SOUTH DAYTONA — In response to a doubling of violent crime in the first half of this year, city officials want to expand its camera surveillance to all four square miles of parks and roads.

Robberies were up 150 percent for a total of 10. Aggravated assaults were up 133 percent. Police Chief William Hall says the city's current analog system of surveillance — 70 cameras mostly installed on park property — just doesn't cut it.

"If somebody knew they were going to be on video, many darn sure wouldn't commit the crime," Chief Hall said.

A drive-by shooting on July 1 was solved because of security camera coverage. Chief Hall wonders how many more crimes

Time for a Christmas bird count

By Suzanne Grill
For Hometown News

VOLUSIA COUNTY — For most of us, the holidays bring to mind shopping, eating and family gatherings.

But David Hartgrove has other things on his mind: birds.

Mr. Hartgrove, president and conservation chair of the Halifax River Audubon Society, along with other team leaders, is preparing for the organization's annual Christmas Bird Count.

We recently asked Mr. Hartgrove a few questions about this event.

Q. Why is the Christmas Bird Count so important?

A. Last year there were 2,124 counts done throughout the U.S. and other countries by thousands of volunteers. The data base has been maintained and has now been digitized so that researchers can have access to long term views of population trends. This is of vital importance when trying to understand whether or not a species is really in trouble or possibly just going through a normal swing in population. Evidence from CBC data has been used in climate change studies showing that birds are now wintering further north than ever before. So each and every person who's out there counting birds is contributing to "citizen science" in a meaningful way. I personally participate in a number of Christmas Bird Counts — five this year — because I enjoy being in the field looking at and counting birds. I also do it because I know that in some small way, we are all contributing to the data base of information that helps us keep an eye on environmental issues that have implications for people as well as birds.

Q. How long have you been doing the count here?

A. I restarted the Daytona Beach Christmas Bird Count (CBC) in 1996. For some reason it had stopped somewhere around 1968. In addition, I had to move the count center slightly. In the interim, the Ponce Inlet Count was started. I believe in 1973. The old location for the Daytona Beach count circle would have overlapped the Ponce Inlet circle, so we moved to the intersection of I-95 and the Tomoka River. A CBC is conducted in a 15 mile diameter circle with a center established by

South Daytona councilwoman goes solar

For Hometown News
Volnews@hometownnewsol.com

SOUTH DAYTONA — It's one thing to talk about going green, but a South Daytona couple is "walking the walk" when it comes to doing their part to protect the environment.

City Councilwoman Nancy Long and her husband Jack installed photovoltaic solar panels on the roof of their home last year to help defray the cost of electricity and conserve energy resources. The light collected by the solar panels is converted into electrical power. In addition, a solar fan pulls hot air out of the attic, reducing the load on the air conditioner and a sun tunnel in the kitchen adds natural light.

"I'm really thrilled with it," Ms. Long said. "We have cut our kilowatt usage by 30 to 40 percent."

Although the nearly $20,000 price tag for the upgrades is steep, Ms. Long is awaiting an $8,000 rebate from the State of Florida and is eligible for a $6,000 federal tax rebate. She said she considered more than just the return on investment.

"I feel it's the right thing to do for the environment," she said.

Bill Gallagher, president of Holly Hill based Solar Fit, said the return on investment for solar energy installations such as the one he installed for the Longs varies with each client and situation. Solar water heaters are the least expensive investment, he said, typically recouping costs in three to four years. PV panels take longer, but if the customer produces more power than used, the utility company will buy the surplus energy. Even during the recent recession, he said, people are looking at alternative energy sources as a long-term way to insulate themselves against future utility rate increases.

"Utility costs are not going down," he said. "It's just not going to happen."

Ms. Long's commitment goes beyond saving money on electricity. She said she conserves water and reuses it whenever she can and soapy dishwasher is poured on her plants as a natural pesticide. Clothes are washed in cold water, the thermostat is set at 80 degrees and she has never even owned a dishwasher. Her yard, full of native landscaping, contains composting sites that put kitchen scraps and coffee grounds to good use.

Nancy Long's home now has solar panels to help lower energy cost.

As a life-long environmentalist, Long said she was thrilled when South Daytona was designated as a Green Local Government by the Florida Green Building coalition. City leaders are promoting an environmentally sustainable community, she said, which benefits the residents.

"We are not only helping save the environment," she said, "we are saving a lot of money."

Holiday fire safety tips

As part of the Port Orange Fire Rescue's "Keep The Wreath Green" program, the department is offering daily safety tips through December.

Dec. 18 - Make sure to have a working smoke alarm outside of every bedroom and on every level of your house. Make sure to test monthly and change batteries every time you change your clocks.

Dec. 19 - With children out of school, people doing yard work, dry vegetation, high-winds and low-humidity, remember that wildfires can happen quickly.

Dec. 20 - If you are enjoying the great outdoors during the holidays, don't leave campfires or warming fires unattended - make sure they are completely out!

Dec 21 - Never leave cooking food unattended. Handles on stovetop pots should be turned away from the front, so they won't be accidentally tipped or knocked over.

Dec 22 - Before you

cook that holiday dinner be sure that the oven and stovetop are clean, free of grease, and are in good working order.

Dec. 23 - Keep cooking areas clean and free of grease and other combustibles (e.g. potholders, towels, rags, drapes, and food packaging), which can catch fire easily.

Dec. 24 - Do not burn wrapping paper in the fireplace because of the high flammability, dangerous sparks and possibility of flash fires.

Cameras

could be solved if the system was more widespread. A digital system, he added, could also allow officers to view video from their cruisers before arriving at crime scenes.

Cost is a problem, though. The city has about $15,000 in grant money on hand, and the new system is anticipated to cost as much as $1 million. Chief Hall envisions phasing in the technology.

"You know how technology changes every year," he said. "This way, we could phase in new equipment and it could be the latest and greatest."

Last week, South Daytona City Councilors voted unanimously to not advertise a request for proposals for the new system and to allow City Manager Joseph Yarbrough to begin negotiating with companies in an attempt to secure the best financial deal.

"What we're looking for in this process is a vendor that can design and construct and be dependable with the expansion," Mr. Yarbrough said. "...I want to sit down with the vendors and bring back who we think is the best vendor for the project."

It won't be a speedy process. "I doubt the city can implement the security system that it eventually wants in a year or two," he said.

Mayor Blaine O'Neil added, "It's going to take time."

Vice Mayor Ronald Clifton wanted assurance that the deal wouldn't be pushed through hastily.

"For something like that, I'm going to have to see what they expect to happen," he said. "I want to see some data and not just hear that 'this is the nerdiest piece of equipment you can have so you should buy it.'"

Chief Hall said he'd like the city's system to mirror the one Orlando began installing in January, called IRIS, which police there have already credited for aiding in arrests as well as prosecutions. In the meantime, Chief Hall said he would continue to counter the city's four-percent overall crime increase — last year, he noted, there was a 25 percent drop — by keeping cruisers filled using his overtime budget.

Bird

GPS and registered with Audubon.

Q. About how many people participate? Where are they from?

A. We've had as many as 29 people in years past. Recently, we've averaged around 18. We have people from the other Audubon chapters here in the county. We've had visitors from out of state: Connecticut, Illinois, and California. Volusia is the only county with three separate chapters and they all do bird counts.

Q. How many species do you usually record?

A. Over the years we've averaged 107 species. Lots of laughing gulls, yellow rumped warblers, some piping plovers in Ponce Inlet, which are on the endangered list now. In this area, they range from shorebirds like gulls, terns, brown pelicans and northern gannets — which are only here in the winter — to robins, cedar waxwings, and chipping sparrows.

Q. Any outstanding or unusual sightings?

A. Having a thing for sparrows, I'd have to say the Henslow's sparrows and the vesper sparrows we've gotten a few times. I'm also fond of red-headed woodpeckers. We haven't recorded one of them since 2005. And once I saw a snow goose in my own neighborhood. Very unusual.

Q. Where's the best single location?

A. Probably a tie between Ormond Central Park, Tomoka State Park and the LPGA property. I haven't ever counted those park areas. Since I have access to some of the fields south of SR 40, west of I-95, and I have a four wheel drive vehicle, I've always counted the southwest quadrant.

Q. Are property owners welcoming? Or do you only count on public property?

A. We have always had good relations with property owners. We try to have magnetic signs on each of the cars identifying who we are and what we're doing. It makes people less alarmed when we pull up in front of their homes and people get out, staring at their property with binoculars. In residential areas, we often count by ear as we slowly drive along the road.

Q. How has the count changed over the years?

A. Not much. There are places that are more accessible now since new roads have been built where there were only muddy trails. Some areas have changed in that what was good habitat is now residential neighborhood with a St. Augustine sod monoculture. Still, there are a lot of good birds if you know where to look and we have an area that extends out into the ocean, which of course, is somewhat unique. We counted more than 1,300 brown pelicans last year in Ponce Inlet.

Q. Are you still looking for people to participate?

A. We're always open to having people join us for a count. You don't have to be an "expert," whatever that is. You don't really even have to know much about birds. We can put a person's writing skills to work as team scribe. Even a totally inexperienced person knows a lot about it by the end of the day. The counts are also an excellent way to spend time in the field with people who are more experienced. You can learn more in that one day than in going out by yourself for months. It's all about sharing knowledge and getting outside, not being competitive.

Q. What happens after the count? Where are the tallies published, and how else are they used?

A. We meet in the parking lot at SR 40 and Williamson Blvd. We have dinner at the Chinese restaurant in that shopping center. I collect the data sheets there and compile the numbers at a later time. I publish the findings in our newsletter and post the totals on the CBC website, www.audubon.org/bird/cbc/index.html as soon as I have them compiled. Anyone can go onto the CBC site, navigate around, and find all kinds of information on past counts, how the data is used, etc.

Daytona Beach will hold its count on Saturday, Dec. 26, while the Ponce Inlet count will be held Jan. 2. The counts begin at 7:00 a.m., and chapters collect $5 from each adult (which is used to maintain the national database). For more information, or to sign up, call David Hartgrove at (386) 788-2630 or visit www.HalifaxRiverAS.org.

Thanks for more benches

I want to thank the Hometown News. It took the power of the press to have Port Orange Parks and Recreation Department put in more benches at the dog park. When I called the Rants and Rave line a couple weeks ago, I told them about the wonderful dog park, but there were only a few benches on each side. I was very upset because a lot of people attend the dog park, but where do they sit?

Since it came out in the Hometown News, there are now more benches.

I want to thank the Hometown News and the power of the press for making this happen. The dog park is a wonderful addition to our Port Orange community. I am proud to be a resident of Port Orange.

In response to 'Parking enforcement causes upset in the Shores'

I read with interest the trouble the mayor of the Daytona Beach Shores is having parking trailers on Bike Week and giving a donation to the church for letting trailers park in the church parking lot. It seems like everyone makes out.

Sounds good right? But it sounds like they don't want to share their pie. Boy, am I glad I live in Port Orange, where we keep our church parking for the church going people and don't have to worry about who gets the pie during Bike Week.

In response to 'I Shouldn't Have To Pay Taxes For Schools'

In response to those who said they shouldn't have to pay taxes for schools because you do not have any kids in school or never did, do they realize an education at today's prices from first through 12th grade costs more than $100,000 per person?

For two retirees, a married couple, that's $200,000 in today's dollars that it cost to educate you. Have you paid that back yet? Do you want our children to run around uneducated because you're too cheap to pay? If you can't afford it, get a job.

In response to 'Why can't we use reclaimed water'

We have to pay taxes toward St. Johns River Water Management District. I am opposed to any company coming in and taking water out of our system's aquifers and bottling it and selling it. Why are the people only limited to watering their lawns twice a week and once a week in the winter?

Why do you have a mob squad going out reporting people who are abusing the system? It is not abusing it. Our lawns are worth thousands of dollars, and we can't afford to replace it if it burns up or it needs extra care.

How does the state tell a homeowner what to do on his or her property? I think the homeowners associations in Florida should be advised that it is a money-making thing and it's very suspicious.

Kudos to new hospital

Kudos to Florida Hospital Memorial Medical Center, our new hospital. It's true what they advertise that there isn't any waiting when you go to the emergency room. I took my husband there. He was having a heart attack. He was put in triage and worked on right away. Then, he was moved to the sixth floor, where all the staff was friendly. Also, the food was delicious, and he had a choice of what he wanted to eat. If you have heard hospital food is "yuck" — not this hospital. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all.

Letters

In response to 'I shouldn't have to pay taxes for schools'

This letter is so utterly stupid that it hardly deserves a response.

To not want to pay to educate our nation's most valuable resource and future leaders, our children, is akin to a young person not wanting to pay into Social Security because they don't yet receive it or a person without a driver's license not wanting to help to pay for roads. Get real.

Amendment 4 is the Florida resident's Declaration of Independence

It's time to get real about Hometown Democracy, also known as Amendment 4. Nothing will make our representative government more "representative" than local voters checking politician's most important work, comprehensive land use plan changes. Amendment 4's link to our founding principles shows in the Declaration of Independence comparison below.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,"

Ruinous neighborhood land-use changes are not a right.

"But when a long train of abuses and usurpations (zoning changes, abandoned neighborhood schools and libraries), pursuing invariably the same object (comp plan change profits) evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security."

Amendment 4 can stop the taxation without representation in unnecessary rural infrastructure.

"Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain (local power brokers and politicians) is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world."

Daytona Beach has almost 40,000 residences built yet allows 300,000 plus. We are already pumping over 80 percent of our water allowance. Will Florida leaders continue to ignore local facts until desalination raises our water bills five times? By then it will be too late. An informed voter will demand disclosure of their local potential build and water facts.

Amendment 4 is Florida's Declaration of Independence. Don't get tricked into letting it fail.

Landscape needs to be kept up

Can someone tell me why the Department of Transportation wasted time and money to landscape the State Road 40/Interstate 95 exit?

I agree that it needed to be done, but someone has dropped the ball with the maintenance. The grass is unkempt and there is trash all along the roadway.

If this project was in front of city hall or along Riverside Drive, I bet it wouldn't look like it does. Seems as though the city doesn't care about what the West side looks like.

Isn't this the first thing that visitors and tourist see of Ormond Beach? Wow, what a first impression.

In response to 'Smoking should not be allowed on city properties'

All this complaining about smoking, haven't you got anything better to do?

I am not a smoker, but coming to the defense of those that are. My parents smoked, and I lived in a house filled with smoke especially during gatherings. It did not kill me, and it would not have done any good to complain.

There are courteous smokers out there, who move away from the buildings. If it bothers you, politely ask them to move, not make faces and comments such as telling them they are disgusting, which believe it or not I have heard.

However, there are worse things I have encountered when going into a restaurant or store. Women with perfume on so heavy that it chokes me or makes me sneeze; kids who are out of control; rude people who will not hold a door or say please or thank you. Should we ban all these things too?

This is a free country, so let them smoke, and I would hope the smokers would be courteous.

If you can't say anything nice, don't say anything at all

Yesterday, I was in the grocery store to use the 10 items lane. I do so often, and am always careful not to run over. Unfortunately, I hadn't properly counted. I had put an oven liner, ice cream and pizzas on the belt before I realized that the spices I'd picked up took me to 13. The pleasant appearing gentleman in front of me sneered at my items and said, "You're the kind I hate to get behind." At first I thought he was joking, as did the cashier. He finished and turned away, and I smiled and wished him a Merry Christmas. He said "same to you lady. Just don't do it again."

The cashier and I looked at each other, was he kidding? I don't think so.

I went out to the car and cried.

Silly? Oh yes. I hope whatever pain he has in his heart to cause him to be so mean to an old lady goes away soon. It hurt to my heart. Yes, silly, but many times I've been behind someone hassled or harried or who just didn't notice the sign. What use is it to hurt or insult someone? The worst part I think, is that he was in front of me.

In response to 'What happened to our holidays'

It sounds to me like you just might either be an employee who has to work a holiday or you have a family member that will have to work a holiday.

Either way, personally I think you should be thankful that you have a job, because there are a lot of people out there that would love to be working even on the holidays. I have worked them with young children and others have done so also.

My suggestion to you is if you hate the fact that you have to work on a holiday, then quit.

You will be home for the holidays with your family and while you're there you can think about who to blame for the fact that you now cannot put food on your table.

This nice thing about this country is you have choices. It is up to you whether or not you make the wise choice.

Transit should keep 10-cent Saturdays

Our local transit company got a good chunk of change from the government. The last time I checked, the government is us, the public.

This same company cannot offer the public 10-cent bus rides on Saturdays in December as they have done for years. What a disgrace.

Two arrested in TV theft

Port Orange police caught up with two men caught on surveillance video at the local Wal-Mart stealing big screen televisions and walking them out the door. Police think the same two men and a still unidentified woman hit a Wal-Mart in Marion County as well. Port Orange police got information the two suspects were in the DeLand area and they arrested James Seagraves, 27, and Donald Woulard, 28. Police also seized the vehicle the men used, which was also seen on surveillance as the suspects came out the garden center door and loaded the stolen goods. Police recovered one of the stolen 32-inch flat screens.

Man sentenced to two years for beating girlfriend's son

A Port Orange man will spend two years in prison for beating his girlfriend's son. Thomas Betty, 55, was arrested in March after the 12-year-old showed up at school with bruises and other injuries. Mr. Betty was convicted of child abuse last month and sentenced this past week. Following prison, Mr. Betty will be on probation for three years.

Veteran police officer fired

A veteran police detective in the city of Daytona Beach is fired and in a letter to the chief, former officer Janet Hawkins suggests as a result, the city could be exposed to a federal civil rights action. Officer Hawkins was arrested in September by officers in the city of Holly Hill. Officer Hawkins was off duty, and according to Holly Hill officials driving recklessly and speeding down side streets when she was pulled over. Officer Hawkins was reportedly upset that her son had been arrested in Holly Hill after a disturbance at an apartment complex and was heading for the police department when she was pulled over. According to Holly Hill, Officer Hawkins became verbally abusive, calling the officers red-necks and corrupt and later, physically resisted their attempts to arrest her. Officer Hawkins was put on administrative leave because of the criminal charges and Daytona Beach opened an internal investigation into her behavior. That was recently completed and Officer

Hawkins was fired for unprofessional behavior and violating several codes of department conduct. Officer Hawkins responded with a letter saying her own department conspired with Holly Hill police to have her badge and that Daytona Beach accepted another department's version of events when those officers may have been acting, "with ill will under color of law." Officer Hawkins attorney told WESH 2 he can't speak about a federal lawsuit over alleged civil rights violations, but says he will vigorously defend Officer Hawkins on the criminal charges and says there's more to the story than meets the eye.

Three arrests made in connection to murder

Daytona Beach police arrested three people they say are connected to the murder of a local man the day after Thanksgiving and one of the suspects is a U.S. Marine. James Tolbert, 34, was shot in the back at close range with a shotgun that was left at the scene outside his apartment on Baldwin Lane. Police now say Mr. Tolbert was targeted as a drug dealer who would have cash and drugs to steal.

Beach patrol officer fired

A Volusia County Beach Patrol officer, accused of having sex with an under-age girl, will not be allowed to resign. Bobby Tamaris, 44, was fired by the county even though he had submitted a letter of resignation. Officials say because he was terminated, Officer Tamaris will only be eligible for 20 percent of any outstanding leave time. Officials say they chose to fire Officer Tamaris rather than accept his resignation because due to the allegation, he was not in good standing. Officer Tamaris still faces criminal charges.

Deputy attacked by dog

A Volusia County Sheriff's deputy, working in the department's civil division, was attacked by a dog as he approached a home on Kingston Avenue in Daytona Beach. Deputy Stephen Spencer was there to serve some papers when police say the pitbull ran out through a fence and bit the deputy on the calf. Deputy Spencer was able to fire two shots and at least one of the bullets wounded the dog, but did not kill it. The dog's owner was cooperating with the investigation.

15-year-old boy charged with robbery

A 15-year-old boy is charged with robbery in an attack on an Ormond Beach woman who police say was choked twice until she became unconscious. Theresa Moore says she was followed from a Valero gas station in Daytona Beach and attacked when she stopped because of car trouble. Police say three suspects were in a stolen truck, which was later involved in an accident with the 15-year-old at the wheel. Police now say the teen was involved in the robbery and they continue to look for his accomplices.

Thief makes off with thousands

A thief made off with a fortune from a closed Citgo store in the 800 block of North Nova Road in Daytona Beach. The suspect or suspects broke through a wall at the back of the business and made off with $30,000 in cash, $50,000 from a check cashing service there, 60 cartons of cigarettes and an unknown number of scratch off lottery tickets. The suspect cut the phone wires so alarms were disabled and he or she took the video surveillance recorder too.

TRAVEL

Royal Caribbean's 'Oasis of the Seas' lives up to the 'WOW!'

With so much to say in so little space, this article will have to be in three parts. When it was first announced that Royal Caribbean would be delivering the biggest ship ever, there was much speculation about the size and the amount of passengers it will hold. Although many of the comments were toward the negative; "too many people," "how will they handle embarkation/disembarkation," "can the islands that it visits handle it," "too much walking to get from one end to the other," but more were to the positive as to the architectural wonder that such a ship would be.

Royal Caribbean started its campaign with 'Delivering the WOW!' and I am here to say that they certainly did. I have never been disappointed in a new class of ship, but in this case it is so much more than just admiring the ship — I was absolutely in awe of what has been accomplished here.

I had the pleasure, along with about 2,800 other folks to sail on a special "travel agent" two-night voyage on the Oasis of the Seas and all I could say was "WOW" so I would guess that the marketing department of Royal Caribbean hit its mark.

A few stats: the vessel is the largest cruise ship at 225,282 tons and can accommodate 5,400 guests. It boasts seven "neighborhoods" from Central Park, a tropical plant- and tree-filled promenade with cafes, restaurants and boutique shops, to the Boardwalk, a Coney Island-esque space featuring a handmade wooden carousel and AquaTheater.

The Royal Promenade is an inside mall that runs from mid/aft to forward with bars, café, pizzeria and shops. The pool deck is an active place with two FlowRider surf simulators, a mini-golf course, a "beach pool," private cabanas, a kids' aquapark (with giant water-spraying octopus), plenty of hot tubs and more.

The Entertainment "neighborhood" has various nightlife options including water shows, live music, standup comedy and the hit Broadway musical "Hair-spray."

Youth Zone is a kids-only

"neighborhood" featuring a children's theater, science lab, arts & crafts classes, video arcade, nursery and teens-only space.

The Spa and Fitness neighborhood features an incredible Solarium and options that include a thermal suite, a spa cafe, the largest gym at sea and a dedicated youth spa area.

To begin with we arrived at Port Everglades in Fort Lauderdale about 11:30 a.m. Seeing the ship while driving toward it, we could see it was huge but there was not another ship there to compare it to (except for the tiny in comparison, Seabourn Spirit, which was a beauty in its classic yacht style) so to me it was just huge — but I have seen huge before. The embarkation process was quick and easy at one of the 92 'check-in desks,' we encountered no issues here or in debarkation.

Walking up the gangplank it was a little steep, which may cause an issue for those that have difficulty walking — however there were plenty of wheelchairs (with crewmembers to push them) available — you did not have to make prior arrangements but just ask. Speaking with some of the people "in the know" on board, this is being discussed and is working on an escalator type of device for this area. They already have one for some of the ports so it is not such a stretch.

We boarded on deck five, the Promenade deck. We crossed over the jogging track and through a very wide entrance onto the Royal Promenade which runs down the inside of the ship and has shops, eateries, bars, etc., on both sides.

Since it was a little early to put our luggage in our cabin we went directly to the top of the ship to start our journey there. On our way up the glass elevators it gave us our first glimpse of things to come as we passed deck 6 where you enter the Boardwalk and deck 8 where we will later walk along the paths, through the foliage of Central Park.

Our very first stop was the Solarium located on deck 16 forward located just above the bridge. We were taken aback by the size and the space with two huge strips of glass above that protect you from the wind and rain but allow the sun to shine through. There is a space between the two, which will allow for the fresh air to circulate. Also in the Solarium you will find a freshwater pool, cantilevered whirlpools that flank both sides, a bar, Solarium Bistro that serves light and healthy fare, and many loungers and cabanas for two.

Next, we went to the Windjammer Marketplace for lunch. I was a bit surprised that it did not look overly large for the amount of people it was to serve. We ventured around to find a nice table by the windows overlooking the sports and pool zone. Below we can see the Central Park with all its foliage, we couldn't wait to get down there to explore up front and personal.

There were plenty of choices for lunch from salads to burgers and fries. A carving station with steamship beef (changes daily to turkey, pork or ham) included all the trimmings. A station with more of the lighter fare was also available.

After lunch we ventured to our D3 balcony stateroom located on deck 12 forward. The stateroom was nicely appointed with teak woods, with chrome accents. The bedding was incredibly comfortable and dressed in white down with turquoise accents. Both the room and the bathroom were spacious enough, as was the closet. The bathroom had a rounded shower with doors and gave us plenty of room. One very noticeable addition was a bar that was mounted catty-cornered about a foot off the floor of the shower for leg shaving (if you have ever tried to shave your legs in a tiny shower, you will really appreciate this addition).

We ventured out to see the other staterooms in various categories set up for our viewing. We looked at inside, ocean view, promenades, various balconies including those overlooking the Boardwalk, and Central Park, suites of all sizes and shapes, the Aqua-theatre suites and the Crown Loft suites which were two stories with a glass window from top to bottom. The various pricing of the balconies is based on the location of the stateroom, not necessarily the size of the room; they were all basically the same size.

I will embellish more in my next column. There was so much to see and do — three would probably not be enough — so I will cram as much as I can to each.

Week of 12-18-2009

Aries-March 21-April 19

You are like a race car, revving up and wanting to run. As the year winds down, try to relax a little. Enjoy your other victories this year. Your greatest virtue is that you never quit until the race is run. You are a proven champion. Just be sure to keep life in balance so you don't burn out. Many more victories are on the way.

Taurus-April 20-May 20

Slow down a little, take a step back, get a second wind and then move forward again. Pacing yourself to prevent burnout is so important. No one expects you to go all out all the time. If they do, you are being used. Take the lighter touch in 2010. Sometimes less is more. Be good to yourself. If you don't, no one else can.

Gemini-May 21-June 21

Focus on what makes you happy. If your heart isn't in it don't do it. If you have to do distasteful things, learn to love them or don't do them. Like attracts like in the universe. What we sow we reap back multiplied. Don't forget this. For this to work you must be following your heart, not your head. Do this and be happy.

Cancer-June 22-July 22

You are so inspiring. It is your large heart. The universal presence within you constantly inspires you to do your best. You wake up each morning with so much love and joy in your soul. You wonder "How can I give it to those I love?" It's simple really. Focus on the greatest need, fill it and then move on to the next.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22

One of the main keys to your success is that you know how to bring your inner fire, light and vision to the surface. This is because your heart is open and you are in touch with your spirit. You are a fire sign, you know. Be patient with others less intuitive as you. One of your missions in life is to inspire others to do well.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22
You face life's challenges with courage and determination. You continue to grow spiritually and universally. You are to be applauded with you tenacity. You worry less. You are happier. When you are happy it makes others happy. You are fun to be around. Keep the lighter touch and next year will be great.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22
You make wise decisions. Why? Because you look at three possible solutions. Do I take the safe route? Do I go down the middle of the road? Do I take the risky route? The safe route says, "wait." The middle says, "please everybody."

The risky brings the highest rewards. You have much risk-taking in your heart.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21
Emotional, spiritual and universal growth comes when the conscious mind is surrendered to the higher will and you begin to follow your heart, not your head. It's time to take your life to a higher level. Go inside and listen to and trust your gut instincts. They speak the truth first. Get out of your own way, relax and prosper.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21
This has been a year of remarkable change and growth. Just wait and see what the New Year will bring. You have renewed strength in your thoughts, feelings, spirit and body. No one can keep up with you when you are at your best. It's your fiery nature. Achievement is fuel to your soul. Get ready. More is on the way.

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19
Love is the greatest spiritual gift. You were born with tons of it. Your life is about service to others. You don't need many material things. When you are loved and appreciated, you are at your best. No one has the ability to nurture and give love from the heart more than you. The New Year will bring it back to you multiplied.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Inner wisdom comes easier when you are centered. Live life one day at a time. Wake up each day knowing that today is the best day of your life and tomorrow is the next one. Live in positive expectancy. This opens the instincts and heart and allows positive ideas to pop into the mind. Yours is a great mind.

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20

Continue to trust the universal power and all you need to move forward to your highest good and truth will always be there. Put spirit first. If you aren't sure, wait. Your heart will tell you. Stay strong in your spiritual beliefs about life. You have come a long way. There is still a ways to go. Continue to swim. Never give up.

Cornish hens, bruschetta, another choice for Christmas dinner

Hello smart shoppers. This is it, the last column before Christmas.

To all my readers who just celebrated Hanukkah and to those who will celebrate Kwanzaa, I wish you many blessings.

This week, another menu choice: bruschetta followed by stuffed rock Cornish hens make a beautiful presentation.

A whole hen is quite a lot of food. Thaw hens and cut them in half, always allowing a few extra halves for the big appetite.

Patti, the owner of Chantel's restaurant in Stuart, gave me the recipe for her special sauce for duckling, which I will share with you.

I remember a Christmas we celebrated in Somers, Conn., with lots of family enjoying the Christmas Eve gift giving. We had a beautiful big fireplace; the flames were roaring as the snow was falling. When my husband said, "Instead of bagging the wrapping paper, let's burn it!" Unbelievably, we all agreed.

Since we never thought, "clean the chimney," the papers caught fire in the chimney. The roar was intense as we rushed outside to see flames shooting so high they must have hit Santa's sleigh. Bill grabbed the hose but the good Lord knew it wouldn't do any good. We watched, holding our breath, as slowly the flames subsided.

Have a blessed Christmas and remember what you are celebrating.

ROCK CORNISH HENS WITH ORANGE-WALNUT STUFFING SERVES 5-10

- 5 Cornish hens, halved or whole
- 3 stalks celery, chopped
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 orange, peeled, seeded and chopped
- Livers from hens, chopped
- 1 teaspoon salt

ROMANCING THE STOVE

with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

- 1 teaspoon dried sage
- 1/2-teaspoon ground black pepper
- Several sprigs fresh parsley, chopped, or 1 tablespoon dried parsley
- Orange juice
- 10 slices white bread
- 1/2-cup chopped walnuts

Remove giblets, if any, from hens and soak hens in cold salted water. Remove skin from necks and place them in pot with gizzards and hearts. Add 2 cups water, season with salt and pepper; simmer for gravy. If hens do not have giblets use chicken broth to add to your gravy.

Sauté celery, onions and livers in a little canola oil until cooked. Soak bread in orange juice, squeeze dry and mix with all remaining ingredients. Add sautéed mixture, mix well.

Place cut hens, cut side down, in roasting pan with stuffing underneath, or loosely stuff whole hens. Brush with canola oil and season with salt and pepper. Roast in a preheated 350-degree oven one hour, basting frequently.

After hens have cooked, brush frequently with orange or cassis glaze and continue roasting until skin is crisp and caramelized. Remove hens to serving platter; keep warm.

Pour broth from giblets into roasting pan, bring to a boil, scraping up browned drippings. Strain into medium-size saucepan. De-fat and make gravy.

ORANGE GLAZE

- 1/4-cup honey
- 1/4-teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4-cup rum or orange juice
- 1/2-cup orange marmalade
- 1/8-teaspoon garlic powder

In a small saucepan, melt all ingredients together. Brush hens.

SAUCE CASSIS (NIB)

Try this incredible sauce on duck, chicken, Cornish hens or pork.

- 1/4 pound butter (no substitutes)
- One 10-ounce jar red currant jelly
- One 10-ounce jar black currant preserves
- 1/4-cup Crème de Cassis liquor

Note: The jar sizes are approximate.

Heat together, brush on meat and bake until glazed.

TOMATOES OREGANATA SERVES 4

- 3 large ripe tomatoes
- Chopped parsley, fresh or dried
- Oregano
- 2 cloves finely minced garlic, jarred garlic or garlic powder
- Black pepper
- 3 tablespoons olive or canola oil
- 2 tablespoons water

Slice tomatoes 1/4-inch thick and place side-by-side in a dish or container at least 1-inch deep. Do one layer at a time. Sprinkle slices with garlic, parsley, oregano and pepper. Add remaining slices and repeat process. Drizzle with oil and water. Turn slices to coat evenly. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Serve cold.

Do not add salt — salting tomatoes beforehand will make them mushy.

BRUSCHETTA

Bruschetta, a delicious combination of Italian bread with fresh tomatoes, mozzarella, garlic, olive oil and basil is a great way to start a meal. Each person is served one or two bread slices; judge accordingly.

- 1 recipe Tomatoes Oreganata
- 1 loaf Italian (not

French) bread
2 cloves garlic, finely minced, jarred garlic or garlic powder
Mozzarella, sliced thin
Fresh parsley and fresh basil, chopped
Olive oil

Using narrow French bread? Allow a little more per person.

Slice bread in 1/2-inch thick slices. Brush with oil and garlic. Broil until golden.

Top with a slice of mozzarella and a slice of tomato. Sprinkle with chopped fresh basil and parsley. Drizzle lightly with oil and serve immediately.

I am available for talks from Fort Pierce to Stuart, call (772) 465-5656 or (800) 823-0466.

When a recipe is not in my cookbook it will have (NIB) next to the title.

Isness Series, which he identifies as lyrical abstractions of the negative-sounding stain painting. Stain painting is a process of applying thinned down acrylics and/or oils to unprimed canvas. Absent gesso, the pigment moves freely and retains vibrant color. The Ormond Memorial Art Museum and Gardens is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday to Friday and from noon to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. Bright ideas for storing your stockpile of bargains

This week, I'll answer two e-mails from readers with stockpiling issues.

Q: I enjoy your weekly column and am fascinated by all the deals you manage to put together. Do you have any advice for single people who don't cook for large families or who don't have the capacity to store multiples of products as the current coupons require? Any thoughts on couponing and the single lifestyle?

Q: I live in Southern California and the summers are very hot. I can't store canned goods in the garage because the heat causes the cans to bulge. A basement would be nice, but out here we just don't have them. Do you have any ideas for us out here in hot country?

Sure! Stockpiling groceries at home is a fantastic way to "beat" the price cycles at the grocery store, which typically run on 12-week cycles. When you know that an item you would like to buy will not be at its lowest price again for almost three months, buying enough to last your household three months ensures that you won't have to run to the store and pay a higher price. You'll "shop from home" by using items from your stockpile, and the next time a sale comes around again, you can stock up once more.

But what do you do if you're space-challenged?

Believe it or not, stockpiling can be easier if you're a single person. While living in a smaller residence may limit your storage space, the upside is that storing three months' worth of cereal for one person is going to take up a lot less room than three months' worth of cereal for an entire family would. And, when household cleaners go on sale, you could easily get by with buying one or two instead of four or five. Again, you're going to base your stockpile on your usage needs.

COUPON QUEEN

Now, where do we put all of this stuff?

My cousin started super-couponing last year. He is single and lives in a one-bedroom condominium where space is at a premium. I've watched with great interest as he has come up with some of the most creative places to store his stockpiled items.

He's used under-bed boxes and drawers for everything from cereal to canned goods. Another often-overlooked place that he's embraced is the space above his kitchen cabinets. If you have open soffits, there is a lot of space up there that just sits unused.

As a single guy, he doesn't mind the visuals of having jars and bottles stored on top of his cabinets. If this bothers you, you could always camouflage them.

Someone in a recent coupon class told me they keep silk plants on top of their cabinets for aesthetics and for a very practical reason. Behind the plants are cans of soup and jars of peanut butter.

Furniture can be a great place to "hide" stockpile items. Many people have re-appropriated old armoires, china cabinets or buffets to store stockpile items inside. Kept in the dining room, they're still close to the kitchen and can give you some overflow space to store more items.

Don't feel like your stockpile items have to be limited to the kitchen area.

During one good sale, a friend of mine filled her son's bedroom closet shelves with boxes of cereal.

I know one couple that decided to keep their sheets and towels in their master closet to free up the linen closet for use as a pantry.

Clear plastic storage totes are good places to store stockpile items, too. They stack well and can sit on the floor of a closet.

Even in a warm climate, you can store non-food items in the garage. Paper products such as paper towels, plates, toilet paper, facial tissue and napkins all store well on garage shelves.

The key to stockpiling in any situation is to stop stockpiling when your allotted space fills up. Sales do come around again and again. It can be easy to get lured in by a great sale and take home much more than you need or use. If this happens, remember your local food pantry.

Pantries will take food items, personal care and cleaning products. This is a good way to prune down your stockpile too if you find it's starting to get too large.

Jill Cataldo, a coupon workshop instructor, writer and mother of three, never passes up a good deal. Learn more about couponing at her Web site www.supercouponing.com. E-mail your own couponing victories and questions to jill@ctwfeatures.com.

Book signing a success — except for the jig part

I would like to thank everyone who turned out for my book signing on Dec. 5, at The Book Store in Ormond Beach.

I went there fully expecting to be "underwhelmed," but it turned out that just the opposite was true.

A couple fellows arrived just before the scheduled 11 a.m. start and when I took my seat at the table, I began a solid two hours without a break. By 1 p.m., I had completely run out of books to sign.

The store manager told me that it was the best crowd for any book signing they had staged. That is a testament to the popularity of our Hometown News. We who write a weekly piece hope that someone is paying attention, but seldom do we get the chance to actually meet our readers. Nice folks, all.

FISHING WITH DAN

A few lady fishermen showed up, some kids, several fishing couples and even two guides. The result was that fish talk broke out everywhere and when I was exceptionally busy, people moved off to the side to discuss among themselves. You can't beat that!

Not only did I underestimate the turnout, I also misread the interest in my jigs. It seemed that some who came were only there to get the two chartreuse shrimp tail jigs I had promised with each purchase.

I had assumed that some of the readers would only want the book, but not one turned down the jigs. That is a pretty good indication that they have been paying attention through the years as most of my described catches came by way of that bait.

Not wanting to disappoint the faithful, I wound up giving away every one of my jigs. Once home, I found (to my horror) that my regular supply source had dried up. I just can't fish without them, so now I am reduced to bumming off my buddy, Al Houser.

Al is a lot smarter than I and treasures each and every one that he owns. I know that some of you who received those precious hunks of plastic will be looking for your own supplier. Please let me know if you find one. I call those lures soft plastics, but actually I believe them to be made from silicone.

If anyone out there has talent with pourable silicone or mold making, give me a buzz. Maybe we can run off a few thousand.

There is one fact that is indisputable: The silly-looking thing works. Even though it does not resemble anything that occurs in nature, the fish cannot resist it.

As I have written many times, the abstract lures seem to work best. I can't catch a thing on a picture lure. Give me a fake shrimp with the legs, eyes, and antennae that is made from material in a natural color and I catch absolutely zero. My trusty jig is mostly cylindrical, bright chartreuse and gold metal flake, the likes of which you might find on a chopped '49 Mercury. My only explanation is that perhaps the look-a-like lure is fooling no one, but the strange looking jig attracts the fish's attention as something new and different.

I do hope all who received them will have the same success that I have enjoyed. When I find a source (and I will), I will let you all know via this column. Until then I will get by with a little help from my friend.

Dan Smith has fished the waters of Volusia County for more than 40 years. E-mail questions and comments to apes123@mybluelight.com. His book, "I Swear the Snook Drowned," is available for $10.95 at (386) 441-7793.
