Group wants Alzheimer's disease to 'get lost'

By Meagan McGone
mmcgone@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE — When Cecile Bedard would forget how to turn on her TV or miss a payment on her bills, her family attributed the temporary memory loss to old age.

"She would say, 'At least all I have is a problem remembering things,'" Ms. Bedard's granddaughter, Jeanne Terry, recalled. "It hadn't occurred to us that the notes she had lying around her house for directions on how to operate her TV, VCR and remote control were some early signs."

Due to her tendency to look on the bright side of things, Ms. Bedard would compare her memory loss to what she thought were more serious diseases, such as cancer.

"Little did she, and we, know that Alzheimer's was just like a cancer, killing her slowly," Mrs. Terry said.

Things worsened, as Ms. Bedard would lose her way driving to places she had been to many times before.

"One night, we got a call from a man who found her lost across town," Mrs. Terry said. "That's when we knew something was definitely awry. We got her checked out, and that's when we got the news, but we could not have imagined the devastation it was about to cause."

A little more than two years ago, Ms. Bedard lost her battle with Alzheimer's, the most common form of dementia that causes a loss of brain function and impairs one's memory, thought processes and behavior.

Ms. Bedard was a mother, grandmother, great grandmother and friend to all who knew her.

For the second year in a row, Mrs. Terry and her husband, Steven, have created a team to participate in the local Alzheimer's Association Walk to End Alzheimer's in an effort to raise awareness and find a cure for the disease. The Terrys' team name is "Get Lost Alzheimer's."

"The impact Alzheimer's has on its victims and caregivers is alarming," Mrs. Terry said. "Alzheimer's isn't a little forgetfulness. It's a death sentence."

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Alzheimer's disease was the sixth leading cause of death in the United States in 2010. It is predicted that by 2050, one in 85 people throughout the world will be affected by the disease.

Though there currently is no cure for the disease, money raised through the Walk to End Alzheimer's will fund critical research, which looks into brain imaging and preventative measures.

The Walk to End Alzheimer's on the Space Coast will begin at the Wickham Park Pavilion on Saturday, Sept. 9 at 9 a.m. It is free to walk, though donations are encouraged.

Community activist receives visible honor

By Chris Fish
cfish@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE — The Melbourne City Council recently approved the renaming of a portion of Randolph Street to "Pelham" Street.

The new name for the portion of the street, located between Fairview Drive and Florida Avenue, comes from Melbourne resident Sandra Pelham, known for her community activism and involvement with National Night Out.

"It's a great honor; I actually grew up on Randolph Street," Ms. Pelham said. "My grandmother and grandfather migrated to Randolph Street, and 14 children from my family stayed on this street. It's home to me."

Over 50 years ago, Ms. Pelham's mother ran the only grocery store on Randolph Street, adding to her rich history with the street.

The other part of the street, located in Palm Bay, has yet to be renamed and is awaiting approval from the City Council.

Robert Johnson, the president of the local NAACP, initiated the request for the renaming in honor of Ms. Pelham's community efforts and

Recycled plastic bags reused as mats for homeless veterans

By Chris Fish
cfish@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE — Local sculpture artist Suzanne Frank is putting her clay away for a while to focus on creating mats, made entirely out of plastic bags, for homeless veterans.

"If we can't help them after they have helped us so much, then what is it all about?" Mrs. Frank said. "If (helping them) means just saving plastic bags, then it is the least we can do."

It takes Mrs. Frank, who started making the bags two weeks ago, nearly 25 hours to crochet 500 bags into one mat, so homeless veterans can use it under their sleeping bags to keep dry.

Crochet is the process of creating fabric using yarn, thread or other materials, as well as a crochet hook, which is a needle with a hook at one end used to draw thread through knotted loops. The plastic bags are used to make what is known as "plarn", after the handles are removed on each bag and cut into strips.

Mrs. Frank said she

Walkers promote heart health, research

By Meagan McGone
mmcgone@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD — By the time you are finished reading this article, more than three people will have died as a result of heart disease.

Cardiovascular disease is the No. 1 killer of Americans, taking more lives of women than all forms of cancer combined, and accounting for the most infant deaths due to congenital cardiovascular birth defects.

As a result, the American Heart Association has teamed with walkers, donors and volunteers around the nation to fight heart disease by putting on its annual Heart Walk to raise funds supporting research and prevention of heart disease.

This year's 4-mile walk will come to the Space Coast Stadium on Saturday, Sept. 15 at 7:30 a.m. The walk is free, but walkers are eligible for a Heart Walk T-shirt, once they have raised a minimum of $100. The goal of the event is to raise $100,000 locally.

Melbourne resident Shannon Royer, who will participate in the walk as part of HealthSouth Sea Pines Rehabilitation Hospital, said she is exposed to patients with heart disease on a daily basis. This encouraged her to walk to raise awareness about the preventative aspect of cardiovascular complications.

"I see a great number of stroke patients who come through the hospital doors," said Mrs. Royer, who serves as the hospital's marketing coordinator. "The therapy they receive while at Sea Pines is life-changing and nothing short of miraculous, however, it is still tragic that in many cases, strokes are a preventable incident."

Currently, less than 1 percent of Americans meet the American Heart Association's criteria for ideal cardiovascular health, which requires eating a healthy, balanced diet – with at least three daily servings of fruits and vegetables – and participating in moderate exercise for at least 150 minutes per week, among other factors.

"I would be comfortable assuming that everyone knows at least one person affected by heart disease in some form," Mrs. Royer said. "I hope people participate in their loved ones honor, or at the least, come kick-start their own heart healthy lifestyle by walking 4 miles with a huge support team."

Mats

hopes to spread awareness of what she is doing to get more people involved in the mat-making process.

"If we could just get churches involved, that would help," she said. "Everybody can help out."

Mrs. Frank said she began to make these mats for homeless veterans after an encounter with Tim Brown at a nearby store.

"This man opened the door for me, and he started to talk to the manager about these mats, and I overheard him," she said. "I asked him about it, and he told me. I had women come over to my house, and Tim and his wife came over to show us how to make the mats."

Mr. Brown, Melbourne resident and veteran of the U.S. Coast Guard for 20 years, said he and his wife, Corazon, first started making the mats in the spring, and they are currently on mat No. 7.

"We are just trying to make (homeless veteran's) lives a little easier," Mr. Brown said. "It recycles the plastic bags, too, but that is a minor thing for me. The bags are easy to clean. All you have to do is put it in a stream for a bit, and hang them up to dry."

Mr. Brown said when he first learned how to create the mats online, the size it called for was 3-feet by 5-feet, but he said this size proposed a problem for him.

"But, I found that, when I lay my sleeping bag over the mat, it (wasn't big enough).

Japanese military textiles bring war to life

Ruth Funk Center displays more than 50 pieces of memorabilia

By Chris Fish
cfish@hometownnewsol.com

The Ruth Funk Center for Textile Arts at Florida Tech in Melbourne will display a Japanese Military Textiles exhibit Sept. 8 through Dec. 15.

"This exhibit opens a great window of significance, showing how we cherish items during wartime," said Keidra Navaroli, assistant director of the center. "Japanese culture is unique in that sense. Often times, if someone goes off to war, something is sent along with them. In this case, it's in such a graphic way that it's really interesting to see how it progressed throughout their military's history."

The exhibit, titled "Battle Worn: Masculine Ideals and Military Identity in Modern Japanese Textiles" consists of over 50 military textiles, hand-painted on cotton and silk, from the private collection of Dr. Michael Bortner.

A retired dentist, Dr. Bortner moved to Florida about 10 years ago and currently works on books primarily highlighting Japanese' military history and military memorabilia during the World War II era.

"Dr. Bortner has been involved with the museum for a while," Ms. Navaroli said. "He wrote a book about his specific collection of good luck flags and 1,000 stitch belts, which were war items from Japan during the East Asia war."

After looking through his collection, Dr. Bortner decided to partner with the center this year to create an exhibit.

"To my knowledge, there has never been an exhibit of any note on this subject, so I am very excited to be involved in helping present it," Dr. Bortner said. "My collection is extensive. It consists of more than 300 Japanese good luck flags and nearly 200 1,000 stitch belts and related pieces. I also have more than 100 off-to-war and triumphant return banners."

Ms. Navaroli said the exhibit will depict three stages representing Japanese culture and what a young, Japanese man would have expected to see going to battle during the Pacific war between the dates of 1937 and 1945.

The first stage will show what was displayed on Children's Day, a Japanese holiday, which takes place annually on May 5. This stage consists of banners and decorations resembling dragons and other festive items.

Ms. Navaroli said the second stage represents the customs displayed before a man, sometimes even a teenager, at the age of 15, went to war, including military banners and good luck flags, which are Japanese flags featuring well wishes for the soldier written, by friends and family.

Japanese soldiers were known to place their good luck flags in their helmets, hang them from their guns or wrap them around their bodies, Ms. Navaroli said.

The second stage of the exhibit will also show blood oath flags, good luck flags signed with blood, as well as 1,000 stitch belts, which are straps decorated with 1,000 stitches, each made by a different woman. The belts are then given to the soldier as a symbolic way of protecting them, Ms. Navaroli said.

"The flag was seen as a good luck memento and was intended to remind the man of his duty to his family and country," Dr. Bortner said. "(The 1,000 stitch belt) was normally worn around his waist as a good luck piece, and it was believed by many to have the ability to prevent harm to the wearer in battle."

This photo depicts a detailed, presentation flag with a black, white and gray tiger, hand-painted on cotton from the early 20th century.

The final stage of the exhibit consists of banners for returning soldier, whether dead or alive.

"When the men came home, triumphant return parties were organized, and special triumphant return banners were presented and displayed," Dr. Bortner said. "As the war for the Japanese drug on past the 1930s into the 1940s, triumphant return banners were seldom presented."

With the exhibit finally coming to life, Dr. Bortner said it would not have been possible without the Ruth Funk Center.

"I have imagined an exhibit on this subject for many years. Unfortunately, trying to display flags and related materials in any sort of meaningful way is difficult. There has to be enough wall, ceiling and floor space to properly set up the items," he said. "In addition, finding a facility that has the expertise and knowledge in textiles to present the pieces with the proper mounting techniques, lighting and temperature control is most difficult to find. There are very few places like this, and we are fortunate to have such a facility in the Ruth Funk Center."

The "Battle Worn: Masculine Ideals and Military Identity in Modern Japanese Textiles" will be on display, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, and from noon to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Sept. 8 through Dec. 15 at the Ruth Funk Center for Textile Arts in Melbourne, 150 W University Blvd.

sentations, kayaking and cleanups. Each event is designed to encourage people of all ages to explore, volunteer and help support public events throughout the Space Coast.

Initiated by the National Environmental Education Foundation in 1994, National Public Lands Day has become the nation's largest, single-day volunteer event for public lands, according to www.publiclandsday.org.

During its 2011 events nationwide, the organization recorded a total of 170,000 volunteers, working at 2,067 sites in every U.S state, according to the website.

• Together, volunteers collected an estimated 23,000 pounds of invasive plants.

• Built and maintained an estimated 1,500 miles of trails.

• Planted an estimated 100,000 trees, shrubs and other native plants.

• Removed an estimated 500 tons of trash from trails and other places.

• Contributed an estimated $17 million through volunteer services to improve public lands across the country.

Locally, Brandon Smith, environmental program coordinator at Brevard County Parks and Recreation's Riverwalk Nature Center in Rockledge, knows full well the value of that volunteer program.

Andy Stefanek/staff photographer
Juliana Martinez, 9, of Indian Harbour Beach searches for small critters to catch in the Indian River Lagoon while attending the 'Once Upon a Barrier Island' celebration Saturday, May 12.

"Last year, we had nearly 20 volunteers – mostly Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts – who helped us get control of the grapevines that spread over our park," Mr. Smith said. "The grapevines are actually a native species; however, they are normally controlled by seasonal forest fires. Since we haven't had any fires, they tend to spread and take over other plants and our boardwalk."

With budget cuts, Mr. Smith said his department doesn't have the manpower to take care of the problem.

"It's a big help to have volunteers, and we're going to be putting people to work, who want to come again this year," he said. "We can use all the help we can get."

This year marks the 19th annual Public Lands Day, and Ms. Morrell and her team are hoping for their greatest turnout yet.

"It's just a great opportunity to get outside and enjoy some of the amazing public land we have here in Brevard County," she said. "No matter where you live, there's something going on near you."

Here is a list of the scheduled events in Brevard County:

her history of volunteerism, and he also named her the "NAACP Person of the Year."

"(Ms. Pelham) inspires other folks to do good things from their hearts," Mr. Johnson said. "She leads by example. The street name should have been changed earlier, but this is the right time. I thank the City Council, the mayor and the city engineers for making a great decision."

At the council meeting on Aug. 28, Myrue Spivey, pastor and teacher at Grace Bible Sanctuary in Palm Bay, showed his support for Ms. Pelham during public comment.

"I've worked with Ms. Pelham, and I've spoken with some of the young people she has worked with," Mr. Spivey said. "If we change the name of this street, Ms. Pelham and my generation may move on, but that name will be there and be able to influence others."

Mr. Spivey said he admires Ms. Pelham's commitment to her community, as well as others who volunteer their time to help.

"I tip my hat to them. My time doesn't allow me to invest into the community the way I long to," he said. "I think it would be a noble and honorable thing for the city to recognize (Ms. Pelham)."

Jenni Lamb, Melbourne city engineer, said Randolph Street holds no historical significance, and her team notified the property owners within the time frame specified. Sixty percent of residents agreed with the name change.

Despite the name change and the accolade, Ms. Pelham said she remains humble.

"I would like to thank everyone who voted (for the name change)," she said. "Hopefully, we will be seeing the street sign after Palm Bay approves its side."

Big insurance companies behind the negative ads

After watching all these negative ads about the so-called "Obamacare," I can't believe that nobody has even figured out that the big insurance companies are behind a lot of these ads.

The money that they are spending to run these ads, they could be using in a better way to cut insurance costs.

It is trying to scare people. It is not giving the proper amounts of what is going to happen. And Bill Nelson does care about the people. He cared, and that's why he signed the bill.

Anyway, if people will really look into it and really see the money that is going to be saved by this plan, rather than the absurd priorities that are being bandied around.

Are the insurance companies scared to death they are going to lose their big profits when this goes into effect?

I think so.

Anyway, people, don't be afraid. This is for the betterment of all of us.

Just check the figures. Make sure you know what it really is before you panic.

Have I lived too long?

Now businesses have barricaded themselves behind phone systems with mechanical voices with programmed questions that don't address your reason for calling.

Even worse are phone calls routed overseas to someone who has an accent you can hardly understand, and whose culture is such that they can't relate to your problem.

You realize they are reading from a pre-programmed paper.

As an example, our local cable company has an advanced list of questions that verge on the exasperating.

By the time you can get to a department and someone claiming to be human, they claim they can resolve your problem.

Our problem is we haven't received a bill for services, on time, since February.

Before a penalty can be attached, they quote that the fault lies with the Post Office.

But the Post Office has had no trouble in delivering all our other mail, including the businesses' over-abundant promotional mail.

Next, they take all the necessary information, promise a quick resolution, without a penalty assessed … and that it will arrive the next day.

Since February, I have gathered nine different names with that exact promise, but no delivery.

It is exasperating.

Let's change the school year

Let's forget all about politics for a couple of minutes and consider this.

Having just watched the Weather Channel and seeing how every afternoon is scheduled to rain and rain, I was just thinking that Florida has such beautiful weather October through December, why can't we change the school year to run from January through September?

That way, all of the Floridians would be here in case of a hurricane. They would all be here to take care of their lawns through the summer, and then when the cooler weather came, they would be free to travel to other places and enjoy the beautiful fall weather and the coolness of it all, and go to other countries, where all their kids are still in school, and there would be not the traffic that we would experience when everybody is on vacation in the summertime.

I think it is a great idea. Why would it not be feasible to have the school years run From January through September?

I think all Floridians would agree with me in thinking that it is a great time to sit at home and watch all these storms come and go.

Casino industry needed to fix our problems

It is awful that the people in Brevard County are hurting so much, and that our politicians have no big fix for any of it.

What would be good would be to create a new job industry.

They could create it in Port Canaveral.

Bring in a couple of big casinos and run them like Atlantic City and Las Vegas does.

It would create a whole new industry. Thousands of jobs would be created and be ongoing.

For those who say that it would increase drinking and gambling problems, we already have those problems.

We have no job industry here in Brevard County.

Politicians, make it happen.

Happy and well with the new healthcare law

I hear everybody down here in Florida say, "Oh, the new healthcare law is horrible. It's going to destroy everything. It's going to destroy jobs. It's a 'job killer.'"

That's a phrase that the Republicans came up with in the 1950s. I thought by now they would have a new one.

But if the healthcare law is so terrible, how come nobody in Massachusetts is crying about it? Only the idiots outside of Massachusetts are crying about it.

The people inside of Massachusetts are happy and living well.

Voter registration debacle

Having officially filed for absentee ballots some weeks ago, we received a "thank you" electronic email communication from the local Brevard County Voters Registration office, along with suggestion to review our official registration status on the Brevard County Voters Registration website. Surprise, surprise!

Every attempt to authenticate proved to be unavailable: "not registered," followed by instructions as to how to officially register.

A phone call to the county office with details of the problem this morning resulted in a totally unacceptable response/excuse.

Quote: "Sorry about the mix up, this is a glitch in the system which gives us problems time to time."

Further efforts by the "clerical genius" finally found, indeed, that we were both duly registered for absentee ballots.

During this exceptionally volatile election period, with all the hype about voter registration authenticity being in the forefront; I, for one, and many other citizens, would expect something or some elected officials to get it right once and for all, please.

What I expect

Just wanted to let you know what I expect in my President.

I expect him to be patriotic – not apologizing to those that take our foreign aid and would eagerly look to destroy us.

I would expect his own family to be patriotic as well – not declare that Americans can be mean-spirited.

I would expect him to applaud and praise and encourage all the individuals who have worked hard and achieved

CIRCULATION AUDIT BY CIRCULATION VERIFICATION COUNCIL

MELBOURNE

Live the United Way in Brevard County

JACK PARKER
SHERIFF OF BREVARD COUNTY

Thanks to the selfless and generous citizens who live and work in Brevard, our county is a wonderful place to live and raise our families.

Many of our citizens generously give their time and money to nonprofit organizations, whose mission it is to help families, women, children and seniors in need.

It could be argued that the economy of Florida's Space Coast was hit harder than most. But that hasn't stopped our citizens from helping. Our hard times have proven that the more in need our friends and neighbors are, the more Brevard's citizens step up to help.

Unfortunately, there are some fraudulent charities out there that hope to pull on your heartstrings and take advantage of our tough times. That creates a chilling effect on many who would like to donate, but are unsure of whom to trust.

That's where United Way of Brevard steps in. By contributing to our United Way, you are contributing to a variety of trusted and proven nonprofit agencies right here in Brevard County. The United Way has done the screening for you and they ensure your hard earned money goes where it is needed most in our community.

From United Way agencies like Serene Harbor, which provides emergency shelter to women and children who have been victimized by domestic violence, to Crosswinds Youth Services, which provides a children's shelter and family services, to the Boys & Girls Clubs, which provides loving and caring environments for at-risk children, Brevard's United Way Agencies do it all.

United Way of Brevard is preparing to kick off their 2012 campaign. This year's United Way campaign is being led by Adrian Lafitte of Lockheed Martin. Adrian and his team have set an ambitious, but necessary goal of raising $6.3 million.

We in the Sheriff's Office are proud to support our United Way. We have just learned that the Brevard County Sheriff's Office is being recognized as the top performing Sheriff's Office in the State for United Way giving, bringing in $137,548.

Why do we do it? Because we see first-hand the needs that exist in the community, and we have faith in our United Way to put our hard-earned dollars where they are needed most.

We see how dedicated and loving volunteers at shelters and community programs stretch pennies and work miracles every day to strengthen families, protect seniors, be a voice for our children and fight hunger.

Within the past 16 years, we have seen our local United Way become one of the finest and highly respected United Way organizations in the country.

They have extremely low overhead and spend only 9 cents of every dollar to operate the organization, an outstanding ratio by any measure. They are able to keep their costs low because they use an army of unpaid volunteers, which prevents the need to hire additional employees.

These United Way volunteers are extremely successful professionals from various organizations and corporations throughout Brevard. Not only do they help raise contributions, they also determine where the money is needed most and that every dollar is spent appropriately.

If you are not involved with the United Way, please consider becoming part of this year's United Way effort. Please consider participating in your United Way campaign at your workplace. Employees giving just a dollar or two a paycheck through payroll deduction can add up to a big impact.

The United Way also offers estate planning services. With a little planning and a minor investment today, caring citizens can leave a big gift to the United Way in the future.

To get a workplace campaign started or to find out more about estate planning, call Susan McGrath at the United Way at (321) 631-2740.

If you are retired or cannot participate in a workplace campaign, but would like to make a tax-deductible donation, you can do so by making a check out to the "United Way of Brevard" and mailing it to United Way of Brevard, 937 Dixon Blvd., Cocoa, FL., 32922.

Please consider becoming part of this year's United Way campaign. We need you.

People ask me all of the time how they can make a difference in our community. One of the best ways we can do that is to give generously to our local United Way.

Jack Parker is the sheriff of Brevard County.

munity development director for the City of Melbourne.

A qualifying resident can receive funding for eligible "hurricane hardening" improvements. The improvements include hurricane shutters, gable-end bracing and anchor straps.

Ms. Thomas said the maximum amount an eligible candidate may receive from the city is $10,000. Applicants are required to pay a deposit of half the estimated cost for repairs.

If the repair cost ends up being cheaper than the original estimation, Ms. Thomas said the city will refund the applicant the difference in his or her deposit.

Ms. Thomas said there is aid for applicants who cannot pay the deposit.

"There are some folks who may not be able to raise all of the deposit," she said. "We set aside a State Housing Initiative Partnership program to help raise the amount. Those wanting to access some help in meeting their (deposit) must provide sources of income. Then, it is up to the city for verification."

Ms. Thomas said the maximum amount of aid distributed from the State Housing Initiative Partnership program is $5,000, depending on an applicant's eligibility.

After the city receives approval for the grant from the state, the city will pay for the cost of the retrofitting projects and be reimbursed by the state after the project is complete.

When an applicant has a restoration job, Ms. Thomas said there is a process he or she must follow.

"If (an applicant wants) new shutters, they would get a 50 percent discount by paying only half the project cost (through a deposit)," she said. "An applicant would bring (his or her) deposit to the city, take bids on the project and then select a contractor."

Due to limited funding, as well as a limited amount of time for spending grant funds, interested homeowners should apply as soon as possible, Ms. Thomas said.

Contact the city's housing and community development office at (321) 674-5734 or send an email to housingcdbg@melbourneflorida.org.

success – not claim that it was because the government was there that gave them that break.

I expect him to be a man for all Americans – not instigate class warfare, which surely divides a country by trying to "redistribute" the wealth. (But I suppose it's O.K. for a member of his family to have 23 personal assistants and spend fortunes on lavish vacations on our dime.)

I expect him to be bi-partisan and, by example, try to instill bi-partisanship in others – not continue to blame "the other party" or previous administrations for his own failings.

I would expect him to seek out and associate with some of America's greatest entrepreneurs in business – not surround himself or be mentored by socialists, communists or hate-spewing clerics who would infuse their radical views into his agenda.

I do not want my country "fundamentally changed." This is America. May God still "shed His Grace on thee."

That is what I expect in my President, and that is the change I'm hoping for in November. I would hope my fellow Americans would feel the same.

Dr. Michael Ponte

Have you ever noticed a sudden rear leg lameness in your dog? Lately, we have seen an increase in this type of lameness. Most of the time, our pooches have been rough housing, climbing a fence, or just standing there and suddenly experience a pain and then a severe lameness in a rear leg. When we examine these sore legs, we have to check out all joints and pads. Most of the time, we find that there is damage to the cranial cruciate ligament inside the knee joint. We can also find hip joint trouble or a slipped disc in the spine as the culprit. Be sure that you check your pet's pads before going to the vet as it could just be a simple cut or foreign body causing the lameness.

Please call your veterinarian for further guidance and information.

Church celebrates 25 years of music

By Shelley Koppel
Entertainment writer

MELBOURNE — Hope Episcopal Church is turning 25, and it will celebrate the event for an entire weekend Sept. 14-16. The whole community is invited to share in the festivities.

"Rockin' on Interlachen," a music tribute, will take place on Friday, Sept. 14 at 7 p.m. Among the featured groups are the Hope Praise Band; Advent Lutheran's Disciple 13; The DOCK Kids from Brevard Neighborhood Development's Community Center in the Booker T. Washington neighborhood; the African Drum Circle and Gospel Band; Holy Trinity Academy's Honors Music Society; and Melbourne Church of Christ's Chorus.

Jean Diaz, music director of the church, said that music is an important part of the church throughout the year.

"We consider what we do each Sunday a ministry, rather than a performance. This 25th anniversary concert is an opportunity to reach out to our community and praise God together."

While the concert makes "a joyful noise," it also has a purpose grounded in helping those less fortunate.

Donations will be accepted for the Suntree/Viera Area Association of Churches' Community Care Program. Non-perishable food items will be collected and donated to the Advent Lutheran Food Pantry.

Last fall, Hope Episcopal Church raised more than $1,000 and collected 20 pounds of food at its U2charist event.

Event coordinator Heather Barlow hopes to exceed that goal during this anniversary celebration.

"I have been blown away by the willingness of other churches in our community to help us celebrate 25 years of life," she said. "Our goal is to celebrate community by raising lots of food for the Advent's food pantry and funds for the "community care program."

Tough economic times have affected many families in our area," she added. "This is a fun way to come out and show your support, hear great music, meet your neighbors and experience God's love."

The weekend celebration continues on Sept. 16 with a 10 a.m. service. Marion Thullbery, the first pastor of the church and the first female priest in the Diocese of Central Florida, will be the special guest.

Following the service,

It will be held on Saturday, Sept. 15, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Cocoa Beach Pier in Cocoa Beach.

This event is an interactive pet-friendly fundraiser that includes the whole family and their "furry" friends.

Some of this year's activities will include live entertainment, pet contests, door prizes, silent auction and a vendor village.

Sponsorship opportunities are available for individuals and businesses at all levels.

This annual event features extensive promotion and offers a fantastic "bang for your buck" for sponsors – all while having exceptionally high charitable return for the homeless animals of Brevard.

The cost for businesses to be a part of the vendor village at the event is $50. All vendors must supply their own tables, chairs, promotional materials, display racks and setup staff.

"Paws at the Pier" is one of the Central Brevard Humane Society's signature events that helps raise awareness and financial support for the thousands of unwanted and abandoned pets that visit the shelter each year, who need a safe and loving "forever" home.

The proceeds from this event will also help to fund the "low-cost" spay/neuter facility, located behind the shelter in Cocoa.

If you would like to become a sponsor or vendor, contact the Central Brevard Humane Society at (321) 636-3343 or visit www.crittersavers.com.

Open house

The Melbourne Terrace Rehabilitation Center gave an open house recently and welcomed the community. It was a unified celebration for the facility's state of renewal that is meant to give back to the community.

An expansion included the renovation of common areas, including a fresh café and bistro.

With a novel ice cream parlor and a surround-sound movie theater, there will be more choices for residents and patients to enjoy friends and family.

Melbourne Terrace Rehabilitation Center offers comprehensive rehabilitative outpatient and inpatient services for short or long term care.

All residents have an individualized plan of care developed with the resident's family involvement and coordinated with all medical staffing.

It is located at 251 Florida Ave., Melbourne.

To schedule a private tour or to request more information, call (321) 725-3990.

Community service award

Brevard County's Board of County Commissioners, Brevard County Health Department and the Brevard County Medical Society were recently named recipients of the 2012 Community Service Award presented by the Florida Health Care Coalition.

The coalition recognized the three organizations for the Primary Access to Health Clinic partnership. The PATH Clinic was established to meet the needs of low-income, underinsured adult residents of Brevard County, who are without health care benefits, below 100 percent of the Federal Poverty Level.

The Florida Health Care Coalition is a 28-year-old organization that represents nearly 2 million members of public and private sector employers. Its goal is to improve the quality of health care while reducing the rising rate of health care costs and educating consumers.

Scopes

share a few secrets. You don't have to give everything away, but allow others in by sharing some personal information.

SCORPIO – Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Scorpio, though you don't shy away from challenges, you do know when to pick your battles. When something inconsequential comes up this week, let it pass.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov. 23-Dec. 21

Sagittarius, when a past conflict resurfaces this week, push it aside because that is ancient history. It is better to focus on the positive things that are in store for you.

CAPRICORN – Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Capricorn, when you love someone, it can be difficult to step aside and let this person make his or her own choices. But this is what you have to do for lessons to be learned.

AQUARIUS – Jan. 21-/Feb. 18

Your eyes are bigger than your stomach at work this week, Aquarius. Delegate some tasks so everything goes smoothly and your project is completed on time.

PISCES – Feb. 19-March 20

Learning from your weaknesses can help you to grow stronger, Pisces. Accept a challenge that is presented this week, even if it scares you.

Accurate Windows, Inc., a Melbourne-based company, offers quality window products to protect homes from heat, hurricanes and more.

"We strive to provide a quality product with the least complications for our customers," said Beth Burger, who owns Accurate Windows, Inc., with her husband, Jeff. "We want our customers to see a real difference in their energy cost savings and to enjoy the new look of their homes for years to come."

Jeff Burger

The company features a complete line of windows and sliding glass doors, including products that protect against hurricane impacts. The most popular products, vinyl frame windows and doors, are energy efficient, as they don't conduct heat and come with a lifetime warranty.

Additionally, the company offers acrylic and vinyl windows to enclose porches, so people can keep the summer rain, bugs and pollen away.

"We can create a screen room from the ground up, or enclose an existing porch," Mrs. Burger said. "It's a great way to add usable space to your living area."

As longtime Brevard residents, Mr. and Mrs. Burger are experts on the types of windows that will efficiently help homes thrive through Space Coast conditions. The staff at Accurate Windows, Inc., also carries a vast knowledge of the window industry.

The company's knowledge of the local state and building codes, local home construction and honest "no hidden cost" pricing set it apart from the competition, Mrs. Burger said.

All costs are provided upfront when discussing clients' estimates, and as a local company, Accurate Windows, Inc., values its outstanding reputation.

"Our customers can rest assured that they are in very capable hands," Mrs. Burger said. "We didn't just come to Brevard County and set up shop after the 2004 hurricanes, like some of our competitors. We are here for the long haul."

Accurate Windows, Inc. is located at 2920 Bush Drive, Suite 101, Melbourne. It is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Rockin'

there will be a spaghetti dinner and the community is welcome.

Hope Episcopal Church was founded in 1987. The first service was held on Sept. 13 of that year with Marion Thullbery as vicar.

In 1994, the church bought the present site. The sanctuary and multi-purpose room opened in 1997, and the Parish Hall, classrooms and relocated offices were completed in 2001.

The Rev. Deborah Vann, known as "Pastor Debbie," became rector of the church in 2009.

"Rockin' on Interlachen," a musical 25th anniversary celebration of Hope Episcopal Church, takes place on Sept. 14 at 7 p.m. at the church, located at 190 Interlachen Road, Melbourne.

There is no cost to attend, although donations and non-perishable food items are welcome. Free refreshments will be provided.
