Alice Good received 273 cards celebrating her 106th birthday Feb. 2.

Woman celebrates 106th birthday, surrounded by family and friends

By Josh Whitener
For Hometown News

WEST MELBOURNE - When thinking of the events and changes that have occurred in the last century, most people recall what they've read in history books.

Alice Good actually lived them.

Ms. Good celebrated her 106th birthday Feb. 2 with friends and family at Brookdale Senior Living in West Melbourne where she resides. Those in attendance included her sister, Marie Chalker; her son and daughter-in-law, Robert and Beverly Good, as well as other family and residents at Brookdale Senior Living. Chalker is Alice Good's youngest sister at 94.

"She's the oldest and I'm the youngest. They call us the 'Bookends,'" Chalker said.

Brookdale uploaded a Facebook post a week prior encouraging anyone interested to send cards to Mrs. Good. Some 26,853 people got the post. Of those, 416 liked it, 221 shared it and 134 left congratulatory comments. She received 120 birthday cards from residents in the area - all of whom were complete strangers - and 273 cards in total.

Cards came from local elementary schools, other senior living facilities and the Girls Scouts of America. One card came all the way from a stranger in Alaska.

"It'll keep me busy, opening the cards," Ms. Good said. "I think it's just wonderful. I got a lot of cards from the other Brookdale, from people I don't even know."

Ms. Good has been a resident of Florida for 25 years and lived independently with the help of friends, family and neighbors until last year, when she moved into Brookdale Senior Living Facility.

Ms. Good was born in 1912 in Seneca Falls,

Nana's House community close to completion

By Brittany Mulligan
ARushnell@hometownnewsol.com

WEST MELBOURNE— "Dream" is a word in which for some people their ideas never amount to much more than that, but for one woman, her dream of seeing a community built to help neglected children has finally come to fruition 10 years later.

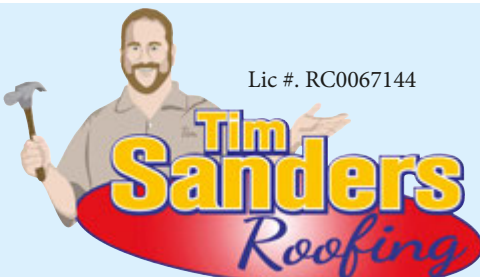

"(I) literally had dreams that wouldn't go away at night, that were waking me up, and it took about two years for me and my husband to be on the same page before we decided to start it," said Kim Frodge, founder and executive director of Nana's House.

Nana's House is a 501(c)3 Christian-based nonprofit created by a woman dedicated to serving neglected, abused, needy or abandoned children (the words behind "Nana") in Brevard County.

Through the generosity of volunteers and companies providing time, supplies and dedication, Nana's House has been able to build eight homes in a gated community in West Melbourne.

"We take in neglected, abused, needy or abandoned children and we provide a family home for them," Mrs. Frodge said. "We never have more than five kids in each home and the idea is to just love them like they're our own. You can't expect a kid to grow up and run a normal home if they've never experienced one. So, we try to role-model what it's like to be in

Local families realize dream of home ownership

By Amy Lyon
For Hometown News

MELBOURNE - Cedarwood Drive in Melbourne was lined with families, volunteers, city officials, and church and business leaders on a recent Saturday morning to celebrate the dream of homeownership for two local families.

For the Hutker family, more than two years of hard work came to fruition as the family of six received the keys Jan. 27, to their four-bedroom home. For the Callaway family, raising the first exterior wall signaled the reality for this mother and son that sometime this year they will have a home to call their own.

Habitat for Humanity Site Supervisor Bruce Challender gave a heartfelt introduction of Tim and Tracee Hutker's family, which includes four children, Onnah, 8, Cole, 6, Scarlett, 4, and one-year-old Mia.

"It's been a long struggle for this group," Challender said. "There were four generations of Hutkers working on this house and four generations of devotion to family. We've helped them create an environment where they can raise their family in security."

The average time a family spends in the Habitat program, from application to closing, is two years. The Hutker family's process took two years and three months.

"While working through the program, the family lost the home they were renting due to major repairs being needed," said Pam Davis, vice president of development and marketing for Habitat. "They entered a transitional housing program before owning their Habitat home."

Habitat families are required to complete a minimum of 200 hours of sweat equity per adult. On the Hutker home, the city of Melbourne Purchase Assistance Program required an additional 50 hours per adult, which brought the Hutker's total to more than 500 hours.

Harris Corporation was the major partner on the project, donating $60,000 and more than 200 volunteer hours. Other partners included The Heinzl Family Trust and the city of Melbourne.

Melbourne City Councilwoman Betty Moore said that she recently reviewed the crime statistics in the Booker T. Washington area, which is where Cedarwood Drive is located, and she noted a decrease in crime activity.

"I give the law enforcement credit, but I also give the homeowners credit," Ms. Moore said. "Everyone here is concerned about each other, and with more of these homes, it's only going to get better."

Habitat has provided more than 50 families homeownership opportunities in the Booker T. Washington neighborhood since 1992.

"We are continuing to revitalize the area with the last remaining 15 lots on Cedarwood Drive," Ms. Davis said. "Through dedication, hard work and community support, Booker T. Washington area is once again a safe place to call home."

As part of the dedication, the family received gifts from the community of blankets and quilts, cleaning supplies, decorations, garden supplies, books, toys and a gift certificate for food.

"When we first started the Habitat program, we didn't know this was going to be so much more than a program," Mrs. Hutker said. She described the family atmosphere of volunteers and the friendships that have already formed in the neighborhood. "We're not going to stop here. We're going to keep on building."

Frances Callaway, whose two-bedroom home is being built two doors down from the Hutker's, described a similar family atmosphere in the neighborhood.

"What I love most is just being out here," Ms. Callaway said as she stood next to the

Romance writers deliver on promise of happily ever after

By Amy Lyon
For Hometown News

BREVARD COUNTY — Store shelves are lined with greeting cards and restaurants are gearing up for romantic dinners, and while a certain amorousness is present with Valentine's Day this week, love is always in the air for local romance writers.

Spacecoast Authors of Romance (STAR) is the Brevard County chapter of the national Romance Writers of America, and the group gathers the fourth Saturday of every month at West Melbourne Public Library, 2755 Wingate Blvd.

With nearly 60 members, the group is comprised of writers of all ages and achievement levels, who are pursuing the publication of book-length fiction.

"One of the things that attracted me to STAR was the high level of professionalism of these writers, and many of them have the successes to prove it," said STAR President Chris Kridler, who lives in Rockledge. "We have writers who've made the bestseller lists, and we have writers who are just starting out. All of us have an opportunity to learn craft, publishing and marketing through one another's experiences and guest speakers."

Barbara Barrett drives from Celebration to West Melbourne each month, and says traveling is "worth the time and gas," because of the support she receives.

"I joined STAR nine years ago when I was new to Florida," Ms. Barrett said. "I had been writing for several years and had finished several novels that were unpublished. I not only was seeking continued information about our craft and the publishing world, but also a place where others understood my ambitions and frustrations. They were there to celebrate with me when my first book was published in 2012."

Alethea Kontis of Titusville experienced a similar welcoming.

"When I first moved here, I didn't know anyone," Ms. Kontis said. "The members of STAR instantly welcomed me and understood how important my career was to me. We brainstorm, share trials and errors, tips and tricks, and support one another as often as we can."

Each meeting includes a sharing time, discussion of industry trends, brief business meeting, and a guest speaker or workshop.

Naomi Bellina of Cocoa has been a member of STAR since 2011, and cited the benefits of gathering in person versus in a virtual setting.

"We have guest speakers at our meetings, share about writing and publishing, congratulate our successes, and commiserate when things aren't so great," Ms. Bellina said. "Virtual groups are good, but there's something about meeting in person that's especially enjoyable. And some members like to bake. You can't eat virtual chocolate. I've tried."

Jennifer Perkins of Palm Bay has been writing on and off for years, but started writing seriously about two years ago. For her, celebrating the accomplishments of other members is fulfilling and inspiring.

"STAR is a group where friendships are made and kept," Ms. Perkins said.

In order to be a member of STAR, individuals first must become members of the national organization, RWA. Visitors are invited to attend two STAR meetings before they are asked to join.

A list of upcoming meetings and speakers can be found at www.authorsofromance.com.

While every romance novel has a central love story, Ms. Kridler explained that romance comes in many forms.

"Romance is not just one genre," she said. "It can have mystery, vampires, family drama, seduction, Amish farmers, dukes and duchesses, soldiers, computer hackers, business executives, lawyers, bakers. Technically, anything labeled romance in publishing has a 'happy ever after' or 'happy for now' ending."

A cursory glance at Amazon book rankings shows the popularity of romance novels, and a more detailed search into the statistics reveals that this billion-dollar-a-year industry is poised to keep growing.

And with the writers of STAR involved, there will be no shortage of happily ever afters.

Thank you to all who helped us locate our wonderful hero

Thanks to this story, friends and family of our mysterious heroine reached out to us and we were able to thank and offer a small reward to our hero Marlene.

She tried to turn it down multiple times, insisting anyone would do what she did, but that just made us even more impressed by her humble deeds and selflessness.

Thanks to Hometown News reporter Austin Rushnell for reaching out and writing this story which helped us connect with our wonderful hero, who helped us catch our crook.

We are very thankful that we were able to connect with her so quickly.

Thanks so much to everyone involved.

Be patient: If a nonprofit is worthy, donations will come

It is refreshing to see that the author of this article has organized a fundraiser at the American Muscle Car Museum.

I hope it does well and raises a lot of money for his organization, Helping Seniors of Brevard.

It sure beats his constant pleading for more government funding for his and other nonprofits.

In my opinion that is not a legitimate function of government.

Taking from all taxpayers in order to redistribute it to others, in this case to the wealthiest age group, is not my idea of fairness. Those government funds should go to projects that are of benefit to all residents, such as our terribly neglected public roads.

I was very pleased the voters approved the special assessment ordinance in November 2016 that will enable the city of Palm Bay to make some much-needed repairs and lay pavement on some of the many miles of dirt roads we struggle with.

Why any nonprofit would be willing to expose themselves to all of the red tape and regulations associated with government funding is beyond me.

Take a cue from the organization Christ Is The Answer (CITA), refusing any funding from federal, state or other governmental body.

Instead they rely on private donations to do what is in the best interests of their constituents, not some bureaucrat.

If a nonprofit is worthy, the donations will come.

Door-to-door religious followers always should be researched

If a couple of polite, well-dressed people knock on your front door offering to give you their printed religious material to read, ask them if they celebrate Thanksgiving, Memorial Day or Christmas.

Beware if they don't give you a straight answer or say these are not biblically-based holidays. They are members of a recognized religion that acts like a cult. Their goal is to recruit you.

Before agreeing to attend a Bible study class with them, do some research on their shady history and less-publicized beliefs.

You may be surprised at what you discover.

For all those Trump haters out there, "get over it."

The rest of the country had to suffer through Barack Obama, the worst president in history, and Hillary, possibly the most corrupt person to ever sell out her

Do I need to lose weight?

Today's column will probably upset my readers as much as anything else I could write about. However, it affects more Americans than many other health issues. It takes a brave writer to even mention the topic, but once mentioned brings a sigh of relief from most, as it is a growing concern among many Americans.

When I was 12 years old I weighed 210 pounds and wore a size 44 man's suit. I was pretty hefty. My idea of pie a la mode was to surround a large slice of pie with about 8 scoops of ice cream. We had a restaurant, and my mother said I ate the profits off a 5-gallon container of ice cream.

This all changed after my first high school dance when I found out that girls did not like fat boys; hence I lost 30 pounds the first month of my diet. Until lately I have been pretty successful in keeping it off, but a combination of age, health issues, and inability to exercise have all contributed to the rise (but not fall) of my weight issue. Now – what to do about it.

Years ago I could cut back my food intake, head to the gym at Patrick Air Force Base, do some walking around the block, and fix the problem. Sadly, declining health and the accumulation of issues that affect most of us as we age make it harder to lose weight. Most important, we have to be careful about whatever we do, for our bodies do not respond as quickly as they did years ago. Our well-intended actions may cause more harm than good. So be sure to consult your family doctor before you begin a planned weight loss or exercise regimen.

I talked to my doctor, rather he said to me, "Have you gained this much weight?" to which I had to say yes. He knew I had resolved on a corrective course of action, so he was nice and reminded me to take it slow and easy on new exercises. I assured him that I would do so. And, with fibromyalgia and related arthritic conditions, taking it easy will not be a problem. Still, I must consider an exercise program that will point me in the right direction.

Developing interest in an exercise program at a young age was not easy, and advanced years have not made it any Sorry to see that Hometown News has slipped low enough to print this garbage, I thought they quit doing it long ago. Shame on you.

President Trump is in a no-win situation with Democrats

Never in the history of our nation have we seen such vicious, hateful, vengeful attacks on a sitting president as we are witnessing against Donald Trump.

It seems that the moment Trump was elected president, the liberals and Democrats declared "war on Trump!"

They hate him when the economy has rebounded to a record high. They hate him when he reports that unemployment is at a record low. They hate him when businesses are moving back into our country, not out of the country. They hate him when he announces a crackdown on illegal murderers, drug dealers, and terrorists getting into our country and killing our citizens.

This kind of vicious attack would never have occurred under an Barack Obama regime.

These "hate-mongers" in Congress don't want America to be "Great Again," "safe again" or "strong again."

I am embarrassed by some of our members of Congress who claim to represent the "best interest of we the citizens," but display such a vicious, hateful attitude. Maybe the election this year something can be done about it.

One thing I will say, Trump is not backing down.

Trump is not perfect, but at least I am thankful we have a true and patriotic American as president.

easier. Gym workouts or those at home must be undertaken with care if we have been away from exercise for a long time.

Let your doctor know your intentions. Once you have decided on a course of action, stick with it, because the weight goes on faster than it comes off. Remember that you know your body better than anyone else, so if you receive alarms telling you to slow down, do just that. You have to push to make gains but moderate and safe achievements are better than ending up in a hospital.

Losing weight is not an easy accomplishment, but it is the right thing to do. I feel better when I have lost weight because I know I certainly look better, not to mention the mental and physical comforts gained. Make 2018 your weight loss year. Leave the milkshakes to others!

Melbourne seeks volunteers for Historic, architectural review board

By Austin Rushnell
ARushnell@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE – For those looking to get involved with providing assistance with local issues in Melbourne, the City of Melbourne is currently seeking volunteers to serve on the Historic and Architectural Review Board (HARB).

The HARB is a volunteer board that deals with issues regarding architecture, historical structures and issues, and even city beautification, as was seen with a recent Eau Gallie mural issue.

"For the HARB, those folks are recommending local historic designations for properties in the city (for instance)," said Kevin McKeown, assistant city clerk for the City of Melbourne. "They are the folks that consider changes to the exterior appearance of buildings located on non-residential properties; those are the two core functions of the (HARB)."

While most of the Melbourne City Boards require applicants to be residents of the city, the HARB does not, which opens up the application to all Brevard residents.

"We're looking for people of specific disciplines to serve on that Board," Mr. McKeown said. "So, (qualifications in) architecture, planning, history, real estate, general contracting, landscape architecture, and things like that."

For more information about the Historic and Architectural Review Board, and for an online application, visit www.melbourneflorida.org/about/municipal-boards/apply-to-a-board.

Work continues on diverging diamond interchanges

By Michael T. Gaffey

MGaffey@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD COUNTY — Work is underway in Palm Bay and Viera on two unusual "diverging diamond" interchanges over Interstate 95.

Viera Boulevard, which opened in 2007, will be redesigned so that lanes will criss-cross at a traffic light and motorists will drive on the left side while traveling on the overpass. Vehicles will return to the right side at another traffic light at the other side of the overpass. The design allows drivers to exit onto I-95 without making left-hand turns in front of oncoming traffic.

In Palm Bay, construction began in early 2017 on another diverging diamond interchange at I-95 in an undeveloped area north of Micco Road.

The $26.7 million Palm Bay project should be completed this summer and the $17 million Viera project should be done by spring 2019, according to Sara Shepherd, public information coordinator with the Florida Department of Transportation, which is responsible for design and construction of the interchanges. Both projects currently are on schedule, she said.

Alex Schierholtz/Hometown News

Palm Bay officials hope the interchange, part of the planned 1.67-mile St Johns Heritage Parkway SE that will connect to Babcock Street, will spur economic development in South Brevard County.

The Viera interchange, a joint project between the state and The Viera Co., is meant to ease traffic tie-ups at the Fiske Boulevard and I-95 interchange to the north and the Wickham Road interchange to the south, according to FDOT planners. The Viera Co. spent nearly $1.4 million for design and permitting work and donated the necessary right-of-way property.

FDOT chose the diverging diamond design due to the small footprint such an interchange requires, Ms. Shepherd said. "This keeps the ramps close to the interstate and away from adjacent neighborhoods," she added.

Florida's first diverging diamond interchange opened last year in Sarasota at Interstate 75 and University Parkway. The 12-lane, $74 million project reportedly is the largest such interchange in the U.S.

The Sarasota interchange "has been a huge success," Ms. Shepherd said.

"Traffic flow, safety and travel times have all improved tremendously since the interchange opened in May 2017," she said. "FDOT has received positive feedback from numerous residents and elected officials about how it has improved traffic on both I-75 and University Parkway."

Similar interchanges are planned in Miami, Naples, Fort Myers, Wesley Chapel and Jacksonville, according to the website divergingdiamond.com.

Some 89 diverging diamond interchanges have opened across the U.S. since the first such interchange was completed in Springfield, Missouri, in 2009, the website reported.

a normal home."

Nana's House began construction in 2015 and as of press time, three of the homes were fully completed and lived-in, with four more homes under construction. House parents are being interviewed to live in the fourth completed home.

Mrs. Frodge said she hopes to have the rest of the homes finished and ready to be moved into by the end of March.

Nana's House accepts children from newborn to 11 years old to live in a cottage-styled house with two house parents for up to a year.

"The children usually come to us for a year," Mrs. Frodge explained. "If you are in that bad of a situation, a lot of times you need time to get on your feet, and we want it to be a successful reunification. We want the parents to have their own home or apartment, a job, transportation and we're willing to help them achieve those things, but they have to take action to get that."

A resource guide is available for parents who need help or advice.

Nana's House provides housing, utilities and a van for house parents, and are looking for married couples to live in the gated community for a long-term period.

"In return, they provide a safe, loving, Christian environment for our children," Mrs. Frodge said.

The gated community will include a pond, playground, community pool and community clubhouse, along with a storage facility and an apartment provided for on-site managers and maintenance workers.

Nana's House still is looking for two house sponsors at $100,000 each, an apartment sponsor at $75,000, and one playground and one bathroom sponsor at $20,000 each.

Once everyone has moved in to the community, Mrs. Frodge said she'd like to start hosting "neighbor nights" for families to get to know and bond with one another.

"We had neighbor night at my house and all of the neighbors would come bring a dish and we'd all just get to know each other," Mrs. Frodge said. "How are you going to love your neighbor if you don't know them?"

Nana's House will also host extra-curricular activities for children living within the community. Inside the community building is a kitchen, pool table and living room with a wall full of musical instruments.

"Whatever their little love is, whatever their little heart is yearning to do, you gotta imagine, literally all of these little kids we take in have never experienced these extra-curricular activities," Mrs. Frodge said. "So, whatever it is they want to do, we want to feed that."

"We have different people in the community who will come in and volunteer and we will have an extra-curricular schedule," she added.

Once the community has been completed, Mrs. Frodge said she plans to get Nana's House a private adoption license. She added that Nana's House is looking for an attorney who specializes in adoption and would be willing to donate his or her services.

Volunteers are also needed to help run Nana's House thrift cottages in Malabar for a few days a week. Thrift store hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

"I think we give lots of children hope who otherwise wouldn't have it," Mrs. Frodge said. "I love it. We couldn't do it without the community because we are a community children's home. They provide for everything that we have, of course, them and God."

New York, where, to get around, she rode on a horse-drawn milk wagon while her father delivered milk to the residents. Ms. Good grew up during the Great Depression, though she said she wasn't as afflicted as most Americans by the shortages during that era because her family were farmers and ultimately self-sufficient enough to provide for themselves.

Born the same year the Titanic sunk, Ms. Good remembers some of history's key events. One of her friends later in life had a friend who was rescued from the Titanic as an infant and adopted, she said.

"My hometown was the town where women's rights started," Ms. Good said. "I can remember the women on Sunday morning marching with long dresses. I think that was 1918. I was 6. I probably thought they were out of their minds."

The differences in an average Americans' lifestyles during her formative years is hardly recognizable today.

"We had no bathroom, we had no water. We drank unpasteurized milk, we drank water from a well, no chlorination and we lived," Ms. Good said. "On Facebook the other day there was a [picture of] a galvanized [bath]tub that said: 'How many remember one of these?' I do."

Ms. Good recalls being bathed with her sisters once a week on Saturdays during the Depression era. The water wasn't hot and pumped from their well. Their family did not have indoor plumbing for a number of years throughout her childhood.

She worked as a deputy commissioner of Social Services in Seneca Falls for 40 before moving to Florida in 1973 with her husband.

They lived in Airstream Park on Airport Boulevard for 20 years before moving into Tropical Haven, formerly known as Trailer Haven, and residing there for 24 years.

Ms. Good served on the Board of Directors at Airstream Park as well as holding the position of for several years. While in Tropical Haven, she worked for the senior center as president until retiring from there at the age of 90.

Ms. Good's tenaciousness at an older age is exemplified by her son, Robert, who explained that, at 90, she broke her hip, but drove herself home that same day. Despite a broken hip, she continued to drive until she voluntarily gave it up at age 92.

Even in retirement, Mrs. Good found herself making good use of her time knitting hats to donate to local hospitals. Ms. Good also embraced technological advances at her disposal, utilizing Facebook and email to keep in contact with family and friends. She says she also spends time reading on her Kindle.

Since coming to Brookdale, she's continued crocheting and adores having visitors stop by for a visit and conversation.

What's the secret to long life according to Ms. Good? Candy.

"She's big on sweets. No one can say candy will hurt you because she's living proof," Robert Good said.

Admittedly, Ms. Good says she didn't think she'd live this long, but says she thanks God each morning for the wonderful family, friends and neighbors she has in her community.

Irish legend to perform at King Center

By Austin Rushnell

ARushnell@hometownnewsol.com

MELBOURNE – Even after more than 30 years of performing and nearly 60 albums, Irish singer Daniel O'Donnell still relishes the opportunity to share his music with audiences.

"(I never tire of) songs like 'I Want to Dance with You,' and 'Sit Down Beside Me,' and 'Our House is a Home,'" said Mr. O'Donnell, who performs at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18 at the King Center for the Performing Arts. "I never really tire of (the music). I've been singing some of them for over 30 years; some people ask, 'Do you never get fed up of singing the same songs?' and I have to be honest, I go out onto the stage, and I don't feel I've been singing them night after night for so many years. I just enjoy doing it, and it's great."

Mr. O'Donnell performs Irish traditional songs such as "Irish Eyes (are Smiling)" and "Limerick, You're a Lady"; ballads such as "Fields of Athenry"; and country traditional such as "King of the Road" and "Me and Bobby McGee."

"There's always a mixture of songs that we've recorded through the years," Mr. O'Donnell said. "We try and cover from way back to now, and there'll be a few songs from later albums, so hopefully people will enjoy the mixture."

In addition to releasing an astonishing number of albums for a single artist, Mr. O'Donnell has won awards and honors from 1988 until his most recent Lifetime Achievement Award, which he earned in 2011.

Mr. O'Donnell started in 1983 from his hometown of Kincasslagh (from the Irish Gaelic Cionn Caslach), and won Ireland's national public service broadcaster RTÉ's 'Favorite Country Artist of the Year' within five years.

"The audience usually has a good grasp of the type of music I like to sing," Mr. O'Donnell said. "(My country music) is sort of the old traditional country, and a few newer songs that have been written in the old style, I just enjoy that type of country music, and I certainly have a love of the Irish ballads, too.

We don't do an awful lot, maybe five or six of the (Irish) ballads," Mr. O'Donnell added. "Like 'Danny Boy,' or 'Galway Bay,' or things like that. Some would be well-known to people in Ireland, so we bring a little bit of everything with us."

Mr. O'Donnell blends a variety of musical styles together, and encourages an audience of all types.

"Even though the music is a sort of mixture of country and Irish and easy listening and even rock and roll, the very fact that I'm Irish is that I bring that with me in my person," Mr. O'Donnell said. "And I hope that those people that are from Ireland feel that connection of home. For people who maybe have no great Irish connection, that they feel if they've never been, that they may make a trip."

Mr. O'Donnell has visited Brevard County once before in the past, and said he's glad to be coming back.

"I love Florida," Mr. O'Donnell said. "I love (Melbourne's) proximity to the sea, and the ocean. I was born on the Atlantic, so it's the same ocean we trade, albeit that your coast is a little warmer than ours."

The King Center is at 3865 N Wickham Rd. in Melbourne. Tickets are on sale online at www.ticketoffices.com/Daniel-O'Donnell/865/2438145.

Boeing Company wins 2018 Milestone Award

For Hometown News
newsml@hometownnewsol.com

BREVARD COUNTY – Brevard Schools Foundation announced that The Boeing Company is the recipient of the prestigious 2018 Milestone Award. This award of distinction is presented to organizations who have donated in excess of $1 million to support Brevard Public Schools through the Brevard Schools Foundation. Only two companies have been awarded this honor.

As a longtime partner with the Brevard Schools Foundation, Boeing has provided funding in a variety of areas, from professional development programs for teaching staff and STEAM-focused programs to classroom grants that are creating "FUZE" labs and school supply drives to ensure children have the tools they need to excel in the classroom. These contributions have had a significant, positive impact in Brevard Public Schools.

"The Boeing Company and their employees have been a tremendous support for public education here in Brevard County," said Janice Kershaw, president of the Brevard Schools Foundation. "They have been instrumental in not only improving learning opportunities, but in helping children in our community develop an interest in STEM education and potential career paths. We are so thankful for and encouraged by Boeing's leadership in local corporate giving."

"It is an honor to receive this recognition for Boeing's and its employees' ongoing support to schools and students in Brevard County," said Ingrid Piedrahita, Boeing community investor. "For many years, the Brevard Schools Foundation has been an outstanding partner in working to provide unique, hands-on learning opportunities for students to develop critical 21st century skills and increase STEM knowledge. Together, we are truly sparking the curiosity and passion that will inspire today's students to be the innovators of tomorrow."

Each Boeing employee's gift is matched by the company, and once those gifts are received at the Foundation, they are able to be leveraged through the legislative 1:1 matching grant through the Consortium of Florida Education Foundations increasing the impact of each dollar donated.

Brevard Schools Foundation acts as the bridge between organizations who have a corporate philanthropic vision they wish to accomplish, but need the non-profit vehicle to best leverage their dollars for the greatest impact. Brevard Schools Foundation helps fill educational funding and opportunity gaps at all 82 public schools for 73,000 students and 5,000 employees by supporting innovation, engaging communities and changing lives.

From Your Valentine
The most popular theory about Valentine's Day origin is that Emperor Claudius II didn't want Roman men to marry during wartime. Bishop Valentine went against his wishes and performed secret weddings. For this, Valentine was jailed and executed. While in jail he wrote a note to the jailor's daughter signing it "from your Valentine".

Instructed by the varsity soccer coaches of Palm Bay Magnet High and Cocoa Beach Jr./Sr. High, these programs encourage children to work together, with a focus on teamwork, sportsmanship and building healthy lifestyle habits. Parents are encouraged to participate in classes with their children.

Both programs will be held Thursday's 5:30-6:30 pm at Banana River Park, 901 Puerto Del Rio Drive, Cape Canaveral.

The program offers three preseason clinics free of charge so parents can determine if the program is a good fit for their children.

The full spring season begins March 1. At that time, registration will cost $60 per student for the full 10 week session and can be completed online at www.kicksfor-healthykids.org.

For more information contact Coach Alberto Araujo at (321) 427-9636 or email at kicksforhealthykids@gmail.com.
