Local doctor nourishes needy families in Brevard

Face of Change event gathered 107,000 meals for Second Harvest Food Bank

By Meagan McGone
mmcgone@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE – Dr. Ross Clevens, a facial plastic and reconstructive surgeon in Brevard, organized his first meal-packaging event after traveling to Tanzania on medical mission trips and witnessing the lack of nutrition among the people.

The first Face of Change event gathered more than 100,000 meals that were shipped from Brevard to Tanzania in January.

Realizing that the need for food also hits home, Dr. Clevens organized a second Face of Change event in September. As a result, 107,000 bags of food were donated to Second Harvest Food Bank of Central Florida's Brevard Branch.

The Second Harvest Food Bank is a nonprofit organization that distributes food to 500 partner agencies throughout Central Florida, according to the organization's website, www.foodbankcentralflorida.org.

Almost 600 volunteers from Florida Air Academy in Melbourne and Clearlake Middle School in Cocoa gathered to package meals consisting of macaroni and cheese and rice and beans, said Claudia

Committee tackles issue of homeless in city park

One resident reports loitering and littering; others say homeless need help

By Dan Garcia

MELBOURNE – The problem of homelessness has been a thorny issue throughout Brevard County for years, Melbourne Mayor Harry Goode said at a recent City Council meeting.

But the issue arose again when a Fee Street resident complained to the City Council that homeless people being fed at a park by charity groups are creating nuisances, such as loitering, littering and public urination.

However, charity groups feeding the homeless at Wells Park say they will not stop carrying out their mission of helping the less fortunate.

As a result, Mayor Goode named several people – including advocates for the homeless, as well as a resident complaining about the homeless – to a task force to study the issue.

Kelly Cobb, a Fee Avenue resident, told the council that the park feedings attract some people who have been banned from The Daily Bread for violating its rule.

"It's a mass feeding," Ms. Cobb said, adding that a woman who feeds the homeless "stated that her goal is 200 sandwiches a day at that pavilion by the playground, by the children's unit, by the library and by the school.

"They use county bathrooms, and city workers are picking up trash the next day," Ms. Cobb said. "They are putting up tents, they have clothes racks. They are not getting permits, and these feedings are put on by businesses."

She added that the charitable organizations should pay for park clean-ups.

However, city clerk Cathleen Wysor said feeding the homeless does not require a permit.

"Feeding the homeless, distributing clothes, none of those activities require a permit," Ms. Wysor said. "If they're setting up tents, then it does fall under the special activity permitting process."

Mayor Goode told Ms. Cobb that the city has dealt with homelessness for many years, joining court actions and spending "thousands of dollars" on the issue.

"But the court system in this country is very lenient," Mr. Goode said.

After Ms. Cobb spoke, the mayor closed discussion on the issue, but councilman Mark LaRusso said the city could not act responsibly without hearing from all sides – so the topic was reopened.

Several advocates for the homeless told the City Council they will not stop feeding the homeless, as long as they are within public ordinances.

Ann Waithe said feeding the homeless is part of the ministry of First Pentecostal Church of Palm Bay, which brings canned food, clothing, toiletries, shoes and school supplies to the needy.

At age 100, he's a volunteer cop

Ernie Hedges may not get his man, so he outlives him

By Dan Garcia
dgarcia@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE – Ernest R. Hedges may have to get tough if he catches you doing something illegal at Melbourne Square Mall, where he is a volunteer police officer, mostly doing fingerprinting.

But Mr. Hedges really isn't all that tough.

He showed his soft and gentle side when he wrote a book in 2006 titled "Flowers for Cina," in memory of his late wife.

Mr. Hedges shared a wonderful life with Cina, who died in 1988. He has also outlived all nine of his brothers and sisters.

Sitting in his office at Melbourne Square Mall, getting ready for his shift as a volunteer officer, Mr. Hedges shook his head vigorously when asked if he thought he'd live as long as he has.

"No, I can't believe it," Mr. Hedges said. "I never thought I'd make it. But every morning, I get up. The more active I am, the better I feel."

Mr. Hedges turned 100 years old on Oct. 19.

He is blessed with a longevity that enables him to drive to work in Melbourne and to Grace Bible Church in Palm Bay, a congregation he joined in 1964 when he moved to Florida.

He spends a lot of his time writing, or working on his garden at home in West Melbourne. He has been a V-Cop, or volunteer, for 11 years.

Recently, he wrote a booklet titled "Genesis to Revelation" – A Birdseye View of The Scriptures."

"It's all God's words, not many of them are mine," he explained.

His family is planning a birthday celebration that will include his four children, 10 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. His two sons and two daughters live in Brevard or Indian River Counties.

Born on a farm in Courtland, Kan., he moved as a teenager to Cambridge, Wis., where he and a sister

Volunteer hours increase at county animal shelters

North Animal Care Center still in desperate need of help

By Meagan McGone
mmcgone@hometownnewsol.com

Brevard County Animal Service's shelters have seen an 88 percent increase in volunteer hours over the past four months.

"I am amazed every day of the participation from our volunteers in our community," said Jill Mollohan, volunteer coordinator for Brevard County Animal Services. "I'm happy to say that our volunteer base is growing every month."

Volunteers dedicated 68 hours at Brevard shelters in May. By September, the number of volunteer hours increased to 572.

"With the shelters moving forward and trying to decrease euthanasia and increase adoptions, the participation of volunteers is greatly needed," Ms. Mollohan said.

The county operates two animal shelters: The South Animal Care Center, located at 5100 West Eau Gallie Blvd. in Melbourne and The North Animal Care Center, located at 2605 Flake Road in Titusville.

Ms. Mollohan said volunteers are desperately needed at the North Animal Care Center, as volunteer hours have decreased at that location.

In May, volunteers spent 39 hours at the North Animal Care Center. Though the number climbed to 172 in June, it dropped to 32 hours by September.

"I am not sure what the issue really is," Ms. Mollohan said. "The location of the shelter is bad. Also, it is a small, old shelter and some volunteers have mentioned it's too depressing."

She said the numbers for the North Animal Care Center might not be as reliable as the numbers for the South Animal Care Center because volunteers forget to sign in and out.

opened a small bakery.

He moved to Florida in 1964 because his wife was suffering from hay fever, but it cleared up once they settled in Melbourne.

They opened Hedge's Bakery in Historic Downtown Melbourne and ran it for 15 years. He retired at 62 because of an inner ear infection, but that cleared up, too, and he has been blessed with good health ever since.

Recalling his youth, Mr. Hedges says he grew up during "the horse and buggy days," and didn't see an automobile until his dad traded a team of mules for a Model T Ford.

He recalls living through times tougher than today's recession — such as the Great Depression of 1929. He remembers working on a farm for $1 a day.

"When we bought that bakery, we were lucky because I couldn't find a job," he recalled.

Reflecting on today's tough economy, Mr. Hedges says he used to fingerprint 10 people in two hours at the Melbourne mall, mostly people who had just landed jobs.

"Now, if I have one or two fingerprint jobs in 10 hours, I'm lucky," he says.

But the Great Depression was worse, he said.

"I remember the soup lines, it was a terrible time," he recalled.

Mr. Hedges lost his father, who was struck by a car when Mr. Hedges was 19. He said his father had emigrated to America during the potato famine in Ireland.

Mr. Hedges recalls another infamous event, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

But mostly, he recalls the fond memory of meeting his wife during his U.S. Army days while stationed in Italy.

"I didn't want to go, but I was drafted," he recalled. "But my life has been great because I went halfway around to the world to meet my wife in Florence, Italy."

They were married in Italy in 1945.

"It was almost a divine appointment," he said, recalling that his future wife's brother offered to have his Italian family wash his clothes after a dusty Army exercise.

"I became the best-dressed soldier in the Fifth Army," he recalled.

To what does Mr. Hedges attribute his long and healthy life?

He says the secret is "whole grain bread and dark chocolate," and staying active. He mows his own one-acre lot.

He also says he doesn't get bogged down with worry and stress, leaving everything to God.

"I don't have anything to stress about," he said. "God has taken care of me for the last 100 years, and he's going to take care of me for the next 100 years."

Pastor David Cannon said Grace Bible Church will celebrate Mr. Hedges' milestone on Oct. 15.

"He's been an inspiration to us," Pastor Cannon said. "He joined our church as soon as he moved here. He has served on our elder board, and gave is some credibility."

Ernest Hedges' book, "Flowers For Cina," is available at Barnes & Noble or at the West Melbourne Library.

his truck cab to flip up his front license plate while going through a gateless toll lane on Interstate 95 in an attempt to hide it from cameras. Vaquiz had also bent up his rear plate so it couldn't be read by cameras, police said. Truck drivers have complained about steep toll increases that the Port Authority says it needs to finish building the new World Trade Center in Manhattan. By 2016 a five-axle truck will have to pay $105 to cross the bridge. A Port Authority police officer saw Vaquiz's license plate drop back into place and ordered the driver to pull over, but he did not stop, police said. Other police officers forced him to stop before he could go over the bridge.

Family call police after getting lost in corn maze

A corn maze near Boston proved too big a challenge for a couple and their children, who called out the local police to rescue them. Police in Danvers, Mass. received a frantic call from the family at Conners Farm. "We dispatched an officer, and he went up there and was actually yelling to the people," Sgt. Bob Bettencourt of the Danvers Police Department said. The manager of Conners Farm, Rich Potter, helped the police find the family. "It took us about, oh, a minute, a minute and a half to find them. We'd ask them to talk now and then. And we walked them back out again," he said. Usually, it takes visitors about 45 minutes to an hour to make their way through the twists, turns and dead-ends of the maze. For most visitors, getting lost is just all part of the fun. "It's a maze, that's the whole concept. You're supposed to get lost and then have fun and then find your way out again," one visitor said.

Woman gives birth after running Chicago Marathon

Amber Miller felt contractions just minutes after crossing the finish line at the Chicago Marathon. A few hours later, the suburban Chicago woman, who slogged her way through 26.2 miles while nearly 39 weeks pregnant, delivered a healthy baby girl. "For me, it wasn't anything out of the ordinary. I was running up until that point anyway," Miller told The Associated Press in an interview from the hospital where she was recovering Monday. "I am crazy about running."

Sunday's marathon was the eighth for the 27-year-old, who has been running for more than a dozen years. She found out she was pregnant with her second child days after signing up for the Chicago race and decided to play it by ear on whether or not she would run. When the baby hadn't been born by Sunday, she got clearance from her doctor to run. She completed it with a half-run half-walk approach, drinking lots of fluids and eating a lot along the way. She finished in 6:25:50, much slower than her usual marathon time, but still content. "Lots of people were cheering me on: 'Go pregnant lady!'" she said. "I was expecting some negative comments. I don't remember anything." It was not Miller's first marathon while pregnant.

we leave," she said. "We only put tents up when it rains."

Jeanetta Roller of Palm Bay, an ordained minister who leads the Gathered Gleanings ministry, quoted scripture to explain why she feeds the poor at the park.

"He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack. He that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse," Ms. Roller said, quoting the Bible.

"Some of us have not hidden our eyes, and we are feeding the homeless," Ms. Roller said. "I would encourage us to be about the Father's business and do what is right."

Tim Ritchey, assistant pastor of First Pentecostal Church of Palm Bay, said the "Food In The Park" program operates in the Melbourne park because "the need is the greatest" there."

"I don't think that by eliminating us, that crowd is going to go away," Mr. Ritchey said of the homeless.

Salvation Army Captain Jaime Bell was tapped to head the citizens task force.

"I feel horrible for the people who live on Fee Avenue," Mr. Bell said. "I'm sorry for the folks who see these things happening. Many of those in the margins of our community operate with different social norms.

"I feel sorry that there are people in our community that go hungry, many of them not by choice. I will help this city as much as the Salvation Army can," Mr. Bell said.

The City Council has directed staff to review a controversial Orlando ordinance that limits group feedings to 25 people.

The Orlando ordinance, adopted in 2006, was challenged in court, but was upheld by a federal appeals court. However, enforcement of the ordinance has been difficult.

ing to Central Brevard's website, www.sharingcenter.org.

"Brevard residents are invited to come out during Salute to Brevard Residents weekend to see what's new at Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex and to enjoy some quality time with family and friends," said William Moore, chief operating officer of Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex. "Thanks to the tremendous generosity of our neighbors here in Brevard, each year we have been able to provide more than 10 tons of food items to fill the pantries at the North, Central and South Brevard Sharing Centers in advance of the holiday season."

Dave Brubaker, vice president of the Central Brevard Sharing Center, said a record number of residents are struggling to put food on their tables this year.

"This food drive helps stock the shelves of our pantries, which is very important, especially in this challenging economy," Mr. Brubaker said.

In addition to contributing to the community, guests can enjoy the Kennedy Space Center Tour, the Shuttle Launch Experience, the U.S. Astronaut Hall of Fame, a 3D IMAX film, and STAR TREK LIVE, which includes an interactive exhibit of "Star Trek" artifacts and a shuttlecraft simulator adventure.

Andrea Farmer, public relations manager for the Kennedy Space Center Visitor Complex, said guests might experience lines for the tour of the Kennedy Space Center, the Shuttle Launch Experience and the 3D IMAX film. She said guests should be able to walk through the majority of the attractions.

She said she anticipates a strong attendance this year, as in the past.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for residents to see Kennedy Space Center as we honor residents who made the Space Shuttle Program possible and the program's many accomplishments," Ms. Farmer said.

To receive free admission, residents must show a proof of residency in the form of a driver's license or utility bill.

Skydive Taft owner David Chrouch says he fired part-time skydiving instructor and porn star Alex Torres and hasn't decided whether to fire the company's receptionist, Hope Howell, who he said was Torres' partner in the video. The video shows the two having sex in a plane before jumping out in tandem and continuing the act midair. NBC station KGET-TV in Bakersfield reported that Chrouch said that Torres put the stunt together in an attempt to get the attention of Howard Stern.

"Apparently they told my pilot it was OK to do this. And got here early in the morning before anyone got here and shot this," Chrouch told KGET. Authorities say Torres had posted the video on his blog but removed it on Monday. Chrouch said he found out about the stunt when a Taft police officer told him that the video was making the rounds at a local school. Taft police Lt. Ed Whiting told KGET-TV that no criminal charges are pending.

VIEWPOINT

There's no job too large or small for 'Let's Get to Work' days

Making doughnuts, serving school lunches, delivering newspapers and selling groceries — all jobs I was lucky to hold as a young man and jobs I am reliving as part of my 'Let's Get to Work' days.

Like many others, I have worked since I was a young person.

As the son of a truck driver and a JC Penney's clerk, my family struggled financially. To help make ends meet, I went to work at an early age.

I was always proud of the jobs I had and learned valuable lessons from each one I was fortunate enough to hold.

Now, as governor, I want to be sure that every person in this state has the same opportunity to get a job.

The goal of 'Let's Get to Work' Days is to experience first-hand the challenges, triumphs and importance of various professions, while also reliving the jobs I performed on my journey from public housing to the Governor's Mansion.

My very first 'Let's Get to Work' day was at Nicola's family-owned doughnut shop in Tampa. My first major foray into business was after I finished my tour of duty as an enlisted man in the U.S. Navy, when my wife Ann and I purchased a doughnut shop in Kansas City for my mother, Esther, to manage. At the time my father was not able to work and my mom needed an income to support my two younger brothers and younger sister; so my wife and I helped her run the doughnut shop while we were in college and working full-time. With that experience in mind, I enjoyed working side by side with Rachel, the owner, and the great employees at Nicola's Doughnuts and Bakery.

I spent my second 'Let's Get to Work' day at Audubon Park Public Elementary School in Orlando helping the cafeteria team clean, prepare and serve meals to hundreds of students. After lunch, Ann and I visited classrooms where we were able to talk with the wonderful students and teachers at Audubon Park Elementary. As a middle school student, I was fortunate to earn hot meals by helping prepare and serve lunch to my fellow students, so I truly appreciate the importance of making sure students have the nutrition needed to be successful in the classroom.

Last month I joined the 58,000 active-duty personnel stationed at Naval Air Station Jacksonville for my third workday. These experiences have proven to be extremely insightful and I am honored to have the opportunity to work with such dedicated individuals.

I will continue doing workdays each month throughout the remainder of my term as governor, and I look forward to performing one of these workdays in the Space Coast region.

You can suggest jobs for me to do in your town by visiting www.FLGov.com and clicking on 'Let's Get to Work' Days or e-mailing Rick.Scott@eog.myflorida.com.

You can stay up to date on my 'Let's Get to Work' Days by following me on www.twitter.com/flgovscott or visiting my Facebook page at www.facebook.com/scottforflorida.

Got something to say?

Call the Hometown Rants & Raves line at
(321) 242-1276
or e-mail brevnews@hometownnewsol.com. Callers are asked to refrain from making slanderous statements. Statements of fact will be checked for accuracy.

Move the rainwater to the desert

Hey, here's a great idea to help not only the United States, but will prevent lots of deaths and millions of dollars of destruction.

How about a national sewer system that connects every state to deposit their floodwaters out into the desert someplace?

Instead of going to Mars or the moon, why don't you work on something that would put millions of people to work and would be totally beneficial to this country?

Just ask the poor people who have gotten flooded out in the last 10 years and have had their lives destroyed.

Let's correct this problem. It would be the most ambitious tasks this country ever undertook.

If they can put a man on the moon for absolutely no reason, they can certainly do a giant task like this and give plenty of jobs throughout the country and eliminate the flooding once and for all.

Take the cheap junk back to the store

It's no secret that everything we have in our stores, especially Wal-Mart, is from China.

But it is also no secret that a lot of this stuff is junk, falls apart and is even dangerous.

When I get a product that is from China, especially from China, I bring it back to the store when it breaks.

I am not going to be ripped out for the cheap junk they send here.

If it doesn't work, let the shop that sells it send it back to China where it belongs, and tell them to stop sending us junk and send us good stuff.

'My last trip to the grocery store' was hysterical

I just finished reading Rants & Raves.

"My last trip to the grocery store" was priceless.

I was hysterical laughing over that. That is best and funniest piece I have seen in your paper since I can't remember when.

Whoever did this, kudos to them. It was funny, and it's so right about watching what you ask older people.

Oh, bye the way, the grocery store guy cannot banish you from the store.

As a senior citizen, there are discrimination laws about having many more rights than the rest of the population. (All you did was make some people in the store laugh.)

Just don't let anyone tell you that you can't go in the store.

Not offended by 'same-sex' marriages

I am very offended by the person who doesn't want same-sex marriage.

How bigoted and narrow-minded. Yes, those people may want to adopt children.

Statistics show that people who are in same-sex relationships tend not to be as abusive, and it would not really affect any kind of adoptions.

There are a lot of children sitting in foster care who would love to be adopted.

It has nothing to do with raising children.

Some of the people I know are straight and have not even had a child.

Some of the people I know who are lesbians would make the best parents. They are far more adapt at having a child and raising it than some other people who had a child.

Don't be so narrow-minded about same-sex marriage.

Try to accept, people. It's a union of God. You mentioned that marriage is a union of God.

God's way is not to judge people because they want to be in a same-sex marriage.

Run 3,000 gallons into the street and save money

I had my renters move out of my house. Their utilities were paid in full.

I did not connect the water and received a bill for approximately $60, a base charge, a utility tax, a disconnection fee, sanitation penalty and another penalty for $5, for what I have no idea.

Clearly stated on the bill was: "Usage: 0.00."

I figured it out. If I use 3,000 gallons and let it run into the street, my bill would be exactly the same.

So much for water conservation.

Thank you.

Too many bothersome telephone calls

I would like to respond to the article 'How do they get my numbers? Are they paying for them?'

Yes, they are paying for them.

It is all about demographics. You can buy any kind of a list you want.

You can be a Democrat, a Republican, very conservative, any age group, whatever kind of a demographic these people need, they can get it.

Let me offer you a solution, because I had the same problem. I was getting 30 or 40 calls a day, and that was too much.

If I want to make a contribution, I will choose who I make it to; and I will not be hassled by people on the phone.

If you have a computer or know someone who had a computer, go online to the national "Do Not Call" list.

Then, there will be blocks for your home phone and your cell phone. List them all.

Give them a few days, and I guarantee you will see a pretty big drop in the number of these calls you get.

And one more thing: If they continue to call and ignore what you have put on the list, find out who they are and ask them how they got your phone number.

Then tell them you are on the national "Do Not Call" list, and that means "Do not call me. Take my number off your list now or give me your supervisor."

And I think you are going to get some relief. Good luck.

Term limits are needed

This is the first time I have sent in something to the Hometown News.

I agreed 100 percent with the person who wrote about the Congressional reform.

The only thing I would like to add is that it is very important that we get term limits.

Term limits is very important. That way, we would get all those old 70-80-year-old career politicians out of there.

They are killing us. Most of them do not even remember how many homes they have. That really shocked me.

Thank you to the wonderful person who wrote in about Congressional reform.

The job bill

The Republicans are afraid to have a vote on Obama's job bill.

You can bet if it was unpopular, they would be rushing to vote on it.

That's it.

Firefighters: The other side of the story

After reading the Rants and budget article in your paper, it is time for someone to tell the truth, not using scare tactics.

He is obviously against the fire department union and the dedicated members who belong.

Here are the facts:

Fact No. 1: The Palm Bay Fire Department, Union Local No. 2446 of IAFF, did the unprecedented when they began negotiations with the city when they gave up raises, longevity pay, education pay, some paramedic incentives, vacation time and sick leave benefits, to mention a few.

This was done against the advice of counsel.

Why they did it is simple. They understand the city's situation with respect to finances and a declining income.

The voluntary concession was worth more than $2 million.

Fact No. 2: The retirement program that the firefighters belong to is the Palm Bay Police and Firefighters pension Fund.

During the firefighters negotiations, it was stated in an independent audit in an actuarial study that it was three best retirement programs in the state of Florida.

It is obvious that the Retirement Board does a better job managing money than the city does.

Fact No. 3: The Palm Bay police have been without a new contract for two years because up until now, the city council and the city refused to start the progress, which has now just begun.

This is not an oversight, but intentional, and it should be considered a violation of its obligation to the taxpayers.

In the past two years, not having a contract meant that members received all of their prior-approved benefits to include cost-of-living raises, longevity, bonuses, education pay, retirement and much more.

If the police give up what the firefighters did, the city would be multi-million dollars ahead to solve its problems.

The city council was elected to do its job, to include union negotiations and institute cost-saving measures.

Why wasn't it done?

Firefighters and police belong to the same retirement fund and contribute 8.76 percent of their pay each check.

Both the departments get the same benefits, or very similar benefits.

Again, this is not ever mentioned.

I guess it is easier to blame the firefighters for the city's problems for now and in the future.

Hudson's Furniture celebrates 30 years

Family-owned business stretches across 13 Central Florida locations

By Tammy Roberts
troberts@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE — The Hudsons believe family is one of life's most important values.

And with a family-run company, sharing the same business philosophy is just as significant.

Established in October 1981, Hudson's Furniture is celebrating its 30th anniversary this month, a milestone the family believes should be as important to its customers, as it is to its staff.

Throughout October, all store locations are offering a 30-30-30 sale, which translates into 30 percent off store items, plus an additional 30 percent off, as well 30 months of interest-free financing available.

It's these types of promotions, the owners said, that have been known to attract many customers in the past.

"We are very promotionally oriented, and we just think that with the current economic climate, this is our way of providing customers with quality furniture at the best value out there," said Josh Hudson, president of Hudson's Furniture.

Josh and his twin brother, Adam, who serves as vice president of the company, are second-generation to the family-operated business.

After several years experience in the furniture industry, their father, Fred, who serves as CEO of Hudson's, decided to start his own company, alongside wife, Catherine.

While they grew up in the business, both Josh and Adam began working full-time for the company in 2002.

The entire family still resides in Ormond Beach, which is the birthplace of the first Hudson's Furniture location.

From there, the business has continued to thrive, as today there are a total of 13 locations throughout the Central Florida area, including one in Melbourne off West New Haven Avenue, which has a six-year history in Brevard County.

"We're not extremely high-end or low-end, we're right there in the middle where you can get the most furniture for your money," Mr. Hudson said. "We offer brand name, quality products and the very best values."

What brand names is he referring to? Broyhill, Thomasville, Better Homes and Gardens, Tommy Bahama, Sealy, Craftmaster, Tempur-Pedic, Lane and USA Premium Leather, to name a few.

Because of its name-brand, quality products, each location offers a free one-year protection plan on every piece of furniture in the store, which covers manufacturer issues, as well as accidental damage.

Several years ago, the Hudson's Furniture team wanted to truly set its business apart from others in the industry and did so by taking an extensive look at furniture buying from the customer's eye.

What they discovered first was that most people consider purchasing furniture a major expense, Mr. Hudson said.

"As we see it, most people are spending good money, putting pieces in their home that are designed to last for generations, and yet, in these economic times, they still want value," he said. "That's why we came up with what we like to call Hudson's Furniture Value Plus. It's free and every one of our customers gets to take advantage of it."

A hassle-free exchange policy may sound too good to be true, but at Hudson's, that's exactly what they've created.

"We are so confident in our designers and their ability to work with you and select a fabric that you will fall in love with once it's in your home, that if for any reason, you're not happy with the product when it arrives, we'll gladly allow you to come in a reselect a replacement within 30 days," Mr. Hudson said. "We call it our hassle-free, 30-day exchange policy, and it applies to everything in the store."

This even includes special-order pieces, which, at most stores, are non-cancellable and often come with high restocking fees, he added.

Another element the Hudson's team discovered in developing its new business model is that just about everyone hates delivery fees.

So, they eliminated them.

"Customers feel that after they committed to a furniture purchase, they don't want any charges added to that purchase," Mr. Hudson said. "Even though it costs us extra to provide our 'white glove' delivery service, we do it for free, as long as the minimum purchase is more than $499."

The team at Hudson's is so confident in its affordable prices that each store also offers a low-price guarantee, which is valid for 30 days after delivery.

If a customer finds the same furniture for less at another location within 30 days after purchase, Hudson's Furniture will refund the difference.

"We have totally rebuilt our business from square one and have gotten some excellent feedback from customers in return," Mr. Hudson said.

And just as the selection of products the business offers varies, so do the customers – whether it's someone who knows exactly what they want or a couple that may need a little more guidance along the way.

"When customers come to any of our stores, they can expect to receive a good education about our products, as well as some assistance with design," Mr. Hudson said. "Every one of our associates is knowledgeable and com-

Teacher wants kids to find joy in singing

By Shelley Koppel
Entertainment writer

MELBOURNE – Beth Green wants children to sing for the joy of it. She teaches kindergarten though sixth-grade music at Audubon Elementary School on Merritt Island and led her school to become a Florida Music Demonstration School, a symbol of excellence.

The busy teacher is also assistant conductor for the Space Coast Oratorio Society, First United Methodist's Children's Choir and the Brevard Community Chorus. She performs with the Space Coast Symphony, Melbourne Municipal Band and Community Band of Brevard. She was also a featured performer in the recent Space Coast Symphony's production of "The Music Man."

Ms. Green is also the singing instructor at Stage 1 Stars, a private arts studio located in the black box theater at the Henegar Center. She leads a group of youngsters called "The Joy of Singing." Students from kindergarten through high school receive instruction on voice training, music theory, performance skills and ensemble singing.

At the moment, all of the students sing in one chorus, but Ms. Green would like to have enough students to split the group into a younger, kindergarten through fourth-grade chorus and an older ensemble of students in grades 5-12.

Beth Green works with students Tatyanna Greisofe and Sophia Lamela. The two are members of her music ensemble, The Joy of Singing.

The group meets at the Henegar Center in Melbourne and Ms. Green says there's only one requirement.

"I want students who love to sing," she said. "I can train them from there."

Students learn holiday, patriotic and folk songs. They also play rhythm instruments and some piano skills. Ms. Green is one of the sign language interpreters at First United Methodist Church, and she incorporates sign language into many of the songs.

Ms. Green married her husband, Matt, last year. They met in the chorus at the University of Florida. The couple lives in Indialantic and performs together at church and in the Oratorio Society.

"We try to sit next to each other," she said. "We have time together on the

Last weekend for 'The Rocky Horror Picture Show'

The immortal tribute to B-movie sci-fi and horror, complete with shadow cast doing odd things in front of the screen, has returned to Surfside for its 10th year, and directors Holly McFarland and Rachel Cooke have stepped up the reactor power input three more points with the director's cut of the film, the seldom-seen musical talents of their latest cast, and a new pre-show of song, dance and comedy.

"The Rocky Horror Picture Show will run Friday, Oct 28, and Saturday, Oct. 29, at one minute before midnight.

Admission is $10, and $3 bags of props are available in the lobby.

Week of 10-21-2011

Aries-March 21-April 19
Life has its ups and downs. You have been through many of your own lately. Your energy is about to change for the better. You will continue to increase. It's important that you make a little time for yourself. There's no reason to burn out now. When you are not sure what to do, take a step back, wait, regroup and then move forward again.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
Stop reacting to other people's problems. You can't change another person, but you can change yourself. Be concerned but not enabling. You are learning new things. Use these to find new creative ways to serve. Set your priorities on the main issues. Get deeply involved, hold the focus and move on to unprecedented victories.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
It's easy to get overextended when you are very busy. Correct this condition by setting priorities and delegating lesser important ones. Take a little time off for R&R. Take a long weekend with your family. Do it just for fun. The time away will clear your mind, warm your heart and increase your energy. Now you are at your best.

Cancer-June 22-July 22
Your spirit and playful attitude is alive and searching for ways to express. Take time to satisfy this urge. You are always responsible. Do several things. Go to the beach. Drive in the country. Ride your bike. Shop at a thrift store. Refuse to worry about what others think. This new psyche up will create wonderful results.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
The middle of the fire signs is Leo. This is what I call "center fire." Leo roars the loudest and is always at the center of activities. This is strong leadership and helps create new innovations and ideas. By the time others catch on, Leo is way out in front and gets the highest rewards and awards. High success is on the way.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Saturn is the planet of responsibility. Your energy is increasing. So is your desire to move forward. Keeping a desire journal should be the starting point. You don't have to keep all the ideas in your mind. When you write them, they are shifted to the heart. This commitment has roots. Now good stuff is growing and on the way.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22
The whole idea is to pace yourself when working on different projects, so that you have something left at the end. You don't have to get everything done at once. A lighter touch is so important. Many times less is more. When the body gets tired the mind follows, then the heart follows and all comes to a halt. Keep the heart open.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21
There is a lot of positive energy in your sign this week. This means that your spirit is focused and centered and you are fully protected. Stay playful and have a lot of fun. It's getting better. What? Your life of course. Enjoy every day like it is your last.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21
I like the way you operate. You are all heart. You have so much love, vision and inspiration. Learn from Libra and be able to receive, for balance. You are very blessed and lucky; also healthy. The world is yours to explore and conquer.

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19
You are in your prime. Your timing is excellent. Life is going your way. Everyone loves you. You are moving your dreams forward. Maybe it is time to back off, take a break and do something good for you that is based on pure fun. Love your own life and let it grow. The world will wait and honor you for honoring it.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Live your life like there is no tomorrow. All you have is today, the eternal now. The past is a cancelled check. The present is cash. The future is a promissory note. Which of these is spendable? Now focus on the three most important things that make you happy. If it makes you happy now, go for it. If not, leave it alone.

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20
Life is moving fast right now. Welcome the change and emerge victorious over life. Take care of your spiritual, personal, family and worldly needs in that order. Continue to focus and refine. The truth is within you. Quiet your mind, listen to your inner guidance and let your hunches lead you to on great victory.

'Jesus' Way' is quite simple: equality and love

RELIGION
SCOTT ELLIOTT

Just before trying to unsuccessfully trick him, some of Jesus' religious opponents said to him "we know that you are sincere, and teach the way of God in accordance with truth and show deference to no one; for you do not regard people with partiality." (Matthew 22:16).

I love the part about showing partiality to no one; see, Jesus regarded all equally, even his opponents got that (it seems to be a big part of what upset them too).

How cool would it be if all the Christians in the world did that, too? That's the point of Jesus' Way; well, that and believing in love (which is God) and loving (which is doing God's work in the world).

Being a Christian can seem complicated. There are these notions that Jesus Way is supposed to be about believing a lot of doctrines and that the Bible is somehow otherworldly, magical, like a written incantation or something.

There are places where church can seem like that, but not all churches are like that.

Jesus' Way is actually quite simple and the Bible is considered sacred, but not necessarily magical.

See, at its heart Jesus' Way can be understood to be about equality and love — about making those two things paramount in your life and in your community so that justice and peace get closer and closer to a reality in the world for everyone.

A big part of my journey is that I left the church as a teen over my own misperception that Christianity as a whole lacked a love center and an impartial regard for people.

Church felt to me judgmental and close-minded, when I knew God was love and called me to open thinking and equal treatment of all.

I actually stayed out of church for 20 years, labeling myself an agnostic, because I simply could not believe in any God but love and had rejected the deity that I misunderstood Christianity to be about.

My journey up to that point is, sadly, not unique.

Many leave (or avoid) Christianity, disenchanted with the version of God perceived to be worshiped in churches.

My journey took a remarkably sharp turn when I discovered that there are many, many churches (and Christians) that are love-centered and equality-oriented, and those that even celebrate open thinking!

If you are staying away from church for the same reasons I did, but want to find a faith community with reverence for God, compassion for all and a love center, I strongly urge — and humbly invite — you to check out churches in your area.

Look for those that claim to be love oriented; and you can tell if they are once you get there, because (like Jesus) they will be "sincere, and teach the way of God in accordance with truth and show deference to no one; (and) not regard people with partiality."

Jesus' Way = love and equality. It is at its heart that simple. Good luck on your journey.

'The Art of Murder' at Melbourne Civic Theatre

"The Art of Murder," written in 1999, offers a peek behind the curtains of the art world, where, as one character puts it, the ideal client is "famous, productive and dead."

The play has more twists than a pretzel.

In a remote estate in the countryside of Connecticut, Jack Brooks, one of the most accomplished and eccentric painters of his generation, awaits the imminent arrival of his art dealer.

But the visit is not a standard one, for Jack feels wronged, and he is intending to kill the man.

As Jack lays out his intentions for the evening, his wife, Annie, calmly paints. She is reluctant to go along with the plan, until Jack's threat of violence convinces her otherwise.

Harried and annoyed, Vincent, Jack's flamboyant art dealer, arrives.

Will Jack carry out his plan? Will Annie help him? Or is something else going on.

The show runs at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and at 2 p.m. Sundays through Nov. 20.

The Melbourne Civic Theatre, LeGallerie Plaza, is at 817 E. Strawbridge Ave., Melbourne

Brevard students named as semifinalists in scholarship program

More than 1,600 African-American high school seniors have been designated as semifinalists in the 48th annual National Achievement Scholarship Program.

Among them were five Brevard Public School students. They are:

- Daryl Washington, Eau Gallie High School
- Aaron Jordan, Palm Bay High School
- Queenella Goddard, Bayside High School
- Nsombi Roberts, Bayside High School
- Eric-Dillan Smith, Bayside High School

These scholastically-talented young men and women now have an opportunity to continue in the competition for approximately 800 Achievement Scholarship awards, worth more than $2.4 million, to be offered next spring.

To be considered for a National Achievement Scholarship, semifinalists must fulfill several requirements to advance to the finalist level of the competition.

About 80 percent of semifinalists are expected to attain finalist standing, and more than half of the finalists will win an Achievement Scholarship award.

To date, more than 31,100 young men and women have received Achievement Scholarship awards worth more than $98 million.

For more information, call (847) 866-5100, email mediainfo@nmerit.net or visit www.nationalmerit.org.

Another FIT Panther turns pro

Raised near the sandy beaches of Panama City, playing for Florida Tech and now strolling the streets of Joué-Les-Tours, France, former Panther Frankie Brown has suited up with Joué Volley-Ball, a professional team that plays in France's Nationale 3 League.

For Ms. Brown, it was something she had envisioned since childhood.

The journey toward her goal has been longer and harder than the 4,000-plus miles that separate Florida and France.

It's the path she chose to follow, one that meant paying for her own flight to France in order to pursue her goal with the risk of coming back empty-handed.

In the end, her perseverance and skills opened the doors for her in Europe.

During her four-year tenure in a Panther uniform, the 5-9 outside hitter was a constant threat to opposing defenses.

She amassed 1,004 kills, including a team-high 317 kills her senior season in 2010. She also showed her defensive prowess, totaling 772 digs and 196 blocks.

NASA has signed a $49.4 million contract modification for United Space Alliance of Houston to continue maintaining and sustaining the ground operations capabilities at the Kennedy Space Center launch facilities in Florida through Sept. 30, 2012.

As a result, these critical systems can be used by future space programs.

The programs include potential commercial launch vehicle customers, the agency's Space Launch System and Orion Multi-Purpose Crew Vehicle that will take astronauts farther into space than ever before, create high-quality jobs here at home and provide the cornerstone for America's future human space exploration efforts.

The modification also includes requirements for NASA 21st Century Ground Systems modifications to the Crawler Transporter No. 2, Launch Pad 39B life extension and Vehicle Assembly Building life extension.

Work in support of this contract modification is performed at Kennedy and USA's facilities in Cape Canaveral.

For more information about NASA and agency programs, visit www.nasa.gov

NASA adds Delta II rocket

NASA has announced the modification of its NASA Launch Services II contract with United Launch Services of Littleton, Colo., to add the Delta II rocket launch service in accordance with the contract's on-ramp provision.

The modification will enable United Launch Services to offer as many as five Delta II rockets.

The NLS II contracts are multiple award, indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contracts with ordering periods through June 2020.

The Launch Services Program Office at NASA's Kennedy Space Center is responsible for program management.

NASA invites students to name moon-bound spacecraft

NASA has a class assignment for U.S. students: help the agency give the twin spacecraft headed to orbit around the moon new names.

The naming contest is open to students in kindergarten through 12th grade at schools in the United States.

Entries must be submitted by teachers using an online entry form.

Length of submissions can range from a short paragraph to a 500-word essay.

The entry deadline is Nov. 11.

NASA's solar-powered Gravity Recovery And Interior Laboratory (GRAIL)-A and GRAIL-B spacecraft lifted off from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station in September to begin a three-and-a-half-month journey to the moon.

GRAIL will create a gravity map of the moon using two spacecraft that orbit at very precise distances.

The mission will enable scientists to learn about the moon's internal structure and composition and give scientists a better understanding of its origin.

Accurate knowledge of the moon's gravity also could be used to help choose future landing sites.

For contest rules and more information, visit http://grail.nasa.gov/contest.

The public can email questions to grailcontest@jpl.nasa.gov.

For more information about GRAIL, visit www.nasa.gov/grail .

NASA to seek astronaut applications

In early November, NASA will seek applicants for its next class of astronaut candidates who will support long-duration missions to the International Space Station and future deep space exploration activities.

A bachelor's degree in engineering, science or math and three years of relevant professional experience are required in order to be considered.

Typically, successful applicants have significant qualifications in engineering or science or extensive experience flying high-performance jet-aircraft.

Additional information about the Astronaut Candidate Program is available by calling the Astronaut Selection Office at (281) 483-5907.

For more information, visit http://astronauts.nasa.gov/.

Sunshine State Conference schools provide $4.6 million boost

A recent study has revealed that the Sunshine State Conference and its nine member institutions generate more than $4.6 million annually for the state of Florida.

Focused solely on the economic impact of student-athletes and coaches from out-of-state visiting squads who travel to Florida to participate in athletic contests against SSC teams, the examination found that a typical SSC athletics program annually hosts 72 different teams from non-Florida based schools.

Those opposing teams generate more than $485,000 each year and in excess of 1,500 hotel room nights for each of the nine SSC communities.

Collectively, the nine SSC athletic programs spur more than $4 million annually in statewide economic impact from out-of-state visitors, as well as more than 15,000 hotel room nights.

In addition to each member institution hosting athletic events, the SSC also conducts seven stand-alone conference championship events each year. These SSC championships yield more than $600,000 annually for the communities in which they are held.

Located in Winter Park, the Sunshine State Conference is the only NCAA conference headquartered in the state of Florida.

Heart of the Weinmaraner

GOLF
JAMES STAMMER

We humans are a giving species. We are mostly, by nature, caring, loving and nurturing. Sometimes a few of us fall through the cracks or become victims of those who do. Fortunately, there are those who pick up the pieces.

Jane Spicer is a dear friend of mine and the president and founder of Daphne's Headcovers. It's likely you or one of your golf buddies has one of her designs protecting your favorite club.

Jane enjoys assisting charities in delivering their mission to those in need.

She is a dedicated animal-lover who, instead of having "casual" Fridays, has "Dog Day Friday" at her company offices in Arizona. Her heart goes out to a charity that uses the loving, gentle, giving nature of these wonderful creatures to change the lives of children.

Nearly six years ago, Jane met Pam Gaber, the CEO and founder of Gabriel's Angels. The charity's mission is to deliver healing pet therapy to abused, neglected and at-risk children, nurturing their ability to love and trust, thereby freeing them from the cycle of violence.

Gabriel, a Weimaraner, is the canine founder of the charity. In 2000, his owner, Pam, began Gabriel's Angels after seeing the positive impact he made with the children of the Crisis Nursery when he appeared at a holiday party.

His special gift would touch more than 10,000 children in the next 10 years. Sadly, Gabriel passed away in May 2010, but his legacy of hope, trust and unconditional love will touch generations to come. He lives on through his supporters, donors, volunteers and the 150 Pet Therapy Teams serving at-risk children in Southern Arizona.

"The kids learn to trust, love and give love to these dogs," said Jane. "Ironically, many of the dogs are rescued dogs themselves. They share a kindred spirit."

Jane had been looking for a charity to partner with.

"I love that they are doing this for children," Jane told me. "They also touch so many agencies, it allows us to help many crisis agencies through one very well-run agency."

In her quest to give something more to Gabriel's Angels, Jane did what she does best. She designed a headcover to honor the founding canine. Nothing short of a perfect likeness would do. It had to capture his gentle spirit and affection. Oddly, it was a true Weimaraner trait that caused her trouble.

"The gray nose was the most difficult part," Jane explained.

Some suppliers even told her to just forget about it. Undaunted, she found what she was looking for, and coupled with a blue-gray coat and perfectly colored eyes, the Gabriel headcover is a work of love and admiration.

"We were determined to honor these people who are so dedicated and give so much," Jane stated.

It was planned as a piece to be given to Pam on the one-year anniversary of Gabriel's passing. However, when Jane saw Pam's expression of happiness, Jane knew she nailed it and had to give more to this organi-

Halloween treats and a visit from Santa

ROMANCING THE STOVE
with the Grammy Guru
ARLENE BORG

We're closing in on Halloween and it's time for "fun" recipes. If you've been with me from the beginning' you will know certain recipes and ideas are repeated periodically, especially when they're topical.

I always made my kids' Halloween costumes. When my youngest was 5, he asked if he could have a "store-bought" costume like all the other kids. He was thrilled with a gold flannel jumpsuit and a lion's mask.

The following year we were trying to come up with an original idea (yes, I was back making costumes again) for the Lion's Club kids' party, since prizes were going to be awarded.

Finally, I got a great idea. After all agreeing Christmas was the best holiday, Halloween came in second. Who comes at Christmas and who leads his sleigh? Santa and Rudolph, of course. How come I've never seen these costumes at Halloween?

I made Guy red flannel pajamas with a Santa hat, white batting (fur), black belt, beard and all.

Using the gold jumpsuit from the previous year, Steven was Rudolph. I appliquéd white fleece to the chest, complete with jingle bells. The hat covered the head and fastened under the chin, the ears and the stiff cardboard antlers were attached somehow. I painted his cheeks red, added eyelashes, and using theatrical glue, attached a red-colored cotton ball to his nose. They were quite a pair.

After the party, Guy was very excited, stating that they had won the prize for "Most Original" and Steven won another prize. They even had their picture in the newspaper. Steve, on the other hand, was extremely sad and upset.

"Aren't you happy you won?"

"I'm a boy, not a girl! I was voted The Prettiest. What boy wants to be the prettiest?"

With his big, brown eyes that looked like a deer in the headlights, I could see why they could have made a mistake. Let's face it, Rudolph is very pretty and he's a boy, right?

When I was a teenager, I found instructions to make little baskets for trick-or-treaters. Today, unfortunately, you would never give an unwrapped piece of candy, but for a special party or special friends, this is surely a winner.

With the pizzas and Whoopie pies from last week and this week's recipes, they're sure to have a fun party.

Small rubber bands

Place a large gumdrop in the center of a piece of cellophane and secure it underneath with a rubber band near the base as you ruffle up the cellophane.

Insert a pipe cleaner in the gumdrop, curving it to create a handle.

With a toothpick, spear small gumdrops as "flowers" and insert them into the large gumdrop. Very pretty, very different and yummy.

AMERICAN CHOP SUEY serves 4 to 6, or 10 for a party

1 pound very lean ground beef
1 medium onion and 1/2 small green pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
8-ounce can tomato sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
A little less than 1/2-pound elbow macaroni plus 1/2-cup grated cheddar cheese, OR one 7-ounce package macaroni and cheese

Brown meat in a large non-stick skillet treated with cooking spray. Pour off any fat. Add onions and green pepper and continue browning. Add tomato sauce, one can of water, salt, pepper and parsley. Cover and cook over low heat for about 20 minutes.

Meanwhile cook the macaroni in boiling water only until firm. Drain and add to cooked meat mixture. Cover and cook over low heat until macaroni is tender. It's like Hamburger Helper without all the additives.

Add more water if necessary. If you're making goulash, add the cheese, mix thoroughly and serve.

NOTE: Be sure to check all brands of packaged macaroni and cheese, especially store brands. Check the fat and cholesterol content, you will be very surprised at the differences.

CARROT SALAD serves 4

The fat content is determined by the mayonnaise you use. The lemon juice prevents the carrots from darkening.

4 medium carrots
1/2-cup raisins
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste

Trim and scrub carrots, do not peel; grate them. The grater on a food processor is super for this.

In a small bowl mix all ingredients together, adding only enough mayo to moisten. Chill.

WITH PINEAPPLE

Follow base recipe, omitting lemon juice; add 1 small can crushed pineapple, well drained.
