Former principal moves forward with new lawsuit

Nonprofit disputes tax debt

By Chris Fish

cfish@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD — The CEO of a local nonprofit, currently under investigation by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement for accusations of financial mismanagement, said that the organization tried to negotiate with a former employee's wrongful termination lawsuit.

The employee, however, said the case is still unresolved, and, in turn, filed a subsequent civil lawsuit last month.

On May 28, former KLD Learning Center headmaster David Bradford and his attorneys filed a "proceedings supplementary to execution" against KLD Youth Foundation for the unpaid court judgments from a 2007 wrongful termination lawsuit.

The original principal amount owed to Mr. Bradford and his attorneys was $156,065, with an annual interest rate of 6 percent.

College avoids tuition increase this year

By Amanda Hatfield Anderson
Ahatfield@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE — Eastern Florida State College continues to make headlines, as the college recently announced that it will not be increasing tuition for students on Monday, June 16.

College president Dr. Jim Richey and the college's Board of Trustees approved a $74.4 million budget for the fiscal 2014-15 year, which will go into effect on Tuesday, July 1.

In addition to students' tuition remaining the same — a move which is now three years running — EFSC announced that a cost of living payment for staff and expanding the college's security force are two other key features in the new budget.

"With this budget, Eastern Florida remains highly affordable for students and provides them with access to new academic programs that can result in finding a great job," Dr. Richey said in a press statement. "These are the kinds of opportunities that are making a difference in our community and region."

Tuition for Florida residents will remain at $78.84 per credit hour. There will be a $2 per credit hour increase to the capital improvement fee, bringing the total tuition and fee cost from $104 to $106 for lower-division courses.

For upper-division courses, Florida residents will pay a total of $128.51 per credit hour.

Dr. Richey said the fee increase was necessary because of cuts in state funding for building maintenance, repair and construction projects.

"Tuition is what students pay to take an academic course," said John J. Glisch, associate vice president of communications at EFSC. "Student fees help fund such services as WiFi, student government and clubs, financial aid and the renovation, repair and maintenance of buildings."

Mr. Glisch described lower-division courses as two-year associate's degree programs, which make up the majority of EFSC's student body, while

Humane Society offers tips, discounted microchips

By Amanda Hatfield Anderson
Ahatfield@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD — The Fourth of July is a time for Americans to remember all that our Founding Fathers fought for, the sacrifices that made our country the amazing nation it is today and to celebrate our freedom.

As fireworks explode, creating extravagant colors and patterns in the night sky, not everyone is in awe of the display.

In fact, many animals can become terrified of the loud claps and booms made by the fireworks.

The Central Brevard Humane Society would like to offer Space Coast residents several tips and tricks to help calm their animals and keep them safe, as we celebrate the founding of our nation.

“Dogs and cats hear 10 times better than humans do, and some of this keener hearing is in the higher frequency range typical of fireworks,” said Eileen Cole, media relations manager for the Central Brevard Humane Society. “These types of sounds can be very stressful for pets and cause them to panic, become disoriented or even lost.”

In the event that your beloved pet becomes lost during the upcoming Independence Day celebrations, the Central Brevard Humane Society is offering a discounted rate on its microchipping service. For just $15, the Humane Society will microchip your pet to help reunite you with “Fido” or “Figaro,” in the event that they become lost.

The normal cost of microchipping is $25.

“A microchip is about the size of a grain of rice and can be implanted into a cat or dog,” Ms. Cole said. “The device carries a number that is entered into a database, which includes the name and contact information for the pet’s owner.”

Discounted microchipping is available to local residents until Thursday, July 3.

For more information, contact the Central Brevard Humane Society at (321) 636-3343.

KLD

Court records show that the nonprofit initially paid $30,000 to Mr. Bradford and his attorneys, but have not made any additional payments since.

Following several failed attempts by the organization to appeal the ruling, court documentation shows that Mr. Bradford then won a final judgment in June 2011 for unpaid wages, wrongful termination and attorney fees and costs.

The newest lawsuit, filed last month, states that the defendant, KLD Youth Foundation, has not satisfied this final judgment "in part or in whole."

With accrued interest, the judgment sat at $212,263, as of press time, according to court records.

"I can tell you that every attempt was made to satisfy what was ordered by the court," said Janet Shaffer, CEO of KLD Youth Foundation, of the 2007 suit. "I don't think it's wise, prudent or kind in the HR process to speak about a past employee. Dr. Bradford has been offered. Dr. Bradford hasn't accepted. We've made significant offers; he just doesn't want to accept it."

Mr. Bradford and his lawyers said they have had no contact with Mrs. Shaffer for more than two years, and that no offers have been made since the initial collection of $30,000 from the nonprofit.

In 2004, Mrs. Shaffer created KLD Youth Foundation, alongside her then foster son/son-in-law Kevin Deaton, as an afterschool Christian-based foundation on Merritt Island, designed for "at-risk" youth.

At the time the foundation was started, Mr. Deaton, a Merritt Island High School graduate, had a promising career ahead of him as a professional baseball player, and the foundation was created as a way for him to "give back to the community," with the expectation of such an athlete's salary, Mrs. Shaffer said.

The afterschool program then evolved into an actual educational institution in 2006, under the KLD name, known as the KLD Learning Center, which was offered to students, searching for an alternative form of learning through hands-on education and experiences. Soon after the school was established, however, an injury put a halt to Mr. Deaton's baseball dreams, as well as on the future of the foundation, Mrs. Shaffer said.

But the organization pressed on, and KLD Learning Center recently saw its final graduating class of nine students this past May. In total, 54 students have graduated from the school in the past nine years, Mrs. Shaffer said.

"Our programs have been successful," she said. "You take kids, and you let them feel what success is and you give them desire to have hope in their lives when their physical surroundings would appear that there is no hope for a bright future. All we have to do is get them to hope."

Mr. Bradford said that he was offered a three-year contract to serve as headmaster of KLD Learning Center in 2006, with an annual salary of $63,000, but said that he was terminated a year later.

The former head of the Edgewood Junior-Senior High English, and Journalism department and 1999 finalist for Brevard County Teacher of the Year, subsequently sued KLD Youth Foundation for wrongful termination and the remainder of his wages for his three-year contract.

The organization initially offered Mr. Bradford a donated KLD school bus and a 0.35-acre property, located in Titusville, to settle the debt, but he declined, saying the school needed the donated bus to help transport its students, and that the property taxes attached to the land would greatly bring down its value.

By filing a "proceedings supplementary," it gives the creditor, Mr. Bradford, the "right to compel the debtor to appear in court and testify before a judge or magistrate about the debtor's assets," according to law.

The law also states that a creditor may also examine third parties, who may be the debtor's "alter-ego" or who may be transferees of the debtor's property.

While KLD Youth Foundation was still in full operation, Mrs. Shaffer established an additional nonprofit organization in 2011, known as KLD Youth Ministries. Both entities are currently registered with the state of Florida and list similar objectives by helping to transform at-risk youth to become future leaders.

The 2012 tax filings, which are the most recent available, for KLD Youth Foundation and KLD Youth Ministries showed that funding was transferred back and forth between the two entities.

In 2012, public record shows that KLD Youth Foundation paid $58,841 to what is listed as "affiliates," and had a liability listed as a "due to KLD Youth Ministries" for $48,080.

That same year, KLD Youth Ministries received $58,841 from what is listed as "related organizations," and listed the due of $48,080 from "KLD Youth Foundation," in its assets, records show.

The 2012 tax filings for KLD Youth Ministries also shows that the nonprofit made a payment of $107,618 to "affiliates."

That same year, KLD Youth Foundation received $107,618 from "related organizations."

Mr. Bradford's latest court filing makes reference to this.

"(The filing) orders any property thereupon shown to be that of defendant, KLD Youth Foundation, Inc., to be applied toward satisfaction of final judgment, including any property fraudulently transferred by defendant to another individual or entity," the filing states.

Bob Moletteire, KLD's attorney, denied that any property from KLD Youth Foundation was transferred to KLD Youth Ministries.

"We only had the real estate and a school bus in the foundation's name," he wrote in an email to Hometown News. "We continue to offer those to Bradford to reduce the judgment."

When asked whether or not the funding transferred between the two organizations was considered a "transfer of property," Mr. Moletteire could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Shaffer also denied any transfer of funds between the two entities.

"The only transfer between KLD Youth Foundation and KLD Youth Ministries has been funds transferred to KLD Youth Foundation for operational expenses," she said in an email.

KLD Youth Foundation and KLD Youth Ministries have been under investigation by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement since April, following an accusation of mismanagement of funds.

In a statement from Mrs. Shaffer, which was emailed to Hometown News, the organization claimed that its own board of directors, specifically former KLD Youth Foundation board member Brevard County Sheriff Wayne Ivey, initiated the investigation, following claims from another former board member, who said the nonprofit, specifically Mrs. Shaffer, was misusing funds.

"You could speak to tens and tens and hundreds of children, who will tell you a different picture," Mrs. Shaffer said during an interview on May 12. "And, if one of these children broke the law, you'd follow that, but all of the children, who have been successful and turned their lives around, I bet you don't have one article written about that."

Despite his past ties with the organization, Sheriff Ivey said he did not hesitate to file the investigation.

"I'm Sheriff, first and foremost," he said. "If these allegations are true, someone will be held accountable. I have seen no evidence of criminal wrong-doing."

Sheriff Ivey said he stepped down from KLD in early March in order to devote more time to his fundraising duties as the 2015 chairman of the United Way of Brevard County.

On an April 8, 2014, filing on SunBiz.org, the Florida Department of State Division of Corporations, Sheriff Ivey was still listed as a board member of KLD Youth Ministries, but said this was an error, and clarified that he is no longer a board member of either organization.

A strong proponent of programs that target at-risk youth, Sheriff Ivey said he was still a supporter of KLD's mission and recently served as co-emcee of KLD Youth Ministries' 10th annual Dancing With Brevard event on May 31 at the Rosen Shingle Creek Resort in Orlando.

The event, which was co-hosted by the Brevard County Sheriff's Office, was attended by more than 400 local leaders and community members and raised approximately $350,000, benefiting "the KLD Kids," according to the event flier.

Separate from the allegations of mismanagement of funding, public record indicated that KLD Youth Foundation owes more than $170,000 in federal tax liens, as of press time.

A federal tax lien is the government's legal claim against a filer's property when the filer fails to pay a tax debt, according to irs.gov. The lien protects the government's interest in all of the filer's property, including real estate, personal property and financial assets.

These liens have been repeatedly disputed by the organization.

"That's all been paid," Mrs. Shaffer said about the IRS liens. "The liens won't come off until there is, like, a $20,000 interest remainder, so our accountants have supplied the IRS with all documentation to get that removed. (The IRS) doesn't move as fast as you'd like them to. It's all paid."

During an interview in April, Mrs. Shaffer said the organization would provide proof of payment of the liens, but, following numerous failed requests for a receipt, she emailed this statement to Hometown News: "It is not KLD's policy to provide evidence of IRS or payroll payments to persons outside of the KLD organization, except as required by law."

A Melbourne-based certified public accountant, who is not affiliated with KLD, said that nonprofit organizations, which are not required to pay income taxes, accumulate federal liens by not paying the payroll taxes required for their employees.

"If you work at McDonald's, and you make $100 a paycheck, taxes would take out $20 (of that paycheck)," said the CPA, who wished to remain anonymous. "It is up to the employer to hand that $20, (plus an employer tax) over to (the government). The question is then, 'Where did the $20 (and the employer tax) go?'"

Mrs. Shaffer said that despite what these records show for 2012, her organizations currently do not owe money to the federal government.

"KLD does not owe any payroll taxes to the IRS and does not owe any payroll to any of its employees," she said. "Any CPA reviewing the tax records for KLD would be aware of these facts and stating false information in this regard would be an ethical violation and defamation."

According to its tax records, the organization has already paid off two additional IRS liens since 2007, worth a total of $29,349.

"My experience with the IRS is that it takes zero to four months for a lien to be cleared, once payment is made," the CPA said.

Mrs. Shaffer said that the organization has paid its debt with "everything it has done over the years."

Public record shows that Dancing With

Opening up about a very sensitive topic

This month's piece was difficult for me to write.

The issues I will delve into in the following paragraphs have been weighing on my heart heavily recently, due to the recent passage of Father's Day.

I firmly believe that the way a father raises his daughter will have a huge impact on many of her life choices as she grows up.

Granted, maturity and life experience will change over time, but a kind and supportive masculine presence can carry a lot of weight in a girl's life.

My father and I had a rocky relationship, at best.

My mother was a stay-at-home mom and my dad, the main breadwinner, and while there were not any overtly obvious signs of abuse in our home, it was there.

This kind of abuse is unsettlingly secret and brings with it shame and low self-confidence.

My father's genuine disdain for the female race was obvious over the 13 years that I was abused, as a child.

Whenever I am asked why I never said anything until I became an adult, my answer is the same as that of any abused person – he scared me.

Not only did he scare me, but also my brothers, my cousins and my mother. Though, I'm sure that if my mother ever knew what was occurring, she would have found the courage to leave, if only due to her amazing support system of family, friends and God.

My father was not a Godly man, and so I came to the conclusion that God could not stop an evil man, who was deaf to the Lord's instruction. But many other men actually use religious teachings to justify the objectification and abuse of women, and that's scary, too.

It is more than unfortunate that so much of the Bible's Old Testament Scriptures command repression of females, and it is difficult to argue against the fact that there are so many anti-women Bible messages there.

Many women of faith grow up with these outmoded rules of what not to do; don't speak up, don't teach, don't disobey your husband, don't divorce, don't show your skin, etc., instead of finding joy in the freedom and inclusion of the example of Jesus' life.

And many men buy into the ancient belief that a Christian man owns his wife and daughters as his property, to be used as slaves and collateral for worldly riches. It is a heartbreaking truth alive and well in the world still, as evidenced in a world where women are raped because they dare walk alone and daughters are stoned to death by their male relatives and neighbors for actual and implied disobedience.

Over and over, the Jesus stories show him walking with, teaching to, laying hands of healing upon and showing mercy to ... women.

Forgiveness came to this awesome son of God more easily than it does to us mere mortals, and while I forgave my dad, who has since passed away, a long time ago for what he did, I will never forget, and that is where I draw my strength from.

Did the senator know?

One would think all those people in Arizona, who couldn't get medical attention from the VA over the years would've flooded the offices of their "reigning" senator, John McCain with complaints – clueless? Doubtful!

Data breaches, and the end of your world

Data breaches are about companies that you make monetary transactions with online or in their stores.

The problem is that these companies, who guarantee that your credit card numbers and information are perfectly safe to use on their websites and at their retail counters, are wrong and are at fault by telling you that.

Recent data breaches at Target, Verizon and now, eBay, are about thieves taking money from the accounts you have with these companies you deal with. And how many companies have you used the same card at? It's called access.

Hometown News Pet of The Year Finalists!

We Need Your Help!

From a total of 48 pets, the Hometown News staff has narrowed it down to five well-deserving finalists for our second annual PET OF THE YEAR contest. Now, it's up to you – our readers – to select the winner. From now through Friday, July 4, YOU will have the opportunity to vote for your favorite pet from the finalists below. You can do so by visiting our Facebook page. (Just search "Hometown News Brevard" on Facebook). The pet finalist with the most "likes" will be named the winner. The winning pet will be announced in our July 11 editions and will receive a feature in our newspaper and prizes for you and your pet.

A 1-year-old red and white Siberian Husky, 'Raylan' is the energetic pup of Ed and Shirley Parker of Melbourne. Some of Raylan's favorite things to do are go to the park and play with his best friends 'Kula,' and 'KnickKnick,' meet up with his treat buddies, 'Jerry' and 'Jack,' and cruise in the car, in search of new friends.

A 4-year-old Chihuahua, Whippet and Soft Coated Wheaten Terrier mix, 'Cody' is the rescue dog of Mary and Maurice Shahrabani of Melbourne. Some of Cody's favorite things to do are visit everyone in his parents' community, 'talk' to anyone, who will listen, and of course, get treats. Cody's parents are honored to take care of their 'bundle of joy' for the rest of his life.

A nearly 6-month-old short-haired domestic kitty, 'Maximilan' is the smart and scandalous pet of Eileen and Jerry Grubbs of Merritt Island. Some of Maximilan's favorite things to do are play in his cat condo, run around the house like a wild cat and spend quality time, snuggling with his mommy, who, admittedly, spoils him rotten.

A now 1-year-old yellow Labrador retriever, 'Rafiki' is the unbelievably adorable pup of Meagan McGone of Viera. Some of Rafiki's favorite hobbies are chewing everything in sight, digging holes in the yard and hiding from his archenemy – the vacuum. Rafiki was 12 weeks old at the time this photo was submitted.

A 7-year-old Dalmatian, 'Keekoh' was the active pup of Annie Caza of Indialantic. Some of Keekoh's favorite things to do were run with her mom, explore the dog beach and chase her favorite toy, the Kong. Keekoh passed away recently, following the announcement of our Pet of the Year finalists.

upper-division courses are the college's four-year bachelor's degree programs.

Eastern Florida currently offers nine bachelor's degree tracks in Business, Health and Computer Information Technologies.

"Dr. Richey and the trustees believe that keeping college affordable is the single most important thing they can do to provide students the opportunity to receive a college education, get a good job after graduation and improve their lives," Mr. Glisch said.

While Eastern Florida's cost per credit hour remains in line with other state colleges in Florida, Mr. Glisch added that there are not many colleges that have not raised tuition three years in a row like EFSC.

In addition to keeping tuition the same, three years running, Dr. Richey and the EFSC Board of Trustees announced that non-probationary full-time and part-time staff, except the president, will receive a one-time cost of living payment.

Full-time employees will receive a $1,000 lump sum payment and regular, part-time staff will receive $500, both of which will be doled out in July.

This is the second time the college staff has received a cost of living payment since 2008.

Eastern Florida will also continue to expand the college's security, adding 15 part-time officers, one full-time officer and creating an 18 member reserve force, which will increase the overall size of the force from 51 to 85 officers.

"The safety of everyone at the college is paramount, and the larger force will enhance the strong protections we already have in place," Dr. Richey said in a press statement.

The expansion, which augments EFSC's partnership with the Brevard County Sheriff's Office and local police departments, will allow the college to maintain two officers on duty overnight on all four campuses.

Brevard to celebrate Independence Day at EFSC

By Chris Fish
cfish@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD — Brevard County's biggest celebration for the Fourth of July will take place this Independence Day at the Palm Bay Campus of Eastern Florida State College.

On Friday, July 4, the city of Palm Bay Independence Day Celebration, sponsored by Health First Health Plans & Insurance will be from 2-10 p.m.

This event has taken place for the past 30 years, a spokesperson from the city of Palm Bay said.

Also, for the first time, this year's event will feature a Food Truck War.

"We're excited to be back in Palm Bay," said Liz Otts, president of Food Truck Crazy. "It's a great city, and we're happy to be a part of this huge celebration."

A variety of food trucks from all over the state will compete in five categories, which include the Spirit Award, People's Choice Award, Top Sales, Delectable Dessert and Casual Cuisine.

Gail Merrill, community outreach coordinator for the Palm Bay Parks and Recreation Department, said that the Food Truck War is sure to excite residents.

"Food Truck Wars will be cooking up fantastic gourmet entrées and desserts that will please event the pickiest eaters," she said.

The event will also feature live musical entertainment from local bands Luna Pearl and GT Express.

Palm Bay Idol winners will be performing throughout the event, and special activities for children in the Kid's Zone will feature bounce houses, water slides and games.

The annual Kids' Patriotic Bike

Parade will also be open to children 12 and younger.

"The city of Palm Bay goes all out for Independence Day," said William Capote, mayor of Palm Bay. "It's really the best way to celebrate our country's independence in grand fashion, enjoying time with family friends and being part of the biggest party in Brevard County."

The event will conclude with a fireworks display at 9:15 p.m.

Event sponsors include the city of Palm Bay, Health First Health Plans and Insurance, Zambelli Fireworks and KISS 95.1 FM.

It is offering organizations the opportunity to partner with the zoo for this popular event.

Sponsoring this event makes it possible for hundreds of people to beat the summertime heat and enjoy the zoo and live music in the evening, all at a reduced admission price.

SSN takes place every Saturday night in June and July when the zoo stays open until 9 p.m., with a local band performing live music from 6-8:30 p.m. each night.

Visitors will be able to see many of the animals out on exhibit until dusk, with a special animal encounter at 7 p.m. Guests can also kayak, ride the train and feed the giraffes for an additional charge.

Fun activities and unique animal and/or conservation themes are planned for each night.

Each year organizations help underwrite the cost to lower admission to $6 (daytime admission is $16) by becoming a sponsor. Each sponsor gets to choose an exclusive night to meet guests, and receives two months of online advertising, in addition to print, radio and cable ads. The overall two-month promotion reaches more than one million people.

As for that kind and supportive masculine presence I needed, I found that in my grandfather, who was and remains the sort of man I could look up to.

I pray that more men, like my grandfather, will continue to advocate next to the women they love, to demand a future for their mothers, sisters, wives and daughters without fear and judgment.

A world where women are valued for their strengths and abilities as people, not as sex objects to be used up by any man, who deems it is right to view women as property.

And I pray that my daughter will grow up in a world that celebrates her divine femininity – that she will find a partner that loves her unconditionally, someone who will support her as an equal, just as Jesus did for the females in his lifetime, and be courageous enough to let her to do the same. Amen.

Attn. Gen. Pam Bondi, seems to be going after the companies that didn't, right up-front when it happened, inform its customers that a data breach had occurred.

After a breach, you can go in and change your password, but that is like locking your garage door after someone has already stolen your car.

Who is going after these hackers? Police can track your cell phone, whether you are using it, or not. They can track your car from space and even the $100 bill in your pocket. (Hold it up to the light and look at it).

If hackers can do these data breaches, surely the good guys have someone, who can track the hackers down and put them away.

We are lucky that these small-time hackers are only stealing small amounts of money from every account they hack. Small amounts from thousands of people do add up, though.

What if they became braver and successfully hacked your bank and took everyone's money and cashed in your investments?

You say it can't happen? Tell that to the Target, Verizon and eBay customers, with more to come, I am sure.

And how easy is it to change your online accounts when you have, say, forgotten your password? Could anybody do it in your place? Let's us see:

1. Your mother's maiden name?
  2. What school did you attend? and/or
  3. Where did you meet your spouse?
- Oh, wait! Isn't that information in your Facebook profile? Oops!

The awful thing about the Great Stock Market Crash of 1929 wasn't that the investors lost all the money they had invested, it was the fact that the average man and woman lost faith and money in the banking system, because the banks closed after the crash and would not give the people their own money back.

What would your bank do if it were hacked?

Oh, yes! Now, there is the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It insures bank customer's assets. Ha, ha, ha! How much faith do you have in that?

Stocking up on guns, ammo and food will not help you for long, either ... after the "Worldwide Data Breach Great Depression" gets here.

Murder vs. killing?

What is the difference between murder and kill? Either way, someone dies!

That to me is the sadness in my heart. The sickness in the heart to murder or kill to gain is the greatest sadness that exists in God's heart and many like me. What do you gain?

Why is this spreading more and more all throughout the world? Every day, we find better ways to murder or kill mankind, and yes, even animals! Dogs, cats and other kinds of animals (are) abused and killed and exploited for the gain of money. How sad, how very sad that we have done this to all.

Response to secure guns

I have to respond to the writer of the "Keeping your guns secure" rant.

The breakdown of family values and morals are not due to same-sex marriage. It has to do with the divorce rate, domestic abuse, pedophile priests, violent video games and lack of parental controls, to list a few.

Stop trying to blame same-sex marriage for all the issues that have been building up for the last two decades, long before same-sex marriage came to the forefront.

Same-sex couples and heterosexual couples are not perfect; so, instead of sitting around ranting, you and your Christian community should get up and be part of the solution to the problems.

Kudos to the city of Melbourne for fixing the sidewalk, north of Paradise Boulevard, in Indialantic.

It was in bad shape, due mostly to the trees, planted too close.

It looks nice now; but since the trees remain, this will become a frequent exercise.

However, the contractors they used parked their heavy equipment on the sidewalk on the south side of the street. This sidewalk now has more than 20 places where it is cracked and crushed.

I sure wish they would have been a bit more careful.

KSC Federal Credit Union announces name change

Kennedy Space Center Federal Credit Union has announced that it has officially changed its name to Launch FCU.

KSC Federal Credit Union was founded in 1963 to serve the financial needs of employees of Kennedy Space Center.

In 1993, the Credit Union merged with Halifax Teachers Credit Union, and membership was expanded to include anyone who lives, works or worships in Brevard or Volusia counties.

In 2013, KSCFCU began exploring a name change to better reflect its membership growth, while keeping its robust history of serving the Space Center, as well as the teachers in Volusia County.

Launch conveys the past, present and future of this credit union. The tagline, "go beyond" invites members and the community to experience a superior level of service and the logo reflects the history of space exploration.

A new website will be coming later in the year.

Launch Federal Credit Union is a full service community credit union with 12 branch locations throughout Brevard and Volusia counties.

Membership is open to all who live, work or worship in Brevard or Volusia counties. The credit union has almost 60,000 members and more than $650 million in assets.

Real estate's 'Pinnacle Award'

Hallmark Properties president/broker/owner Steve Pilchick and Weichert Real Estate Affiliates president Martin J. Rueter were on stage together for the ninth year in a row, holding the Orlando-based company's "2013 Pinnacle Award" and smiling for an audience of real estate people from across the country, who gathered in Atlantic City, N.J., for the Weichert National Convention.

Mr. Pilchick accepted the franchise organization's crystal-engraved trophy No. 9, in behalf of the Florida agency's unbroken record as tops in the nation of Weichert Affiliates in 37 states.

The 18-office company has won the top spot consistently since joining Weichert by achieving the greatest annual Gross Commission Income.

Mr. Pilchick also paid his respects to Weichert, saying that in addition to "unequaled training for agents" through Weichert University online and the franchise's unique Fast Track program, there are four yearly Weichert Management Academy sessions, which he considers "a must" for all 18 offices' managers and associate managers.

Hallmark Properties has offices in Orlando, Ft. Lauderdale, Palm Bay, Port Orange, Melbourne, Palm Coast, Ocala, Vero Beach, Ormond Beach, Winter Park, Longwood, Lake Mary, Oviedo, Clermont, New Smyrna Beach, Kissimmee and Saint Cloud.

Rants

Rant in response to 'What a nice guy'

To this sarcastic rant about our president: I seriously doubt this person would have this kind of sarcasm if our president was not black. Many of these types of untrue, misinformed comments stem out of simply (the fact that) these people are sour grapes and will never be content with a president of color, no matter what he does.

I have to wonder: Did anyone think Bush did a fantastic job? Don't think he ever read from a teleprompter, led us into an unnecessary war that we still are recovering in paying for, wasted lives and our economy tanked.

House Republicans seem to hold the president responsible for the entire national debt, forgetting it was racked up by Republicans and Democrats, alike.

Many complaints I read stem back since before Obama was even president. When polled, people blame Obama for Katrina and he was not even president then, what a laugh.

We are still digging out of the hole that was left to us, and he is doing a good job that I doubt Romney would have ever done. He's working w/ a GOP-led Congress that gets nothing done.

Did Bush have that? Was there ever this much obstructionism in Washington before? Made-in-America has become a joke, you say? Why are you not blaming the rich corporate fat cats, who ship jobs overseas, making it cheaper for them to produce their products? Most of the unemployment numbers can be explained by the drop in the labor force participation rate. We need more employers to hire workers, not hold back and ship jobs overseas.

We need people to be paid a "living wage," so that money can be pumped back into our economy. The nation's economy is in clear need of substantive, remedying policies, such as extending the payroll tax cut, which would create jobs and provide substantial aid to working families.

Here's something to think about

Here's something to think about

How does the government account for the funds paid into Social Security, and the person dies before he/she even collects a Social Security check?

Where does this money go? Should it not be returned to the person's family?

Is Social Security an entitlement? Let's see how entitlement is defined: "Entitlement - Government Program Helping Specific Group: a government program that targets a particular section of the population to receive specific social benefits." Note the word "helping" in the definition. Is the government really helping me? How much money did the government put into Social Security? I put in 7.5 percent of my earnings into Social Security. My employer puts in 7.5 percent into my account. Government puts in nothing. That's 15 percent of your income, before taxes. If you averaged $30,000 over your working life, your contribution amounts to close to $220,500.

Let's calculate future earnings. If your vested value of $4,500 per year (yours and your employer) at a simple rate of 5 percent, after 49 years of working, you would have $892,919.98 If you took our just 3 percent each year, you would receive $26,787.60 (twice the amount I receive now.) If you bought an annuity at 4 percent per year, you would have a lifetime income of $29,760.40 a year.

Clearly, ladies and gentlemen, our government has pulled off a Ponzi scheme bigger than Bernie Madoff. They have the audacity to call Social Security an entitlement. It is our money. It is our right to collect Social Security.

Now that it is time to collect, our government is running out of money, which they stole from you and me. They had no right, nor authority to take this money and use it to pay for other programs.

Several years ago, a presidential candidate suggested that a portion of our Social Security payments be placed in an annuity program. Many of us were against such a proposal. But now, after doing my research, I believe that his proposal was a fundamentally sound idea.

Our contributions to the financial organization, managing these funds would allow for valid investments, and our funds would continue to grow. Our Social Security checks would be double what we receive now. And, upon our Brevard has generated more than $2 million since its inception.

The liens against KLD Youth Foundation, however, were never mentioned as a liability in any of the organization's tax filings, dating back to 2004.

The organization has been paying government liens that date back to 2007, and the current liens of more than $180,000 against the organization is a culmination of three separate liens that are still active against the foundation.

These three active liens against KLD Youth Foundation include one, worth more than $146,900 for a failure to remit payroll taxes to the IRS from October 2006 to March 2008, a late filing penalty from 2007, worth $8,300, and a failure to issue tax returns penalty from 2006, worth more than $15,500, as of press time.

When asked how the nonprofit organization accumulated more than $200,000 in IRS tax liens alone, Mrs. Shaffer argued that no organization is without debt.

"We pay our debt. It is paid," she said. "The conception is tainted because of the way it was presented to (the media) to be able to represent both sides. I would have to say to you, 'Let's go through a diary of other businesses and nonprofits and see what their debt is.' Many (nonprofits) have loans, and we have none."

An Internet search of the nearly 200 nonprofits registered in Brevard County showed that only one other organization owes or has owed federal liens: a Titusville church that owes $31,114.

"The debt doesn't have anything to do with the investigation," said Barbara Nabors, a current board member of KLD Youth Ministries. "There's a lot of damage done to our reputation, and these kids are the ones suffering. People say things, and you just defend yourself. That's what you do."

Since KLD Learning Center officially closed its doors last month, Mrs. Shaffer said the organization has switched gears to focus on a new agriscience endeavor, under the KLD Youth Ministries moniker, in which local youth can learn about farming and commerce.

KLD signed off on a three-year lease with the family of State Rep. Steve Crisafulli, R-Merritt Island, a former board member, to develop the land by showing children how to grow their own produce, with the intent of selling it to local businesses.

"I think many people think we're crazy most of the time because we dream outside-of-the-box and vision outside-of-the-box," Mrs. Shaffer said.

A spokeswoman from the FDLE said the investigation into KLD was ongoing.

death, the funds would be returned to our families.

Just imagine if we had done this, our government could not have stolen our money for their use; and our money would have been safely tucked away.

I have concluded, and many of my rants dealing with politicians have the same theme, they no longer serve the needs of the people.

Telephone number 'kidnapped'

We have had the unfortunate experience of having our telephone number "kidnapped" by unknown people.

It is being used to make calls, without leaving a message or hanging up when asked who is calling.

Brighthouse tells us this is "spoofing," done by someone obtaining our IP identification and can only be resolved by changing our phone number.

The result is we are receiving often as many as 20 return calls a day and also getting angry messages on our phone.

I would like to suggest if you receive a call from an unknown caller, with no message or a hang up, that you ignore it.

All of these calls are in the 321 area code, which leads me to believe that the person, or persons, responsible for this, are local to Brevard County.

To my knowledge, as there has been no attempt to sell anything by these calls, I can only conclude the person, who did this is a low-life, with no job, and is basically worthless, enjoying the harassment that results.

Perhaps, if enough of these calls are reported to Brighthouse at (321) 254-3300, the problem can be solved.

Personal information: It's happened again!

Car salesmen, dealerships and special parking lot car sales must all do it.

Have you ever had them say they need your Social Security number or your driver's license before they can even give you the price on a car?

When car salesmen do that, it appears to me they only want to check your credit rating to know how much you can pay for the car.

Ever consider, if two different people looked at the same car, would they even be quoted the same price? It seems not, if the credit ratings are different.

Do not give them your personal information before you are in the final stages of buying the car, and that is when you are actually doing the paperwork to purchase. If they insist, leave them standing and go to a more honest dealer or salesman.

We can help put a stop to this type of scam by refusing to deal with anyone, who insists on personal information so early in the process.

A rebuttal to a rebuttal

A writer professed to follow the Golden Rule, after he wrote "K.D. is wrong." A true follower of the Golden Rule should say, "I disagree with K.D."

The writer thought he (or she) had a valid argument for the "rightness" of any religion, based on the Golden Rule.

I will not say he is wrong, I will say that I disagree, as this does not prove which religion is the right one in the eyes of the creator. Can they all be right?

Many Christians teach, "He that believeth (in the son of God) and is baptized, shall be saved," while quoting Christian Holy Scriptures. These Christians believe only Christianity is the right religion – of course, there are thousands of Christian denominations. Likewise, most Muslims and Jews think they are the only ones, who are right.

Yes, being good to everyone is the basis for much religious philosophy, and even prehistoric humans must have developed some sort of code of conduct before the invention of religion.

But there is much more to most organized religions than "Do unto others....." Some teach that God does not want people to go around saying "Oh, My God," as this breaks one of the "big ten."

It appears that the creator wants to be worshipped on a particular day of the week, another of the "big ten." What day? Some teach the seventh, others, the first.

The Bible is clear on sex. It teaches that marriage is between a man and a woman, and they are the only ones who should be having sex. Christianity has become more liberal through the years, but has the creator? Is it now OK to have sex out of wedlock, and in this age of birth control, have babies out of wedlock?

The writer is lucky if the philosophy of the Golden Rule is all it takes to be "righteous."

It's 'Light's Out' for sea turtles in Brevard County

For Hometown News
brevnews@hometownnewsol.com

Thousands of endangered and threatened sea turtles nest on Brevard County's beaches each summer.

Leatherback sea turtles begin nesting in March, followed by Loggerhead and Green sea turtles.

After 50-70 days of incubation in buried nests, hatchlings begin to emerge from the beach and dunes and orient themselves toward the brightest visible horizon in an attempt to find the sea.

Lights from beachfront structures that shine or reflect onto the beach can disrupt this instinctive process and cause hatchlings to crawl toward the upland lights instead of crawling to the sea. These disoriented hatchlings often get tangled in dune vegetation, eaten by predators, die from exhaustion or dehydration or are occasionally run over by vehicles.

Even those that eventually find the ocean may have used up so much energy on the beach that they die before they find food. It is estimated that only one out of every 1,000 hatchlings manages to survive to adulthood.

To prevent hatchling disorientation, all indoor and exterior lights that are visible from the beach should be shielded, repositioned, replaced or turned off after 9 p.m. during sea turtle season.

Because adult nesting-females can also be disoriented by improper lighting, lighting ordinances apply through Oct. 31.

For questions regarding beachfront lighting, copies of educational brochures, a demonstration of turtle-friendly lighting fixtures or to discuss available lighting options, call (321) 633-2016, Ext. 52431, or email paula.berntson@brevardcounty.us.

Holy Trinity graduate featured in "Aerie International"

Charles Barger, a recent graduate of Holy Trinity Episcopal Academy, is an aspiring artist, whose work was just featured in Aerie International. The prestigious publication is a collection of high school students' literature and visual art. Barger, who will be attending Auburn University in the fall, primarily works with clay and describes his introductory art class as "the first time I discovered clay as the medium I would use as my voice."

During his senior year at Holy Trinity, Barger was enrolled in Advanced Placement Art with Cathy Rodby, who is head of the art department and has been employed at the school since 2000. His assignment for the year was to employ one concept and show the progression of that concept through twelve pieces. The idea Barger chose is chains, containment and the notion of being held back. In Aerie International, Barger said, "It's not a personal message, per say, but demonstrative of how society has rules and most simply, do not violate them. I'm not saying all of the rules are negative, but they do confine us, just as chains do. We're scared to break the societal norm, and this limits our progression."

When he's not creating art, the 18 year old may be found riding a unicycle, blowing fire, playing lacrosse, lifeguarding or surfing. In fact, he says that the ocean inspires his art.

The publication can be purchased at <http://aerieinternational.wordpress.com/subscriptions>.

Following the concert, attendees are invited to remain on the church grounds to view the Front Street fireworks beginning at 9 p.m., weather permitting.

Kyle Jones, musical director for EPC, said that to his knowledge, this is the first collaboration between Eastminster and the Melbourne Municipal Band.

"This is certainly the first — of hopefully many more — 'Salute to America' concert," Mr. Jones said.

Established in 1965, the Melbourne Municipal Band is committed to Originating in Argentina at the turn of the 19th Century, it has evolved into a global following. Made popular in such movies, such as "Scent of a Woman," the dance and passion of the music draws interest from all ages.

BCA receives Boeing grant

Brevard Cultural Alliance has announced that The Boeing Company's Global Corporate Citizenship organization has presented BCA with a grant to support the "Telling Your Story" program, which will engage approximately 50 Titusville-based high school students in creating video documentaries using their cellular phones.

These documentaries will express concerns about social, cultural, political and/or environmental issues, enabling students to become agents of change within their community.

Participating students will create their videos this summer and will be honored during a red carpet screening at the Art and Algorithms Festival in Titusville in October.

Completed documentaries will also be featured on the BCA website, social media platforms and YouTube channel.

Boeing funding will be used primarily to pay professional artists, who will provide instruction and mentoring to participating students.

Boeing's grant-giving strategy focuses on five key sectors: Education, environment, health and human services, arts and culture, and civic engagement, that are prioritized locally by site representatives, according to an assessment of community needs.

Youth, 14-18, interested in participating in the "Telling Your Story" program must attend Titusville, Astronaut or Space Coast high schools or be part of the Hope for North Brevard program.

Applicants are asked to provide a brief synopsis of the story they'd like to tell via the webpage listed below.

Submissions will be reviewed by a committee, comprised of BCA staff and Telling Your Story residency artists.

For more information about BCA's "Telling Your Story" program, visit <http://www.artsbrevard.org/programs-and-grants/for-educators/telling-your-story.html>.

FP&L and National Guard enhances partnership

For Hometown News
brevnews@hometownnewsol.com

Florida Power & Light Company has announced that the company has initiated a first-of-its-kind partnership with the Florida National Guard, designed to enhance each organization's overall response capabilities to natural and man-made disasters, with a particular focus on severe storms, including hurricanes.

Key to the partnership will be the embedding for six months of a Florida National Guardsman within FPL's emergency preparedness organization.

"We are extremely excited to announce this unique partnership with the Florida National Guard and its 12,000 citizen soldiers and airmen – the first of its kind in the nation," said Eric Silagy, president of FPL.

"This new partnership will allow FPL to leverage the Florida Guard's considerable logistics and operational expertise, gained through its recent deployments here and around the world.

"At the same time, the Florida National Guard will gain a better appreciation for how FPL conducts its business, particularly during times of large-scale power restoration. There's no question in my mind that this innovative partnership can and will serve as a model for other National Guard units and utilities throughout the nation."

The idea behind the partnership began late last year during a meeting, involving senior FPL officials, including Mr. Silagy and senior Florida National Guard staff officers, including Maj. Gen. Emmett R. Titshaw Jr., the Adjutant General of the Florida National Guard.

"This innovative partnership is exactly the type of out-of-the-box thinking that needs to take place to ensure we are as well-positioned as possible to respond to the needs of Florida's citizens when disaster strikes," said Maj. Gen. Titshaw.

"The Florida National Guard brings to the table an immense portfolio of real-world deployment and operational experience. Now, we have an opportunity to put that expertise to work here at home, allowing for knowledge-sharing and relationship-building with our disaster relief partners, all with a focus on preparation, response and recovery," he said.

The announcement took place against the backdrop of FPL's annual storm drill.

More than 3,500 FPL employees participated at FPL's Command Center, located in Riviera Beach, and at service centers and other facilities throughout the company's 35-county service area.

Employees responded to Hurricane Echo – a virtual Category 3 storm – to test FPL's hurricane readiness, restoration and recovery plan.

"Ten years ago, Hurricanes Charley, Frances and Jeanne devastated parts of our state and challenged our restoration efforts," Mr. Silagy said. "Since that time, FPL has invested well over a billion dollars to strengthen our system and make it more resilient to Florida's extreme weather. While it's been nine years since a hurricane impacted FPL and its customers, none of us can afford to be complacent. That's why we vigorously test our storm plan and prepare for severe storms each and every day. I strongly encourage our customers to do their part and take the time now to prepare, well before the heart of hurricane season."

Since the devastating storms in 2004, FPL has invested more than $1.4 billion to strengthen the electric grid to better withstand severe weather, help restore service faster, following outages, and improve everyday service reliability for 4.7 million customers, including:

- Strengthening more than 450 main power lines, serving critical community facilities such as hospitals, police and fire stations and emergency communication systems
- Clearing vegetation – a major cause of power outages – from more than 100,000 miles of power lines
- Inspecting all power poles – more than one million – and upgrading or replacing those that no longer meet

our standards for strength

• Installing 4.6 million smart meters and 10,000 intelligent devices using cutting-edge technologies that help detect and restore service faster when outages occur.

As part of FPL's week-long storm drill, employees are responding to Hurricane Echo, a virtual Category 3 hurricane that makes landfall in the Broward and Miami-Dade county area. The virtual storm takes a northerly route through the middle of Florida before exiting near Daytona Beach. The last two days of the drill simulate post-storm restoration activities.

During the simulation, employees track outages, assess damage, communicate with customers and employees, and initiate service restoration. They also test the company's storm plans and tactics, and apply lessons learned from previous hurricanes and other extreme weather events. Additionally, to make this simulation as real as possible, FPL generates damage estimates for the fictional storm scenario, based on scientific computer models the company has built from decades of storm data.

If a real storm strikes, FPL will provide updated restoration time estimates and other progress reports:

With July 4th coming up around the corner, the sound of fireworks will soon consume the night sky. The loud noise will frighten many animals throughout the night. Firework phobia is a treatable condition and animals don't have to suffer from fear every year. Several alternatives are available at your local veterinarian that can help your pets with their phobia. Thunder shirts and a dog appeasing pheromone collar/diffuser will calm and relax your dog and cat without using any medications. If your pets still show signs of anxiety and fear, sedatives may be used. Desensitization of noises helps to prevent phobia of loud noises. Consult your veterinarian for desensitization techniques. The house becomes your pets' safety zone, so it's important to prepare it properly. By keeping a light on, it will calm your pet and make them feel more secure. If you're keeping your pets in a cage, cover the cage with a blanket to dampen the noise coming from outside. By turning on music or leaving the TV on it can soothe and calm your pets. Periodically check on your pets to ensure that they are safe and calm. Follow these steps to keep your pet happy and less anxious during 4th of July festivities.

Please call your veterinarian for more information and guidance.

Smoking: How long has it been? How many have died?

For Hometown News
brevnews@hometownnewsol.com

It's been 50 years since the Surgeon General first reported that smoking causes lung cancer.

Fifty years ago in 1964, the U.S. Surgeon General reported for the very first time that smoking causes lung cancer in men and was a likely cause of lung cancer in women. In addition, the Surgeon General also reported that smoking likely caused chronic bronchitis and emphysema, which is known today as COPD, or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease.

In the 50 years since the Surgeon General first released this report, nearly 18 million people have died because of tobacco use and millions more have suffered from a disease caused by tobacco.

50 Years of Progress

We also know that our collective efforts to fight tobacco are paying off. A new study from the Journal of the American Medical Association found that 8 million early deaths related to smoking from 1964–2012 have been prevented. That's 8 million more mothers, fathers, husbands, wives, sisters, sons and daughters, who gained more years of life, thanks to tobacco control efforts, such as smoke-free laws and campaign promotions, designed to prevent kids from starting to smoke.

Make Tobacco History Coalition

Lung Association senior vice president Paul Billings pledges our commitment to end the tobacco epidemic What's Next?

The fight against tobacco doesn't end today. And it won't end this year. There is still a lot of progress to be made, which is why we're part of a coalition committed to reducing the smoking rate in America to less than 10 percent by 2024. This ambitious goal will only be attained with your help. Together, let's make tobacco history.

How Can You Help?

Spread the word. All of us have been impacted by tobacco in one way or another. To commemorate this historic day (and the days after), we're asking you to share how you and your family have been impacted by tobacco these last 50 years. Please share your experience on our Facebook page or tag us on Twitter using the hashtag #maketobaccohistory.

Thank you for sharing your experience.

Together, let's make tobacco history.

bringing free concerts to area residents and visitors, while promoting music appreciation and education.

The Festival Chorus is comprised of many singers from various church choirs, which Mr. Jones said he believes that eight different churches are represented in the overall chorus.

During "A Salute to America," the two area musical groups will be led by MMB conductor Staci Cleveland and Mr. Jones in a patriotic, musical extravaganza, featuring "God Bless America," "Star Spangled Banner," "God of Our Fathers," "Armed Forces Salute," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and many more. The audience is encouraged to sing along to all of its favorite selections.

"The Carmen Dragon arrangement of 'America, the Beautiful' has always been a favorite of mine since I was first introduced to it in my high school band," Mr. Jones said.

"We will be playing and singing the songs that inspire us all," Mrs. Cleveland said in a press release. "We are very excited to join with Eastminster and the Festival Chorus in celebration of this wonderful holiday and hope it becomes an annual event."

In addition to great music, Mr. Jones said Eastminster Presbyterian Church will be providing bottled water and ice cream to the general public, as supplies last, starting at 6:30 p.m.

"I can think of no better way to celebrate the birthday of our country and pride we have, as Americans, than through great, patriotic music," Mr. Jones said. "It's especially moving to see the various veterans and servicemen and women stand to be recognized when the 'Armed Forces Medley' is performed."

The Melbourne Municipal Band and the Festival Chorus will host "A Salute to America" on Friday, July 4 at Eastminster Presbyterian Church in Indialantic, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The free concert will be followed by the Front Street fireworks show, weather permitting.

Eastminster Presbyterian Church is located at 106 N. Riverside Dr., Indialantic.

Opportunity Knocks

Judgment Creditor Announces Maximum Bid

Question: Why will a judgment creditor sometimes bid a small amount but announce how high it will bid?

Answer: A judgment creditor has a "bid credit" for the full amount of the judgment, plus interest and other expenses that may accrue between the judgment date and the foreclosure sale. This means the judgment creditor can bid up to that amount without having to bring cash to the sale. The judgment creditor will still bid as low as possible, typically $100.00, because documentary taxes have to be paid on the amount bid at foreclosure sales. The rate is $0.70 per $100.00 bid. A judgment creditor may announce how high it will bid in advance to keep others from wasting their time with small bids, and to keep from having to pay more in documentary taxes than necessary. For example, if a judgment creditor has a $200,000.00 bid credit and other people force the bidding up to $100,000.00, the judgment creditor will be the winning bidder but will have to pay $700.00 in documentary taxes. This could have been avoided by announcing that the judgment creditor would bid up to $200,000.00. The only bid would likely have been $100.00 and the tax would have been $0.70.

Online pet-licensing service

Brevard County Animal Services & Enforcement has added a feature to its website, so pet owners can purchase new or renew existing licenses for their pets, via the Internet.

According to county code, owners of dogs and cats must obtain an animal license tag for each dog or cat annually. The web address is www.brevard-county.us/AnimalServices/Home.

A one-year license for altered cats or dogs is $10. Unaltered cats and dogs are $16. Failure to license or renew your pet's license could result in a $120 citation.

In order to use the online service, dog owners will need a current rabies vaccination certificate, a spay/neuter certificate, if applicable, and a credit card.

Once the animal license is processed, it will be mailed to the pet owner's home in approximately two weeks.

Dog licenses may be purchased annually.

In addition to online, dog licenses can also be purchased by phone (321) 633-2024, mail or in person at the South Brevard County Animal Care Center, 5100 W. Eau Gallie Blvd., Melbourne, or the North Brevard County Animal Care Center, 2605 Flake Road, Titusville, or through many veterinary clinics.

primary care, pediatric care, dental care, behavioral health services, case management services and medication assistance programs.

Since opening March 7, 2005, Brevard Health Alliance has provided services to more than 64,000 individual citizens of Brevard County. BHA has also enabled patients' access to more than $31 million in free diagnostic services, generously provided by Brevard County's not-for-profit hospitals and more than $29 million in free medications, through pharmaceutical company assistance programs.

The company currently operates six fixed sites and two mobile medical units throughout Brevard County, from Malabar to Titusville.

Nutritional information for Floridians

Department of Elder Affairs Secretary Charles T. Corley joined Florida Commissioner of Agriculture Adam H. Putnam, elected officials and other state of Florida department heads recently to launch the new campaign "Living Healthy in Florida."

The Department of Elder Affairs was a key participant in the work group that collaborated to form this unique partnership.

Other partners in this effort include Commissioner Pam Stewart, Florida Department of Education; John Armstrong, state Surgeon General and Secretary of the Florida Department of Health; the Florida Department of Children and Families; the Florida Department of Environmental Protection; the Agency for Health Care Administration, United Health Care Community Plan; and Florida Healthy Kids.

Over the past year, the work group created a tool kit, available at www.livinghealthyinfl.com, with common health and wellness messages. The kit contains a harvesting calendar that showcases Florida fruits and vegetables to help families eat healthy and save money by capitalizing on Florida's produce seasons. The tool kit also contains information that can easily be shared on websites, newsletters and social media.

The Department of Elder Affairs provides home-delivered and congregate meals to elders, as well as nutrition education to promote better health and an improved quality of life.

For more information about this initiative, visit www.livinghealthyinfl.com.
