Tickets to the event are $10 and children 5 and under are free.

Cataracts

A cataract is clouding of the eye's lens. The cloudy lens blocks the passage of light through the eye. As a result, the image that reaches the retina, and which is sent to the brain, is cloudy and vision is poor.

Cataracts are the leading cause of poor vision in adults. However, the development of cataracts does not mean a loss of sight. Treatment of cataracts is over 98% successful in restoring good vision painlessly.

Symptoms of Cataracts
• Dimming or Blurring of Vision • Halos or glare around lights • Double vision • Colors appear less brilliant • Feeling of "film" over the eyes • Frequent changing or cleaning of glasses • Difficulty driving or reading hard work and dedication of each of you. Day after day you worked to make the Snyder for Sheriff Team better and stronger. You are the reason for this victory. I am blessed to have each of you in my life! Thank you and God Bless!"

Laurie Gaylord bested Nancy Kline, who served as superintendent of schools for the last four years.

Ms. Gaylord thanked her entire team via her Facebook page Thursday night.

"I am humbled by the outpouring of support we received from the entire community," she said. "I appreciate all of the hard work and dedication you gave to the campaign. From hosting events, helping with fundraising, building our signs, walking neighborhoods, waving signs and working our polls, I am thankful to each of you for your longstanding support!"

The two open seats in the school board were the won by the slimmest margins in the election.

For the school board District 5 seat, Michael DiTerlizzi defeated Jacki Jackson by 407 votes, totaling less than 1 percent.

"I was a commissioner for eight years and one of my goals was to get on the school board and affect positive change," Mr. Diterlizzi said. "I want to end the bickering and the fighting and get everyone to agree on the best way to help the children."

In a three-way race for school board District 2 seat, Marsha Powers beat Tony George and Jeff Ralicki to the finish line by a narrow 238 votes.

"I am so thankful & humbled by all the support I have received," Ms. Powers said on her election Facebook page. "You all are amazing! With your support, we had more votes than any other candidate."

There were three county commission seats open in three different districts.

Incumbent Doug Smith, won against Henry Copeland and Tom Fullman for the District 1 seat.

John Haddox beat Brandon Tucker for the District 5 seat.

"It's nice when you put a lot of hard work into a campaign that you come out as a winner," said Mr. Haddox who is looking forward to the next couple months.

"I will be meeting community leaders and preparing myself to get sworn in and serve the community."

County commission District 3 seat winner Anne Scott beat Patrick Hayes in the primary, and goes on to face independent Craig Woll in the general election.

For property appraiser, incumbent Laurel Kelly held out against R.C. "Rick" Lussy.

The general elections will be held on Nov. 6. Visit www.martinvotes.com for more information.

she said.

Authorities said Mr. Bergeron left town with about $17,000 in deposits for unfulfilled contracts.

Several clients had booked weddings, socials and even a sweet-16 birthday party at his Crystal Reception Hall, located at 4195 S.W. High Meadows Ave. in Palm City.

Mr. Jeacoma's mother, Amy, paid a $1,200 deposit last February to the wedding planner whom she said promised a dream ceremony for her 21-year-old son and his fiancée, Michelle.

But she soon learned that what seemed like too-good-to-be-true deals on wedding and party packages turned out to be just that.

"(Mr. Bergeron) seemed like a great guy that was offering a lot for a really good price. He promised us the world but basically he disappeared on us," Ms. Jeacoma said.

"He auctioned off everything in the building and took everybody's money."

Her son had a June 10 wedding, thanks only to Ms. Raynolds and an industry network called the Wedding Professionals of the Treasure Coast.

The group's members have provided thousands in free services to frantic brides and other clients who came forward.

Traxx Entertainment, Michael & Josephine Photography, Cakes by Elena and Country Club Florists are among those who contributed. A Paradise Wedding, another service provider, donated an arch, linen, centerpieces and other items.

"The main thing was that Silver Platter and the other vendors really did an excellent job for no profit and made our wedding happen," Mr. Jeacoma said. "We're very thankful for that."

The local wedding planners said they wanted to help reassure clients that several reputable professionals worked in the industry.

"The reason we started this group is because we know there are unscrupulous people out there," Ms. Raynolds said, adding that the network's members all have at least two years in business and are licensed and bonded.

"I think right now clients are gun shy. We want to leave them knowing there are good people out there. Silver Platter probably wouldn't have done this if we didn't know we could count on our friends and fellow wedding professionals to help."

Phony dealer window stickers circumvent intent of federal law

Chances are you never bought a new car without a Monroney label. You may not even recognize the name "Monroney," and think of the label that appears on all new cars as simply the "sticker or the "window sticker."

Only if you bought a car before 1958 would you not have had this federally mandated window sticker attached to your new car.

Sen. Mike Monroney was the driving force behind this federal law, chapter 28, sections 1231-1233 and title 15 of the United States code. This law requires all car manufacturers to affix a manufacturer's suggested retail price, MSRP, on every new car and truck they sell in the form of a window sticker. This MSRP is the same for all cars of the same make, model, year and accessories. This federally mandated window sticker can only be removed by the car buyer and failure to adhere to this law is punishable by up a $10,000 fine and one year in jail per offense.

The reason this law was passed in 1958 is car dealers were resorting to deceptive advertising and sales practices to inflate the price of cars and prevent accurate price comparisons by car buyers. Car dealers were adding on extra charges, over-allowing on trade-in allowances and offering artificial discounts.

Because there was no standard price on any car, the dealer could quote any price he wanted as the retail price of the car. If a car buyer shopped at three different Ford dealers for a specific Ford model with the same accessories, he would be quoted three different retail prices. The discount he was offered was just a function of how high the dealer wanted to make the retail price.

The trade-in allowance could be as high as the customer wanted just by marking up the new car higher.

Well, you guessed it, today in 2012, 54 years later, car dealers are "adding on extra charges, over-allowing on trade-in allowances and offering artificial discounts" to deceive their customers just like they did prior to 1958. The main deceptive device the dealers invented to accomplish this was the "addendum label or sticker." It is also referred to occasionally as a supplemental sticker.

I've written about this before and I used the name "phony Monroney." I call the addendum label this because most dealers design their own stickers, addendum labels, to look identical to the federal Monroney labels. They use the same colors, logos, size and right down to the same font size and style. This is clearly an attempt to deceive the car buyer into believing the total price is the official manufacturer's suggested retail price. Sadly, it doesn't have to be a very good counterfeit because many car buyers never even look at the Monroney sticker on the car they buy.

Almost all car dealers add an addendum sticker next to the Monroney sticker. The addendum stickers usually list dealer added accessories that have very low cost to the dealer but very high markups to the car buyer.

Common accessories are: paint sealant or polish,

Leaving the Treasure Coast

Well, Treasure Coast, I really, really tried but I've got to say goodbye or adios.

When I decided to open a branch of my business here in 2006, I really thought this would be a great place to live, work and raise my kids. But, unfortunately it's not.

Between the traffic, the city officials who make doing business a bureaucratic nightmare, or expect a "perk of the job" to get things done, the nasty old bigots with their white pointy hoods and Confederate flags, the lack of quality in the schools, though not the teachers who seem to be at the brunt of it, from the state, district and mediocre parents, who all seem to think their little darlings are all budding Einsteins, when really most, if they even graduate, will be lucky to find a job flipping burgers.

The poor choice of shops, restaurants, though I will make an exception for Bonefish Grill and Pueblo Viejo, and theaters, plus the general undercurrent of anger and mediocrity, means I have to move.

The fact I'm making about 40 percent more with fewer employees than my main office out west, is neither here or there, it's a quality-of-life issue, something most people here are clueless about.

On the plus side, seven of my 10 employees and their families have decided to also move west, (which I am paying for). Nothing like treating your employees like human beings, eh? That's a novel concept here in "paradise."

So, all you bigots can rest easy for a while there will be 33 less legal Hispanic people in your grocery store lines, and even worse, some of them have to use food stamps. Oh the nerve of those taxpaying citizens. But don't forget to be on your guard all you bigots. I'm sure, in your minds, there are swarms of brown-skinned people massing at the borders wanting to take their place, lock and load Florida, lock and load!

So, next week as we head through the Panhandle and the Treasure Coast and Florida is a speck in the rear-view mirror, I can only hope that one day some of the nasty racists who make the Treasure Coast home will eventually find some love in their hearts for their fellow human beings of all races and colors.

If not, then hopefully, with the onset of global warming (though most of you are in denial) Florida will go the same way as the legendary city of Atlantis, though trust me no one in the future will either miss or even bother looking for Florida !

Problems with power surges

Been having power surges from FP&L for over a year and have called them several times to complain but to no avail.

Well had another one the other night and woke up to a fridge that did not work. Had a company come out and say that my computer board was fried. So I called FP&L again and it was sent to claims department. So they just called and said we see that it happened again, but sorry, it looks like an animal did it so we don't have to pay. How convenient.

Removal of freedoms?

Mr. Morgan was 100 percent correct. For many years, Washington has been subtly and clandestinely removing our freedoms.

Remember how the mid-west farmers were family men, not corporations and we didn't have salmonella nor e coli? Do the American people remember how Wall Street and the Federal Reserve Bank manipulated the economy to cause the farmers to go bankrupt?

Perhaps we should go back a few years to 1933 when George Bush's grandfather was a gang leader to overthrow the Roosevelt administration, including assassinating president Roosevelt if he didn't abdicate. The Bush gang members were American-born terrorists, Henry Ford, HJ Heinz, the Harrimans, Kuhn & Loeb, etc. The story is on YouTube.

In 1953 the U.S. also had the duly elected leader of Iran deposed and then installed the shah as the torturer. I wonder why Iran hates us and does not trust us?

Let's come up to President Kennedy's presidency. There was a proposal to load an airplane up with college students and fly it over Cuba and shoot it down. Now, this is extreme politics. Oh yes, President Kennedy refused to permit an act like this and the clique were mad. Another reason for Kennedy's assassination. So today we can expect anything from Washington to further their agenda for global order.

Yes, I do believe this government should never be permitted to interrogate or investigate itself. They recently gave Goldman Sachs a free bill of health yet, these people control much of the economy. Sept. 11 was a setup to war. It had to be a setup, but you can see how bloodthirsty and vicious the government can be when it, too, is run by a massive pack of sociopaths.

Yes let's have a full investigation of the Kennedy assassination and the entire Sept. 11, but this time with civilian assigned judges and investigators, before they have passed away or have been removed by the world's most powerful mafia.

Our government is at a crossroads. Either we depend on a top-down, all-powerful government or we go for an America which prospers and grows with sound money, low tax rates, limited government and fewer government regulations. Government versus freedom. We pray voters choose wisely.

Editor's note: To watch the YouTube video of the alleged plot to overthrow Roosevelt, go to www.youtube.com/watch?v=b_NDJYUb4Ag. Operation Northwoods was the plan in question that was rejected by the Kennedy administration. Use "Operation Northwoods" as key search words for more information.

Students and administrators from Empowerment International in Granada, Nicaragua, and photographers from around the world with The Giving Lens posed for a final, group photo after spending a week together learning about photography and creating images to help give the students new skills.

Photographers connect with Nicaraguan youth

CHIEF PHOTOG
MITCH KLOORFAIN

The hardest part of planting a seed is waiting to see the growth of what that seed will produce.

During a trip to Nicaragua with The Giving Lens, a group of nine photographers were on board to teach students of Empowerment International the craft and skills of photography and plant seeds that will hopefully produce a great crop in the future.

We were in Granada, Nicaragua, for only a week, but in that short time we grew strong, life-long relationships as we honed their skills and techniques with cameras and by processing their images.

By the middle of the week we had climbed two volcanoes, Masaya and Mombacho, took a sunset tour on the water, practiced street photography in one of the local markets and returned to the barrio for a personal tour of the lives of the photography students.

These volcanoes are vast. They grow from the ground and don't stop until they are literally in the clouds.

Even though they see the volcanoes on their horizons, none of the students had ever made the journey in their own backyard where others have traveled thousands of miles to do so.

When we finally got to the top, we were met with heavier winds, much cooler temperatures and a visibility of about 100 feet to go with the rainy mist dampening our clothes.

The visiting photographers with The Giving Lens knew where we were going and dressed for it.

The students hiked the volcanoes in what they had which meant flip flops, second-hand dress shoes, thin T-shirts and maybe a borrowed extra shirt by someone who brought a spare.

We stopped at plants and flowers that caught a ray of sunlight, if just for a few moments, and showed the students how to use their cameras like magnifying glasses to create macro photos.

At an altitude of 4,400 feet we taught them to create interesting scenic landscape images by including a foreground element such as a unique rock, tree or other object on the hiking trail around the volcano's rim.

Another excursion took our entire group on two separate small boats zig-zagging Lake Nicaragua's sights during the prime late afternoon light and its connected, long late afternoon shadows.

Lake Nicaragua is speckled with hundreds of islands, some not much bigger than the singular house that sits upon them.

fabric coat such as Scotch Guard, stripes, nitrogen in tires and cheap theft deterrents such as window etching. A package of these accessories will typically cost the dealer less than $100 but will carry a retail asking price of $995 to $2,995 or higher.

In addition to dealer accessories, there is commonly an additional markup to the MSRP carrying an innocuous, indecipherable label such as ADM, MAA or RMV. These letters stand for additional dealer markup, market adjustment addendum and regional market value.

The amount varies from dealer to dealer and is simply a function of how much chutzpah the dealer has and how gullible he thinks his customers are.

Currently there's a dealer in South Florida, West Palm Beach Kia, that marks up every one of its new cars by $6,998 more than the Monroney label, the MSRP! This comes from a virtually worthless $2,500 "appearance and protection package" and a $4,498 regional market value."

You might ask yourself, "Who could possibly fall for advertising a big discount when the dealer first marks the cars up $7,000 more than MSRP?"

You will be surprised to learn this dealer is one of the highest-volume sellers of any make in Florida. As you know, Kia is not one of the more popular selling cars, so what other than this advertising can you attribute to their success?

Deceptive advertising and sales practices work and that's why Congress passed a law 54 years ago to stop exactly this practice. I don't pretend to be an attorney, but it seems to me that what dealers are now doing is flaunting a federal law.

What Sen. Monroney envisioned and the law he introduced was to protect car buyers from exactly what West Palm Beach Kia is doing so successfully today. Sen. Monroney wanted all car buyers to be able to compare a discount offered by one Kia dealer with other Kia dealers on the same year, model and equipped Kia. Adding a $7,000 markup to the MSRP so larger discounts can be advertised and larger trade-in allowances can be offered is flaunting the intent of chapter 28, sections 1231-1233 and title 15 of the United States code.

If it isn't a direct violation, it absolutely is a circumvention of its purpose and intent.

Anti-superman?

In comic books and the movies, Superman is a force for good, going after bank robbers and other criminals.

But in Stuart, a man wearing a Superman undershirt and blue jeans was the criminal. Police say he robbed the Chase Bank at 2280 S.E. Federal Highway on Aug. 16 around noon.

He's described as being 5 feet 10 inches tall and was wearing a white hat with an oval-shaped legal.

Maybe the man will surrender realizing he misunderstood mission of Superman.

Anyone with information about the bank robbery should contact Detective Nick Briglia at (772) 287-1122.

Shoplifting before work

Shopping at a competitor while wearing your work uniform may not be the greatest idea. But an even worse idea is to shoplift at the competitor while wearing the work uniform.

An employee at a Wal-Mart in Sebastian reported a man wearing a Publix uniform handed a Wal-Mart employee an old receipt and then ran out without paying for toilet paper.

During the escape, the man hit a parked car.

Later, Sebastian police found the man at his job at Publix in Roseland and arrested him for shoplifting the toilet paper and leaving the scene of the accident.

Apparently, that he wore his Publix uniform during the shoplifting made it easier for police to find him.

islands with the help of an experienced boat guide who pointed out birds, monkeys and landmarks in Spanish.

It was thrilling to watch the students discover their new surroundings while also showing them how to capture and preserve them.

Due to some bad weather we were held back from taking a trip to another barrio where Empowerment International works with a smaller group of students in a very remote area. I was sorry to have missed meeting more of the group. Instead, the mid-afternoon rainstorms, much like Florida's, forced us inside to work with the students on organizing and editing images in the computer.

Images that are created only have value if they can be accessed and found later with an easy to navigate filing system.

After going over those basics and a few Photoshop and Lightroom skills to make the images pop, it was clear to see their understanding of these new concepts was making a difference in their workflow as photographers.

This time together ended up being the highlight of this journey second only to the family style meals we shared.

While several groups were working on the computers, another was setting up a gallery of framed images made by the students for an upcoming showcase of their work.

"For four years now I have dreamed of creating a tour where photographers could come and shoot alongside our kids and explore Nicaragua in unison, with the idea of an equal co-learning experience," said Kathy Adams, EI founder and executive director.

"For this to finally happen is a dream come true. The kids have not stopped talking about the tour and the participants that came seem to have been extremely impacted in a positive way. There is no doubt it was a win-win situation," she said.

As our days together were winding down we knew it would be difficult to say goodbye.

We ended our time together as it began, with public affirmations of what we all got out of our time together except for one difference. This time there were tears.

We came to plant the proverbial seeds of photography and these will grow, like any plant, with nurturing.

I saw the changes we made in a week. I look forward to additional growth in the next month, year and more.

If you want to be part of making a difference while also having them make a difference in you visit www.empowermentinternational.org and tell them The Giving Lens sent you.

Chamber names Business of Year

For Hometown News
newsfp@hometownnewsol.com

MARTIN COUNTY — In less than two years, Peter's Hardware Center has risen from a new, family owned and operated local hardware store to the Palm City Chamber of Commerce's 2012 Business of the Year. The chamber recently honored its owner, Peter Wernick, with this annual award.

"Opening a business in this economic climate is not easy," said Don Cuozzo, Palm City Chamber president.

"Owning two proves to be even more of a challenge. But if you know anything about this business owner, challenge is his middle name."

Mr. Wernick opened Peter's Hardware in August 2010 and since 2005, he also has owned Peter's EcoWater in Stuart/Jensen Beach.

Mr. Cuozzo also acknowledged Mr. Wernick's efforts during the chamber's recent membership drive.

"Peter benefited our member count, as well as the other members of the membership committee team," said Mr. Cuozzo.

"He continually cheered them on and helped with ways to promote membership to potential businesses. When we need him, he is always there. Even in the literal sense, he is there. If something breaks or needs repair around the chamber, he comes across the street to our aid as our very own 'Mr. Fix It.'"

"I am humbled and honored to receive such a prestigious award," said Mr. Wernick.

"I am proud to be a part of the Palm City business community. Our mission was to provide the community with a local hardware store that has everything Palm City needs. When you walk in you're greeted with a friendly smile. The store is well lit and clean. We offer excellent customer service and great pricing and we're open every day at a convenient location."

Peter's Hardware Center is open Monday through Sunday, 8 a.m.-6 p.m. For more information, call (772) 600-5088 or visit www.petershardware.com.

Registration open for education series

For Hometown News
newsfp@hometownnewsol.com

MARTIN COUNTY — Registration is now open for Martin County's Citizens Academy and Resource Education Series.

The next class begins on Sept. 27. Citizens must register in advance to participate. The series offers residents an inside look into county government operations.

The program aims to increase citizens' awareness and understanding of the variety of services offered by county government.

Citizens who wish to familiarize themselves with the function and purpose of their local government are encouraged to register for Martin County CARES. There is no charge to participate.

In a series of weekly sessions held over a six- week period, citizens will hear presentations from all departments under the board of county commissioners and the county's constitutional officers, including the sheriff and tax collector.

A visit to several county schools and a presentation by the Children's Services Council are highlights. Field trips are arranged to county facilities, so plan to spend some time at the jail and emergency operations center.

Great eats on the water

JENSEN BEACH — If you happen to be lounging around Jensen Beach, Shuckers is an elegant retreat out of the sun and into the ac that you're just walking distance from.

As the only place to eat on the water between Jupiter and Fort Pierce, Shuckers is attached to the Island Beach Resort in Jensen Beach.

With outside seating, this restaurant can accommodate about 350 people and is equipped with a fully stocked tiki bar. The bar area has three TVs great for catching your favorite football or baseball game no matter what the season.

Shuckers is a restaurant with a reputation for fresh seafood, large portions and exceptional service. A recent trip to Shuckers proved that this is one Jensen Beach restaurant that hasn't lost its touch.

The menu has an extensive list of starters, featuring a raw bar. Many items on the raw bar can come either hot or cold. The raw bar combo features clams, oysters and shrimp.

The conch chowder was a perfect mixture of conch, vegetables and spices leaving your taste buds yearning for more.

Main entrée portions lived up to expectations. The filet mignon was large in size and came with three large red potatoes and a steamed vegetable medley. It was extremely flavorful and very tender.

The mahi mahi entrée came with two full-size filets, three large red potatoes and a steamed vegetable medley. The mahi was juicy and cooked to perfection.

This is a restaurant that not only pays close attention to taste and atmosphere, but also to the service each waiter delivers.

Organizations to benefit from performance

For Hometown News
News@hometownnewsol.com

MARTIN COUNTY — Treasure Coast singer Jonathan Cummings will perform with his jazz ensemble at StarStruck Theatre on Aug. 25 in a concert he is calling, "Jazz, Then & Now."

Tickets are $25 and 10 percent of the proceeds will be contributed to The Fort Pierce Jazz and Blues Society. Another 10 percent will go to St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Stuart.

Several members of the Fort Pierce Jazz and Blues Society will join Mr. Cummings on stage for a night of what he calls traditional jazz music.

"Most people who were alive during the 30s and 40s refer to this kind of music as the pop music of their time," said Mr. Cummings.

"But the truth is, this music — made popular by singers like Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett and Ella Fitzgerald — is traditional jazz."

Mr. Cummings fell in love with jazz in the late 1970s when he was 15. By the time he was 18 he had already learned to scat, an improvisational vocal performance that is specific to jazz music.

"Jazz is in my very soul," he said.

"The problem is finding an audience for the music today. What's the difference between a rock musician and a jazz musician? A rock musician plays three chords in front of 3,000 fans. A jazz musician plays 3,000 chords in front of three fans," he said.

In an effort to promote jazz, one organization after another champions the preservation of the music, claiming it is the only true American art form, with roots existing exclusively in the U.S.

Whether that statement is true or not, jazz music, with its horn players, upright acoustic bass and improvisational solos, is radically different from other genres.

Basketball coach to make appearance

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — Billy Donovan, University of Florida head basketball coach, will make a rare appearance on the Treasure Coast for a dinner event to be held 5 p.m. Aug. 28 at the Indian River State College, Treasure Coast public safety training complex at 4600 Kirby Loop Road in Fort Pierce.

Hosted by the Treasure Coast Gator Club, tickets for the event are $45 for club members or $55 for nonmembers.

"The board of directors of the Treasure Coast Gator Club recently learned that they were selected as one of two clubs in the state that would have the opportunity to host 'An Evening with Billy Donovan,'" said Richard Giessert, immediate past president.

"In February we were awarded the 2011 Outstanding In-State Club by the alumni association, which alone is an incredible honor," Giessert said.

"Having Coach Donovan choose us to host one of his only Florida appearances is an awesome reward for the hard work and dedication our members have shown in supporting the University of Florida and especially the future of our Gator Nation."

Under Mr. Donovan's leadership, the University of Florida basketball program quickly became established among a short list of elite college programs in the nation.

In 2007, his Gators became just the seventh team in NCAA history and the first in 15 years to win back-to-back titles.

He joined Adolph Rupp as only the second coach in Southeastern Conference history to guide his team to multiple national titles.

In April 2010, he received the Wooden Award's "Legends of Coaching" honor, becoming the youngest person to ever receive the award.

All proceeds from the event will benefit scholarships for local students attending the University of Florida. Seating is limited, so early reservations are strongly suggested.

Tickets can only be purchased online at www.tcgatorclub.com.

HOBE SOUND — Hobe Sound Animal Protection League has begun planning its eighth annual Paws for a Cause festival to be held Nov. 3 from noon to 4 p.m.

The sponsorship program for the event kicked off recently with a donation of $5,000 from longtime friend and supporter, Carol Smith.

Sponsorship opportunities are available at levels starting at $250. By signing up early, sponsors will enjoy additional perks associated with each of the various levels of sponsorship. Those who sponsor or purchase tickets for the event prior to Oct. 15 will be entered in a grand-prize drawing.

For the first time, this year's Paws for a Cause is expanding entertainment options to include carnival games and activities. As in the past, the event will offer equine and canine demonstrations, a bounce house, tours of the sanctuary, a silent auction, live music and an included lunch. A VIP lounge will be available at an additional charge.

Tickets for the event are $25, with children under age 12 admitted free when accompanied by an adult. VIP lounge tickets may be purchased for $100.

Kayaker ready to attempt trek across ocean

STUART — All systems are go for the first attempt to cross from Florida to the Bahamas in a kayak.

The Stuart-based Blue Marlin Cove Fishing Team and Blue Marlin Cove Resort, West End, Bahamas, have joined the history making event by providing safety boat assistance and destination lodging.

Kyle Jackson, the 21-year- old Port St. Lucie Navy veteran who is going to attempt to become the first person to paddle from Florida to the Bahamas, welcomed the new team members and said the crossing attempt may take place within days, depending on the weather and seas.

"It's really great to have Blue Marlin Cove and the Blue Marlin Cove Fishing Team as part of our team effort," said Mr. Jackson.

"Two previous attempts to put the crossing in motion were shut down due to problems with our support boat. Now, I'm just looking for that weather window of opportunity and we are going to make this happen."

The Blue Marlin Cove Fishing Team plans to trailer their custom outfitted 32-foot Deal Maker from Jensen Beach to Miami to allow Mr. Jackson to create the ocean trajectory he needs to successfully use the currents of the Gulf Stream to aid in his crossing.

Blue Marlin Cove, a world-class fishing destination and popular Bahamian resort will provide Mr. Jackson with a complimentary stay allowing him to recuperate.

The Blue Marlin Cove Fishing Team will transport Mr. Jackson and his California Cobra kayak back to the Florida mainland as part of their team effort.

Plenty of fish, but for how long is anybody's guess

FISHING
HENRY CAIMATTO

Weather has been perfect but the west wind the past few days has pushed the bait off the shore line. Yes you can see the fish, problem is casting to them. Just a little out of range but still a sight.

These next few days the wind will change and they will be back but for how long not sure.

If you have not been to the surf you need to come on down, tarpon, snook, bonita, Spanish macs, small cobia, the list is long but again, for how long. Every summer when the bait shows so does every species you would want. Some seasons they are here longer than others but as they came they will leave. Now is the time.

Casting anything that has a flash about it but it has to be small in profile. That is the key, match the hatch.

Interesting story about a young man who hooked a tarpon every bit his size, fought the fish for what seemed to be an hour, landed the fish, then he a three of his friends spent the next half hour in the surf to revive the fish. Young man, your efforts did not go unnoticed and myself and several other anglers who were there were impressed and thank you for the respect you showed that fish. Nice to see that respect.

This week you may have to drive to four not three access points but the fish are still with us, so as I said earlier, come on down.

Offshore this week we had weed lines in 80 feet straight out of the inlet. Dolphin were there, not big fish, but fish starting in the 15-pound class, 25 was the biggest coming from that area. Anglers you need to pay attention. The fish are up close.

George Mittler of Sea Psyche charters found his kings at the King Fish Numbers in 100 feet and there are plenty of sails all in that area so get your baits in the water sooner rather than later. The fish are up close.

Our bottom temps have returned to normal. Day Maker charters put a 94-pound AJ in the boat along with snapper, kings and plenty of bonitas fishing south of the inlet. Bottom temps are back to normal, current has slowed and yes, there are plenty of lobsters but please, if you see anglers fishing in an area, wait until they leave before putting up your dive flag.

Inside it has been plenty of trout and red fish but you have to fish early, from dark to about one hour after sun up is the bite time, using top water in 2 feet of water.

Both north and south of the Jensen Causeway excellent reports, but once that sun comes out the fish go to deeper water.

Tarpon and snook in the inlet, at the bridges, North Fork and south, but you have to look around and see what is there for them to eat then match the profile and yes, it will change form location to location.

Tarpon do not mind the sun but will stay in the deeper water and the snook will be deep. Snook season is closed and tarpon you cannot take, so be extra careful when handling them.

South Florida, I love this place.

Henry Caimatto is the owner of the Snook Nook Bait and Tackle shop in Jensen Beach.
