Ponce Inlet dredging, jetty extension projects begin

By Andreas Butler
For Hometown News

PONCE INLET – A town hall meeting was held this past week to discuss two big federal projects that will take place in the inlet.

One project is the dredging of the inlet and the other is extending the south jetty.

The Army Corps of Engineers will carry out the work. Volusia County is a sponsor. The Ponce De Leon Inlet and Port district, which is a county entity that has jurisdiction over the waterway, will also be involved.

These projects will address the key issue with the waterway, which is sand flowing into it and being deposited and clogging the inlet.

"It is very important that we improve navigational safety for our local boating community," said Joe Nolin, manager, Volusia county Ponce de Leon Inlet and Port

Forum for Volusia County water issues kept afloat

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

VOLUSIA COUNTY — The Water Authority of Volusia may be sinking, but there will still be a forum for countywide water issues in the future.

WAV was started in 2003 with a mission to manage the water supply for the entire county and develop alternate sources.

At a recent meeting of the Volusia Council of Governments, Chairman Robert Apgar, mayor of DeLand, announced that WAV had voted to terminate its existence as of Sept. 30.

In their motion to dissolve, Mayor Apgar said, the WAV executive committee expressed concern about the loss of a unified organization to handle countywide water issues.

Mr. Apgar said the WAV committee recommended that VCOG place water issues on their agenda so there would be a place for discussion before the public and all the communities in the County.

County Chairman Frank Bruno said VCOG was a good forum for the whole county. "We need to keep water issues in front of us and VCOG is the place to do it," he said. "If it doesn't go to VCOG, we're going to splinter the county."

Recently, some cities formed the Eastern Volusia Regional Water Authority and the same is expected to happen on the west side of the county.

Ormond Beach Mayor Fred Costello said water seems to be the No. 1 issue that people are concerned about.

"We need someplace for all the communities to talk about water," he said.

After more discussion, the VCOG members passed a motion to discuss water issues on a quarterly basis and also to establish a subcommittee of technical people to meet regularly.

In a telephone interview after the meeting, Mary Swiderski, executive director of VCOG, said WAV failed because the member communities could never agree on a master plan for distribution.

She said cities started to drop out one by one.

"After they got down to nine members we called it 'WAV light,'" she said.

Ms. Swiderski was optimistic about VCOG becoming a place for water issues.

"At least all of the government entities are at the table," she said. "We have no real authority but we've been able to encourage things such as the Smart Growth initiative."

Senior educational program kicks off with Highwaymen

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

September is back to school time, not only for young people but also for area seniors.

W.I.S.E., a program designed for seniors at Daytona State College, kicks off its new year Sept. 15 with a workshop presented by R.L. Lewis, who was one of the painters known as the Highwaymen.

The Highwaymen sold their paintings in South Florida in the 1950s and have since become world-renowned, said Alice Howell of the Daytona State Foundation, a nonprofit group that supports college activities.

"It's going to be a wonderful exhibition," she said. "He is going to talk to the audience as he creates a painting."

W.I.S.E., which stands for Wisdom in Senior Education, started last spring and offers lectures and workshops in a variety of topics.

"We're want to keep seniors involved in continuing education," Ms. Howell said. "It has been very well received."

Kent Ryan, executive vice president of the foundation, said the lectures averaged 50 to 75 people last year and sometimes had as many as 80.

"The program attracts seniors who want to keep their minds active," he said.

The cost of the program is a one-time charge of $25 ($45 per couple) for membership.

Upcoming workshops include "India as I Remember It," by a DSU professor, and "Basics in Genealogy," an overview of how to research the family tree.

New county contracts leave some vendors off beach

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

VOLUSIA COUNTY — By the end of September, the beach gets quiet. The crowds will be gone for the season only to return next spring.

This year, some mainstays of the beach will be leaving with no plans to return.

Nineteen vendors of motorized vehicles will be closing their business as of Oct. 1 because of a new procedure in awarding contracts.

In the past, the County has had over 120 individual contracts with beach vendors.

This year, the county decided to bid out beach services in four categories: motorized vehicles, food, beach equipment (umbrellas, chairs, etc.) and parasailing, said Dave Byron, community information director for Volusia County.

The vendors generally formed groups to make a bid as one entity.

In the case of the motorized vehicles, the County received bids from two groups of vendors already operating on the beach and a company not presently on the beach, Mid-Florida Golf Carts.

Mid-Florida won the bidding process, meaning the 19 vendors now on the beach will be out of business as of Oct. 1.

George Stevenson, of M&G Rentals, one of the vendors who lost out in the bidding, said 19 families will have to leave the beach.

"I've been here four years and I'm going to lose a quarter of a million dollars," he said. "Mid-Florida is not on the beach; they have no idea what they are getting into."

Mr. Byron said the former practice of having concession contracts with 120 business people was very unwieldy and that the bidding process was fair to all concerned.

"This is the way we do business with all the goods and services that the County purchases," he said. "It's based on a competitive bidding process. We gave every single local business owner an opportunity to have a competitive chance to continue operating on the beach."

Mr. Byron said the

Randy Barber/staff photographer

Beachgoers ride on a rented golf cart. Recent contract changes by Volusia County have many longtime vendors upset.

process took over a year and included numerous meetings with the existing vendors on the beach and their attorney.

"They participated in the process and helped form the basis of bids that we put out," he said.

He said accepting the Mid-Florida bid is in the best interest of the public who go to the beach and the tax payers who pay to operate the beach.

"Mid-Florida Golf Carts provided a minimum guarantee of revenue to the County of $200,000 per year with a four percent increase per year," he said. "The next best bid was less than half that."

Mr. Stevenson said he is still wondering what happened.

"In four weeks we're off the beach and I don't know why," he said. "Nobody knows what's happening down here. The tollbooth people don't even know. We tell people on the beach and they are stunned."

Negotiations were underway at press time for food, equipment and parasailing and information was not available on how many vendors banded together in the bidding process.

Time to think about flood insurance

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

With lessons learned from Tropical Storm Fay and the May no-name rain event, Volusia County Emergency Management officials are encouraging property owners to think hard about purchasing flood insurance.

"If it can rain at your house, it can flood at your house," said Larry LaHue, a planner for Volusia County Emergency Management. "Unfortunately, many people believe if their property is not in an area identified as high-risk to flood then they do not need flood insurance. That is not true," Mr. LaHue said.

"We have example after example where flooding occurs in non-typical flood areas much to the dismay of the property owner," he said.

Another fallacy, according to Mr. LaHue, is many people believe their homes are protected against flooding because they have homeowners insurance. "Homeowners insurance doesn't cover floods. Only flood insurance covers flood damage," he said.

Flood insurance is available through the National Flood Insurance Program for homes, condominiums, apartments and commercial structures. According to the National Flood Insurance Program, flooding is the number one most common natural disaster in the United States.

There is a 26-percent chance of experiencing a flood during the life of a 30-year mortgage in high-risk flood areas.

Don't wait until a hurricane approaches to purchase flood insurance, Mr. LaHue cautions.

"It takes 30 days after purchase for a flood insurance policy to take effect," he said. "Also, if a hurricane is within 500 miles of Florida, flood insurance policies will not be written. So the time to get flood coverage is now, before a hurricane is threatening."

For more information about the National Flood Insurance Program, contact an insurance agent or call (800) 427-4661.

Model maker chronicled area history

By Wayne Grant
wgrant@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH — Many residents would like to see a thriving, wholesome boardwalk bustling with families having fun.

That's easy to do. Just drop by the Halifax Historical Museum on South Beach Street and see the 4-by-14 foot replica created in 1938 by Lawson Diggett, legendary Daytona Beach model maker.

The museum is currently featuring a special exhibition of the work of this meticulous craftsman, who spent a lifetime building an incredible array of scale models.

Mr. Diggett's No. 1 passion was the accurate production of model cars and he chronicled the history of racing going back to the days of Malcolm Campbell.

The collection, which will be on display until Oct. 31, also includes airplanes, ships, trucks, trains and more.

Fayn LeVeille, museum director, said he was "one of the most important and perhaps overlooked historical figures around here."

Based on his body of work, Ms. LeVeille said Mr. Diggett must have been "compulsively creative." She said one story has it that he only slept three or four hours a night.

Daytona Beach history is brought to life in the collection. The display includes a Dunn Brothers delivery van and streetcars that plied the streets of Daytona Beach in the 1930s.

Mr. Diggett's model car collection numbered at least 350 and he left them all, along with scrapbooks and other items, to the museum in his will.

Several model cars are on display, but many more are stored in the museum's attic due to lack of space.

Born in 1901 in Lake Como, Fla., Mr. Diggett's parents moved to this area in 1902.

He first lived in the town of Seabreeze, which was later incorporated into the city of Daytona Beach, and eventually moved to Ormond Beach.

His passion for building cars began early. At age 11, he began carving them from blocks of wood not long after they started rolling off Henry Ford's assembly line.

He later used metal and other material.

"I lived the first 18 years of my life on Atlantic Avenue near the Clarendon Hotel," he said in a 1961 newspaper article. "When I heard a car coming I would follow it. I've been chasing cars ever since."

A talented craftsman, he was a woodworker for 30 years at the former Summerlin Bros. Millwork, on Segrave Street in Daytona Beach.

Mr. Diggett is remembered by Dr. Hart Long and his wife Virginia of Daytona Beach.

Mr. Long said he was friendly but quiet.

"You couldn't get him to talk," he said.

Mr. Diggett was never married and spent many hours at his craft, but he was not reclusive.

Mr. Long said he had friends and was always willing to help others.

"There were two elderly Irish women who lived in New York but spent their winters in Daytona Beach," Mr. Long said. "Lawson would take them to the grocery store or wherever they needed to go. He was a kind-hearted Christian man."

The home that Mr. Diggett built on a street off U.S. Highway 1 north of Granada Boulevard was unusual, Ms. Hart said.

"There were no inside walls," she said. "He had poles holding up the ceiling and it was filled with displays of his models."

Ms. LeVeille said that Mr.

Randy Barber/staff photographer

The model of the Daytona Beach Bandshell is just a small part of Lawson Diggett's Boardwalk, which is on display at the Historical Museum in Daytona Beach.

Diggett tacked a note on a tree outside his house, inviting passersby to see his collection.

Somehow his models were spread around the world.

Ms. LeVeille said that in 2006, two men from North Carolina came to the museum just to see the Lawson Diggett collection. They said they had collected his models from all over the world, and showed photographs of their collection.

Ms. LeVeille and the Harts speculate that Mr. Diggett gave some models away, but do not know for sure how the models were distributed.

In 1975, after having surgery for cancer and becoming unable to care for himself, Mr. Diggett went to live with the Harts at a ranch they owned at the time in Spruce Creek.

Mr. Diggett died in 1979.

The model of the boardwalk at the museum reflects the precision and care he took in his work.

It's made perfectly to scale and accurate down to the color of the houses on Ocean Avenue.

Ms. LeVeille said visitors to the museum who lived on Ocean Avenue around that time have been able to find replicas of their houses in the model.

The miniature boardwalk is his most famous piece, and like Lawson Diggett himself, a "Daytona Beach original."

Volusia County participating in green challenges

By Jamye Durrance
Durrance@hometownnewsol.com

VOLUSIA COUNTY — Residents who make a pledge to be more green in their everyday lives might not only add a few more greenbacks to their wallet, but to the county coffers as well.

Volusia County is one of 40 counties participating in national competitions to win more than $8,000 in grants if residents vow to use Energy Star appliances or drive more fuel-efficiently.

The competitions, sponsored by the National Association of Counties, are part of the county's larger environmental-conscious program, Green Volusia. The county is also working to become certified as a Florida Green Local Government, said Ginger Adair, natural resources director for the county.

"(These competitions) are a chance to further our sustainable efforts," she said.

It's also a way for Volusia County to participate in a friendly competition and get some free cash.

"We don't want any other county to beat us," Ms. Adair said. "Green Volusia has a very limited budget. It is not funded by taxpayer money."

Currently, Volusia County is in fourth place for counties with the same population.

Ms. Adair said residents should go to GreenVolusia.org to make their pledges. It only takes a few minutes to complete, she said, but the money-saving benefits will last longer.

"We need to get the word out how the little things people do can really add up," Ms. Adair said. "They really give people some tips to save money. If you change out a light bulb (for an energy-saving one), it will result in cost savings for the individual."

The prize for the "Drive Smarter Challenge" is a $3,500 grant from Auto Zone, the competition's sponsor.

The Wal-Mart Foundation is giving away a $5,000 grant to the winner of the "Change the World, Start with Energy Star" competition.

The county's Green Volusia program was established last year by the County Council to reduce the county's overall carbon footprint, Ms. Adair said.

The program is funded through the money collected from vending machines in county buildings, Ms. Adair said.

But, that budget is small at around $25,000, she said.

Earlier this year, the program sponsored a contest with county employees to come up with ideas on how to be more green in government operations.

"We have been focusing on what we can do within the county to save taxpayers money while educating the residents," Ms. Adair said. "All of those ideas were how to be more efficient within the government. That saves the taxpayer money."

To take the challenges, visit the Green Volusia Web site at www.greenvolusia.org. The deadline is Nov. 30.

Bill Ahern of Port Orange receives a flu shot from Joe LaFond of the Port Orange Fire and Rescue Station No. 3 on Tuesday, the first day they were available.

Volusia County flu shot season gets early start

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

DAYTONA BEACH – The Volusia County Flufighters Coalition kicked off the 2009-2010 flu shot season on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Volusia County citizens will be able to get their seasonal flu shots at a number of fire stations, business locations, and their private doctors as well.

“The Centers for Disease Control urged us to start providing seasonal flu shots one month earlier and those with the vaccine are doing just that,” said Dr. Bonnie Sorensen, director of the Volusia County Health Department. “It is very important for Volusians to get a flu shot for protection against influenza. I urge our community to get vaccinated.”

The flu is a contagious respiratory illness caused by influenza viruses. It can cause mild to severe illness, and at times can lead to death. The best way to prevent the flu is by getting a flu vaccination each year. Every year in the United States, on average: 5 to 20 percent of the population gets the flu; more than 200,000 people are hospitalized from flu-related complications; and about 36,000 people die from flu-related causes.

Some people, such as older people, young children, and people with certain health conditions (such as asthma, diabetes, or heart disease), are at high risk for serious flu complications.

The Port Orange Fire Rescue, Daytona Beach Fire Department, South Daytona Fire Department and Ormond Beach Fire Department started offering seasonal flu shots on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

The health department plans to begin offering the vaccine in early October.

For a list of flu shot locations and prices in Volusia County, visit www.volusiahealth.com or call (386) 274-0635.

For more information about influenza, visit www.flu.gov.

Dogs on the beach are not a good idea

There is a lot of controversy about bringing dogs onto the beach.

Some people clean up after their dogs and are very meticulous, but most people who have dogs are not like that.

For most people, it would not be a good idea to have dogs on the beach because of contamination and disease that result from people not taking care of their animals.

In response to 'Poles, holes make beach hazardous'

It's pretty simple. If it's left on the beach, then it is abandoned. It's trash. Throw it away, then you won't have to worry about it.

In response to 'Poles, holes make beach hazardous'

Everyone always brings a shade on the beach because there aren't free umbrellas. If they have such a problem with the holes, then why don't they go in the early morning hours and rake like on other beaches?

In response to 'What defines a hate group'

I have a relative who works at Razzles. The Ravens, a possible Christian group, is harassing patrons. I don't know why this is permitted. People have a right to go in and out of a restaurant or bar without being harassed by these fanatics. If people want to be saved, the know where to go. I think people have the right to go wherever they want without being harassed.

Reader disgusted by what is happening in Florida

I read that property taxes are going to be increased. I do not own property, but I am disgusted with what is going on in Florida.

Florida Power and Light wants a 30 percent rate increase. Car registration and driver's license fees have doubled.

Food is three times more expensive here than up North as is everything else.

You have to pay a sales tax on everything here from clothes, shoes and even toilet paper.

Where does all the money go that this state takes in on a daily basis?

Florida has the second highest population of senior citizens in this country. Most of these seniors are on Social Security, and Social Security will not see an increase until 2013, which will be one percent and that is hardly a cost of living increase.

How about all the people who have lost their jobs and homes?

Where is the average person going to come up with all this extra money to heat and cool their homes, to drive their cars or go to the grocery store.

No matter how much money this state takes from you in taxes, it will never be enough to satisfy the greed of its elected officials.

There is now only one senator for Florida and his name is Bill Nelson.

I have not heard or read of him taking any stand on any matter that is going on in Florida.

It is time, people, to write to the Public Service Commission about the FP&L rate increase.

It is time to tell each and every senator and congressman that you have had enough of being bled dry by them.

Taxes are too much

As so many Volusia County residents, I received that dreaded envelope with the notice of proposed property taxes.

Are we in trouble or what? We save all our lives to live in a fairly decent home in a fairly decent neighborhood, and then we get slapped with a bill that is almost as much as our yearly mortgage payment.

If no budget changes are made my bill is $5,029. If the budget change is made, I get a $4,569 bill (gee wiz, thanks for the break, but I still can't afford it).

My brother lives in Pinellas County and his home is valued at $17,000 less than mine, and his tax bill is $1,600. a year.

What are they doing that we can't do? Ah yes, they have kept up their beaches over the years and have an inviting place for tourists to come.

The once famed Daytona Beach is nothing more than a slum now so the residents of the entire county must foot the bill.

What is the matter Volusia County and my city of Port Orange?

How much money can you suck out of your residents before we all start to pack up and move.

By the way, I don't have $5,029, I now collect unemployment.

It's Thursday? Time to rob a bank

Spend any time surfing the Web and you are bound to find stories that are just too bizarre to be true. Here's a sampling, edited for length. And remember, just because it's online doesn't mean it's true

From Bismarck Tribune, www.bismarcktribune.com: Drunk man found at grocery store eating avocados.

Police said a man was arrested at a grocery store after workers found him at a table in the deli, eating avocados, cake and other items.

Bismarck Police Lt. Randy Ziegler said the 38-year-old man was intoxicated and had a hearty spread, including cake, cookies and plums, in the deli area of Cashwise Foods about 2:45 a.m. He said the man told officers he had no money and had no idea how he planned to pay for the food. Police arrested him on a misdemeanor theft charge.

HOW WEIRD IS THAT?!
SEAN MCCARTHY

From Skagit Valley Herald, www.skagitvalleyherald.com: Chicken owner shoots own leg while hunting opossum.

A northwest Washington man is recovering after accidentally shooting himself in the leg while hunting an opossum that had been snatching his chickens.

Larry Tenbrink of Mount Vernon was watching TV when he heard his chickens "carrying on" late Sunday. He figured the problem was the opossum that had already killed more than a dozen of his chickens.

He grabbed his .22 caliber pistol, headed outside and spotted an opossum the size of a large cat wandering his property. But he accidentally pulled the trigger too early, sending a bullet through his lower right thigh.

The 61-year-old handyman told the Skagit Valley Herald that he's back home after a trip to the hospital. And though the opossum is free for now, he'll be hunting it again. Next time, he says he'll use a trap.

From sfgate.com: If it's Thursday, this must be a robbery.

A New Jersey man who robbed banks every Thursday has been sentenced to nearly six years in federal prison.

Peter Bielecke pleaded guilty in June to one count of bank robbery, but admitted five other holdups on consecutive Thursdays in January, February and March.

He robbed banks in several cities including Brick, his hometown. He didn't give a reason for choosing Thursdays, but authorities say the pattern made it easier to track him.

From The Journal News, www.thejournalnews.com:

Senior chases DWI suspect through two states.

An 83-year-old driver chased a pickup truck for 15 miles from New York into Connecticut, helping police catch the drunken driving suspect who rear-ended his car. The incident started on Interstate-684 in southeast New York.

Frank Canale of Scarsdale, N.Y., pursued the man to his driveway in Danbury, Conn., and stayed there until police arrived. He says he feared the man could kill someone. His daughter called police on her cell phone during the chase.

By the time they finished filing police reports in two states, the pair missed the wedding they were heading to. Police say the truck's driver was charged with driving under the influence and driving without a license.

District. Funding for the dredging project is coming from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act.

Navigation and safety issues Ponce Inlet is a recreational waterway. Historically there have been problems with vessels getting stuck in the sand and often capsizing. The Coast Guard has had problems with search and rescue missions because of this.

"The Coast Guard has brought this to our attention and we will do what has to be done to address this issue," said Jason Spinning, project manager of the Jacksonville office of the Army Corps of Engineers. "This will go far in search and rescue missions."

According to statistics from the Army Corps of Engineers, there have been 496 vessel groundings, 147 vessels capsized and 20 people lost at sea in the inlet from 1981 to 1995.

The dredging project will take sand out of the harbor and deposit it along the north jetty out to 200-300 feet below the Mean High Water Line through a pipeline that will be buried under the beach.

"Sand clogs the inlet and it really hampers boats and other sea vessels," Mr. Spinning said. "Many sea vessels have left the inlet because of this."

The project was to start this week with an estimated cost of $2 million. The inlet is a federal waterway so the Corps of Engineers doesn't need Ponce Inlet's or Volusia County's approval to proceed.

This project will remove over 7,000 truckloads of sand out of the harbor.

An Army Corps of Engineers official said 184,000 cubic yards of sand will be removed.

Extending the south jetty. Extending the south jetty is the second project in the works.

This project has been approved in the past but never got started.

"This was actually approved a decade ago but it has been on hold," Mr. Spinning said.

The extension of the south jetty will extend a ridge of sand that drops down into the inlet where water flows in from the ocean. The north jetty already has this. This will help the flow of water and materials into the middle of the inlet, officials said.

The project has an estimated cost of $17 million but that may change.

"We are currently reevaluating the cost," Mr. Spinning said. "It started out at $7 million but over time the cost of construction and materials have gone up. We must look into this."

Environmental impact and jobs? Neither project is expected to effect the environment or access to the beach.

"We are following all guidelines and compliance with the Environmental Protection Agency and everyone else," Mr. Spinning said. "This will limit the amount of material coming into the inlet, create safer navigation and it won't affect water coming into the inlet what so ever. No matter what we do, water will flow into the inlet."

Since the project is being funded by federal stimulus money, it could create jobs. The Corps of Engineers has already awarded a contract to Govcon, Inc.

"There is no exact way to say how many jobs it will create," Mr. Spinning said. "It will be worked on by the Army Corps of Engineers, contractors, sub contractors, workers for Volusia county and Ponce Inlet."

Maintenance work has been done in the past in the inlet by the Corps of Engineers including in 1998, 2003 and 2005. The inlet was last dredged in 2005 after Hurricane Wilma.

Brief

The teen was walking down a dirt road near her home at the intersection of Bolton Road and Doster Drive. She had headphones on so didn't hear the attacker creep up behind her in a dark blue minivan. The teen said the suspect hit her in the head and dragged her into some nearby woods where he ripped off her clothes. She fought him, swiping at him with her nails, and she's sure she scratched his face. Police have taken DNA from under the girl's fingernails that they hope will help. The victim told us that before she blacked out, she saw him. The man she describes is between 20 and 30 years old, and laughed at her. When she woke, her leg was injured and the victim crawled to a nearby home where June Lysandrou immediately took her in and called police. Authorities recovered the victim's shoes and pieces of her clothing in the wooded area, and they have a decent description to go on. The victim described him to a family member who drew up a sketch. The suspect has dark, curly hair, a pointy nose and she told us he is missing a bottom tooth in the front, but more telling will be the scratches the brave girl is sure she left on his face.

Police look for three home invaders

Police in New Smyrna Beach are also looking for three men in connection to a home invasion on Mary Avenue. Clifford Tindle, 27, who has cerebral palsy, said three men forced their way through a rear door of his home and demanded to know where "it" was. When he told them he didn't know what they were talking about, Tindle said the suspects attacked him. He received several stab wounds to his hands and arms and says two of the suspects also had guns. Tindle told police he thinks the suspects were looking for another resident.

Man bitten by snake

A New Smyrna Beach man was bitten by a coral snake that he fished out of his swimming pool. Shane Miller, 31, grabbed the snake because he had some experience handling snakes. He brought it in the house to show his wife and son so they would know the difference between poisonous and non-poisonous snakes, when the snake bit his thumb. When the thumb swelled, Miller went to Bert Fish Medical Center and the family had some worried hours waiting for anti-venom that had to be flown in from Miami before it was administered.

Murder charges filed

A convicted sex offender who investigators said tied an Edgewater man to his bed so tightly he lost limbs and eventually died, is now charged with murder. Joseph Jordan, 39, has been in the Volusia County jail since July when he was accused of stealing the victim's truck. Authorities said Jordan had been rooming with victim Keith Cope in June when they believe he hog-tied Cope to steal his truck. Cope wasn't found for days. A grand jury recently indicted Jordan on murder and robbery charges.

Woman arrested for operating ALF without a license

The owner of two assisted living facilities in Edgewater was arrested for operating without a license. Marjorie Nelson is the owner and operator of Helping Hands Manor one and two. Agents with the Department of Children and Families led Medicaid fraud investigators to Nelson. According to investigators, Nelson said she could not afford to upgrade one of the facilities according to state requirements. Nelson faces up to five years in prison.

Teacher's aid arrested

A Volusia County teacher's aid was arrested at his Port Orange home after a student accused him of inappropriately touching her. Guy Carlisle, 62, who goes by the name of Joe, is on paid administrative leave as the investigation continues. Carlisle was an aid for special education students at Pride Elementary School in Deltona last April when a 10-year-old girl said he put his hand inside her shirt, front and back, during a private reading lesson. Carlisle said he only touched the girl's shoulder to encourage her. Carlisle faced a similar accusation from a 13-year-old autistic student, while he was a teacher's aid at Silver Sands Middle School in Port Orange in 2008. The claim was unsubstantiated. School district officials said Carlisle started in Volusia County as a teacher in 2002, but was demoted to an aid in 2005 when they said he threatened to harm a child who had soiled a diaper.

Off-duty deputy arrested for DUI

A Volusia County Sheriff's Deputy is on administrative leave after being arrested for driving under the influence. A spokesman said John Harvey, 51, who works in the department's civil division, was off duty and in his personal vehicle, when he was arrested by police in South Daytona. According to the police report, Harvey was driving behind a South Daytona police cruiser when he hit the cruiser's back driver's side bumper and kept going west on Big Tree Road. The South Daytona officer immediately got behind Harvey and pulled him over. He was charged by South Daytona with DUI and leaving the scene of an accident. The Florida Highway Patrol filed an additional charge of careless driving.

Woman hurt during robbery

Two men are in custody after Port Orange police said they knocked a woman down trying to grab her purse. The 54-year-old victim suffered a broken arm and bruised hip when one of the two suspects attacked her as she walked on Spruce Creek Road near Royal Palm Circle. The victim held on to her purse and the suspect ran. Witnesses told police he got into a waiting vehicle and the suspect and driver took off. Police quickly learned the identity of the driver and arrested Bradley Knight. The second suspect, Jay Pressley Jr. was arrested two days later.

Emploe breaks into restaurant

Police in Port Orange said a man knew just how to steal a restaurant safe because he worked there. Justin Wilson, 26, was arrested after investigators said he smashed a window at the 100 % Italian Restaurant on Dunlawton Avenue, got inside overnight and stole the security safe. Wilson was on probation for a previous crime so he's being held without bond on the new charges.

Excessive lence complaint under investigation

Daytona Beach police won't release surveillance video that is the subject of an excessive force complaint because police say it's an on-going internal investigation, however, they let WESH 2 News watch the video. Two officers responded to a domestic violence call at the Windy Pines Apartments. When one of the officers tried to stop the male from walking away, he swung at the officer's head. Things got heated when police got the suspect on the ground and tried to cuff him. One officer repeatedly punched the suspect's arm because they say he refused to pull it out from beneath himself and the rough stuff continued when police tried to get the suspect into the police car. Chief Mike Chitwood says when he learned of the complaint he immediately opened an internal affairs investigation but says after enhancing the tape, he thinks his officers were justified in their actions. However, he will wait for the results of the internal investigation and says he will also ask the state attorney's office to review the tape to get an independent opinion on his officer's behavior.

Teen accused of raping 4-year-old niece

Holly Hill Police Chief Mark Barker said the rape of a 4-year-old girl was so brutal, many of his seasoned officers were sick to their stomach during the investigation. The accused is the toddler's uncle, a 16-year-old boy. The teen lives with his mother and grandmother and police say the 4-year-old was visiting when the teenager repeatedly raped her. The toddler's mother picked her up and was bathing her when the child told her mother she hurt. When her mom asked if someone had hurt her, the little girl told her it was a secret, but the mother was finally able to coax the information from her and the child was treated at the hospital. Police said the teenager was very matter of fact when he admitted raping his niece and they say they are working with the State Attorney's office to ensure he is prosecuted as an adult so that he gets help and is never able to hurt himself or anyone else.

Area high school football will have its ups and downs in 2009

By Andreas Butler
For Hometown News

The 2009 high school football season is under way. Several teams are rebuilding in new districts, while others seem ready to break out and reach new heights.

Herein, a look at the eight East Volusia County high school varsity football teams.

Spruce Creek Hawks, Port Orange

Class: 6A-2
Last year's record: 9-3, 4-1 in district 6A-1

Key losses: QB Shane Peludat, QB/RB/DB Chase Sofiak, LB Phillip Bailey, LB Chris Lickfield, DB Pedro Pickney. RB Latharius Giles transferred to Seabreeze and WR Devonte Mack to another school.

Key returns: OL Chris Welsh, DL/OL Lakeevin Garvin, FS/FB Josh Jenson, DE Downen Miller, LB George Mumm

Strengths: Group of kids who are use to success who played on two playoff teams the previous seasons.

Weaknesses: Lack of depth and inexperience.

Outlook: This looks like a rebuilding year for the Hawks; they lost a lot of key players from a year ago. It will be tough for them to return to the play-off for the third consecutive year. Area foe Mainland moved up from 5A to 6A and will join Creek, DeLand, Deltona and Pine Ridge in the district.

"Our schedule is tough, we may struggle early but hopefully we will play our best during our district games," said Coach Bob Goebel.

Note: First year coach who joined the team late. Still has to learn the coaching staff and players.

Atlantic Sharks, Port Orange

Class: 2A-3
Last year's record: 0-10, 0-7 in district (3-A last year)

Key losses: None
Key returns: QB Sean Washington, RB David

See FOOTBALL, A10

Allen, WR Chris Theodore, OL Mathew Henderson and Joey Guarneri, DL Nathan Bennett and Carl Richardson.

Strengths: The Sharks will be pretty good on both the offensive and defensive lines. They will also have an improved running game and a solid receiving corps.

Weaknesses: Team not use to having success.

Outlook: This is the first time in a long time that Atlantic will have a lot of players returning. They should be an improved football team from a year ago. They move down from 3A to 2A. Their district is not as brutal but they have three teams in it that have won state titles in the past 10 years.

"This is the first time in a long time that we return a lot of players. Hopefully this year we can learn to win and it becomes contagious," said Coach Touse Roberson.

New Smyrna Beach Barracudas

Class: 4A-13
Last year's record: 2-8, 1-3 in District 4A-7

Key losses: RB Telvin Hooks transferred to Mainland.

Key returns: QB A.J. Gruber, RB Steven Jackson, WR Cody Irvin, OL Matt Harvell and Austin Bell.

Strengths: Sixteen starters return from a team that was very young the past couple of seasons. They are experienced and have good size on both the defensive and offensive lines. The 'Cudas also have speed.

Weaknesses: New Smyrna doesn't have a lot of depth on their bench. They have a tough schedule and they must avoid injuries.

Outlook: This may finally be the year the 'Cudas break out with so many people returning at skilled positions. They will also be good in the trenches. Barring injury and if they find away to compete with teams on their schedule it could be a good year. They have a tough three-team district with Melbourne Palm Bay and Viera. Realignment moved them from 5A to 4A.

"I feel pretty good about the potential that we have to be good this year. We have no excuses. We have committed players and coaches. We will be disciplined and as physical as we can be," said Coach Rocky Yocam.

Seabreeze Sandcrabs, Ormond/Daytona

Class: 5A-2
Last year's record: 8-6, 3-1 in district 4A-7, State

Semi-Finals in 2008

Key losses: OL Lawrence Martin, WR Anthony Chollett, OL Brennan Bell, S Jonathan Scott, LB Chris Ferritto, DL Nick Siedle-hoffer, LB Jernard Morgan
Key returns: WR Dominique Roberts, QB Matt Thompson, WR Brett Kramer, OL Max Copshira, DE Daniel Edwards, DB Dejuan Pugh, RB Michael Young

Strengths: The 'Crabs have speed and experience on offense, especially at skilled positions.
Weaknesses: The defense is inexperienced.

Outlook: Seabreeze could once again be explosive on offense. They have a lot of players who got a lot of experience on a team that started slow but made it to the state semi-finals a year ago. If that late success carries over, this could be a good year for the Sand-crabs. They move up from Class 4A to 5A. They will be in a three-team district with tough opponents in Flagler Palm Coast and Flemming Island. If their defense comes through they can have success.

"This is a new season and we cannot live off past success, hopefully we can go out and take care of business," said Coach Marc Beach.

Mainland Buccaneers, Daytona Beach

Class: 6A-2

Last year's record: 11-1, 4-0, in district 5-5A
Key losses: QB Greg Ross, RB Darry Evans and Andre Williams, OL Mike Nweze, LB Terrance Wiley
Key returns: RB Marlin Lane, WR O.J. Ross, WR Chevin Davis, WR/DB/QB Quinn Bell, DB Cortez Davis, LB Marcus Arline, OL Mike Kilgore, DL Kenneth Kirksey, LB Antoine McGuire

Strengths: Speed, experience and depth.
Weaknesses: Not focusing game by game and possibly overconfidence.

Outlook: The Bucs return a lot of talent on both sides of the ball. The offense and defense is both loaded with weapons. Mainland is one of the top teams in the state but they have a tough schedule. The Bucs really have to take it one game at a time. They also move up from Class 5A to 6A and will face district foes in area teams like Spruce Creek, Deltona, Pine Ridge and DeLand. Expect the Bucs in the post season.

"We have a lot of experience at the highest level with a lot of four- and three-year starters. We must take care of ourselves, stay focused and avoid let downs," said Coach John Maronto.

Warner Christian Eagles, South Daytona

Class: 1B-3

Last year's record: 12-2, 3-0 in district, 1B State runner-up Key losses: RB/LB Matt Hukill and RB/LB Jeremy Bailey.
Key returns: RB/S Breon Allen, QB Shelton Willis, WR/DB Rashad Green and DL Tyler Ayers.

Strengths: The Eagles have experience with a lot of its star players having played in big games.

Weaknesses: Like all small schools they lack depth so avoiding injury is the key.

Outlook: Many key players return on a team that played in the state championship game a year ago. This group is hungry to win it this time around. The road will be tough, but Warner has all the right pieces. Allen is one of the best backs around, Willis will be more mature and Green has good hands, so the offense should do well. Warner will also go to the air more. If things go right, they could be back in the state title game. They are one of the area's real state title contenders.

"We worked hard during the summer and we want to play for the state title. This year it is going to be tougher though," said Coach Andy Price.

Father Lopez Green Wave, Daytona Beach

Class: 1A-4

Last year's record: 4-5, 0-3 in district
Key losses: RB/DB Kyle Mowen.
Key returns: WR/DB Taylor Cummings and OL/DL Connor Meneough.

Strengths: Work ethic and commitment.
Weaknesses: Inexperience and depth.

Outlook: New Coach Jim Bernhardt takes over at a program that went 4-6 last year and hasn't been a perennial winner in a while. The Green Wave will attempt to be balanced on offense by effectively mixing the pass and run. Defensively they want to match up week to week.

"We will come out and work hard and hopefully we will have some success," said Coach Jim Bernhardt.

Calvary Christian Lions, Ormond Beach

Class: 1B-3

Last year's record: 7-3, 1-2 in district
Key losses: MLB Matt Colee and WR/DB Armone McCoy.

Key Returns: QB Cameron Hedley, LB Donald Heath, OL Zack Smoke and Mark Hanna.

Strengths: The Lions are experienced on the offensive line with five senior starters and their quarterback is a playmaker.

Weaknesses: The Lions defense is unproven and like all small schools, they lack depth.

Outlook: Many key players return from a young squad that went 7-3 last season. On offense they should be very explosive. Hedley leads the way as a freshman quarterback. Calvary can score a lot of points. They have a tough district with foes like Warner, Trinity and Florida Air making their road to the playoffs a big task.

"We have the potential to make a lot of noise this year but it will depend on how hard we are willing to work and if our seniors will take charge and lead this team," said Coach Billy Glenn.

STAR SCOPES
James Tucker
Week of 9-4-2009

Aries-March 21-April 19
Measure the quality of your life by the happiness and joy you feel in your heart. You were born to be of service. You are at your best when you are able to help others searching to find answers to their challenges. Everyone gains strength and hope from your light and presence. This depth of spirit is your greatest power.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
Most of the things you worry about never come to pass. It is a waste of time and energy to think too much about why things didn't work out. We don't have to be rocket scientists to figure out life. Surrender your will and ask spirit to direct your life and give you vision. Lighten up. Be patient. Spirit is on your side.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
Make the most of opportunities in life as they present themselves. Make hay while the sun shines is an old adage. The second key is to continue to learn new and better ways to present your gifts and talents. Life is a school, you know. Now take action and make things happen. Victory over life is now assured.

Cancer-June 22-July 22
You know you are making progress when warm feelings come from closest friends. The happiness in your heart ripples out, gets into their hearts and comes back multiplied. This is your defining quality about life. You are so generous with your love. You are the master of love. Let it come back to you multiplied.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
You feel so much joy in your heart and spirit. You have plenty of gratitude. Wow! You have a jubilant life. Love is the key. You have an abundance of that. More is on the way. You have a dream. Direct your passion to them. Now the universe goes to work and increases them. This keeps you on the winning side of life.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Be open to changes in plans. A new and easier course is at hand. Rise above any real or imaginary obstacles. This is done by listening closely to your inner guidance and acting on your visions. Sometimes, taking quick action when it feels right is better than waiting on a long, hard grind. Relax. It's all OK.

Hurricane survival ideas, just in case we'll need them

Hello smart shoppers. While everyone else was thinking of the coming hurricane season, I was recovering from major surgery. I'd like to pretend it's not here, but that doesn't work, so here are some ideas for this hurricane season. I pray it just passes us by.

Living without the comforts of home is difficult. Stock up on water, since no power means no water. When a hurricane is coming, pack your freezer with bottles of water; a full freezer will keep foods colder longer. Remember, liquid expands when frozen. If using glass jars, fill to one inch from

ROMANCING THE STOVE
with the Grammy Guru
ARLENE BORG

the top.
WARNING: Do NOT use empty gallons you've been saving from last season; they're probably loaded with bacteria. Recycle and buy new.
Make sure your grill's gas tank is full and have a back-up tank just in case. If charcoal is your choice, buy early and buy plenty. Buy yourself a portable tabletop stove that is powered by cans of butane fuel. I have one and believe me, it was a lifesaver.

Save your good pots and pans. Check out thrift stores or garage sales for old pots that you can use on your grill. A battery-powered fan is a must have. The most perishable foods are ground meat, seafood, poultry and pork. Beef steaks and roasts will keep longer, since they're aged before you buy them and grilling will kill bacteria.

If freezer foods are still cold use them, if warm; toss. When hurricane season approaches, don't stock up on great buys, buy only what's necessary. The way you package foods for the freezer will determine how long they will stay cold.

Leave meat in the store package, then wrap in foil, sealing tightly, and then use plastic wrap or bags. For other meats that are not pre-packaged, wrap in butcher paper then foil and lastly, plastic. Do the same with frozen vegetables and fruit.

Here are some dinner and side ideas I came up with: Linguini with clams, campfire stew, chicken curry, creamed tuna on toast, salmon croquettes in a cheese sauce, potato pancakes with applesauce, potato croquettes made with instant potatoes. Polenta (corn meal mush), comes in a tube similar to rolled pork sausage and does not need refrigeration.

Mashed potatoes freeze great. Make plenty, using a butter substitute and fat-free half and half. No hurricane? You'll have plenty for future dinners.

Anything made with vinegar can survive without refrigeration (ketchup, pickles, etc.). Stock up on jarred spaghetti sauce, especially those made with meat; it's wonderful on top of polenta.

Prior to a storm, cook assorted pastas until al dente, rinse in cold water and freeze. To use, simply heat water on the grill and add pasta. Buy skim milk powder and quarts of milk sold on store shelves. They're hermetically sealed and need no refrigeration.

Stock up on evaporated milk, canned tuna, chicken, baby clams, clam juice, canned broth, soups, Italian grated cheese, packaged American cheese, every kind of canned dinner and vegetable you can think of: canned fruits, potatoes (fresh and canned), onions, fresh garlic, peanut butter, jelly, instant rice, instant potatoes, Ramen noodles and, of course, bread.

One perk of being a food columnist is the free books I receive from local authors. Daphne Nikolopoulos is the author of "The Storm Gourmet," a guide to creating extraordinary meals without electricity. The book contains very unusual and delicious sounding choices. Books are available at Target and most bookstores and online at Amazon.com, or call Pineapple Press at (800) 746-3275.

SALMON CROQUETTES

serves 4

- 1 (15-1/2 ounce) large can of salmon
- 2 eggs
- 1-1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 1/2 small onion, grated
- 1/2-teaspoon black pepper
- 3/4-cup plain bread-crumbs

Drain salmon and inspect, removing skin, if any. Taste and determine whether salt is needed. Mix together with remaining ingredients. Shape into cones (makes about eight). Roll in extra bread crumbs.

Fry in canola oil, turning to brown evenly. Drain on paper towels, top with cheese sauce.

substitute, such as Smart Balance 1/2-cup dry skim milk powder, or 1-1/4 cups evaporated milk, skim or regular 3/4-cup water (see note) 2 tablespoons flour 1/2-teaspoon salt Pinch of white pepper

NOTE: If using evaporated milk, omit water.

Melt butter substitute in a small saucepan. Shake remaining ingredients briskly in a covered jar until smooth. Pour into saucepan and cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add several slices of cheese, stir to melt. Cover and remove from heat.

When a recipe is not in my cookbook, it will have (NIB) next to the title.

For an autographed cookbook, "Romancing The Stove with the Grammy Guru," send $17.50. For multiple books sent to one address it's $3.50 S&H for one book, add $2 postage for each additional book ($15 plus $2). Send to: Arlene M. Borg, 265 S.W. Hometown News $UPER BUY$ of the week

Don't believe everything you see printed on coupons

One of the most common misconceptions about coupons is that the item you buy must match the picture that appears on the face of the coupon.

It's true that you can use the coupon to purchase the item that's pictured. However, you want to pay close attention to the text on a coupon, too. After all, the text contains the precise information that the coupon's bar code is programmed to deliver at the checkout counter, which brings us to this week's tip: forget the photos, read the fine print.

It's a very common marketing technique for a manufacturer to show a new or more expensive variety of a product on the face of a coupon, in the hope you will buy this new or more expensive variety.

If you read the coupon, though, you'll discover that the offer is good for "$1 off any (brand) product."

Consider a coupon for a new variety of cold medicine put out by a leading manufacturer. The coupon may show the new, multi-symptom medicine in the picture, hoping you will want to try it, but the text states clearly you can use the coupon on any medicine from this manufacturer.

Learning to distinguish between what the photo suggests and the full terms of the deal the text actually spells out is a skill that can really help shoppers, giving us more freedom to buy the item we may prefer versus the variety shown in the photo.

COUPON QUEEN

I recently had a coupon for a new variety of skin-care product. It showed a photo of the lotion and the text read "$1 off (brand) lotion, body wash or any (brand) product." That wording is key! When I didn't see a good sale for the company's lotions or body wash, I did see a bar of the same brand of soap for 99 cents. With my coupon, it was free.

Brand-name sandwich meat is an area where it can pay to read coupon wording closely. People often ask me how to save at the deli counter. It's not always easy to get discounts on fresh-cut cold cuts. But many meat manufacturers sell pre-packaged deli meats, too, and there are often coupons for those.

Look closely at the wording on these coupons. While the coupon may show a boxed or bagged variety of meat, the wording often spells out a wider deal, such as "$1 off 1 package of (brand) sliced meat, or 1 pound of (brand) sliced meats at the deli." These coupons are a great way to save on fresh-sliced meats of the same brand at the deli counter.

Ready for another tip? This one involves brand loyalty. While we all have favorite brands of things, our brand loyalty can cost us in the long run if we aren't shopping smart for those favorite-brand items when they're on sale.

Major brands often engage in what the industry calls "price wars" with one another. We see this frequently with items such as pasta sauce, where numerous brands compete to sell what is essentially the same product. Brand A may be cheap one week, but next week, Brand B barrels in with an even lower price.

This works out well for shoppers who aren't particularly partial to any specific brand. But if we think "I really like Brand A, and I will always buy it no matter what," it's great when Brand A is on sale for $1.29 a jar and we've got a 75-cent coupon for it. But when the sale ends and Brand A goes back up to $3.29 a jar, we'll be paying the price.

If we can let some of our brand preferences slide a little bit and fluctuate along with the sales, we can save more money in the long run.

Next week, I'll share one of the biggest and most surprising tips with you. It involves which days of the week are the least expensive days to shop at the grocery store. You might be surprised to learn what they are.

Jill Cataldo, a coupon-workshop instructor, writer and mother of three, never passes up a good deal. Learn more about couponing at her Web site, www.super-couponing.com. E-mail your couponing coups and questions to jill@ctwfeatures.com.

The quintessential beach town

Cocoa Beach conquers all: surfing, dining, fishing, fun

By Tammy Roberts
Roberts@hometownnewsol.com

The name "Cocoa Beach" brings many things to mind: the NASA space program, a legendary surfing community and the setting for the long-running TV series, "I Dream of Jeannie."

But today, the city of Cocoa Beach offers so much more.

Nestled between the Atlantic Ocean and the Banana River Lagoon, the barrier island of Cocoa Beach is often referred to as "the jewel of the Space Coast."

And it isn't difficult to see why.

Cocoa Beach is both a residential community and tourist destination with a base population of 12,800, according to the city of Cocoa Beach Web site, www.cityofcocoa-beach.com.

But each year that number reaches as high as 30,000 during the peak tourist season when thousands flock to the area to soak up the sun and spend a week or two doing some Space Coast sightseeing.

For the past several decades, Cocoa Beach has done an excellent job of preserving its historic downtown area.

From surf shops and clothing boutiques to gift stores and jewelry venues, it's easy to make a day out of shopping — whether by bicycle or on foot.

Restaurants, such as the long-standing Heidelberg and Mango Tree, or weekend hot spots, such as Coconuts on the Beach and the Chili Pepper Club, cater to crowds of all ages.

Another draw to the multi-faceted city is the beautiful wildlife, fishing opportunities and unique plant species found throughout its waterways.

Cocoa Beach's Thousand Islands function as a "learning laboratory" for those eager to explore the mazes of mosquito canals and local ecology, according to the Thousand Island's Web site, www.thousand-islands.org.

At any one time, kayakers can observe pelicans, bottle-nosed dolphin, manatee, river otter, rabbit and various species of fish throughout their island journey.

Just around the corner is another hot spot, known to house a different type of species — dogs.

Opened in March 2007, the Lori Wilson Off-Leash Dog Park is a 32,000-square-foot paradise for pups and their owners.

Equipped with benches, dog toys and obstacles for both large and small doggies, the park serves regular attendees, as well as one-time visitors.

While all of these activities are significant to the city, it is the sport of surfing that has helped shape Cocoa Beach.

For starters, Ron Jon Surf Shop, which was opened in the early 1960s, is a four-level surf emporium visited by thousands each year.

And with six miles of shoreline, there are a number of places for residents and tourists to take on the surf, one of them being the Cocoa Beach Pier.

Many East Coast surfing legends, such as Dick Catri and Kelly Slater, got their start surfing those very waves.

More than 80 surfers from every generation have been inducted into the city's East Coast Surfing Hall of Fame, which doubles as a public museum.

"We developed a concept years ago that, as

Andy Stefanek/staff photographer

Terry Scott of Cape Canaveral scours the beaches of Cocoa Beach with his metal detector looking for treasure. Mr. Scott is writing a book called Beginners Guide for Metal Detecting on Florida's Treasure Coast. He has been treasure hunting for fifteen years.

surfers, we are a society," said Rep. Tony Sasso, R-Cocoa Beach, who grew up surfing in the community and helped conceptualize the surf museum. "In recognizing that, we hope to keep the door open for the next generation."

For more information about the city of Cocoa Beach and its many attractions, visit www.cityofcocoa-beach.com.

TOP TEN REASONS TO CELEBRATE LABOR DAY!

- 10. You can fire up the barbecue and enjoy hot dogs, hamburgers, corn on the cob and other grilled fare with friends and family.
9. It's a day that recognizes, celebrates and honors the contributions that the working class has made to America.
8. Eat like an Irishman! After the first Labor Day in New York City in September 1882, people marched in a parade and enjoyed a picnic of Irish stew, homemade bread and apple pie.
7. Males and females, young and old, can enjoy the day -- regardless of religion or race.
6. Enjoy a reprieve from school, if it has already started, or bid adieu to summer before school begins anew.
5. You don't have to buy anyone a gift for this holiday (unless you really want to).
4. There's still time to swim, surf and take in the September sun.
3. You can watch the musical revues on the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon and donate money to a good cause, too.
2. It's a three-day weekend.
1. The # 1 reason to celebrate . . . No labor! Have a safe holiday
